The plan will operate through loans to householders, enabling them to divide their homes into self-contained duplexes or apartments.

(Through a transmission error, The Canadian Press reported erroneously yesterday that the sole purpose of the plan was to assist owners to improve or repair the homes which they now occupy.)

No Ration Book For The Soldiers

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (CP) — The Canadian soldier, sailor or airman can have almost anything he wants from civilian Canada, but he can't have one thing about 11,000,0000 fellow-citizens will possess— a ration card.

Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials said today the fighting man had not failed to try. Reports from throughout the country indicated that members of the forces were apulying for ration cards to permit them to buy sugar, tea and coffee, but they were being turned away disappointed.

Even when Johnny comes marching home on leave he will be without a ration card, and family hospitality will simply have to make what arrangements it can to provide him with rationed supplies.

In special circumstances arrangements are made for the fighting man. When he is billeted at a civilian institution away from his unit and taking some special training, the place where he resides is required to register and receive the benefit of rationing provisions cover such cases.

In other cases, the forces themselves may issue ration books to men detailed for some duty where they will be away from army kitchens. These books are issued by local rationing officers following application in writing by an officer commanding.

The Canadian hostess's problem is still small compared to that of her counterpart in the United Kingdom, officials said. Restaurant meals, with tea, coffee and sugar in sufficiency still are available in Canada. Persons on trips are able to obtain all the restaurant food supplies they need and conserve their ration cards for home use. Sweet fruits are obtainable in quantity and fruit juices, milk and other drinks are unrestricted.

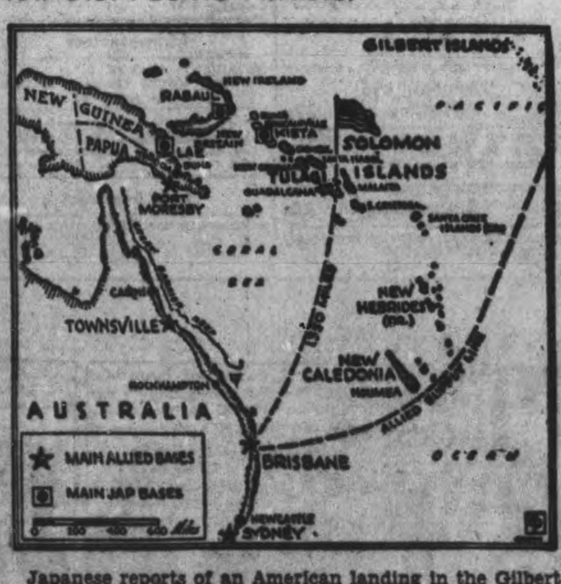
When he goes into the forces the Canadian is eventually asked to turn in his ration card and there is no likelihood he will be able to use this civilian privilege after he is actually in uniform, but, officials said, the meals given the forces are of the best quality and rationing of supplies has probably affected them as little as any group of Canadians.

The estimate of about 12,000,000 ration books being required was being maintained by the Prices Board. While there are only about 11,500,000 Canadians, many persons have temporary residence in the Dominion and have to be cared for.

Skip The Fragments

WASHINGTON August 28—(AP) —Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defence, has cautioned United States citizens that in the event of an air raid bomb fragments must not be collected as souvenirs. Such materials, he says, provide the military services with information of value about materials used by the enemy.

New U.S. Pacific Thrusts?



Japanese reports of an American landing in the Gilbert Islands, shown on ABOVE map, may mean that the United States is extending its offensive operations in the Pacific to envelop more Jap bases. The navy department has announced the capture of several of the Solomon Islands, and some observers believe the United Nations may attack the Jap base at Rabaul on New Britain Island.

Liner New World As Repatriates Slip Past Java

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, August 28 —The bell on the bridge marked midnight, June 24.

Then there was stillness again and the hot darkness, folding over the ship and the harbor and the low hills of Yohohama.

In a cabin below decks, an American newspaperman leaned against a bunk, staring through the port-hole. He said, "There's a launch coming out.... fast, too ....blinking her lights."

Someone said, So what? Another false alarm, that's all."

A week before, more than 500 Americans had come aboard the ship, the Asama Maru. They were going home to be exchanged under an agreement between the United States and Japan. They had come from prisons, from camps, from internment in all parts of the Japanese Empire. Some had been tortured, many of them beaten, all were hungry.

The newspaperman said, "Looks like some officials are getting into the launch."

The others said, "Relax .... Just take it easy." They had been waiting a week. Just waiting.

Rumors Fly.

Nobody knew why they had been held there. Gradually, rumors began to fly. Everybody had heard something: The exchange was off, negotiations had broken down, everybody would be put on shore again. Each day screwed the tension tighter.

It was 12:40 now. From the launch, a Japanese voice called, "Bon voyage, Mr. Grew."

The men in the cabin glanced at each other, sharply. "They're saying good-bye to the Ambassador. Did you hear that?" At the same instant, the ship's engines began to throb. The anchor chain rattled. The men plunged for the door, stumbling, racing up to the deck.

The sea swished and hissed against the sides. The ship trembled a little. She was moving.

The people on deck stared at each other, stunned, unbelieving. All at once, as though at a given signal, a cry arose. They shouted and cheered and sang, even through tears of excitement, they locked arms and danced, up and down the decks and stairways.

Strange Voyage.

A strange voyage had begun, an almost incredible voyage.

Before it was finished in New York this week, these 500 repatriates were joined by more than 1,000 others, including 69 Canadians. They travelled two months, across 18,000 miles of water, three-quarters of the earth's circumference, touching four major continent. They passed from summer in the Orient to winter in Africa, and then to summer again, nearing New York.

There were two ships. The Japanese liner, Asama Maru, brought exchangees from the Japanese Empire, Hong Kong, Indo-China and Siam. The Italian ship, Conte Verde, started at Shanghai, bringing people from occupied China. On the two ships were nearly 1,600 persons.

At Singapore, the two ships met. They stayed within sight of each other through the next two weeks.

Then through the Sunda Straits, the narrow channel between Java and Sumatra, the last Japanese-occupied land areas.

A curious, almost visible change spread over the two ships that day. Until then, people had been nervous, on edge. Voices were dry and harsh. People were restless. The children cried, unendingly.

Of their experiences in prison, they spoke only in whispers, or not at all.

It Could Be Told.

Beyond Java, all this vanished, magically, like smoke in a fresh breeze. Somehow, being beyond the area of Japanese conquests made the difference. Now you could hear what had happened, the stories of torture and murder, imprisonment, mental agony. It had seemed dangerous to talk, much less to write. Suddenly, typewriters were chattering in every corner of every deck. Pens fled over the pages of diaries.

For ten days then, the ships fought through the north monsoon in the Indian Ocean. Tropical heat changed to damp cold. Toward the end of July, the two ships steamed past Madagascar, then into the narrows leading to the port of Lourenco Marques, in Portuguese East Africa, where the actual exchange of Japanese and Americans took place. The Swedish liner Gripsholm was waiting with 1,500 Japanese who had been interned in the United States.

Two weeks later, the Gripsholm was in Rio de Janeiro. Then the last leg of the long voyage began, two weeks more to New York.

No Russian Post

KENT, Conn., August 28—(AP). —No, the Highway Department marker greeting what tourists there are left on the Ethan Allen Highway isn't a transplanted Russian signpost.

It reads: "Naromiyovhnowhosunkatankshunk Brook," and its an Indian word meaning "Water from the Great Hills."

The Axis Version

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)— Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand, here for conferences with President Roosevelt, posed yesterday for photographers and proved his wit. While the cameramen were getting him ready under arc lights, he suddenly developed a nose bleed. "I can here it in Berlin and Tokyo now," Mr. Fraser said. "New Zealand's prime minister gets hostile reception at White House."

Ontario Plans Big New Power Sites

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Completion within the next week or ten days of negotiations with the Province of Quebec will flash to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission a go-ahead signal for development work on the Upper Ottawa power sites.

Physical development on the $40,000,000 Des Joachims site will begin, it was learned yesterday at Queen's Park, the moment that the monumental work involved in the exchange of power rights on the Ottawa River by the two Provinces has been completed.

Under the scheme, unique in inter-Provincial associations, for a matter of economy and convenience Ontario is granting to Quebec right to the development of potential power in the Carillon and Rocher Fendu sites on the South Ottawa, below Ottawa City, and a similar extension is granted by Quebec to Ontario for the development of Cave, Fourneaux and Des Joachim, north of Pembroke.

By the exchange, both Provinces eliminate difficulties attending the construction jointly of power works upon a boundary water. Besides, Carillon is closer to the Quebec market and, by transmission line distance, Des Joachims is nearer to the Niagara System, by about eighty-five miles, than the South Ottawa site. It is estimated that a 200-mile transmission line will pipe power into Toronto or the Burlington substation from Des Joachims.

Ontario, it is estimated, has secured in the transfer sole rights of at least 400,000 horsepower. Under the development plan, in order to gain power at the earliest possible moment, Hydro proposes to bring in the properties under a several-stage building program.

The Quebec Legislature, at its last session, gave formal approval to the exchange, but, it is explained, under rights vested in the Ontario Cabinet, Ontario's approval can be given by Order-in-Council.

It is stated that settlement has been achieved so far as the Upper Ottawa sites are concerned and that the final seal will be placed upon the Carillon section in a matter of days.

British Tommy To Receive Raise

LONDON, August 28—(CP Cable) —A Government announcement on pay increases for the Army and the men of the other services is expected when Parliament reassembles, it was learned last night.

The increases will be made it was said, to remove the disparity between British service pay rates and those of munitions workers as well as troops from the Dominions and the United States.

It is understood the question has been under investigation for some time.

The basic daily pay of a British private is 60 cents, compared with the $1.30 for Canadian troops and $1.65 for those in the United States Army.

Just Straightening It

LONDON, August 28 — (CP). — Reuters quoted a DNB Berlin broadcast yesterday as conceding that the Russians had made "certain local progress" in the Rzhev and Kaluga areas where the Germans were said to be conducting a "systematic straightening of the front line."

Simple Care for a Brand-New Pup

"I Know You'll Be Good to Me!"

Have you a case of puppy love? Is your brand-new dog little and wet-nosed, with innocent, sleepy eyes?

Then he needs all the love you can give him, if it takes the form of right care.

Puppies are as helpless as babies. They, too, get sick, often fatally, from wrong food or exposure. They, too, are naughty as a result of wrong training.

In housebreaking, take him outside five minutes to an hour after he eats. But not in places where dogs with distemper have been!

Such simple care is about all a little dog needs to keep him happy. But at four months you'll want to start training him to obey commands.

Our 32-page booklet shows how to train a dog to be obedient and do clever tricks. Tells food dogs may eat; how to housebreak them, groom them. Gives symptoms and treatment of common dog ailments, including distemper; also how many ailments may be avoided.

For your copy of "How to Choose and Care for Your Dog" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Men of R.A.F. Regiment

Nowhere in the Royal Air Force is there a keener spirit than among the men of the R.A.F. Regiment, which has the responsibility of defending airdromes and stations against enemy attack. The men wear khaki battle dress with a distinguishing "flash" and the usual R.A.F. insignia. Picture shows a corporal carrying out an inspection.

PT Boats Will Soon Turn Sub Tide

BAYONNE, N.J., Aug. 28.—(AP) —"The Navy's No. 1 problem with Germany is the U-boat and so far the battle against the submarine has been a losing one," Rear-Admiral Clark H. Woodward, retired, said yesterday, "but it won't be a losing battle long—not when the PT boats get on the job in full force."

Admiral Clark spoke at exercises held in connection with presentation of the Army-Navy "E" award to the Elco Naval Division of the Electric Boat Company, where many of the speedy motor torpedo boats are built.

Lt.-Cmdr. John Bulkeley, PT boat hero of the Philippine campaign, who also addressed the workers, desciribed the PT's as "80 feet of striking fury."

"Things are picking up now for our side out there in the Pacific," he said. "We're pitching now, instead of catching."

Only 17 Cattle At The Union Yards

TORONTO, August 28. — Unless the Dominion Government steps into the beef market, another acute shortage of beef is expected in Toronto shortly. Parkers, wholesalers and dealers yesterday expressed their opinion that only preventative measure that might be successful would be some form of market control by the Wartime Food Corporation.

A number of retailers said that they had no beef at all in stock. Only seventeen head of cattle were up for early trading at the Union Stock Yards, and opinion is that the forthcoming situation is the most desperate that Toronto has yet experienced.

Factor contributing to this belief is that the Canadian farmer appears to be holding his cattle until the new export quota is set. Cattle sold to the United States brings better prices since there is no price ceiling.

Rent Raiser Is Given Fine Of $580

TORONTO, August 28. — Two magistrates' courts were busied yesterday with charges laid under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations concerning maximum rental and landlords' procedure.

Magistrate Gullen fined Max Perlman of Glenholme Avenue $40 and costs on a charge of increasing rental on 1825 Davenport Road. Evidence showed that a tenant had been paying $35 a month in April, 1941, and that a new tenant had paid $40 for at least one month in 1942.

In the same court, Mrs. Louis Schultz was fined $50 and costs or thirty days on a charge of increasing the rental at 288 Roberts Street; Mary Zygnerski was fined $75 and costs or two months on a charge of increasing the rental at 28 Churchill Avenue and will appear again in a week on a further charge of unlawful eviction.

Fines totalling $580 and costs were levied by Magistrate Prentice against Mrs. Mary Parks on six different charges involving six different properties. Mrs. Parks testified in court that she owns seventy properties. Two of the fines were $180 each, on charges of increasing rentals from $25 to $40. N. L. Mathews, K.C., acted as special prosecutor for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in securing the convictions against Mrs. Parks.

Round Up 100

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 28—(AP).— Approximately 100 aliens were arrested by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local police in sweeping raids which started at 6.30 p.m. today in nine northern New Jersey counties, E. E. Conroy, assistant director of the F.B.I. announced.

Writ Is Issued Against Draper Over Accident

TORONTO, August 28— Chief Constable Dennis C. Draper, of Toronto, is named as the defendant in a writ filed at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The plaintiffs named are Norman Miller, Ada Miller, William Schneider and Ethel Miller, administratrix of the estate of Burton Oliver Miller. In the writ filed by Messrs. Erichsen, Brown and Strachan, unstated damages are claimed for personal injuries sustained by the plaintiffs and Burton Miller in an accident on September 28, 1941.

A car driven by the Chief Constable was in collision with one occupied by the plaintiffs on Highway No. 2, near Newtonville, Ont.

have the respect of the friends who saw how hard and mercenary and disloyal you were.

Your mistake is one that many people make, when they think they can find happiness in material things. Many women are deluded by that idea into marrying men they do not love for the sake of the gauds they can give them, and they invariably find that happiness isn't something that's sold over the counter, and that they can be just as miserable in a Paris frock as they were in a bungalow apron.

You have made your mistake, and you must pay the price of it. Do the honest and sporting thing. You married your old man for his money. Earn it by being kind and attentive to him and trying to bring some happiness into his life. He deserves some reward for the luxuries he gives you.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SKILL WITH BLACKWOOD

EFFICIENT use of any convention necessitates knowledge of its ramifications and variations, and even then a certain amount of skill. Nothing can turn players into machines and remove the human element, not even devices like the Blackwood convention. One of its most efficient uses comes after a suit or suits previously bid by the opponents has been cue-bid by your side. The Blackwood convention after that asks only about the top cards in the suits which have not been cue-bid.

Pass	1 ♣	1 ♥	1 ♠
2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♠	Dbl
4 ♥	4 ♠	4 NT	Pass
5 ♣	Dbl	5 ♥

Did you ever see any neater signing-off than that? In fact, did you ever see any more accurate use of the Blackwood convention? Or any more clever informative bidding than that done by South throughout?

After the first three bids, he got his first chance to use his acumen. His 2-Clubs bid, showing ability to win the first trick of the opponent's suit, guaranteeing a strong fit with his partner's hearts and assuring North that he barely lacked an opening bid when he passed, set the stage for what happened later. When North, on his next turn, cue bid the spades, he himself did some nice work, as he was preparing to use the Blackwood convention to find out about the aces of the two red suits.

When North bid 4-No Trumps, South got the idea perfectly. With both black suits cue-bid, he knew North wanted to know about the red aces. Having neither of them, he responded correctly with the denial of 5-Clubs, causing North then to sign off at 5-Hearts.

If South had shown one ace as his response, with 5-Diamonds, North would have small-slammed the hand. If he had shown two, North would have grand-slammed it.

A player who did not know this phase of the Blackwood might have shown two aces in response to the 4-No Trumps, whereupon North might have bid the grand slam, to his woe.

7 Officers Added To Casualty List

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—(CP).—Three men were reported killed and eight wounded in the 13th Canadian (active) army casualty list since the Battle of Dieppe issued at National Defence Headquarters today.

Two majors and a lieutenant were reported killed in action and the wounded included two captains and two lieutenants.

The 13th list brought the unofficial count of Canadian casualties in the raid on the French port to 650 with an even 100 reported dead, 426 wounded and 124 missing. It brought the army's losses in dead and missing since the start of the war to 990.

Needless Grief

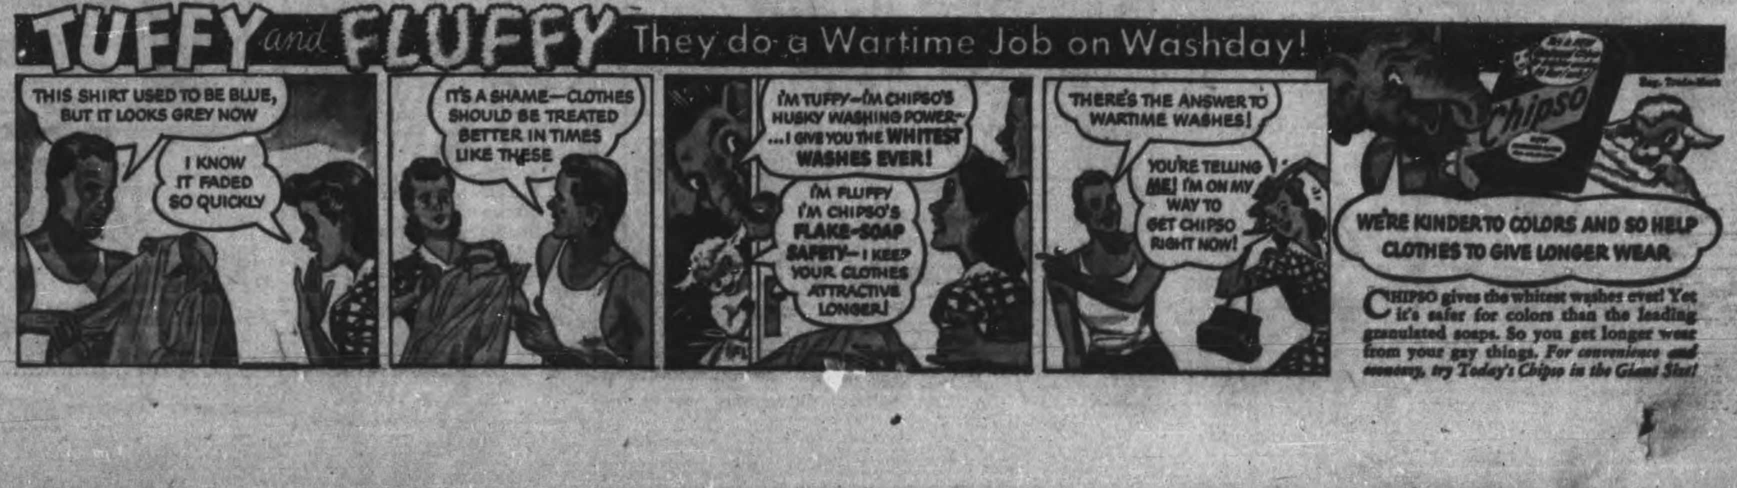
TORONTO, August 28—(CP).—Controller Fred Hamilton told the Board of Control yesterday needless grief and distress were caused parents who receive military draft notices for sons months after they have volunteered for active service, and in some cases after they have been reported killed in action.

Mayor F. J. Conboy will receive reports of three representative cases and take them up with Dominion authorities it was decided at the meeting.

Day Of Prayer

TORONTO, August 28—(CP).—Sunday, September 6, will be observed in the United Church of Canada as a National Day of Prayer, Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, announced here to-day.

The decision followed a request of His Majesty the King that September 6 be set aside as a Day of Intercession for Divine aid for the United Nations.



Would Hold Cost Of Election To 10th Of Salary

TORONTO, August 28—(CP)—Expenses of candidates seeking election should be limited to 10 per cent of the salary they would draw. This was the suggestion made Wednesday by Mayor W. S. Beaton, Sudbury, to delegates at the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association at the city hall.

"Spending money to coax people to come out to vote is a violation of the principles of democracy," he declared.

"Changes must come—there must be a new order," he added, reading his seven points for a fuller life, outlined by the new Archbishop of Canterbury. "Social reform must touch the life of every individual."

Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs and Highways, told delegates: "Many of our municipalities are being most unfairly discriminated against as a result of the Federal Government's housing policy. There is nothing in the way of community advantage to be gained from any government housing which has been undertaken. It is all loss to the municipalities, and yet they are called upon to accept a lower rate of tax revenue than is contributed by the other householders. This is unfair, unreasonable and not to the credit of the Federal Government."

From April 1, 1935, to March 31, 1942, Ontario paid additional assistance of $57,563,000 to municipalities, under the headings of subsidies, maintenance of indigent patients in sanitoria, township road subsidy, king's highways, county roads, old age pensions and mothers' allowances, he said.

"It will be noted, however, that reduction in municipal taxation in that period does not equal that amount," he told them.

Average Runs Lower

Total municipal taxes levied for that period had been $809,775,000, an average annually of $115,682,000, compared to the 1934 levy of $116,257,000.

Had the 1934 levy continued, the total taxes levied would have been $813,799,000, so that notwithstanding all the efforts of this government only $4,025,000 or approximately 7 per cent of the total additional assistance was passed on to the taxpayers.

"In the same period the total municipal debt had been reduced from $483,952,000 to $353,575,000.

"Surely the reduction interest and sinking fund charges could have been reflected in the general rates levied," he said.

Had the grants and the savings in debt charges and relief expenditures been applied to reduce municipal taxation, the mill rates in many cases should have been within the 25-mill levy which he had previously suggested should be the maximum on real property, he said.

"Closing of non-essential industries, shortage of manpower and of electrical power would mean lesser revenues to municipalities. Surely then municipal councils, boards and commissions should economize by adjusting their standard of services to face the post-war period in a sound financial position," he concluded.

The Background

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, August 28 — (CP Cable). — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton used a forestry term in referring yesterday to himself and others of the older officers in the Canadian Army.

"Those of us who are older are a cover crop. We are simply trying to give the younger men the background," he told a group of visiting Canadian editors.

"Most definitely we shall continue to aim at youth in leadership within the Army. Unless you have youth and physical fitness you haven't endurance which is absolutely necessary.'"

Labor Holds Seat

SHEFFIELD, England, August 28—(CP Cable). — Thomas William Burden, Labor, to-day was returned unopposed as member of Parliament for the Park Division of Sheffield.

The by-election caused by the death of George Lathan, was not contested with the wartime political truce. In the 1935 general election, Lathan polled 21,153 votes against 19,947 for Sir Shirley Benn, Conservative.

Japs Admit Loss Of One Destroyer

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), August 28 — (AP). — Japan has lost one destroyer sunk and several small aircraft carriers damaged in the renewed battle of the Solomon Islands, imperial headquarters announced to-day.

(An Italian broadcast in the French language, the same in every other detail as Tokyo's mentioned damage to several small Japanese aircraft carriers. A Berlin broadcast was first understood to have said one of the Japanese carriers was sunk, but this was erroneous.)

It claimed the United States losses, all inflicted by air attack, were:

One heavy aircraft carrier of a new type heavily damaged.

Another smaller carrier damaged.

A battleship of the Pennsylvania class damaged.

The communique listed these casualties for both sides since August 24 in an air-sea encounter east of the Solomon Islands which it called "the Second Battle of the Solomons."

Card Games Net 2 Gunmen $143

TORONTO, August 28—(CP).—Eleven card players were lined up against a wall in the Recreation Room of a West End Club early today and robbed of $143 by two masked gunmen.

When the gunmen wanted the pants of one of the men, however, he grabbed a chair and heaved it at the two bandits. It crashed through a window, and the pair fled.

While Abe Manheim, club steward, notified police, the other two scoured the district. Police joined in and a man was arrested, giving his name as Carmen Izzotti, aged 21, and booked on a charge of armed robbery.

This was the second armed robbery of card players in a Toronto club in the past two weeks. In the previous occasion $700 was taken.

Yankees Swoop Down On Lashio

CHUNGKING, Aug. 28—(AP).—United States army planes raided the Japanese base at Lashio, Burma, yesterday, shooting down two enemy fighters and probably destroying two more, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

All planes returned safely, the announcement said.

"Two large fires were started in the centre of the city and a number of hits were scored on the airdrome runway," the war bulletin said.

The raid was carried out by bombers with a fighter escort. The fighters strafed the town and airdrome.

Lashio, near the southwestern border of China, is at the head of the rail line running from Rangoon, on the coast, through Mandalay. It was at Lashio that the famous Burma Road, over which supplies were trucked to Free China, began.

Yesterday's raid was the first by the United States fliers since August 11 when Yochow, in Hunan Province, and Nanchang, in Kiangsi, were attacked.

Today's communique was the first by the U.S. army air force in China since it started operations July 1. Its only other officially-recorded attack outside China occurred August 9 against Haphong, French Indo-China.

Suspect Missionaries

JERSEY CITY, N.J., August 28.—(AP) — Within jumping distance of free land, 600 repatriates waiting to be released by United States officials today began their third day aboard the diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm since it docked with more than 1400.

Among those transferred to Ellis Island were approximately 30 missionaries suspected of participating in activities detrimental to the United States. Returning diplomats said a series of pacifist meeting advocating the opening of peace negotiations took place aboard the ship on its homeward journey.

Fighting French and Polish Forces Meet

Battling at the side of their British Allies in the Middle East, Fighting French and Polish forces meet in the Western desert. The picture shows a 2nd in command of the Polish forces in a Free French trench studying the position of the Fighting French units. Typical of the extreme youth of the soldiers in General de Gaulle's army is the lad on communications duty on the right.

New Loans Are Ready For Creating More Duplexes

OTTAWA, August 28. —(CP) — The Federal Government has taken a new step to meet Canada's growing housing shortage by drafting a home extension plan aimed at creating new housing accommodation by loans to householders in all towns and cities where the deficiency is caused directly or indirectly by war activities."

The new plan, announced Wednesday night by Finance Minister Ilsley will be in operation by September 1, and is one of several methods adopted by the government to meet the housing shortage which has developed from war-time booms in many Canadian municipalities.

Mr. Ilsleys announcement said specifically that the plan is "solely for the purpose of assisting owners to improve or repair the homes which they now occupy." Otherwise, it is similar in most of its essentials to the old home improvement plan.

The new plan is based on an item placed in the supplementary estimates during the closing days of the last sitting of parliament which was to enable householders to divide their home sinto self-contained duplexes or apartments by a limited government guarantee of loans being provided. The total amount of loans which may be guaranteed must not exceed $2,000,000.

Under the scheme, loans will be handled through the chartered banks, with the maximum rate of interest at a discount rate of 3¼ per cent for one-year loan payable in 12 equal monthly instalments, and proportionate rates for other periods.

"This is equivalent to an effective interest rate of 6.32 per cent a year," said Mr. Ilsley. "Loans must be prepaid in not more than 60 monthly installments and the minimum payment is $15 a month.

Loans may be made for the full cost of construction provided they do not exceed $1,500 for the first new housing unit provided, $1,000 for the second new unit, and $750 for the third and each succeeding unit. Units must be completely self-contained. Loans can be made only to the registered owner of the dwelling in which the additional self-contained housing units are to be created.

Tokyo All Calm Till United States Bombers Arrive

MONTREAL, Aug. 28—(CP)—Obviously weary after 18,000 miles of travel, but just as obviously glad to be back on Canadian soil, 69 Canadians from Japan and Japanese-occupied territory scattered to their home throughout the Dominion today.

The group, including diplomatic representatives, trade commissioners and missionaries of various religious denominations, reached Montreal late yesterday following debarkation the day before from the diplomatic liner Gripsholm at New York.

Beseiged by questioners as they arrived at Bonaventure station, they refused to discuss reports of atrocities on prisoners of Nippon and described their treatment at the hands of the Japs as "polite." Most of them had been under guard since Japan struck at Pearl Harbor last December.

E. D'Arcy McGree, charge d'affaires at the Canadian legation at Tokyo and leaders of the party, said that as far as the diplomatic corps was concerned, the Japanese had laid down various restrictive regulations but allowed them to take daily walks under a protective guard.

There was no special war fever noticeable in Tokyo, he said, until U.S. planes carried out their bombing raid. Of the effects on the raid he said nothing but observed that "they seemed to be deeply impressed by it."

Although the English-language newspaper in Tokyo made impressive claims of the number of planes shot down in the raid, Mr. McGreer said "I saw only one plane, which I believe was American, flying very low, which might possibly have been in difficulty."

Col. E. S. Doughty, Canadian immigration officer at Hong Kong, stopped long enough to remark "I was never so glad as to get away from Hong Kong," and then went dashing through the crowd in search of his wife. He said he had heard nothing about the treatment of Canadian troops after the fortress fell.

Hitting Big Fellow

HAMILTON, Ont., August 28 — (CP). — Emphatic denial that the budget he brought down in the House of Commons favored the "big fellow" was made by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, in an address yesterday to representatives of industrial workers in Hamilton.

"I think most workers will be rather surprised at the moderation of the tax deductions when they are made in September," the Finance Minister said. "There are some persons who will tell you we have been too busy on the big fellow...that is not so and I want to deny it emphatically."

Albanians Fighting

LONDON, August 28 — (CP). — Reuters News Agency said yesterday it had recorded a Moscow broadcast which reported, under a Geneva dateline, a large-scale clash between Albanian patriots and Italian troops 12 miles from Tirana, the capital of Italian-occupied Albania.

This account said the Italians lost 200 men killed or wounded and finally had to bring up artillery to end the fight after several days.

The Italians have increased the occupation forces from five to eight divisions.

U.S. Working On Hog Price Roof

WASHINGTON, August 27 —(CP) —The office of Price Administration has put its staff to work on a system of ceilings on hog prices, but P. O. Wilson of Chicago, secretary of the National Livestock Marketing Association, said Thursday he had reason to hope it would not go into effect.

After several weeks' agitation by some packers, the O. P. A. announced Wednesday night it is developing a plan for ceilings on hogs to be followed later by ceilings on cattle. Under the Price Control Law, ceilings on farm products must be approved by Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard.

Wilson, who among other producer representatives conferred with Price Administrator Leon Henderson Thursday, said O. P. A. officials had promised that ceilings would be established "only as a last resort" to meet a marketing problem.

The purpose of ceilings, as explained by Agriculture Department and O. P. A. officals would be to safeguard price-control structure and to keep the meat packing industry in full operation. Wickard has contended that livestock ceilings would not increase the supply for consumers or reduce consumer prices.

Because of an unusual war-time demand for meat, prices of hogs and cattle have been bid up by processors to a point where there is little margin between those prices and ceilings on meat. As a consequence, many packers, particularly smaller firms, claim they have been caught in a squeeze that threatens to ruin them.

Jean Haggerty Features Marmora Show

MARMORA, Aug. 27—(ENS).—A good evening's entertainment substituting the annual street dance held in former years was held on Marmora Fair Grounds on Wednesday evening under auspices of Marmora Agricultural Society and Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion.

The event drew a large number of people and weather conditions were ideal for the amateur show and games held in the open air. President T. E. Pritchard, with his usual ability, took charge of the amateur show. George Wade and Mr. Austin, Sr., and Mr. Austin, Jr., of the Arcadian Orchestra, were judges.

The first prize went to the juvenile, Jean Haggerty, of Ivanhoe, who sang "Give me one dozen roses."

The sisters, Marion and Leona Reynolds, of Marmora, took second honors with their singing number to guitar accompaniment, "Turn on your radio." John Izzard of Marmora township came third with a violin selection.

Others competing were Doris and Iris Hannah, in a duet, "Waltzing Matilda"; Colleen Haggarty of Ivanhoe with songs, "Sometime" and "I miss you," and Johnny Logan, who sang "You are my sunshine." Albert Bartlett also rendered one of his old time songs upon request.

A quiz contest concluded the program. A diversion was caused as Secretary-Treasurer H. W. Sabine of the Agricultural Society was handed the question, "What dates are Marmora Fair?" his response being October 2 and 3.

Music for dancing in the exhibition building was furnished by Austin' Arcadian Orchestra. Marmora Women's Institute staffed an excellent refreshment booth in the old exhibition building, where also a fish pond run by girls of the junior branch of the Institute—the Girls' Club—was well "fished out."

King Returns For Funeral

LONDON, August 28 — (CP). — The King, in naval uniform, and the Queen wearing black, returned to London yesterday for the funeral of the King's youngest brother, the Duke of Kent, who was killed on Tuesday in an air crash on active service.

A special train also brought back the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester for the funeral. A small bareheaded crowd gathered at the station when the Gloucester's train arrived.

Nazis In Sight Of 4 Routes Over Caucasus

MOSCOW, Aug. 28—(CP).—The Germans have come within striking distance of three of the four routes to the south of the mountains. These are the Sukhumi Road which skirts the Black Sea from Tuapse to Batum; the Ossetic military road through 9,270-foot high Mamison Pass in the heart of the mountains of Kutais, and the Georgian military road through eight-mile-long Darial Pass walled by 6,000-foot cliffs between Ordzhonikidze and Tiflis. The fourth route is the old Caravan Trail through Derbent along the Caspian.

Russian dispatches credited the German gains in the Caucasus to their use of great waves of dive-bombers, swarms of tanks, parachutists, and tommygun-equipped troops on motorcycles.

The Russians said the Red Army counteroffensive west of Moscow now had won back well over 600 populated places, but many were found in ruins.

The Germans were said to have sent swarms of dive-bombers to the aid of their hard-pressed troops on this front, and a dispatch to Komosol Pravda said Russian fighters had downed 48 of the German planes.

Aussies Hold Japs To Milne Bay

Engage Invaders In Desperate Jungle Battles

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, August 29 —(CP)— Fighting appeared to be growing in intensity today along the muddy shores of Milne Bay as veteran Australian troops battled with effective Allied air support against Japanese forces attempting to consolidate a shaky grip on the southeastern tip of New Guinea.

A communique from Allied Headquarters said the Australians were in close contact with the recently-landed Japanese and described the fighting as "heavy."

A small number of United States service troops were reported in the battle area, but the Allied fighting forces composed of tried Australian Imperials and militia.

Allied medium bombers, piloted by American and escorted by Australian airmen in fighter planes, raked the beach-heads established by the Japanese and the communique said "numerous fires were started."

The Japanese apparently filtered into the forbidding jungle where they were engaged by the Australians, sloshing along in frequent trails and slashing their way through mangrove swamps to meet the invader.

A spokesman said the weather which had slowed the early progress of the land and air battle, was "better now", but the troops still were fighting in heavy mud.

The battle was proceeding several miles from the head of Milne Bay along the north shore. A narrow beach there fades into the swampy

Japs Lose 40,000 3 Chinese Scraps

CHUNGKING, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Chinese troops were reported today to have reinforced their hold on the newly-captured Chuhsien airdrome, from which United Nations planes may one day bomb Japan, by occupying the walled city of Chuhsien itself and Changshutan, five miles to the east.

Field dispatches announced the gains, achieved at the expense of garrisons weakened by mysterious Japanese withdrawals.

The Chinese Central News agency said the recapture of Chuhsien, in western Chekiang province within 3½ hours bombers flight to Japan, gave Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's forces control of nearly 220 miles of the 450-mile-long Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line.

An official Chinese review said both sides suffered high casualties in the Chekiang-Kiangsi fighting. The Japanese, it was reported, used more men than in any campaign since the drive on Hankow in October, 1938.

Casualty Group Climbs To 827

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—(CP)—In the 17th Canadian (Active) Army casualty list issued since the battle of Dieppe the Department of National Defence today reported one man killed in action and one seriously wounded, 10 wounded and one suffering from exposure.

The 13 names on the list brought the unofficial count of casualties attributable to the Canadian attack on the French coastal town last week to 827 of whom 155 are dead, 533 wounded, 121 missing, 11 not diagnosed, one in hospital, one suffering from superficial injury and five suffering from exposure. The total number of men reported dead and missing by the Army since the start of the war now stands at 1,046.

The man reported killed today was CSM. Normàn MacIver of the Central Ontario Regiment whose home address was given at Stornoway, Scotland.

Only one officer was mentioned in the list, Capt. Ernest Poyson Thompson of Winnipeg, who was reported wounded.

Berlin Sees It Invasion From Captured Order

BERLIN, (From German Broadcasts), August 29. —(AP) —The German High Command claimed in a special communique today that 2,195 Allied prisoners were taken during the Commando operation at Dieppe August 19 and asserted the raid actually aimed at establishing a Continental bridgehead in preparation for an invasion of France.

The Allied raiding force left more than 600 dead behind when they returned to England, the High Command claimed, adding that bodies were washing in daily from the channel. German losses in dead, wounded and missing were placed at 597.

The communique said the Allied "order of operation" was found on a captured staff officer, proving that the landing attempt was more than an "ordinary commando raid" and that it was intended to establish an invasion bridgehead.

4 Monarchs Attend Duke's Rites

George VI. Weeps Sprinkling Earth On Brother's Coffin

WINDSOR, Eng., Aug. 29—(CP) —Four kings—George VI of England, Haakon of Norway, George of Greece and Peter of Yugoslavia — and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands headed mourners today at simple funeral services for the Duke of Kent in St. George's chapel.

The Duchess of Kent entered the chapel with the Queen and Queen Mary and the former helped the Duchess up the step to her seat in the choir stalls. All three wore heavy crepe veils.

The Duchess sobbed through the brief rites for her husband, killed in an air crash in Scotland Tuesday, and as the coffin was lowered on to the purple-covered bier she sank to her knees in prayer.

When she rose the Queen comforted her while the Dean of Windsor, Very Rev. Albert Baillie, intoned the burial service.

The King, with tears in his eyes, moved forward and sprinkled earth upon the coffin as it descended slowly into the vaults.

Draped with the personal standard of the dead duke, the coffin had two wreaths on it. One was from the King and Queen and the other from the widow. The latter was of red and white roses, the Duke's favorite flowers, which the Duchess had cut in their garden.

The funeral was the first to follow R.A.F. rites to be held in the historic chapel of the Order of the Garter and the first, too, for a member of the House of Windsor killed on active service.

N.C.O.'s Pallbearers

Six non-commissioned officers of the R.A.F. carried the Duke's coffin on their shoulders and the chief pallbearers were all high officers of the service in which the Duke lost his life. They included Air Marshal Harold Edwards of the R.C.A.F.

The 28-year-old Duke of Connaught walked beside Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of Combined Operations.

Men from two regiments of which the Duke of Kent was colonel-in-chief—the Royal Fusiliers and the Royal West Kents—lined the west side of the flag-draped chapel with men of the R.A.F. and the Royal Navy lining the other two sides.

Awful,-Lovely Says Scot Of 4000 Pounders

By ALAN RANDAL.

AN R. A. F. BOMBER STATION, Somewhere in England, August 29. —(CP)—"Mon, they're awful—but they're lovely," said the little air gunner from Edinburgh.

It was Sgt. Jock Aitken talking. He stood in the air station tea room after his 22nd operational flight and told about the 4,000-pound bomb such as he and his crewmates, two of them Canadians, dropped on Dusseldorf just a couple of hours before.

It was part of the heavy hammering which started with early Spring's four-figure raids and led Air Marshal Arthur T. Harris to say 1,000 bombers over Germany every night would win the war by Autumn.

Jock the Scot echoed the bomber chief's words. "It was prime," he said. "If we could get there every night like we did to-night we'd end this in three months. They just couldn't stand it.

Have To Get Mile Away.

"But it's terrible when those big ones go off. We have to fly a mile away from them or we'd be blown up too."

Standing there with Jock and these kids who had just been in and out of German skies, you got a feeling they'd done a job of destruction almost beyond the powers of imagination.

"I don't care what Joe Goebbels says, we're knocking hell out of them," said Sgt. Ken Jackson of Saskatoon, one of the Canadians at this station with Aiken.

Raid Across South Germany Rocks Ancient Cities Cuts War Output For Adolf

30 Bombers Fail To Make Home Fields; Stroke Angers Hun Into Stabs At Northeast Coast Areas Of England

LONDON, Aug. 29—(CP). — The R.A.F. struck its second smashing blow in two nights at the Nazi war factory last night with an assault by a "large force" of bombers—perhaps several hundred—at the ancient cities of Nuremberg and Saarbruecken, both highly-important military targets.

The bombers flew nearly 500 miles to reach Nuremberg, deep in southern Germany, once a peaceful old city and now a centre of Nazi war production. Saarbruecken, on the French border and only about 35 miles from Metz, is a rich coal and iron-producing centre.

An Air Ministry communique said 30 bombers failed to return from the mission. On the basis of average five-per-cent losses on similar large-scale raids in the past, this would put the number of participating planes at 600.

Canucks There, Too

The attacking force was understood to have included one and possibly more Canadian bombing squadrons.

The assault was the third this week against German industrial centres. On Thursday night a force of approximately the same strength smashed at the former Polish port of Gdynia, only a few miles west of Danzig on the Baltic Sea, and at Kassel, a locomotive-building centre Monday night Wiesbaden and Frankfurt were the targets.

Nuremberg is the home of the Nan Tank Factory and has a large aluminum works manufacturing piston rods and castings. The Siemen-Schuckert factory there makes heavy electrical equipment.

The quaint old German city is also an important railway centre and has large repair shops for locomotives and rolling stock. It is on the Ludwig Canal, connecting the Main and Danube Rivers.

In striking at Nuremberg, Britain was attacking one of the best-known German garrison towns. In recent years, it had acquired considerable notice as the parade ground and sounding board for the annual Nazi party conventions, but these have been suspended for the duration of the war.

Great Steel Town

Saarbruecken, in the rich Saar Valley, is in the centre of some 70 square miles of coal mines. It has gigantic iron works and steel mills.

R.C.A.F. men on the raid reported conditions so nearly perfect that every detail of the streets and buildings of Saarbruecken stood out in relief.

"We took three runs over the target before dropping our stuff and we just couldn't miss," said Sgt.-Pilot Ronald Bell of Victoria, B.C., who flew with Sgt. John Bell of New Glasgow, N.S., and Sgt. Arthur Dorey of Tantallon, N.S.

Flt.-Sgt. Daniel Allen of Lennoxville, Que., hopping from his plane in the early-morning darkness, said "it was a marvellous trip as far as flying and bombing conditions were concerned."

"The place was afire in a number of spots when we arrived and there was no mistaking the target," Allen added.

The Quebec flier had his usual crew along—Po. Alan Hill, Vancouver; Sgt. Tom Reeves, New Westminster, B.C., and Sgt. Glen Scott, Fredericton, N.B.

"Twenty-one is my lucky number and this is my 21st birthday, so I was hardly surprised it went so well," said Sgt. Robert Berry of Hamilton, Ont.

Other Canadians pounding Saarbruecken included Flt.-Sgt. Jack Price, Indian Head, Sask., Sgt. John K. Knight, Calgary, and Sgt. William Rowland of Brussels, Ont.

In addition to the massive night assault, the Germans have suffered under daylight precision raids in occupied territories by Flying Fortresses of the United States Air Forces and extensive sweeps by British and Canadian fighter squadrons.

Flags On Peaks Prussianism, Hitler's Dream

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The Hitlerite claim to have planted the Nazi flag atop Mount Elbrus, highest peak in the lofty Caucasus range or in all Europe for that matter, has aroused a great deal of curiosity and I have been asked to explain the significance of this garish exhibition.

It presents an interesting study in Prussian psychology. Perhaps one mgh better describe it as a psychopathic problem, since it has to do with the psychosis which has resulted in the Deutschland-Uber-Alles mentality and the more recent belief in the super-human qualities of the German race.

Here it should be said in fairness that his mountain-climbing stunt isn't entirely due to the march hare fanatisicm which produced that horrid abnormality known as Nazism. It has no military importance, of course, because if it was carried out at all it was by a handful of mountaineers. Still, it isn't a bad bit of advertising.

The idea of such a feat is (1) to demonstrate that the Reich always is on top, (2) to give a display of Nazi prowess and fearlessness, and (3) to create in the other fellow an inferiority complex which has him forever looking up at the Prussian. In some quarters that type of propaganda works.

Still, the propaganda angle is only an incidental part of the story, and in order to develop our thesis we should take a further look at the Nazi mountain-climbing penchant. Elbrus isn't the first height they have scaled in his war, or before it. They're always climbing—and they are good at it.

Third Wedge However Menaces Line

Hun Force More Tanks Aerial Troops In Break Before City

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Soviet troops have hurled back German attacks both north and south of Stalingrad by vigorous counter attacks, but enemy tanks and infantry are wedged deeply into the city's defences in another sector and the Nazi command has moved two fresh divisions into action, the Russians said today.

Dead men clad in the greyish green of Hitler's legions were reported piled high on the sandy steppes before Soviet trenches and the Government newspaper Izvestia described prisoners as hungry and almost exhausted.

Nevertheless, a major defence crisis was apparent.

A Nazi tank division and one more infantry division manoeuvred into position after a forced march from the Don bend bridgeheads and aerial transports, plying the skies with fighters and Stukas, brought up hundreds of other Germans.

Some of these dropped as parachutists behind the Russian lines. Automatic gunners duelled in the areas between fortified positions. Smoke spiralled up from bombed areas of Stalingrad, sprawled on the west bank of the Volga.

The Government declared 2,800 Germans, Rumanians and Italians died in a vain attempt to hold one wedge under Russian counter attacks northwest of the city.

Reds Take Aerial Blows

Red Army men were declared bearing up under mass bombings and their sharp flanking blows southwest of Stalingrad were reported to have put the Germans on the defensive.

The sector of the deep German penetration was not identified, but the implication was it was west of the town. The mid-day communique said that "in this engagement also the Germans suffered heavy losses in men and equipment."

One incident was cited from the Southwestern theatre, in which a Soviet unit threw back an enemy attack, destroyed two German tanks and killed 150 Germans.

Russian forces were repored to have struck heavily at Axis columns driving into the Caucasus and re-

Third Year Of Conflict Sees Train Of Disasters Shadowing Dark Days Of 1941

By CARL C. CRAMMER

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP). — The 12 months ending September 1 seem likely to go down as the "black year" for the United Nations in the Second Great War

Like 1917—the third year of the First Great War—1942 saw the conflict rising fiercely to a climax which was likely to be reached in a few months.

This war year was only starting its second quarter when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor at Sunday dawn, December 7, and brought about the biggest event of the year —the entry of the United States into the conflict.

Disaster followed disaster in sickening train. Guam, Wake, Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Java, Rangoon, Bataan, Corregidor—some of them Gibraltars of the white man in the Far East—fell in quick succession and the Japanese had in their possession all of the Philippines, Malaya, Burma and the Netherlands East Indies.

Crippled by the attack on Pearl Harbor and unprepared for a seven-ocean war, the United States Navy fought a desperate battle in the western Atlantic waters with submarines which took a toll of at least 40 ships in a few months.

In North Africa, the British 8th Army, overwhelmed by demands for men, planes and supplies for the Malaya, Burma, Australian and Indian fronts, stopped Marshal Edwin Rommel only 80 miles short of Alexandria and all but lost the vital bases which hold the strategic land bridges of the Middle East.

The great Russian army, weakened by stupendous losses of planes, tanks and cannon, came with an ace of losing Moscow, and fell back 750 miles, from Kiev to the Caucasus.

But the war log is not entirely painful Winter campaign north and south of Moscow, and when Summer came it held intact while fighting a furious delaying battle against German blows which drove it slowly back in the Don Bend, through Rostov, down to the subsidiary oil centres of Maikop and Krasnodar to the Caucasian foothills.

In the Pacific, Japan had been stopped at least temporarily at the outer island ramparts of Australia. Attempts to resume the sea-air-land march met resounding defeats in the Coral Sea and Midway battles which sent United Nations spirits soaring.

Brazil May Doom U-Boats

Entry In War Provides Allies With Air Bases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (CP)—It was the German submarine that brought Brazil into the war on the side of the United Nations and it may be Brazil's declaration of war that eventually brings the submarine menace in the long reaches of the Atlantic Ocean under effective control.

Naval observers here believe that when President Getulio Vargas brought Brazil into the war he sealed the eventual doom of the U-boat in the Atlantic by providing the United Nations with bases for planes and naval craft in the comparatively narrow waters between South America and West Africa.

Submarine sinkings off the Canadian and American coasts have been dropping sharply for the past month or six weeks, largely because the naval and air forces of Canada, the United States and Britain have been able to organize effective patrol and convoy units in those waters.

To a lesser extent, sinkings in the Caribbean have been reduced in the same period but off South America they have increased sharply. That has been due largely to ineffective patrol in the South Atlantic and the absence of the convoy system, making those waters an ideal hunting ground for U-boats.

Meatless Days Loom For U.S. To Feed Army

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP).— Because it is closer to the European battleground than most other sources of supply, the United States may have to share a larger portion of its meat with American armed forces overseas and with Great Britain than previously expected.

This is the implication of a statement by President Roosevelt yesterday that Americans may be asked to observe a meatless day each week. Meatless days would be one way of reducing American consumption to make larger supplies available for movement across the Atlantic.

The United Nations have four major sources of meat supplies. Besides the United States, they are Argentina, Australia and New Zealand. The United States is much nearer to Great Britain than any of the others.

Consequently, if a part of the supplies now being obtained for Great Britain from Argentina, Australia and New Zealand can be supplied by the United States, a saving in oceanic shipping and possibly ship losses would result.

Mr. Roosevelt said that if the United States provided greater supplies by observing a meatless day each week, from 20 to 30 fewer ships would be needed to transport meat to overseas forces and to Great Britain. These ships, he said, could be used to transport planes, tanks, ammunition and other war materials to fighting fronts.

(Food administration officials said in Ottawa yesterday that meatless days for Canada, similar to those visualized for the United States by President Roosevelt appeared a distant prospect. Officials said that meat imports by Canada had never been large and had been reduced further since the war).

Newspapermen To Visit City For Convention

Close to one hundred circulation managers from Ontario and Quebec and the Maritimes are expected in Peterborough on October 4 and 5 when the Circulation Managers, Eastern Division, meet in convention here.

Marshall Field III, publisher of PM, New York City tabloid, and The Chicago Sun, has accepted an invitation to address the convention. Another well known personage in the realm of journalism who plans to attend the get-together is Matt Sullivan, director of circulation for Gannett chain of American newspapers. He is also president of the International Association of Circulation Managers.

The committee in charge of the convention here are making arrangements to treat the guests to a wild duck dinner out at Curve Lake, where Dan Whetung may induct Matt Sullivan as an honorary chief of the Mississauga tribe, in tribute to his outstanding work as a newspaperman.

No mention of this convention has been made to the City Council, and it is not known as yet whether they will take a hand in entertaining the guests.

Peterboro CWVS Unit Will Carry On

Dissolution of the Canadian Women's Voluntary Services as a provincial body will have no effect on the actual status or program of the local unit, Mrs. J. G. Wharry explained in a telephone conversation with The Examiner this morning.

The unit was disbanded on Friday at Toronto, when the executive held its final meeting. As individuals the C.W.V.S. members will continue to serve some in the W.V.S. Centres as set up by the Government, others as speakers' panel for the War Services Dept. and in other roles, in which their C.W.V.S. training and experience may be put to the best use.

The Peterborough unit, one of seven operating in Ontario, will continue to function under its existing setup except with a new name, that is the C.W.V.S. of Peterborough becomes the W.V.S. Centre under government direction. Early in September the local advisory council will hold a meeting and elect new officers, so that the new unit may dovetail with the provincial plan without any hitch or delay.

Under the new plan, uniforms will be abandoned as it is understood the Government is not in favor of a multiplicity of uniforms at present in use for women's auxiliary groups, as it is claimed they conflict with those of the military services and cause confusion. C.W.V.S. arm bands will be retained for identification purposes.

Hong Kong Prisoners Safe And Well

PTE. FRED McARTHUR

PTE. WILLIS GRIEVES

Parents of two Campbellford men interned as prisoners of war by the Japs after the fall of Hong Kong, received cards this morning from their sons, which stated they were alive and well. This is the first definite word reaching relatives in the district since last Christmas, when the hard-pressed British garrison capitulated before an overwhelmingly superior Jap force. Pte. Willis Grieves sent a card to his parents but did not mention his brother, Richard Grieves who is also a prisoner.

the top of the Eiffel Tower and fly the swastika. Not satisfied with that, they stuck their flag on Napoleon Bonaparte's grand Arc de-Triomphe.

When the Nazis stormed their way into Greece last year they hot-footed it to the home of the ancient Greek gods on Mount Olympus and there planted Hitler's emblem. The highest point in Athens is the Acropolis and naturaly the swastika was unfurled there.

And so it does. Herr Hitler's favorite retreat is his mansion high in the Bavarian Alps at Berchtesgaden.

Now the mere fact that a chap likes to climb mountains doesn't mean that he has brain-storms, but the idea of dominating the world as a superior being is a Prussian characteristic. It's the same thing which used to make the Prussian army officer knock ordinary civilians off the sidewalk as he swanked by, and which bred the insufferable arrogance for which the Prussian is notorious.

Now Nazism is the bedevilled spirit of Prussianism. Hitler — sometimes called Schickelgruber because that was the name of paternal ancestors—isn't a Prussian by birth. He is an Austrian, but from his boyhood the Prussians have been his idea, and it is recorded that as a youngster he used to dream of the time when all Europe would be ruled by such a race.

That dream has persisted until we have his distorted ambition to rule the world and make all other peoples literally the slaves of the Prussians. We see him carrying this out in Europe right now. He must be on top, looking down.

He has made this unholy doctrine an integral part of Nazisim, and to my mind this goes far toward explaining the unnatural features of the climbing complex. The scaling of the heights to attract attention help satisfy an ugly desire.

Christian Love Essential In New Order

Although it may be difficult to see the religious relevance of Christianity when faced with the hard-boiled facts of life and the hard problems that are facing the world today, Christianity is proving its worth as it has in the past, the Rev. C. C. Boyter told Kiwanis Friday. He said that in the complex world situation, the only creative force is intelligent good-will, and that after eliminating the leaders of our enemies, an entire nation should not be crushed and abolished from the human family.

"It is a temptation today to lose Christian morale and our confidence in Christian ethics and faith is strained. Others cannot tie in Christian teaching with problems of nations killing each other off. The idea of loving your enemies seems to be nothing more than a beautiful poetic idea and the lovely character of Christ with his dependence on God as father and his seemingly romantic trust in endless good-will strikes us as utterly impossible.

"How can we tie up with this spirit of love, the driving of children into the underground places to live, and submarines starving peoples into submission?" he asked. "Kiwanis is noted for being a building organization, and it is a question of what principles we are going to build on in the future. Only a world organized on Christian principles can survive and undefeated Christian morale can bring this about."

The speaker said that in the days of the early Christians there was the same problem of tyranny and force and the teachings of Jesus seemed ethereal. There were deserters, but when He asked his disciples about leaving, they said, "To whom can we go for eternal life?" Christ and his teachings are not so irrelevant, soft and pious as they seem.

"There are two great affirmations of the Christian faith, the moral order and the reality of human sin and its power to twist all good things into evil. The conditions of the world today prove the fatherhood of God and the nations are reaping the harvest they have sown, and therefore there is no doubt about a moral order being in existence. God is in charge of things, and it is a matter of choice whether he be father or policeman."

Mr. Boyter said that superficial modern thought is Utopian. He said that the nations had thought that with more science to master the powers of the earth, by increasing secular education, and economic prosperity, that the world could live on contentedly with no more trouble. But the nations today as a whole have more power and secular education and a higher standard of living than any other generation. Every tank and bomb proves the truth of Christiaity, that though everything is gained, the moral order of the world is such that the results depend upon the quality of the souls utilizing these gains. Every new discovery of science and economics supports the Christian theory of having the peoples of every nation living in closer harmony.

In closing Mr. Boyter pointed out that the nations should work on the principles of the sacredness of the human personality. That is Christ's teaching, but the Axis insists that every individual exists solely for the benefit of the state.

Only Ottawa Act Likely To Nip Steel Walkout

By FRASER MacDOUGALL

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP).—Only the possibility of Dominion Government intervention held hope today for averting walk-outs in Sprawling Steel works at Sault Ste. Marie and Sydney, N.S., following announcement last night the plants would cease operations at 11 o'clock Monday night unless demands of steel workers for wage increases were met by 11 p.m. Sunday.

The announcement came from C. H. Millard Canadian director of the United Steel Workers of America, to whom union locals here and at Sydney voted last week to strike if necessary to enforce their demands for a basic labor wage rate of 55 cents an hour.

Mr. Millard's statement said that unless he was able to give the two local unions assurance before Sunday night at 11 o'clock "that their case has been reconsidered by the authorities at Ottawa and the employers involved are agreed to the minimum rates required" they would cease operations 24 hours later.

Halt Monday Night

An accompanying statement, issued by William Mahoney, secretary of the Sault local, said the Algoma Steel Corporation here "has agreed to make the necessary arrangements for Monday night at 11 p.m. when a cessation of work will begin if it becomes necessary."

The statement said the company has provided a special union committee with a list of maintenance men essential for safeguarding the property. The committee also met the mayor and police commissioner to discuss maintenance of order and requested a curtailment of hours of sale of beer and liquor during a strike.

There was no comment on developments from officials of the company.

Earlier in the day Mr. Millard had received a second letter from Prime Minister Mackenzie King in connection with the dispute which said that "I am sure you will agree that no one could view with too great concern any action which would impair the strength of the forces that are fighting for the preservation of the world's freedom, and would risk defeat in the present conflict."

shell-punctured hull.

Garneau who said he understood he had been reported missing and believed killed, and had sent two cables to his wife to prove he is alive gave a cryptic account of the share he gave his regiment in the Canadians' first operation of the war.

This is his story:

"When we went into Dieppe, I was aboard a tank-landing craft. The craft carried A Group of Brigade Headquarters. Aboard were Brig. Lett several Canadian colonels, two British commando colonels, Maj. F. E. Bell of Regina, Sask. Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and Capt. Dave Warner, the signals officer.

"Our craft touched the beach at 6:05 a.m., an hour and a quarter after the initial touchdown. The landing was made on the central beach between the points where the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Essex Scottish landed.

"We were fired upon by artillery and anti-aircraft guns performing as ground defence from high ground on the left. From the ground facing us there was intense machine-gun fire.

Put One Tank In.

"Shells started bursting on the beach in front of the craft. One tank landed, but we had to pull away because it was unable to surmount the sea wall.

"We withdrew to get information about where tanks could be landed more easily. The anti-aircraft fire had ranged us perfectly and there were numerous hits on us. At that time the R.A.F. superiority was total and the Navy was giving us strong support with its guns. Despite Jerry's fire our casualties were not heavy.

"After that withdrawal we communicated with our battalions and tanks which had landed from other craft and now were in operation. The battalions reported heavy fire from the buildings dominating the beach and machine-gun fire from the jetty bearing upon the troops not yet over the sea wall.

"We were now about a mile and a quarter off the beach. Infantry on the beach asked over the wireless for support and Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal were sent in to assist the R. H.L.I. and the Essex Scottish.

Breach Is Cut.

"Fresh reports from the beach indicated one breach has been made through which at least one tank had gone and more might possibly push. Brig. Lett consulted a Canadian commander of a tank battalion who declared he would lead a squadron of tanks through the gap.

"The brigadier told the people on the beach he would attempt another landing. We asked for all possible support and informed the force commander (Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts of Kingston, Ont.) of the move.

"Our craft moved in again some distance to the right of the town. It turned sharply to port when 800 yards off shore and from then went right in.

"All the Jerry artillery seemed to range on us. The front of our craft was hit, smashing the chain supporting the ramp by which the tanks descend. The ramp splashed into the water to bring the boat to a stop.

"The Canadian tank commander went forward with his tank and plunged into 12 feet of water. I didn't see him after that but there were reports he climbed out, swam to the beach and boarded another tank there. He fought in it and later transferred to a third with ammunition.

"The fallen ramp blocked further progress forward and it was impossible to get ashore. Jerry's artillery was right on us and we were hit approximately every 30 seconds. Our casualties were heavy now.

"I was asked by the Brigadier to observe the situation ashore and report. As I mounted the deck a young naval gunner told em our engines were stopped and he was the only one of naval personnel left. He said our craft was beaching sideways.

A Commando Was There.

"I went down to the engine room and I'll never know how I got the engines going. I tried to navigate the craft off the shore, wondering that when I pushed the lever into one position it promptly moved back to its original place. I then discovered a Commando sergeant up on deck in the open was navigating and that's why my instruments seemed alive. The sergeant did a damn good job.

"It was 8:17 a.m. We pulled out but hardly anyone was left. In the engine room I found the Brigadier was wounded and was getting attention from a medical officer.

"The Brigadier kept on directing all operations from a stretcher and had perfect control of the situation. Later, he was moved to a ship which took us in tow.

"Col. King took over command of the craft as senior aboard and I reported to No. 2 pom-pom because there was only one man there. I stayed with him until another gunner who couldn't operate his gun took over.

northwest of Moscow and smashed German positions for a depth of 30 miles.

In addition to heavy casualties, the Germans have lost much equipment. Von Bock's all-out drive for Stalingrad has made progress, but at a price.

Considerable success seems to have been made by the Red army's counter-blow, which wasn't unexpected, although the moment for it again seems to have been shrewdly chosen.

The communications lines of Stalingrad and the Volga are still, however, in great danger. When the Germans, after several failures, succeeded in gaining a foothold over the Don, it still seemed possible that they would be unable to form a bridgehead large enough for the deployment of a force of dangerous strength. The Russians were counter-attacking vigorously and had powerful artillery support. That hope, though was a disappointment, principally because of the immense concentration of air power which the Nazis were able to produce, and also to their probable advantage in artillery positions.

Heavy Losses

Under this cover of armor, the Germans were able to make large-scale advances and though it does not seem that they made a deep penetration, yet by driving in short tank wedges the infantry was able to make progress.

The Moscow-Stalingrad railroad is reported to be within short artillery range now. The German losses must have been very heavy but it is instilled into every German officer that to shrink from losses is the worst military defect in a general and it is one from which Von Bock does not suffer.

The German drive in the north-east from Kotelniko also has made progress although it has suffered reverses and the extent of its advance is not yet known.

Black Sea Fleet

In the western Caucasus, too, the Germans have advanced but at a slower pace since the fighting has been approaching the hills. The Russians still speak of rear-guard action here and they may be fighting for time rather than attempting definitely to stop the German advance. The Black Sea fleet continues to operate successfully but what base it is using has not been revealed. It can hardly be Novorossisk, now under close air attack.

There can be no doubt but that the Germans are making their main effort at Stalingrad and the coming week may bring them success or something approaching definite failure.

Dr. Thomson Favored To Head CBC

University President; Murray To Be Broadcasting Chief

OTTAWA August 29 — (CP). — Dr. James Sutherland Thomson, 50, Scottish president of the University of Saskatchewan, has been recommended to the Federal Government by his fellow-members of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors as general manager of the national radio system for one year.

He would succeed Maj. Gladstone Murray present general manager, who has been appointed to a new position—director-general of broadcasting where, in the words of Rene Morin of Montreal, CBC Board chairman he will have scope for creative work and the development of CBC programs.

Mr. Augustin Frigon will continue as assistant general manager.

Action by the Board of Governors, announced last night after a lengthy meeting, followed the report of a House of Commons special committee on radio broadcasting presented in July and which recommended that the Governors consider whether Maj. Murray could be used in some capacity other than that of general manager.

The committee report said that Maj. Murray had given great service to Canadian broadcasting since his appointment as general manager in 1936 but in view of what it termed the board's loss of confidence in his ability in financial matters, his attitude on his own expenses, and in view of "other material placed before the committee," his employment in some other position should be considered.

Time for Reshuffle.

In the statement issued following its meeting the Board of Governors outlined the progress of the CBC since the appointment of Maj. Murray in 1936, including the development "of a news service unexcelled in radio."

"Arising out of this successful development in radio in Canada, the Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has decided that the time has come when the organization should be reshaped in such manner that both the executive and the creative sides shall be provided for.

"The Board has, therefore appointed Maj. Gladstone Murray to the position of director-general of broadcasting for Canada, at the same time recommending to the Government the appointment of Dr. James Thomson, president of the Univer-

ATTEND THE SERVICES IN YOUR CHURCH TO-MORROW

Centenary Reunion Planned At Perrytown on Sunday

PERRYTOWN, August 29 —(ENS) —The 100th Anniversay of St. Paul's Church will be celebrated on Sunday, August 30th, with special services both morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Lowe, former rector, will preach in the morning and Bishop Beverley will dedicate handsome new outer oak doors with bronze fittings, at the evening service. As a preliminary celebration, a community picnic will be held on Saturday afternoon in Edwin Wilson's Grove. This will be a reunion of present and former members and friends of St. Paul's Church.

A history of St. Paul's Church has been compiled and several interesting incumbents have been in charge of this parish. The first service was held November 13th, 1842 and for several years regular services were held. The Parish account book mentions Reverend Jonathan Shortt in 1853 who was followed by Rev. V. T. Mayerhoffer who left Whitby where he was living in retirement to take over the church at Perrytown.

Mr. Mayerhofferwas the first incumbent of Perrytown. Born in 1784 at Raab in Hungary, he was ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic Church at Elostzalas. In 1810 he became a military chaplain in the Austrian army. With the 60th Hungarian Regiment he accompanied Napoleon's army to Russia and experienced the disastrous retreat. "As the infantry froze whilst sitting on the ground, the snow fell on them, making the line of march present a similar appearance to the fields of Canadian winter with their snow covered stumps," he wrote in his autobiography.

When Austrian and French troops came into conflict after Jena, Father Mayerhoffer was taken prisoner and brought before Napoleon who ordered his release. After the battle of Dresden he travelled with his regiment in Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and France. In Paris he was received by the Duke of Wellington.

In 1819, Father Mayerhoffer emigrated from Amsterdam to the diocese of Philadelphia. He was a Franciscan and was unable to agree with the Jesuits who controlled this diocese, and ultimately left the church and opened a drug store at Little York, where he later got married.

In the year 1829, Mr. Mayerhoffer became acquainted with an Episcopalian clergyman in Buffalo and through his influence he passed an examination at Little York (Now Toronto) and was received into the Church of England in June 1829.

During the rebellion of 1837, Mr. Mayerhoffer opposed the rebels of North York. It is reported that at one time his entry into the church was barred by an armed sentry, but they were unable to subdue his fiery spirit. In 1850 he was superannuated but came from Toronto at the request of Rev. Jonathan Shortt of Port Hope to take the Perrytown parish. He preached on alternate Sundays at Perrytown and Elizabethville. Mr. Mayerhoffer was compelled to resign on account of ill health in 1854 and died at Whitby in January 1859.

Rev. Archibald Lampman, father of one of Canada's famous poets, was incumbent for one year in 1867-68. A full list of the various ministers who have been in charge of this church with the improvements made during their incumbency, shows a steady and progressive development during the century.

The new oak doors were given from the Mark Noble bequest, and will bear a plate that they commemorate the 100th anniversary of St. Paul's. A prayer book has also been presented by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gray for this occasion and silver alter vases from the Corbett family in memory of their father and mother all of which will be dedicated on Sunday.

Christ's Teaching on Earth An Ideal for True Preachers

By REV. E. R. JAMES

The Scribes and Pharisees watched Jesus whether He would heal on the Sabbath that they might find an accusation against Him.—St. Luke 6:7.

A great Teacher had arisen in Israel. He was not only a Teacher but also a healer. This healing was a help to His teaching, which was higher and greater work. He came to teach the people what they wanted to know about God. What is God like? It is the question of your child, your friend. You should be able to answer it. They came to be healed, they remained to listen.

Of course multitudes flocked to hear Him. "The common people heard Him gladly." What an ideal for the true preacher. His teaching was so simple, so direct and yet so deep that the greatest thinkers of the ages have been attracted to Him. "Never man spake as this Man."

It follows also that He did not appeal to all men. On the skirts of the crowd that stood around Him were the "Doctors of Divinity," the Scribes, the official teachers, listening intently. They, the intellectuals, soon recognized that His teaching absolutely contradicted theirs. Boldly He struck at the very root of their teaching—the observance of the Sabbath.

By this time the Jews had spread all over the Roman Empire. Their striking characteristic was that they rested rigorously from Friday evening to Saturday evening. It was their Sabbath, their rest day. Neither fear of death nor offer of financial reward could persuade the strict Jew to break the Sabbath.

The doctrine of the strict observance of the Sabbath had been over emphasized by the teaching of the Scribes who taught that Jehovah was more pleased with the ritual observance of the Sabbath than on the well being of the pepole. During the Maccabean revolt it was carried to its logical extreme. A large body of Jews was surrounded by Greek soldiers on the Sabbath. They slaughtered a thousand men, women and children, who offered no resistance whatsoever. This resulted in an edict being passed that if attacked on the Sabbath they would defend themselves. Otherwise the nation faced annihilation. 1 Maccabees 2:38. There were pacifists in those days.

In the day's of Our Lord's ministry the scribes taught that God care more for the careful ritualistic observance of the Sabbath than for the well being of His people.

The new Teacher, Jesus of Nazareth, taught that God loved His people as a Father loves His children and that His heart is full of compassion for the sick and suffering. To heal the sick and perform acts of mercy on the Sabbath is well pleasing to God. This was a new teaching. It was the conflict of ideas.

Are you astonished that "the Scribes watched Jesus whether He would heal on the Sabbbath that they might find an accusation against Him." The man who broke the Sabbath was mercilessly put to death. Be not astonished for that spirit is not yet dead. It has come to life in practically every generation. It is the spiritual pride on the part of religious people that their own rigorous Sabbath observance should be forced upon others. Such people have wrong ideas of what God is like.

Christians do not keep holy the Sabbath Day from Friday to Saturday evening. This is the Old Testament command and kept today only by Orthodox Jews. But the Christian Sabbath is the first day of the week called the Lord's Day in commemoration of His resurrection from the dead. It was kept primarily for the worship of God and His Christ through the Holy Spirit. It is to be a day of real joy and happiness; a day of re-creation for spirit, mind and body. If your heart and mind is set on worshipping God on the Lord's Day you will be guided by His Spirit what you should or should not do.

It all turns upon your idea of God. What is God like? What is your mental image of God? A man, who was an unbeliever, after hearing a sermon by a Christ-like speaker, exclaimed: "That is a God I never heard of before." It is your privilege to reveal such a God if the Spirit of the Lord Jesus abides in you.

JESUS SAID: HE THAT HATH SEEN ME HATH SEEN THE FATHER.

God's Help Is Sought By Jacob in Time of Trouble

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 30 is Genesis 31-33 the Golden Text being Psalm 46-1, "God is our refuge and strength. A very present help in trouble.")

JACOB LIVED with Laban, his mother's brother, for 20 years and prospered, although Laban had not always treated him well. He had married Leah, Laban's older daughter, and Rachel, the younger, for whom he had labored seven years. His marriage to Leah had been made by Laban through trickery. Leah had borne him several sons, however, and Rachel had one son, Joseph.

Now Jacob saw that Laban no longer looked upon him with friendship, and decided he had better leave. In a dream the Lord appeared to him and told him to go back to his old home, so he gathered his wives and children, servants and flocks and started. Unknown to him, however, Rachel stole the images or good luck charms from her father's house and took them with her.

Laban found out that his images had been stolen, and thinking Jacob had done it he started in pursuit. He overtook Jacob an the seventh day, in the mount of Gilead, but during the night Laban had a dread wherein the Lord appeared to him and told him to do no harm to Jacob. Laban accused Jacob of stealing the images and Jacob told him to search for them and to put to death whomsoever he found had them.

Everywhere Laban searched, but Rachel had them hidden in the furniture of the camel she rode, and when her father came to search she sat on them and told him she could not rise to salute him as she was not well.

Asks for Covenant

Laban then asked Jacob to make a covenant with him, and Jacob had his servants pile up stones and Laban said, "This heap is a witness between me and thee this day." They called the place Mizpah, meaning watchtower, for Laban said, "The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are absent from one another."

The two men still did not trust each other, you see, but early the next morning Laban kissed his daughters, and their children, blessed them and departed.

Jacob went on his way, then, but he had another to face, the man whom he had wronged 20 years before, his brother Esau. He was deathly afraid of Esau, and he sent messengers before him to tell Esau he was coming and had great riches, hoping to find favor in his brother's sight. The messengers brought word that Esau was coming to meet him, and with him were 400 armed. This terrified Jacob still more, and he divided his flocks so that if Esau seized one group the others might escape.

Jacob prayed to God to protect him, saying, "I am not worthy of the least of all the mercies, and of all the truth Thou has showed unto Thy servant; for with my staff I passed over this Jordan, and now I am become two bands. Deliver me, I pray Thee, from the hands of my brother, and from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother with the children."

Offers Princely Gift

He then prepared a princely gift for his brother of "goats, sheep, camels and horses, and told his servants to go ahead and present them to Esau. That night Jacob took his wives and children and passed over the ford Jabbok. That left him alone, and all that night he wrestled with a man and could not overthrow him, and the man touched Jacob's thigh with his hand and threw it out of joint, so that he was helpless. Nevetheless, as the day broke Jacob would not let the man go, and the man said, "Let me go, but Jacob answered, "I will not let thee go, except thou bless me."

"And he said unto him, What is thy name? And he said, Jacob. And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince has thou power with God, and with men, and hast prevailed." And he blessed Jacob, but would not tell his name. Jacob called this place Peniel, "for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved," he said.

When Jacob saw his brother coming next morning, he put his female servants and their children in front, and his wives and children last, last of all being Rachel and Joseph. Jacob passed them and bowed himself to the ground seven times before Esau, but Esau ran to meet him, embraced him, fell on his neck and kissed him and both wept. Jacob's family was then introduced and Esau asked Jacob and his family to his home, but Jacob went another way and set up a home for himself near the city of Shalem.

Esau at first refused the gift Jacob offered him, saying he was rich and didn't need it, but Jacob prevailed upon him to take it.

It is hard for us to accept Jacob as a good man. He was a trickster, a liar, and a coward, and Esau appears to us to be the better man. But Jacob had some courage and great determination.

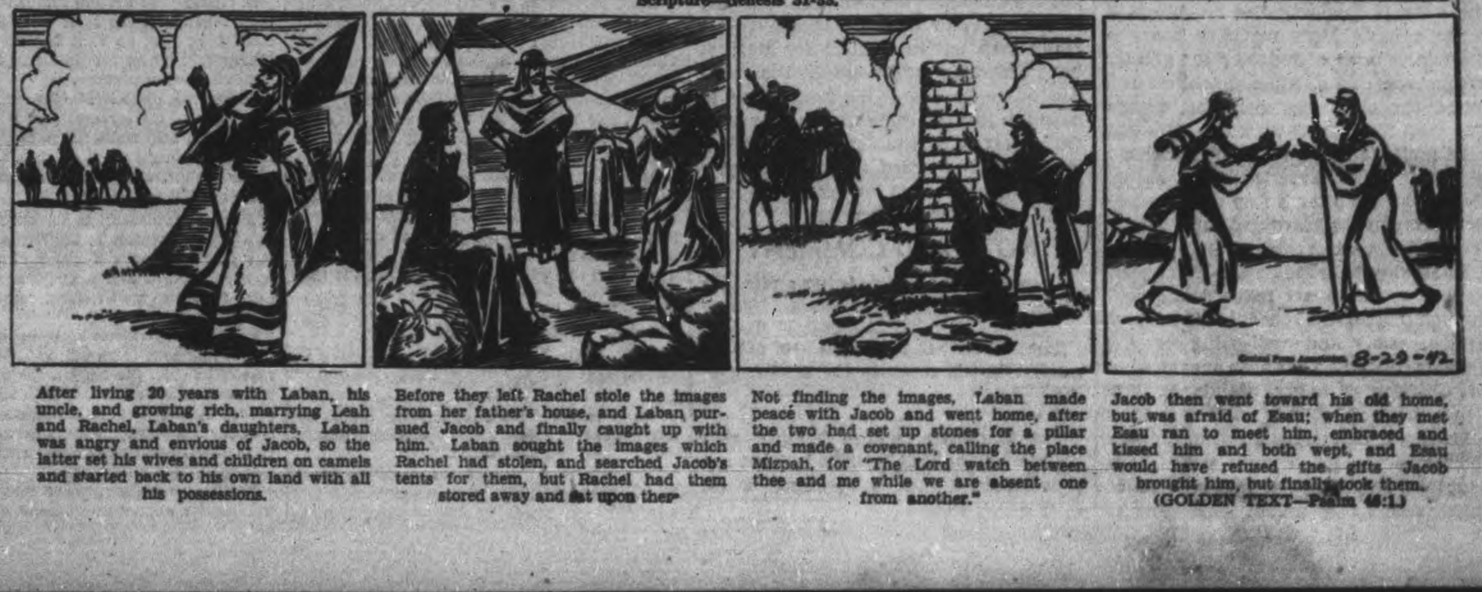
Jacob Seeks God's Help — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 31-33.



After living 20 years with Laban, his uncle, and growing rich, marrying Leah and Rachel, Laban's daughters, Laban was angry and envious of Jacob, so the latter set his wives and children on camels and started back to his own land with all his possessions.

Before they left Rachel stole the images from her father's house, and Laban pursued Jacob and finally caught up with him. Laban sought the images which Rachel had stolen, and searched Jacob's tents for them, but Rachel had them stored away and sat upon them.

Not finding the images, Laban made peace with Jacob and went home, after the two had set up stones for a pillar and made a covenant, calling the place Mizpah, for "The Lord watch between thee and me while we are absent one from another."

Jacob then went toward his old home, but was afraid of Esau; when they met Esau ran to meet him, embraced and kissed him and both wept, and Esau would have refused the gifts Jacob brought him, but finally took them.

The Missing At Dieppe

"In the best interests of the possible safety of your son, you are requested to withhold any information from the press or radio until his name appears in the official casualty list five weeks hence."

The above direction has been received by parents of several of the boys from this district who are missing at Dieppe. It usually follows the message advising them that their son is missing.

The Examiner is at a loss to find the answer as to why the Department of National Defence would issue such a warning, for newspapers also have their orders, and these say that the censorship authorities prohibit names of missing men, or of the number still not reported being published until they have appeared in an official casualty list. The handling of the lists of missing has been generally bungled, for the first few casualty lists recorded names of missing. These official lists were issued by the department, although it has been the practice of the Air Ministry and Royal Canadian Air Force for several weeks to not publish the names of the missing airmen for at least five weeks.

We have no quarrel with the department in asking that the names be not published, but it is in their inference that the newspapers would deliberately places the lives of Canadian boys in danger. The censors have said you shall not publish, so surely that is enough, for it places the onus right where it should be.

Many of those boys who took part in the raid are thought to be still safe in France, probably in hiding after failing to get back to their boats for the return trip to England. Enemy agents are known to be scanning lists of the missing and intensive searches have been made in France for airmen reported missing but who the Germans could not account for. By withholding the publication, the men are given the chance to remain out of the hands of the enemy and get back to Britain through the numerous "underground channels."

How has this order worked. Well, perhaps the parents have not told the Examiner, but Uncle Jack and Aunt Mary were told and they have told their friends and in this way the news has not been long in spreading. Just imagine a parent whose boy is missing not mentioning it to his closest of kin. At present the Examiner's news editor has the pictures of eight boys from this district who are missing and the stories already written to be released when the official lists come through. That is all the newspaper wants. We believe in being prepared and we can tell the mothers and fathers of missing soldiers that the information when given to us is guarded much more closely than if it were told to relatives for every day our reporters are getting stories which cannot be released until some future date.

The Canadian Army authorities sought co-operation of the newspapers to put over Army Week in Canada, and a good job was accomplished; however this is a poor way to pay the newspapers back for that co-operation.

Arranging Of Shifts

Industrial management and labor today are forced with an important problem that of arranging the hours of work in war industries for the efficiency of the workers manning the machines 24 hours a day. More machine hours is the crying need of industry for greater production. But while machines run round the clock the men and women who man them must work by shifts and with multiple shifts comes the problem of night work. Experience has shown that accidents often go up and production down on the graveyard shift, that is the shift when most people are sleeping.

In seeking to schedule the night shift so that accidents are reduced and production increased a schedule for the best health, safety and well-being of the workers concerned has been suggested to the Division of Labor Standards, U.S. Department of Labor.

Many war industry employers, running their machine 168 hours a week, have adopted a system of frequent rotation of shifts, with a view toward making night work easier for the employees. Actually, the Labor Standards Division is told that frequent rotation is hard on workers and retards their productiveness. The more frequent shifts are rotated, the more difficult it is for the worker to keep adapting himself to the new routine.

Working of the human machine must be understood. We are born in a world which is run on the routine of day-time work, evening leisure and night sleep and through this idea our bodies have developed a temperature range, with the greatest efficiency coming in the afternoon and the low level coming during the very early morning hours when there is low efficiency. When a person adjusts himself to a new routine with other than customary hours of work, meals, leisure and sleep he will gradually acquire that efficiency in other hours but it has been found to take several weeks for this new schedule to become properly established.

Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman of University of Chicago maintains that the only way to overcome this effect is to keep each worker on given shifts for extended periods of time. Since rotation of shifts is adopted as a measure of fairness to the workers the principle can be observed by having the worker change shifts once in several months.

The suggestion has also been made that in communities where there are steady or rotated shifts some effort should be made to modify community life, to the extent of making leisure at other than the customary hours. Broadcasting companies might be induced to make transcriptions of their popular evening hour programs for rebroadcast during the afternoon and late night hours. Moving picture shows could be extended either ways by a few hours.

Where the plant runs on three 8-hour shifts the following timing of shifts is suggested. Red (Sunset) shift working hours from noon to 8.00 p.m. evening and early night free for leisure activities and sleep from 1.00 or 2.00 to 9.00 or 10.00 a.m. White (Victory) shift working hours from 8.00 p.m. to 4.00 a.m. sleep from about 5.00 a.m. to 1.00 p.m. and afternoon and early evening free for leisure. Blue (Dawn) shift working hours from 4.00 a.m. to noon, leisure in the afternoon and sleep from about 7.00 p.m. to 3.00 a.m.

It is held that this shift timing has a number of advantages. One is that there is relatively small displacement of the regular sleeping hours and then they appeal to certain groups of workers according to age, family status and recreation habits. The Red shift would appeal to the young unmarried man and woman who like their recreation late in the evening. The White shift would appeal to the middle aged workers whose social life has altered and as their children have all grown up they would not be disturbed while sleeping during the afternoon and the Blue shifts fit in very well with the schedule of families of the intermediate age groups, where there are small children.

The Solomon Island Scrap

The American naval and air forces have apparently emerged victorious in the second round of the Solomon Islands conflict. Disappearance of the battered enemy fleet from the United States-controlled Tulagi area has narrowed the struggle in the southwest Pacific to the two Japanese footholds on New Guinea. The Japanese only withdrew as a last resort for withdrawal means loss of face and heavy blow to pride. So reading between the lines it can be taken for granted that the surface force of the enemy got a "sound drubbing" from the Allies' sea and air forces.

Plans that took two months to make were not meant to simply yield a few equatorial hot spots to the United Nations. There is something far bigger behind this scheme. Transfer of the islands from the hands of the enemy to the Allies is an immediate gain for it gives the Allies bases both for sea and air forces. The Japanese hold on these islands threatened Australia's mainland and the large islands contiguous to it.

It is the use to which the Allies can put the Solomons that will be the telling factor. Some of these uses have already been put into effect for Marines have already commenced the process of stepping or flying from island to island in just the same way as they were first overrun by the Japs. The United Nations have learned a lot about fighting wars in the past few months.

Years of War Face Nations

By LELAND STOWE

Leland Stowe, special writer for the New York Post and Chicago Daily News in a recently copyrighted article from Moscow says Allied nations must open a second front within 30 days or face years of war.

GERMANY and Japan are perilously close to gaining the long-term winning positions of this war. It is highly possible that they will have gained the most vital of these winning positions before Nov. 1—maybe before Oct. 1.

If anyone in North America is cocky today about our being sure to win the war, he is only an eyelash short of being a candidate for the insane asylum. For without a second front being opened up almost immediately Hirohito and Hitler will be over the hump with the odds all in their favor.

But it now looks as if there is scarcely a chance of a second front in time to rob the Nazi war machine of any of its deadliest 1942 objectives. Whether by choice or necessity the high command of the Anglo-American forces has elected to fight the war the longest and hardest way.

Britain has been fighting the war the long, slow way for nearly three years now and the result is strewn across the map from the Libyan desert to Singapore and Hong Kong.

Anyway, without a British-American invasion of western Europe within the next 30 days, most of the north Caucasus will be lost—and Iran, Iraq, India, Syria, Palestine and Egypt all will be most gravely jeopardized.

That means Hitler is on the verge of extending Germany's fighting power by from two to six years at a minimum. It means that the British and Americans must grid themselves to fight through 1944, probably through 1945 and possibly through 1946.

Failure to create a second front before this autumn inevitably means that the Anglo-American peoples will have to fight the bloodiest part of a prolonged war, with the Soviet Union, in all probability, being able to do little more than hold where her divisions stop—if that.

In all probability, we shall have to sacrifice several millions of American and British lives without receiving any more positive Russian assistance than Britain and the United States have been giving the Soviet Union for the last 4 months. That would even things up—but at what risk?

A fair question to ask is whether the British and American forces will be in a stronger position to invade western Europe next spring than during the next three weeks.

Obviously and inevitably, if there is no Allied invasion in Western Europe within a very few weeks, Hitler will seek to stabilize all his Russian fronts from October on. He will bend all his efforts toward holding the Soviet troops toward holding the Soviet troops pinned behind the Volga, toward exploiting the oil fields of Maikop and probably of Grozny—even should his divisions be unable to reach Baku.

And above all, Hitler's war industries will be concentrated on building up gigantic reserves to use against the British and Americans next spring.

If the United States, starting from almost zero 18 months ago, can produce about 60,000 tanks this year, it seems conservative to estimate that the combined industries of Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Rumania, France, Belgium and Italy can produce much more.

The Nazis, therefore, may be expected to turn out 30,000 to 40,000 tanks between October and mid-April. Hitler's general staff will not need half that number to fight on defensive lines against the Russians next summer—if the Nazis win the lower Volga and the Caucasus this autumn.

It is safe to estimate that at least 20,000 tanks can then be alloted for the defense of Europe's western coast. That would equip 30 new Nazi armored divisions with a full war strength of 500 tanks per division and leave 5,000 in reserve.

Can the Anglo-American armies count on being able to land 15 armored divisions in Europe next spring? We do not meet any British and American officers in this part of the world who make any such rash predictions. Yet the fact remains that the Nazis have one-twentieth, or perhaps one-fortieth, as much tank strength in Western Europe today as they are certain to have next April or May.

By that time half or two-thirds of the veteran armored divisions which are now fighting in southern Russia can be reformed, completely rested and waiting for the British-American invaders, from Norway to the Spanish border.

What is true of tanks is equally true of howitzers, field guns, mortars and airplanes.

No observer can doubt for a moment that the Germans' armored might will have been transferred in its preponderance to Western Europe long before it is tulip time once more in Holland.

If the British and Americans are short of ships today for landings in Europe will they not need 10 or 20 times as many ships when the Nazis have several scores of additional divisions re-entrenched in the west, including 15 or even 25 or more motorized divisions?

It should be as plain as the nose on Jimmy Durante's face that Soviet Russia is indispensable to the United States as an ally—if we hope to win the war, if we hope to create a durable pan-European structure in post-war Europe and if we, as Americans, hope to establish any solid alignment of powers in the Far East and the Pacific.

These paragraphs are written and these convictions deeply held by one who felt the Soviet Union was sadly mistaken in its war against Finland—and who still thinks so. They are written by one who does not think the Soviets have found all the answers in their system, who doesn't like some of the things about the system and who says so quite as freely and honestly in Moscow as in New York.

Perhaps this fact does not make these observations any less important. In any case it could not change in the slightest the stupendous importance to the American people of an entirely new American-Russian co-operation, now and throughout this war and the years after the war.

Four Nazi Fingers in Caucasus

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

THROWING almost the full strength of their southern army into the fight for Stalingrad, the Russians seem unable to spare adequate forces to cope with four Nazi steel fingers which daily tighten the invaders' grip on the North Caucasus.

Around Novorossisk on the Black Sea coast a new siege battle is beginning to shape up, but elsewhere the Axis columns are pushing on unchecked.

Their progress and direction deserve a share of the attention focussed on the titanic struggle before Stalingrad. With the enemy's advance elements already in the foothills of the great mountain barrier to the Baku oil reservoir, a new phase of the Caucasus campaign is nearing, as suggested by the Russian Army paper Red Star. Probably least noticed of the spearheads thrust out like spokes of a wheel is a detachment of undetermined strength which has been driving rapidly through the marshlands of the Volga delta region almost due eastward toward Astrakhan where the great river flows into the Caspian Sea.

SPECTACULAR PROGRESS

This force was last definitely reported at Elista, 200 miles from Astrakhan, but may now have halved the remaining distance to the Volga and Caspian below the Stalingrad battlefield.

Most spectacular progress has been made by a second column striking southeast down the main railway paralleling the Caucasus barrier range toward the Grozny oil field and the Caspian.

With the Maikop field already in its wake, this detachment has advanced 500 or more miles, covering possibly twice the distance of the main Nazi advance eastward toward Stalingrad. It is currently reported at the fringes of the Grozny oil area, moving forward against opposition from Russian tanks, armored trains and other defenses.

These two advance elements are in a race to the Caspian, with the odds seemingly favoring the smaller invading force aimed at Astrakhan.

Turning aside from the advance toward Grozny are Nazi forces seeking to win control of the high passes over the Caucasus before fall snows make their use difficult.

Berlin's report that Nazi Alpine troops had scaled 18,471-foot Mount Elboros put a momentary spotlight on the advance of a third column, obviously seeking to seize Klukhor Pass, westernmost of the three main routes over the mountains.

Military men suspect that the immediate objective of this third force is the Black Sea port of Sukhum as part of an attempt to encircle the Russian troops to the north. Control of the pass and the Ossetian military highway which traverses it would give the invaders a menacing foothold south of the mountains and heavy fighting can be expected before any such aim is realized.

The fourth advance, southward toward the last stretch of Black Sea coastline remaining in Russian hands, is the move which promises to develop the stiffest opposition at the moment.

The Nazis, it is believed, intend to establish a badly needed Black Sea shipping and railway supply line for von Bock's armies, and for the purpose must have the naval base port of Novorossisk. From Novorossisk a rail line extends northeastward to Stalingrad, and by this route all parts of the North Caucasus may be reached.

Realization of this plan appears within sight, and with it the dispersal of the Russians' Black Sea navy. Novorossisk, however, must yet be taken and large Russian forces are reported digging in for a back-to-the-sea defense like the siege of Sevastopol.

Capital Closeups

By PAT USSHER Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Charles Vining, 45-year-old czar of wartime information for Canada, has proved himself in a number of activities and this week he took on what may develop into his greatest task—that of obtaining and distributing information on Canada's war effort better than it has been done heretofore.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement Wednesday made clear that the wartime information board will work with the war committee of the cabinet and be responsible only to the prime minister himself.

This puts Mr. Vining much in the same position of Elmer Davis, recently appointed head of the office of war information in the United States, who deals directly with President Roosevelt and his cabinet.

Mr. Vining, an old newspaperman himself and a newsprint executive, went to the United States last spring and reported on the possibilities of better distribution of Canadian information in that country. His report covered the entire problem of wartime information.

In creating the wartime information board Mr. King followed to the letter Mr. Vining's recommendation. But he went farther and told Mr. Vining to take on the job and put his recommendations into practice.

So now it is up to Mr. Vining.

But one of his toughest jobs may be to convince those who make the news that time is of the essence in getting it out and into the hands of the publishers, and that the board must be the judge of what is news.

When Joe Thorson was plucked from his place as a private member of the House of Commons last year and make minister of national War services he took over a conglomerate group of war activities which would require a year to study and understand.

Now his department is being whittled down so fast that soon there will be little left but salvage operations. He has lost the bureau of public information and shortly is to lose the branch headed by Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, which calls men for compulsory military service. This will go to Elliott Little's selective service administration in the labor department.

But it is strongly rumored that Mr. Thorson will leave the department itself and go to the Exchequer Court bench, a job for which he is well equipped and probably one much to his liking.

Erratum:

The machinery of calling men for military service slips a cog sometimes. It slipped a couple in the case of Walter E. Browne, of the dairy products division of the agriculture department. Mr. Browne, who is 47, was called up the other day for the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps Reserve Force. They discovered he is a veteran of the First Great War who enlisted in 1915 when he was 20 and lost a leg at Vimy Ridge.

For months before this Mr. Brown had been trying to convince the authorities he could handle an administrative job in the armed forces. But, he adds, they wouldn't have him.

Incidentally he says there are about 30 amputation cases in the Canadian fighting services at the present time.

Health notes:

Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, after a recent operation spent his convalescence on an airplane trip to Aklavik, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories....H. F. (Temp) Feaver, second secretary at the Canadian legation in Tokyo, who has just returned to Canada, was on a Japanese ship off Pearl Harbor homeward bound to cure a slight nervous breakdown when the Japanese struck last December. The boat turned and raced back to Japan and when Mr. Feaver landed he had completely recovered.

Mecca:

They all come to Ottawa—kings, princes, hard-rock prospectors and evacuees. Within 12 months, Ottawa has welcomed King George of Greece; the late Duke of Kent, youngest brother of the King; Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands; Prince Bernhard, her son-in-law, visiting his wife, Princess Juliana, and their two daughters who live in Ottawa; Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, Polish Prime Minister and commander-in-chief, and, of course, Prime Minister Churchill.

The Dominion capital has welcomed, too, a delegation of the hundreds of Western wheat farmers, many groups of men and women representing labor organizations, and this week those rugged individualists, the prospectors.

Not Yet A Record

John Bracken, who has completed 20 continuous years premier of Manitoba, is still far from a Canadian record—as he himself pointed out when the Winnipeg Board of Trade gave him a luncheon.

Sir Oliver Mowat was premier of Ontario from 1872 until 1896, and Hon. George H. Murray held office in Nova Scotia from 1896 to 1923. But no other premier, and no prime minister of Canada, has had two decades of his high office.

And among living Canadian statesmen Mr. Bracken's record is unique. In the world field his only rival is Mussolini, dictator of Italy since the famous "March on Rome" of October 30 1922, and as the Winnipeg Free Press says "our money is on Mr. Bracken against the Italian black shirt."—Ottawa Journal

Labor Rally Asks U.S. Wagner Act Setup for Canada

By ERIC SANDERSON

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29—(CP).—The 58th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has authorized its executive to do all in its power to have introduced in Canada legislation similar to the Wagner Act in the United States.

Delegates approved a resolution yesterday which urged the Congress to press for legislation similar to the United States act that guarantees full collective bargaining rights to all workers.

Delegate R. C. McCutchan, of Winnipeg, said the Wagner Act gives full protection to wage earners in their right to join labor unions. "It was the most important legislation ever passed to aid workers," he said. "It is labor's bill of rights."

The resolution was submitted by the Railway Carmen's Union of London, Ont.

A national health insurance scheme also was urged.

The health insurance resolution, approved unanimously, asked the Dominion Government, with co-operation of provincial governments, organized medicine and other agencies interested in public health measures, to enact national health insurance on a contributory basis at the next session of Parliament.

A resolution from the Canadian Seaman's Union, endorsed after it had been spoken to by Pat Sullivan of Toronto, asked the Federal Government to expand the Canadian Merchant Marine and set up a Canadian maritime commission composed of an equal number of representatives of government, management and the unions of officers and crews.

It also asked the Government to summon a Great Lakes shipping conference that will set up a coordinating body of representatives of the Government, shipping interests, crews, terminal and canal employees to carry through an emergency program of wartime measures for inland shipping based on the union's proposals.

Want Collective Bargaining.

It further asked the Government to apply the principle of collective bargaining in all branches of Maritime shipping.

Sullivan said the union had submitted several proposals to the Government regarding shipping problems on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River and urged endorsation of the resolution.

He said the union suggested the Government should set up a training scheme to train seamen, but "no steps have been taken."

He told delegates more trained seamen were needed and that in the next six months it would not be a case of more boats, "it is going to be a case of men."

Another resolution from the Seamen's Union passed by the convention urged the Dominion Government to effect the necessary legislative changes so that all seamen on all vessels of Canadian registry "shall be covered by the sick mariners' fund, irrespective of the waters in which their vessels navigate."

A resolution from the London, Ont., Federal Union, asking the congress to sponsor an organizational drive among the unorganized workers, was voted down after Gus Francq, Montreal, secretary of the resolutions committee, said the congress "is strictly a legislative body and has not jurisdiction in organizational matters."

Nation Roused As Submarine Shells The B.C. Coast

By HERBERT JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVERS, Aug. 29—(CP).—"Vancouver Island shelled by submarine."

Those words, flashed across the nation on a drowsy Sunday afternoon in June, told Canada that at last the war had come to her shores, that gunfire had been directed at her soil for the first time since British frigates shelled shore positions during Indian warfare almost a century ago.

Gradually the news filtered out. Estevan Point, remote rock-bound peninsula jutting into the grey Pacific from Vancouver Island's west coast, had been shelled for more than half an hour by an enemy submarine. The attack occurred on Saturday night, June 20, but even Vancouver Islanders—except those in the immediate vicinity of Estevan—did not learn of it until the news came from Ottawa next day.

evening. Next day newspapers told the story in headlines, but the typical attitude of the man in the street was that such a Japanese "face-saving" or "nuisance" raid was to be expected. Main reaction was a stiffening of the "Let 'em come, we're ready" attitude adopted by most coastal residents since their first taste of war with three night of blackout following Pearl Harbor last December.

British Columbians in the coastal zone west of the Cascade Mountains have been living in a "dim out" for some time. Blazing outdoor advertising signs in cities are banned and no inside light may be left unattended. Remote rural areas without air raid warning systems and no around-the-clock communication must observe total blackouts nightly.

Indians Terrorized

When the details did come out—that more than forty shells had landed on the point, breaking a few windows in the radio station there and terrorizing Indians in the nearby Hesquiat reserve into fleeing in their boats—Canada and particularly British Columbia took the news calmly. Many persons were at beaches and parks and did not hear of the attack until Sunday

A.R.P. authorities have warned a complete blackout may be called suddenly at any time and government officials have said another Japanese hit-and-run raid may be expected too.

But despite these wartime restructions and warnings, life is pretty much the same along British Columbia's coast. The fishing fleet still puts to sea, reaping its vital harvest from fishing banks miles from shore.

Reports about suspected vessels are passed along to the navy and the air force wihch maintain around-the-clock watch for any enemy off B.C.'s 550 miles of rugged coastline. But the shelling of Estevan Point remains the only concrete evidence of the presence at any time of enemy craft off Canada's western shore.

Ordered To Move Scrap Machinery

OTTAWA, Aug. 29—(CP).—Munitions and Supply officials—practical men—today hoped that a government order would send the rusty ghosts of an era of agricultural prosperity clanking towards a useful grade.

Long-dead machinery was expected to move for the last time as a result of the order of Steel Controller F. B. Kilbourn which makes it illegal to hoard iron and steel whether in the form of farm machinery or scrap.

Officials said the order, announced August 17, was expected to bring to the scrap heaps bulky machinery which has not been moved in salvage drives so far.

Westerners recalled ponderous tractors bought in the wheat boom during the First Great War, which were later supplanted by smaller, more efficient types. The grumbling old giants were left in the corner of many a wheat field, sometimes sharing a plot with a steam engine which had also been shouldered off the summerfallow.

"If it is useless and if it is not being used, the farmer must turn it in for scrap," said a Supply official. "Without a permit, no person may retain in his possession after September 15 any scrap metal weighing 500 pounds or more, unless he is a scrap dealer or scrap consumer. If the owner believes he would be serving a useful purpose by retaining the scrap, he must send a report to the Used Goods Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Toronto, giving the description, quantity and location of the material."

Propose Melting Toronto Statues

TORONTO, Aug. 29—(CP).—Professor Eric R. Arthur of the Department of Architecture at the University of Toronto looks on Queen's Park, home of the Ontario Legislature here, as a source of much-needed metals for the war effort.

Writing in today's Globe and Mail, Prof. Arthur suggested that there are at least three sources of supply in the metals hitherto untouched: statuary and military relics; metal used decoratively in buildings and iron fences.

He said that though "obviously a nation's statuary is the last to go into the melting pot... there are several in Queen's Park weighing about 1,000 pounds apiece that never would be missed...

"It's likely that bronze statuary, good and bad, is concentrated in Toronto and Montreal. A few examples exist in the west and the total number in Canada might be over 100. If one takes as an average an Ontario Prime Minister at 1,000 pounds, we should be able to salvage 90,000 pounds of bronze (since some weight is lost in melting.)"

LONDON, August 29—(CP).—The Star reported today from Sydney that the Japanese fleet "after a shattering defeat at the hands of Allied sea and air forces in the Solomons" was withdrawing to the Japanese-mandated islands to the north.

5 Norse Doomed

BERNE, Switzerland, August 29—(AP) — Five Norwegians, all army officers were given death sentences yesterday by a German military court at Oslo on charges of terrorism, bombing, sabotage and activity aiding the enemy, the Nazis news agency reported today in a dispatch from Stockholm to Vichy.

THERE ARE ONLY A FEW PEOPLE WHO WILL BE INTERESTED IN THIS ADVERTISEMENT

DON'T BE A WELSHER

LET'S be brutally frank. The man or woman who buys a Victory Bond or Certificate to save face, then sells it—except in case of dire necessity—is a welsher.

True, there is no law which says you cannot sell your Victory Bonds or Certificates. It is not a legal obligation that you keep them for the duration. But there is a moral promise to make a loan to your Country for the War period. To evade that undertaking through sale, at this time of great need, is to welsh—it is the denial of an obligation which you admitted and accepted by your act of purchase.

Your Country does not ask you to deny yourself those necessary things which make for decent living, that you may buy Victory Bonds and Certificates. But the voice of Public Opinion does say that those persons who now insist on the unnecessary luxuries of life are not themselves decent.

Of course—you have no immediate cause for worry. No one will ask you to cross the beach and climb the cliffs of Dieppe. You are not in a slit trench with Stuka Dive-Bombers showering death about you. The blazing sun of Africa—the wind-driven sands—will never cut and blister your skin until every exposed part of your body becomes a festering sore. No—you will never feel the vibrant crash of a torpedo—the tilt of a ship's deck under your feet as it slides to Davey Jones. No one is asking you to leave your favorite chair tonight and fly over Germany. None of these things is asked of you.

All you are asked to do is to lend to your Country—Canada—lend at interest all the money you can possibly spare to provide the tools for those men who are fighting your fight. You are not expected to deprive yourself to the extent that you must live below the level of ordinary decency.

But if you think you are doing your part by buying Victory Bonds only to sell them—then, you had better take yourself into a dark room and ask yourself some soul-searching questions. Ask yourself what you are doing to protect your loved ones, your Country, and your way of life.

If you do this we know what the answer will be. We know because the men and women of Canada are inherently decent people. They value the good opinion and respect of friends and neighbors. But most important is the fact that we Canadians value our own self-respect. We ask charity from none—we assume our obligation to work and lend. So there can only be one answer—you will hold your Victory Bonds and Certificates for the duration except in cases of extreme necessity.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, August 29 — (CP).— The rumor is about that Eddie Shore is acting as agent for several junior hockey players with professional aspirations. If so, professional hockey bosses had better seek the good offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board because Mr. Shore is a sharp man in a deal. This would be right up his corridor.

In one way it would be a good thing. Too many junior hockey players in the past have signed professional contracts for less than their worth. I don't recall the exact figures, but Pete Langelle, for instance, signed with Toronto Maple Leafs for hundreds of dollars below the figure demanded—and received—by several less hockey players that same year, 1937.

We are not talking of salaries now but of the cash paid generally to a player when he sign sa contract. It's sort of a retainer. Some have gone as high as $800, to my knowledge, and others as low as $100. The difference generally was not as much in the quality of the hockey player as in his business acumen. Eddie Shore will fix all that. The age of inequalities in that particular department is at an end.

Pancho Segura Performs Today

NEW YORK, August 29. —(AP)— After two singularly dull days, during which even the old guard looked pained at times, the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills should ginger-up considerably today, if only because Pancho Segura, fabulous little Ecuardorean, might finally show up.

Since the start of the tournament officials have claimed there really was a Segura and that he would play in the championships, but the fans were beginning to become openly skeptical after he failed to appear again yesterday.

As a result, it was especially announced last night that Segura, complete with two-handed forehand, positively would show up today to play his first-round match again Ensign Ronald Edwards of Ithaca, N. Y.

Several other promising matches were on tap, too, in the second round of the men's event. Ted Shroeder, jr., seeded No. 1 faced a stubborn opponent in Cpl. Gilbert Hunt, jr., of Langley Field, Va., and William Talbert of Cincinnati, Met E. Victor Seixas, jr., of Philadelphia, perhaps the best of the East's young stars.

Additionally, the experts are looking forward to a meeting between Frankie Parker, now of Los Angeles, and Richard Hart of Miami—mainly to see if Parker possibly could have developed at the ripe old age of 27 in the great tennis player he looked yesterday in overwhelming Jack Geller of New York without loss of a game.

Early Lead Is Taken By Winning Team

The third game in the C. S. L. finals was won Friday night by the battling St. Peter's crew from the hard fighting Cubs at Riverside Park when they pulled up at the final line with the long end of an 11-3 count.

For seven innings the contest was close and it looked as if the Cubs might catch up, but after blowing in the eighth their chances were thrown to the wind. Every innings except the sixth and seventh saw the losers with men aboard the sacks, however, they didn't seem to hit in the clinches.

St. Peter's who have now two wins to Cubs one will be out for the third win next Monday night at Riverside Park. After taking the victors in the first fray of the series handily, last years winners have slipped a bit in the last two games but with elimination facing them they are going to make an all out effort in the forthcoming games and force the series to the fifth tussle.

In the opening fame, Cubs started off by snaring one run while St. Peter's retaliated hard with three in their half. This wasn't stopping the dangerous Cubs for they served things up in upper half of the second. Both teams fought tooth and nail for two innings with the vanquishers getting one run out of it in the bottom of the fourth, placing them ahead with that lead. When again in he sixth St. Peter's chalked up two more it made the score at 6-3. The vanquished squad were powerless to hit when needed and they blew up in the lower section of the eigthth with the winners marking down five to settle the count at 11-3. In the ninth the losers were unable to get a runner over the plate.

Study Shelving Double Feature

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—There is more talk about movies giving up double features for the duration. The Film Daily has surveyed critics and reviewers in many parts of the United States, and finds that 52 per cent. of them believe audiences would favor the step. No answers were received from 18 per cent.; 17 per cent. said audiences would not like the change, and 13 per cent. reported there were no double features presently in their cities.

Attendance has increased in 61 per cent. of the cities surveyed, declined in 17 per cent., remained little changed in 11 per cent., and 11 per cent. did not comment. Attendance has increased in 85 per cent. of the war-production centres. Film-going increased in 47 per cent. of the non-war-production towns.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Almost the forgotten teams of softball, Electrics and Brintons are billed to meet Monday night at the Ashburnham Bowl in the final series for the intermediate girls' title and the Knox Cup. The two teams started the series over two weeks ago and in the only contest in which they managed to get together played a tie game. Other fixtures were wiped out because Westclox and Generals were under pressure to declare a senior winner and then when the slate was at last cleared off and Brintons and Electrics ordered to meet they were rained out. They are making another effort Monday to get the series under way, with the game called at 6.30 o'clock. The two outfits should stage an interesting final. On the season's record there is not much between them and they should battle on even terms in this championship series. Mary Larmer is slated to do the tossing for Electrics while Leila Hughes is the Brinton choice. The two have pitched every game their respective clubs have played this season.

Plazas are playing the first game of their provincial playdown series with Oshawa Colts in Oshawa today and George (Soup) Campbell, Oshawa sports writer has this to say about the battle: "Colts will now meet the Peterborough Intermediate champs in the first round of the Ontario playdowns. "Plazas" will represent Peterborough this year in the O.A.S.A. playoffs and according to reports out of the Liftlock City, the Plazas are hot stuff. They marched through their playoffs to the Peterborough championship, without a defeat and were winning by such scores as 20 to 5, etc. They are formed mostly of former baseball and hockey players. Many of them played for the great Peterborough team which Varcoe's eliminated in a hectic 3-game series in 1938. Jim Ellis, heavy-hitting 1st baseman, Kingdon, a right-fielder, Eddie starr, catcher, Scriver, left-field, Don Crowe (lacrosse and rugby star) who plays 2nd base and a chap named Blewett, who patrols centre-field in sensational style and gets three or four hits every game, are some of the team's stars. Peterborough softball fans claim their hockey-minded softball team, the Plazas, are the heaviest-hitting team to ever represent Peterborough and in Parsons and Wilson, they have some reliable pitchers. However, the Oshawa Colts are rated by many local softball experts, as the best team to represent this city in many years and in Dean McLaughlin and "Preem" Whiteley, the Colts have too hurlers who will make it mighty tough for the heavy-hitting Plazas, while Colts also have a strong infield and can hit themselves."

* * * * * *

A little research into the batting averages of the Plazas during the playoff rounds with Soldiers and Royals show that Art Heal, leadoff man for the City League winners set the pace during the semi-final and final rounds by hitting the pill for a .542 clip. In five games the Plaza shortstop had 13 hits in 24 times at bat and scored eight runs. Next in line was First baseman Jim Ellis who got at least two hits in all five games he played and had a total of 11 blows in 22 times at bat for an average of .500. Joe Blewett, centre fielder, slammed out 12 hits in 28 times at bat in six games for an average of .445 and Don Crowe, second sacker was close behind with a .423 average for six games, made up of 11 hits in 26 trips to the plate. Other regulars were Eddie Starr with .250, W. Starr with .241 and Bun Kingdon with .222. Joe Boom Boom Blewett had a wide lead over his teammates in the runs-batted-in department for the figures show that he supplied transportation for no fewer than 16 runs. Jim Ellis and Web Starr were tied for second in that division, driving in seven runs each and Don Crowe chased six across. Crowe led in runs scored with 13 while Art Heal had the most hits—thirteen.

Saints In Front

St. Peter's moved out in front in the Catholic League final series last night when they defeated East City Cubs for the second time in succession and now lead the best three-of-five series two games to one. The final count was 11 to 3 and the Saints played good ball on the field and at the bat and got steady pitching from Gordon to earn the decision. St. Peter's now need only one more victory to grab off the championship and secure possession of the Sullivan Trophy. The fourth game will be played Monday night and the Saints are hopeful that they will wind up the argument then and take the series three to one. The Cubs, of course, have other ideas. They point out that they walloped the Saints 19 to 7 in the first game of the finals and they are confident that they can stage a comeback Monday night, sew up the round and force a fifth game. It will be a lively tussle for with the Cubs facing elimination and the Saints only a game away from the title the interest will be red-hot. Both clubs should have a strong rooting aggregation for the important clash.

Here is how Soup Campbell, Oshawa writer and coach saw the juvenile game here the other day: "Yesterday's game was the closest Juvenile softball game we have seen in more than ten years. The actual verdict hung on every play of the game for the last six innings. The teams were tied 5-5 at the end of the 3rd inning and after that both clubs played thrilling defensive ball. Carpenter in centre, robbed Oshawa batters of homers with his running catches while "Slats" Wercholaz took over the hurling duties and stopped the Juvenile Petes in their tracks. Smart cut-off plays at the plate, walking big batters deliberately, with two men already on bases, to get the next one, sacrifice bunts with one already out, these and many other tricky moves were crammed into the thrill-packed game. The Oshawa kids fought gamely, despite the jeers of a howling Peterborough crowd, and came up with the winning run in the 9th inning and then put the homesters out in 1, 2, 3, order to win the series."

Cards Gain Half A Game

St. Louis Cards, indicating that they are still in the race, cut half a game off the Brooklyn Dodgers' lead yesterday by taking a double-header from the Philadelphia Phils while the Bums were winning a single tilt from the Chicago Cubs. The Cards had little trouble subduing the Phils, although they were outhit in the first game and Gumbert had to lead a relief expedition out to the hill-top. Brooklyn had their batting togs on and collected 17 hits in their game with the Cubs to win 7 to 1, driving Clyde Passeau, Chicago ace to cover early. At that Kirby Higbe who got credit for the win had to have a little help from Hugh Casey. In the American League the leaders both won. Spud Chandler pitched a seven-hit shutout for the Yanks against the Cleveland Indians, the McCarthyites beating their old jinx, Chubby Dean, 3 to 0. Buddy Rosar had his second homer of the year to help things along. Boston Red Sox won their 16th victory in 18 starts by beating Chicago White Sox 4 to 0 with Joe Dobson pitching a four-hitter to splash whitewash over Jimmy Dyke's club.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Starting time of this afternoon's game between York Ladies of Toronto and Westclox has been switched to 3.30 o'clock....It was originally scheduled for 3 o'clock....Boston Red Sox are apparently trying to hog all the batting honors....Ted Williams heads the batting averages and leads in runs scored, runs batted in and home runs, Johny Pesky has made the most hits and Dom DiMaggio the most doubles....Only in the triples department are the Red Sox behind....Dick Fowler pitched only the last two innings of yesterday's St. Louis Browns-Philadelphia A's game but it was long enough to give him the loss when Walter Judnich homered in the tenth to win for the Brownies....Toronto won another close game from the Montreal Royals last night. Royals tied it up in the first of the ninth on Burge's homer but Al Rubeling doubled in the Toronto half to send in the winning run with two hands down. The final count was 4 to 3.

Quakers Drub Lindsay, Take 5 Matches

Under threatening skies the Quaker Tennis Club gained a decisive victory over St. Mary's Tennis Club of Lindsay last night by taking five out of six matches in a hotly contested tournament. Dame Fortune was amiable throughout most of the evening but frowned on the seventh and final match which was called because of rain. It was hoped in Quaker circles that the outcome of this match would have been favorable but Lindsay probably had other opinions that we hesitate to disclose. St. Mary's copped their sole win at the expense of the men's doubles team of Walker Jones and George Scott, who fought a stubborn battle before Bill Callaghan and Father Cox made a nice comeback and won out 3-6, 7-5 and 6-4.

Peggy Lawless and Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan took Tuss Blanchard and Kay Meehan in two straight sets, 6-4 6-1. The Quaker team had too much power and accuracy for the Lindsay girls.

The locals romped off with all three of the mixed doubles matches with Ula Porter and Gordon Duncan starting the ball rolling by taking their match with Catherine Williams and Guy Mills to the tune of 6-3, 8-6.

A similar score was tallied up when Eleanor Meehan and Father Cox gave way before Dorothy Weese and Howard Macdonald 8-6, 6-3.

Mrs. Kay McFadgen and Horace Fisher clinched this trio of matches by making a neat rally to defeat Lucy and Bill Callaghan 7-9, 6-3, 6-1. We deduce from the third set's score that the Quakers put on the pressure to dodge the everincreasinlg downpour of rain.

The Quakers took their usual single match in the men's doubles competition with the valuable help of Jack Miller and Ralph Charlton, who teamed up to upset Jim Doran and Joe Baker 7-5, 6-8 6-3. This was the most exciting match of the tournament with both teams displaying superb tennis as they seesawed back and forth for about an hour and a half.

Jack Callaghan and Rhys Williams held the third men's doubles team of Warren Trotter and Roger Barrie to five all in the first set before the courts became unplayable. This match will be subjected to a double-or-nothing decision in the near future.

This was the third tournament in three weeks for the Quakers and represented their second victory. It is interesting to note that not one of the above teams played in either of the preceding competitions and that the first definite margin over the visitors was gained with these fresh combinations.

Following refreshments and entertainment with George Nicholls at the piano and accordion, the Lindsayites expressed their appreciation for the lively evening of tennis, and issued an invitation for a return engagement in Lindsay in the very near future. The Quakers accepted with alacrity.

'Now Don't Get Excited'

When Dick Hallow was watching his Harvard footballers the other day a pleasant sight was a big, fast, rugged-looking freshman who appeared exceptionally good at pulling out of the line.... Turning to Line Coach Lyle Clark, Dick asked: "Who is he?"..."Don't get excited," came the reply. "His name is Hollingsworth; he comes from Groton, and he joins the Marines Sept. 10. He's just doing this to toughen himself up."

Brintons Beat Raybestos 7 to 5

In the last scheduled game in the Industrial League last night Brintons who had gone all season without a win sprang a surprise on the second-place Raybestos Club by defeating the Rays 7 to 5 for their first victory of the campaign. The Brinton outfit tossed a tackweight outfield into the game, using three kids, Goodwin, Killen and Nicholls in the gardens and the youngsters were the sensation of the game. They took care of eight putouts without the semblance of an error and at bat contributed a lot to their team's win, getting four hits, with Nicholls the heavy hitter for the night. Raybestos had their full line-up out. The batteries were C. Corbett and Kingdon for the Brintons and Routley and Miller for Raybestos.

The playoffs in the Industrial loop will get under way Wednesday night, it is expected. C.G.E. finished in first place, Raybestos second and all the rest of the loop, except Brintons in a heap for third slot.

Cups Presented In Town League

PORT HOPE Aug. 29.—(ENS)— A town league baseball exhibition game was played at King's Field on Friday night with the full proceeds of the collection going to the league's war relief fund.

The teams were picked from the Grill, champions and the Beavers.

At the end of the first inning, Ken Hodgert on behalf of President Thomas Dawley, addressed the fans and thanked them for their support for the season and stated this was the only baseball league between Toronto and Kingston. The officials and players of all clubs were also thanked for their part in keeping the league going. The presentations then took place.

Presents Shield

Mr. Charles Stephenson presented the shield which is emblematic of the championship and is donated by the Rotary Club each year. This was presented to William Brockenshire of the Grill team.

Mr. Jack Kelly, manager of the Queen's Hotel and donor of the Queen's Cup presented it to Bill Foote, the winning pitcher of the final game for the Grill. The cup was gaily decorated with ribbons which caught the eye of the fans and must be won three years in succession before it is kept.

Mr. R. C. Wilson presented the Guide cup to Manager Hutchinson of the Beavers which is a cup donated to the club finishing first in the regular standing. Each presentation was accompanied by a short address by the donor or the representative of the donor and the wish was expressed that the league endeavor to continue in 1943.

Mr. Kelly who donated the Queen's Cup also supplied the balls and bats for the team he was sponsoring and plans to give the team a banquet as the runner's up in the near future.

As in the case of all exhibition tilts, nobody appeared to be excited about the game and all good plays were applauded. Len Wakely pitched the full game for the champions while Woods and Potts divided the work for the All Stars.

Two former intermediate and town league stars played for the all stars in the persons of Max Potts and Clifford (Kip) Douglas. Both of these boys are in active service. Max got a triple and Kip a double. Ashby had two triples in three trips to the plate, while Rowden on his first time up tripled. Edwardson also had a three-bagger on his last time at bat.

It was announced that arrangements are being made for a ball game at King's Field on Wednesday evening, September 2, with the entire collection to be donated to the minesweeper fund.

Dreisewerd Wins First Game For Rochester

By The Associated Press

You won't find his name among the top hurlers of the International League. As a matter of fact you have to go to the bottom of the list before you come across the handle of Clem Dreisewerd.

Dreisewerd is with the last-place Rochester Red Wings and his inability to win is one of the chief reasons why the Wings are cellar occupants. Great things were expected of him after his excellent 1941 season in which he won 15 games while losing six.

The lanky, 190-pound left-hander suffered 14 straight set-backs before he registered his first 1942 victory at the expense of Buffalo Bisons last night in the first game of a double-header 2-1. He gave up six hits, the same number the Wings garnered off Bud Thomas, who went the distance for the Bisons.

Buffalo took the nightcap with a three-run eighth inning uprising which spilled Rochester, 5-4.

Although Jersey City Giants game with Syracuse Chiefs was postponed, the Giants went into a second place tie with Montreal Royals, who lost to Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-3.

Montreal jumped off to a two-run lead in the first inning, only to have Toronto score single tallies in the first, fifth and sixth frames and take a 3-2 lead. Les Burge tied the score with his 26th home run in the ninth, but the Leafs won out in the last half on a walk to Johnny Wyrostek and a double by Al Ruebling.

By splitting a twin-bill with Baltimore Orioles, the Newark Bears drew closer to annexing their seventh pennant in 11 years. Baltimore won the opener, 2-1, and the Bears the finale, 6-3.

Tommy Byrne gave up only four hits, but his wildness cost him the ball game as Joe Krakauskas limited the Bears to five in the lidlifter.

Hank Majeski led Newark's 11-hit attack in the second with a homer and triple. Aaron Robinson and Gene Corbett also contributed four-masters for Newark.

Horne Is Victor For Quebec Open Laurels

MONTREAL, August 29 (CP) — Stan Horne of Montreal Islemere clinched the Quebec open golf championship at the Royal Montreal course here yesterday with rounds of 68 and 73 for a total of 141.

Phil Farley of Toronto's Scarboro, who had a 72 in the morning, refused to participate to-day in a replay of the last nine holes of the afternoon after darkness had interrupted play.

The late start of the afternoon round resulted in ten players being unable to finish owing to darkness. Of these, Jack Archer of the Montreal municipal course, Jules Huot of Royal Quebec and Norman Harkness of Whitlock have a chance to better the 147 total which won Nelson Young of Senneville the temporary runner-up position when they replay today. Wakelin had 73-36, —109, Archer had 72-39—111; Huot, 73-36—112 and Harkness, 74-38—112 for the twenty-seven holes played.

Farley, who had a 38 for his outgoing afternoon round, said he did not consider "nine holes an adequate test." He said "you can't jam your best golf in nine holes, The replay should be 18 holes."

When the unusual situation developed, President W. S. McKlaier of the Province of Quebec Golf Association went into a huddle with tournament officials, and it was decided that those players who were unable to finish the incoming nine would play nine holes today.

Howard Murray of Summerlea and H. F. Malik, Indian Trade Commissioner to Canada and the United States, were tied for the leading amateur prize, Murray had 75-76—151, and Malik who wears a turban on the links, 74-77—151. Mike McShane of Rosemount had a 78 in the morning and was unable to finish.

Horne's morning cards was featured by a hole-in-one on the 170-yard twelfth. Clinton Splane of Ottawa's Glenlea, also scored an ace on that hole in his morning round.

ATHLETES AT WAR

By MIKE GREENSTEIN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

(News of Canadian athletes in the armed forces will be welcomed for inclusion in this weekly feature and should be sent to "Athletes at War," The Canadian Press 44 Victoria Street, Toronto.)

TORONTO, August 29 — (CP).— A well-known Maritimes athlete, Dallas Laskey of Fredericton is in the Royal Canadian Air Force now.

At the University of New Brunswick where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree, Laskey was recognized as a top swimmer, skier, and boxer. It was in the latter sport that he really shone. At various times in his youthful career he held the Maritime featherweight title, the New Brunswick lightweight crown, and the New Brunswick welterweight championship.

Two well-known golf-playing medicos from Vancouver are in the Army now. Dr. J. M. McDiarmid and Dr. W. R. Brewster were members of the Vancouver Golf Club before their enlistment.

The Devon, N.B., baseball team, runner-up to Liverpool Larrupers for the Maritime championship in 1941, has lost a valuable southpaw pitcher "Skinner" Banks. Its all in a good cause though, because Banks left the Devon nine only to join the R.C.A.F.

Haddo Mills, who coached Moose Jaw baseball teams for several years is a flight lieutenant in the R.C. A.F.

Doug Webb, goalkeeper for St. Boniface Seals in their Memorial Cup victory in 1938 is in the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve. Doug played for the Geraldton Gold Miners in the Thunder Bay Senior League in 1939 and 1940.

Lou Labovitch 25-year-old Winnipeg hockey product, quit professional ranks to enlist in the R.C. A.F. as a physical instructor.

The husky defenceman and right winger left the Manitoba capital after one season with the Winnipeg Juniors in 1937 and performed for Moose Jaw Millers until he entered pro ranks with Philadelphia Rockets in the American League in 1941.

New Yorkers Lace Tottering Indians 3-0

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Disheartening as it may be to Boston Red Sox, the citizens of Brooklyn and the manufacturers of medical supplies, it begins to look as if the New York Yankees will be able to finish the American League pennant race without the aid of an ambulance.

With their injury list crowded much of the time, the Yanks have done little better than break even since the start of the month, winning 15 games and losing 11 for an average of .577.

But the cripples have started shedding their bandages and turning up at their regular posts, a situation that spells trouble for other clubs in the league and particularly the Red Sox, who have won 16 of their last 18 games in a desperate drive to overhaul the Yanks.

Two fugitives from a hospital bed took their places in the lineup yesterday as the Yankees applied their 17th whitewash job of the year, 3-0 shutout over the crumbling Cleveland Indians.

Chandler Back Again.

Spud Chandler made his first start on the mound since August 19, when he wrenched his back at Boston, and demonstrated that he not only has recovered completely but intends to win a few more games before the season's end.

He spread seven hits over six innings registering his 14th triumph against four defeats and his third shutout of the ear. Buddy Hassett also returned to his first base post, enabling utility fielder Gerry Priddy to shift to the opposite corner and give Red Rolfe a much-needed rest.

Chubby Dean lefthander with two previous decisions over the Yanks, matched Chandler's seven-hit job, but two of the blows were doubles by Phil Rizzuto, who tallied after each one, and another was a homer by Buddy Rosar.

The victory kept the Yankees eight games in front of the Red Sox, who blanked Chicago White Sox 4-0 on the four-hit hurling of Joe Dobson.

Johnny Pesky Lou Finney, and Bill Conroy led the 10-hit attack on Buck Ross and helped Dobson to his third shutout.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Browns strengthened their hold on third place by nipping Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 in 10 innings, and Detroit Tigers moved to within a game and a half of fourth place Cleveland by whipping Washington Senators 10-7 in 14 innings.

Glenn McQuillen started the Browns on their way to victory by tying the score with a ninth inning home run and Walt Judnich settled the issue with a homer in the 10th.

Washington also needed a ninth inning run to tie the score after the Tigers had tallied twice in the top half of the same frame, but three unearned runs gave Detroit the decision in the 14th.

Dodgers Take Cubs 7-1.

In the National League Brooklyn Dodgers walloped Chicago Cubs 7-1, but watched their lead shrink to five games as the stubborn St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a double bill from Philadelphia Phils.

Claude Passeau went after his 16th pitching victory for the Cubs, but was hammered hard and wound up with his 10th defeat although three relievers also failed to check the Dodgers' 17-hit attack.

For seven innings, Kirby Higbe handcuffed the Bruins on four hits, but he lost control in the eighth and loaded the bases and had to have help from Hugh Casey, who pulled out with the loss of only one run.

The Cardinals inspired by the success they enjoyed in taking three out of four games from the Dodgers, dropped the Phils 7-4 and 7-5.

It took a three-run triple by George Kurowski to snap a tie and decide the opener, but the Cards put the nightcap away early, scoring all their runs in the first five frames.

The New York Giants were kept idle by weather at Pittsburg buta their hold on third place was strengthened when the Boston Braves knocked over Bucky Walters and the Cincinnati Reds 4-2 in a night game.

Walters held the Braves hitless for five innings, but they routed him in the sixth when they scored all their runs with the help of three straight walks.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Max Hill, former AP foreign correspondent who just got home from Tokyo, reports that one of his most exciting adventures in Japan came because he had a yen to bet on a horse race...It seems Japanese race fans are allowed to buy only one 10-yen ticket (worth about $5) on the horse they pick...When Max went back for another ticket he was apprehended and tossed into pokey, and since Hill couldn't talk Japanese and the cop couldn't understand English, Max had quite a time getting out...Just goes to show the difference. Here guys who bet $10 on a race usually want the jockey or the owner jugged...Old Honus Wagner is back in circulation after 11 weeks in the hospital because of an eye infection.

Double Steal

Hank Wolfe of the Richmond News Leader relays this incident from a sandlot game for the benefit of all guys who claim you can't steal first base...On a hit and run play, the batter failed to swing at the ball. The runner on first broke with the pitch and was almost down to second when he suddenly pulled up and sprinted madly back to first. ...He made it safely, but it wasn't until the inning ended that his teammates learned why he had reversed himself on an apparently successful steal...Seems the catcher made a looping toss down to the second baseman and the runner, catching a glimpse of the ball, figured it was a pop fly.

British Sub Bag Runs High In Musso's Sea

By LARRY ALLEN

AT HEADQUARTERS OF THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, August 29 — (AP). — Breaking his silence for the first time since assuming command of the Eastern Mediterranean Fleet, Admiral Sir Henry H. Harwood declared yesterday he has two enemies to whip in the Mediterranean—the Axis and geography. In one of the clearest explanations of the naval situation in this sea yet given to newsmen, the Admiral bluntly said the Navy has a big job to do and he would rather talk about it after it is done. Sir Henry was handed one of the toughest naval commands in this war as successor to Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham now on duty in Washington.

"Geography is the essence of the whole naval problem out here — geography and air power," he said.

He pointed out on big charts in his office the Axis air bases in Crete, Sicily, Greece Dodecanese Islands Pantelleria and Libya and the ease with which enemy bombers can swoop upon the Fleet within a few hours after it puts out to sea.

Air Protection.

He emphasized that adequate air protection was essential to any successful normal operation, although there may come times when the warships alone must risk all in an effort to carry out a vital task.

Too busy to see newsmen until now because of the press of work connected with assuming command the stockily-built, blue-eyed Admiral, 54 years old received correspondents for nearly an hour in the top storey of his office in an old chateau-like buildings amid pungent pines along the Mediterranean waterfront.

The Admiral declared "there is no way of knowing how much or what types" of reinforcements the Axis has been able to get across the Mediterranean from Italy and Sicily. But he said he believed the Nazis had used air transports extensively as well as ships to pour fresh manpower into the Axis fighting reservoir.

Subs Do Good Job.

The Admiral did say that British submarines were doing excellent work destroying Libya-bound convoys, while surface craft were not overlooking any chance to send an Italian warship or supply ship to the bottom.

He did not, however, supply any figures on the percentages of Axis ships lost in these operations.

Along with harrying the enemy's lines of communications, the Admiral disclosed, warships were kept busy bombarding Axis coastal positions and bases such as Matruh, Egypt with occasional excursions to the north to the Dodecanese Islands.

British destroyers shelled Axis bases along the Egyptian coast line again last night.

Admiral Harwood said that when the British Army succeeds in pushing the Nazis back to Bengazi, the British Command then would be in a position to afford adequate fighter protection for warships which automatically would permit bigger and more extended operations.

Pacific Situation.

He said he had no clear-cut information of the situation in the Pacific because of the difficulties of getting accurate information, but jokingly remarked that if the Japanese lost all cruisers which have been reported hit they would have run out of cruisers weeks ago.

The Admiral said that as far as he knew there were no American warships in the Mediterranean. Axis broadcasts frequently have referred to "strong formations" of American warships here.

Algoma Steel Crisis At Hand

By FRASER MACDOUGALL.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 29—(CP)—A crisis appeared imminent today in the wage dispute which holds the threat of work stoppages at the huge basic steel-producing plants of the Algoma Steel Corporation in Sault Ste. Marie and of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company at Sydney, N.S., after Prime Minister Mackenzie King had revealed that the Dominion Government would not intervene.

Decision of the Government was communicated by Mr. King yesterday in a letter to C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers of America, whose local unions are involved in the dispute.

Mr King's letter said the Cabinet "is decidedly of the opinion that no attempt should be made by the Government to influence the decisions" of the National and Regional War Labor Boards and suggested that the Algoma union follow a suggestion of the Ontario Labor Board, negotiate with the company, and submit a joint application for whatever increases were mutually agreeable.

Mr. Millard, in a reply which will reach Mr King today, expressed "dissatisfaction" with the "complete failure of the Prime Minister and Cabinet to find a satisfactory solution" and rejected the suggestion of separate negotiations in the Algoma dispute.

The disputes at both plants involve requests for a 55-cent an hour basic wage rate for labor, the present rates being 43½ cents at Sydney and 45½ cents here. Strike votes were held last week in both centres, the workers voting to strike if necessary to enforce their demands and placing the direction of the disputes in the hands of Mr. Millard.

"Why Are They Giving Me The D.F.C.?" Woodruff Asks ... He Finds Out

Commander of Canadian Fighter Squadron is Cited for Daring in Prinz Eugen Attack.

LONDON, August 29. — "Here's 'Woody', boys, let's go," shouted the squadron adjutant, as a Blenheim swept low over the mess building and swung into a circuit preparatory to a landing approach. Officers scrambled like schoolboys into a waiting transport and roared away to the perimeter track, heading for "Woody's" dispersal point.

"Woody" had just been away a matter of a few hours on routine flight, but this was a special occasion nevertheless, a joyful homecoming. The Blenheim had hardly rolled to a stop before a small crowd had eged up to it, with due regard to whirling props.

He gets the 'Gong.'

'Congratulations, sir," beamed Flight Lieut. Dave MacKenzie, of Sarnia, the squadron adjutant. He waved a piece of paper towards a grinning figure climbing out of the cockpit. "It's a gong,' sir!"

Wing Commander P. H. Woodruff, of Edmonton, scanned the message a second time, and reflected his astonishment. From H. Q. Coastal Command, it read:

"His Majesty The King, on recommendation of the Air Officer Commanding-in-Chief has graciously been pleased to make the following awards in recognition of the gallant services in the recent action against German cruiser. Distinguished Flying Cross to Wing Commander Patrick Henry Woodruff, 404 squadron ...."

"What are they giving me this for?" asked Woody. His squadron members had the answer. They demonstrated it in their reception to their commanding officer.

Wing Commander Woodruff passes lightly over his part as a commanding officer of the Canadian Coastal Command long-range fighter reconnaissance squadron. His aircrew are not so non-committal, particularly when it comes to pointing out the attributes of the commanding officer. He is "Woody" to the boys, but the affectionate nickname is never used in the Woodruff presence, nor does his squadron ever take advantage of the consideration he gives his men.

Cited For Eugen Job

Citation for the D. F. C. briefly touches the part he played in the attack on the German cruiser Prinz Eugen as it lay berthed in a Norwegian fjord near Tronheim, sheltered by mountains which dipped right down into the sea, and protected by anti-aircraft shore batteries perched on those heights.

The Edmonton pilot set out on the Prinz Eugen job with five other fighter squadron. Their mission was to act as a diversionary force, distracting attention of German fighters, and drawing German flak while torpedo bombers went into launch the main attack.

"Off Stavanger the c.o. took on three ME 109's, and successfully dealt with them," Flying Officer Eric W. Cameron, squadron intelligence officer from Toronto, revealed. "He made a head-on attack on one, and drove him off. His observer, Flight Lieut. Joe Fletcher of Toronto was wounded in the knee. With others in the squadron he made dummy torpedo attacks to divert the destroyers, opening the way for the main attack on the Eugen."

First Blood to C.O.

First blood in the Canadian squadron went to the commanding officer. It was a good bag too, a German JU88, which was apparently acting as "Weather Willie," probing the local conditions, off the Shetland Islands.

This man whose familiar hunting ground is the stormy sky over the North Sea and Norwegian coastal waters, was bitten by the flying bug as a schoolboy and in 1935 made his first bid for a flying career by applying for admission to the Royal Canadian Air Force. However, a degree in engineering was a requirement at that time. Woodruff was taking a course in pharmacy at the University of Alberta, and working in a drug store. At odd moments which time and finances permitted he took private flying lessons and in the spring of 1936 gained his private pilot's license at the Edmonton Aero Club.

Thus equipped, Woodruff crossed on a cattle-boat as a nursemaid to cows and gained a "short service commission" with the R.A.F. War has lengthened that term. His early service was as an instructor and at one stage in his pre-war career he was an instructor with the famed City of London squadron which made its name in the Battle of Britain.

He continued as an instructor during the early months of the war first with a Hurricane unit and then with the bombers.

Then in April, 1941, plans were laid for the first all-Canadian squadron of coastal fighters. Woodruff then a squadron leader, was given its first command. In September he was promoted to Wing commander.

It was a fortunate choice for the many young Canadians who were coming up through the training plan in Canada. Many of its present members skipped a stay at an operating training unit entirely. They stepped right into the squadron following overseas posting. Operational training for them was acquired within the squadron.

Their record is not spectacular in terms of Germans shot down, or German shipping shot up. That is not their calling. Theirs has been a defensive job. The North Sea has been their hunting ground, their battlefield on accasion. Long flights across water to the Norwegian coast, have been their frequent lot. There they met the threat of high-speed German fighters, ME 109's, and Fock-Wulfe 190's of shorter range, but stronger firing power.

They Know Dirty Weather.

Dirty weather, blowing in from the Shetlands and Orkneys, and North Sea fog banks, are well-known to them.

Woodruff has guided his boys through all that and a lot more too. They are like a big, happy family, intensely devoted to the head of the house. He has shown them that he is far more than an outstanding Blenheim pilot. He is a skilled leader, and carries the confidence of every aircrew member.

Small wonder that a "gong" for the "C.O." is like personal accomplishment for every member. The "all for one, and one for all" motto has become deeply rooted in the Blenheim boys.

Inflation Check Is Threatened By Inaction Of U.S.

WASHINGTON August 29—(AP)—The United States failure to control wages and farm prices threatens to have a "very serious effect" on Canada's inflation control program, Chairman Donald Gordon of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board said yesterday.

Questioned at a press conference held jointly with the American Price Administrator, Leon Henderson, Gordon said:

"In my judgment, a price ceiling can't be effective without a wage ceiling." Turning to Henderson, he asked: "Do you agree?"

Henderson replied: "I have come to that position."

Gordon said the high United States prices for beef and dairy products were a particularly pressing problem for the Dominion raising demands on the part of Canadian live stock men for the same returns.

"What the United States does has a definite effect on Canada," Gordon said. "We have a rigid price freeze in effect, which has had astonishing success so far. But I'm afraid we can't control the situation much longer unless the United States acts."

Gordon said he had been discussing wage control and farm price questions with Henderson. Henderson yesterday announced he was preparing a price ceiling—subject to Agriculture Department approval — on live hogs, to be followed in a short time by another on live cattle, which are now running $3.00 to $3.50 per 100 pounds above the Canadian price.

THIRD SON ENLISTS

Michael McMahon, 5 Maniece avenue, has joined the Royal Canadian Artillery at Kingston. He is the third son in the family of Mr. and Mrs. William McMahon to enlist. Hector is serving with the Ordnance and Joseph with the Artillery. Before joining up, Michael was employed by the Better Beverage Company.

CATCHES BIG MUSKIE

Mr. B. W. Burbank, a summer resident of Hiawatha, Rice Lake, caught a 16½-lb lunge Wednesday. Mr. Burbank is 71 years old and was fishing alone. The fish buried itself in the weed bed and due to the rough water was hard to get. Nevertheless he returned home with his prize. The Burbanks are from Warren, Ohio, and spend each summer at their cottage at Hiawatha.

A HUMBLE WHEELBARROW

A new sidewalk is being laid on McCannan Ave., and in order to do the job, it was necessary for a grader to excavate a long stripe. This operation left a large pile of good top soil on the road, and on Friday night, some of the residents there noticed the four wheelbarrows standing idle, and decided something should be done. In a few minutes all four wheelbarrows were in use as the new residents purloined the pile of topsoil to level up the ground outside their new homes.

BOOKS POPULAR

Bookstore managers report that the three small books written by the late Rev. William Allan, one time beloved pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church are much in demand. The first one written was "Crowded Ways" then came "Musings" and the last one "Memories of Blinkbonnie" was not completed when this man was drowned in the torpedoing of the Athenia. His son, Andrew Allan one time Examiner reporter, completed the book, and added an interesting biography of his father.

GET DEFERMENTS

Quite a number of men in this district who have been called for compulsory military training have been given deferments to Dec. 31 and Feb. 15. These men would be well advised to join a militia unit, at once and learn the fundamentals of army training, while they are in this deferment period. In so doing they would get valuable training which would help them later on and would make them valuable in whichever branch of the service they chose. The 4th Field Battery trains on Mondays and Wednesdays and all will be made welcome on Monday should they wish to enlist or seek information.

OUR FOOD SUPPLY.

Rotarians will hear a talk on a very timely subject at the regular luncheon on Monday when Rotarian Frank Paterson, Ontario agricultural representative will speak to the club on "Our Food Supply."

MEETS SEPTEMBER 8

The September meeting of the city council will be held on Tuesday the eighth, the last possible day within the usual range of the first Monday. The meeting has been postponed to Tuesday, avoiding Labor Day. The committee meetings will be held next week.

CITY CLERK HONORED

E. A. Outram, city clerk was elected as a member of the executive committee of the Ontario Municipal Association which met in session at Toronto on Friday. W. R. Allely, clerk and treasurer of Lindsay was unanimously chosen as president of the Association for this term.

SECOND OFFENDER FINED.

Pleading guilty before Magistrate E. A. Gee in Police Court this morning to a charge of drunkenness Fred Hamilton admitted a previous conviction for the same offence a short time ago and was fined $50, or a month in jail. Percy Little, also charged as a second offender, secured a week's adjournment on his plea that he wanted some time to obtain the money to pay his fine.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

A young married man who was found guilty some time ago of assaulting his wife was allowed to go on suspended sentence by Magistrate A. E. Gee in Police Court this morning. It was intimated that the couple are arranging a separation agreement, with W. B. Gordon acting for the husband.

A MINOR ACCIDENT.

As J. W. Wartman, R. R. 2, Warkworth was driving out of Allen's parking lot on to Water Street this morning, John Andrusko, 643 Charlotte Street, whose car had been parked on Water Street, pulled out from the east curb and the two vehicles came into conclusion. The grill of Wartman's machine was damaged by the impact.

BENCH WARRANT ISSUED.

A warrant was issued in Police Court to-day when Leonard Marsh failed to answer his name when called in connection with a charge of non-support. Marsh's case was tried some weeks ago and judgment was reserved on the understanding that the accused, now said to be in Port Hope, would make certain arrangements for taking care of his wife. When he failed to appear this morning an application was made for a bench warrant.

Civic Officials Are Back From Toronto

Returning last night from municipal conventions in Toronto this week several of the members of the city's executive household were back at their desks this morning primed with new ideas and inspiration.

Both the assessment and clerical offices were represented at the convention sessions, City Clerk Outram, and W. J. Henry and M. R. Sloan of the assessment office.

Mr. Outram said it was likely that Wartime Housing would probably be ready next week with the agreement which has been approaching the council by easy stages. Mayor Hamilton was present at several of the sessions and took time out for other calls in the city's behalf.

19th Donation With Sympathy Cabled Britain

The topic of prime importance in the news today concerning the activities of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, is the cabling of the 19th donation of £500 to the Lord Mayor of London, which brings the total now sent from the resident of this city and district up to the splendid amount of £10,100.

This morning the secretary of the fund cabled the following message to Sir J. Laird, Lord Mayor of London, under the name of His Worship, Mayor James Hamilton. "The citizens of Peterborough and District cable you another £500 for air raid victims, and with it, through you, extends profound sympathy to the Royal Family in the loss of H.R.H. the Duke of Kent."

The time and occasion of the sending of this particular donation to help the victims of air raids over Britain seemed most opportune to include this message of sympathy, for it speaks in practical terms of the sympathy that this community has shown in no small manner for the victims of air warfare, through which the Royal family has itself suffered long before now, and recently culminating in the tragic end of H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, while on active service with the R.A.F. on behalf of the Empire.

The donation which actually put the fund across the finishing line, and in a position to send this latest contribution, came in from the Peterborough Branch No. 52 of the Canadian Legion, per G. Gimblett, and G. G. Torrance.

This time the amount was $57.33, and makes a grand total of $937.59 that has come to the fun through the activities of the local veterans of the last Great War, and places them within fairly easy distance of crossing the $1,000 mark in their efforts to help the people of Britain, thus continuing a work they were engaged in, although in a different manner some twenty-five years ago.

One personal donation was received which also marks a repeat contribution, and while on this topic, it might be well to remind everyone that personal donations no matter how small are most welcome, with official receipts being issued for all of such, and in acknowledging these in this daily column for the fund, great care is taken to do so in the manner that any donor wishes.

Having forwarded this latest contribution, the fund management now starts the same job all over for the 20th time, and has a small balance to commence operations with, and with yours and your help will eventually also make this an actual fact to offset such events as happened in a prominent South Wales city when helpless women and children suffered through attacks from the air only a short few hours ago.

Not Winning Yet

WASHINGTON, August 29. — (CP) — The United States war Production Board has prohibited the manufacture of woollen lounging robes for men and boys. Manufacturers may use woollen fabrics in their possession for this purpose but may obtain no additional woollens for men's and boys' robes, bathrobes or beachcoats.

No Lounging Robes

GARWOOD, N. J., August 29. — (AP)— "Do not think we are winning this war," Admiral H. A. Wiley, United States navy, retired, told workers of the Aluminum Company of America's plant here as he presented the army-navy "E" award for excellence in war production. "We will win it when the tide turns, but we are not yet doing so," he said.

Transferred To Cornwall

Three Officers Transferred To Cornwall Centre

Announcement by Lt.-Col. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Military Training Centre here of the transfer of three of the senior officers to Cornwall was received with much regret by members of the Training Centre staff.

The three officers being transferred are Major C. L. Wallbridge, second-in-command of the Centre; Major L. I. Johnson, E.D., company commander of No. 1 company, and Major W. A. Mark, E.D., company commander of No. 2 company. Replacing these three officers will be three senior officers from the Cornwall Training Centre, namely Major W. Chambers, Major H. J. Crowe and Major W. A. Aubrey. The change is being made as a matter of policy announced some time ago by the Department of National Defense.

The three officers who are leaving the Peterborough Centre, have served under Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler since September 6, 1940, when the administrative and training staff for the Peterborough Centre was first formed. With the commanding officer and other members of the staff the three senior officers arrived in Peterborough early in October 1940 and have been stationed here since.

Major C. L. Wallbridge was formerly with the first battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and proceeded to England with the first Canadian Division as a member of that unit. Major L. I. Johnson was a former member of the Governor-General's Foot Guards Ottawa, while Major W. A. Mark served before the war with the former Victoria and Haliburton Regiment. Both Major Johnson and Major Mark are veterans of the First Great War.

Tribute to the work of the three senior officers was paid by Lt.-Col. Keeler at a dinner held in the officers' mess last evening. Col. Keeler spoke of the excellent reputation of the local Training Centre which is rated among the finest in the Dominion. The three officers who are leaving, the commanding officer stated, had had a share in building up that reputation. They had given him as commanding officer excellent cooperation, and the two years of close asosciation was something that he would remember long after the war is over. The commanding officer expressed the hope they would continue to carry out the work at their new centre in the same manner and extended them an invitation to return to the local Centre any time where they would be warmly welcomed.

In reply all three senior officers spoke off the close co-operation and friendly relations that had existed since the formation of the staff in September, 1940, until the present. All three expressed their regret at leaving the Centre and stated they would long remember the friendships which they had formed in Peterborough. Other officers who joined in paying tribute to the three departing officers were Major J. Keir, Capt. A. R. Herrington, Capt. A. A. Mutton and Capt. Rev. Father Grant, R.C. chaplain at the Centre here.

Forget The Cockroaches Mr. MacPherson It's The Music That's Bad For The Health

If Sanitary Inspector MacPherson in his rounds of the restaurants would give as much attention with his ears to the juke box as he directs with his nose to the ice box he could help a lot in keeping gloom and tears out of the day of those who have to submit to such torture. If any one is estimating the quality of this civilization he should not omit the music; and then listening to such an atrocity as "Since You Went Away I Hung My Head and Cried" or some such absurdity, and at meal time, you get an idea of public taste or endurance, possibly both.

Why shouldn't the Sanitary Inspector scan the list of phonograph records that mix so much misery with your meals?

Why snoop around for signs of cockroaches and test the dish water to find out whether the kitchen staff tossed in enough chlorine, as required? Why all that solicitude without ever a glance at the big music box and the mealy mouthed fellow that's dying to hillbilly music everytime somebody drops in a nickel for that melodious misery.

Maybe the Board of Health might see the merit of such an appeal, and intervene for the sake of those remaining down town at noontime and who should not be further penalized with the phoney woe of the juke especially when the world is burdened with the real sentiment.

It may be that the girls like that sort of music with their meals, music with tearful tribute to the whole sex; and girls are the majority in the cafes these days, and especially nights. If that be so, and they can stand for that "hung my head and cried" stuff, "when you went away," that's something else to be chalked up against them.

Herman McGregor Writes Wife He Is Prisoner Of The Japanese

Nearly nine months of hoping and waiting for definite and reassuring news from her husband, prisoner of the Japs at Hong Kong, ended with the letter Mrs. Herman (Mac) McGregor received yesterday in the first mail the yellow enemy permitted to be deliverd.

Mrs. McGregor lives in Lindsay where her husband enlisted on August 7, 1940, with the Midland Regiment and was later transferred to the Royal Rifles of Canada.

The letter mentions only essentials such as—"feeling fine; please let mother know too. Was the baby a boy or a girl? Hope you had a good Christmas. My Christmas wasn't bad. Please give my best regards to all the family. This is my first opportunity to write since I was taken prisoner. Have you been to see mother lately?...." And other little domestic enquiries a husband long separated from his family would naturally ask.

Mrs. McGregor did not know her husband had been sent across the Pacific until she read something about him in the fighting there last December.

Brutal Japanese silence closed about the Canadians and Mrs. McGregor did not know since Christmas how her husband had fared in the fighting until his letter came to her this week.

War 25 Years Ago

Two Farmerettes Unhurt In Car Crash

Farmerette Joan Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell, 194 Auburn street, who went to Winona Camp two weeks ago, has been having more excitement than she bargained for, when she and a friend from the camp were in a car accident in Hamilton Monday. The parents received a letter Saturday giving the details and according to Joan no one in their car was injured.

The girls were taken into Hamilton, by Mr. White, one of the farmers, to sell peaches. When they had sold the fruit they started for home and were driving along at a moderate rate when a car streaked across in front of them. Mr. White, trying to avoid a crash, swerved around and hit the car full force turning it over. Miss Bell said that the impact nearly knocked them out of the car, but all they got was a severe shaking up. Four people in the other car were injured.

"Crowds of people, ambulances and police cars dashed to the scene from all sides, and the door of the one car had to be pried off to permit the removal of the four injured. Mr. White's car was damaged a bit, but not seriously," she said.

Given Lunch

The two girls were left in charge of the car while Mr. White was taken to the police station and Joan recounts how kind the Hamilton people were. One woman brought them over a lunch and a hot drink to see them through while they waited. At 9 o'clock tow trucks hauled the girls to Winona, where they stopped first at the White farm and rested. They reached Winona Camp at 10:30 p.m. where the supervisor immediately put them to bed. The girls were told not to go to work Tuesday, but 17-year-old Joan said that they felt too good to remain in bed, so they trotted off to work along with the rest the next day.

The two girls have completely recovered from any shock they have received, and judging from the tone of the letter, they are rather looking forward to their first appearance in court. However it is all in the day's work as far as the Farmerettes are concerned.

On a Monkey Hunt

TORONTO, Ont., August 29. — (CP)—Unarmed hunters are searching the Erindale-Streesville area 15 miles northwest of here today for Moko, an African green monkey, who escaped at Easter from a private zoo. Moko steals money and tickets from milk bottles, delights children, torments dogs and is partial to red-haired women.

No Baby Buggies

KITCHENR, Ont., August 29. — (CP)—It looks as if some Kitchener mothers will have to start carrying children in their arms following a report by one woman that she was unable to purchase a baby buggy anywhere in the city.

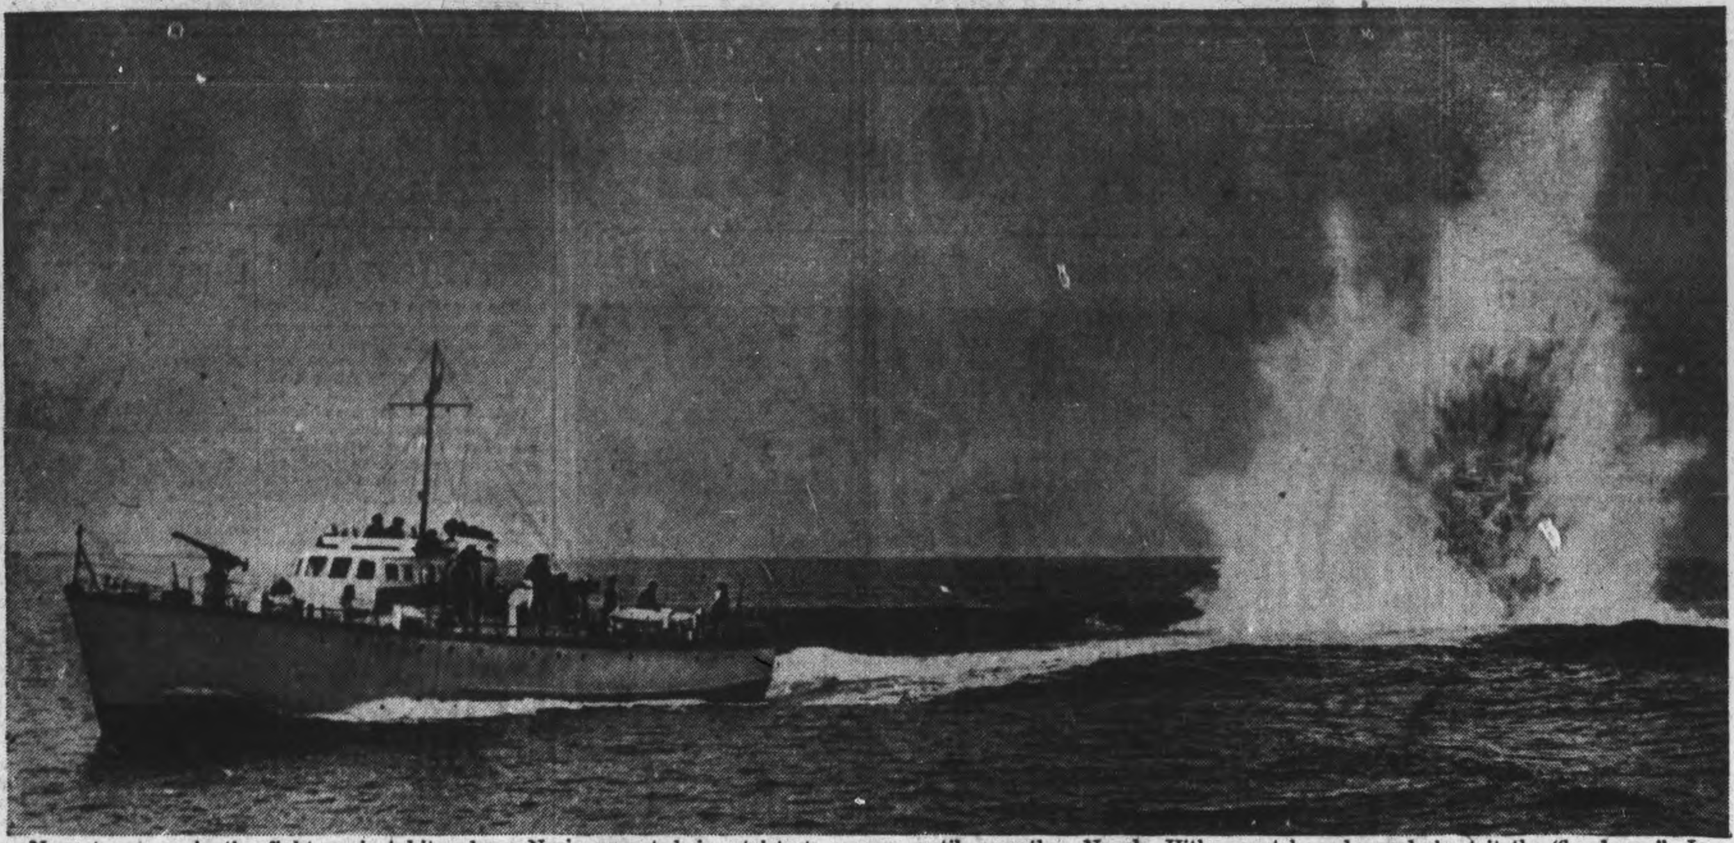
100-foot Fairmile Subchasers Revealed as Newest Weapon of Canadian Navy



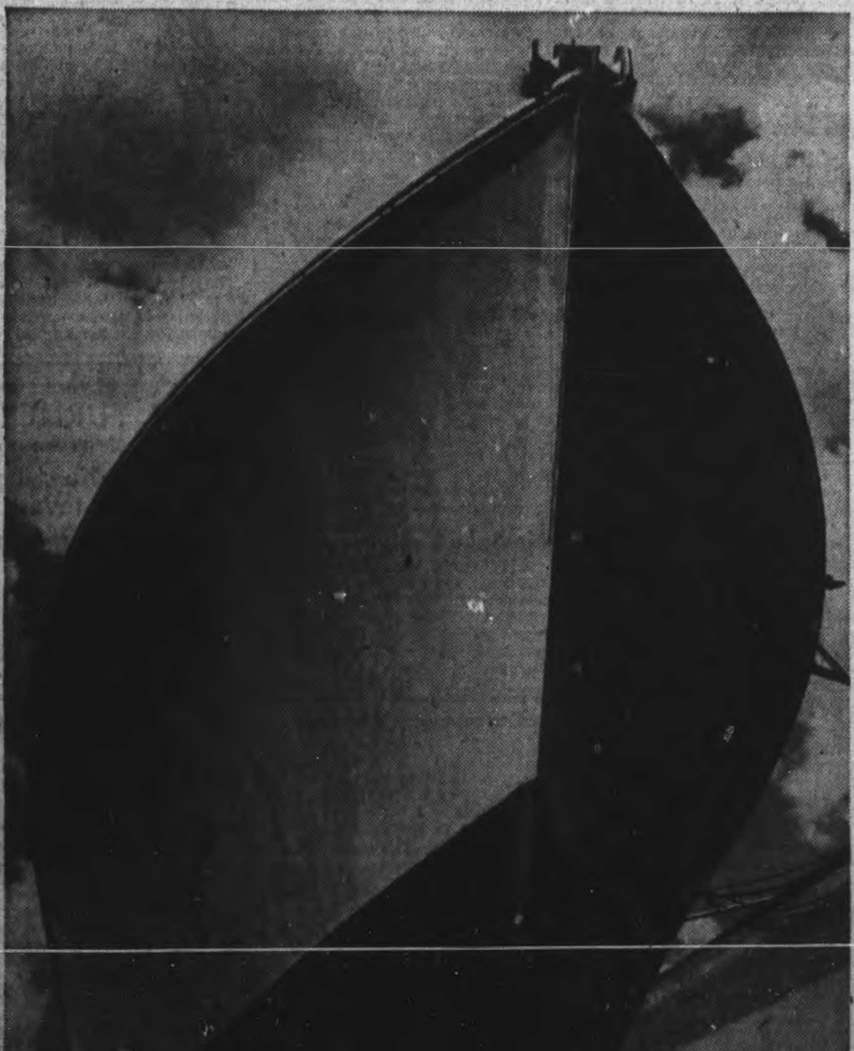
Newest weapon in the fight against hit-and-run Nazi U-boats in the St. Lawrence is the Fairmile subchaser. Designed in Great Britain, the Canadian-built vessel operated in strictest secrecy until recently. Naval authorities decided to announce the Fairmile record when it had done so much damage to enemy craft that Hitler must have learned about it the "hard way". In this photo a Fairmile is shown just after the depth charge has been dropped, carrying disaster to a sub.

Every man aboard a Fairmile must be a specialist, to handle engines, depth charges, navigation and secret war devices. Fairmiles are armed with cannon at bow.

This compact messdeck has no room for hammocks, making the Fairmile the only warship in the Canadian Navy to adopt pipe-berths throughout. Crews receive "hard-lying" extra pay. Fighting seamen are prepared for action day and night.

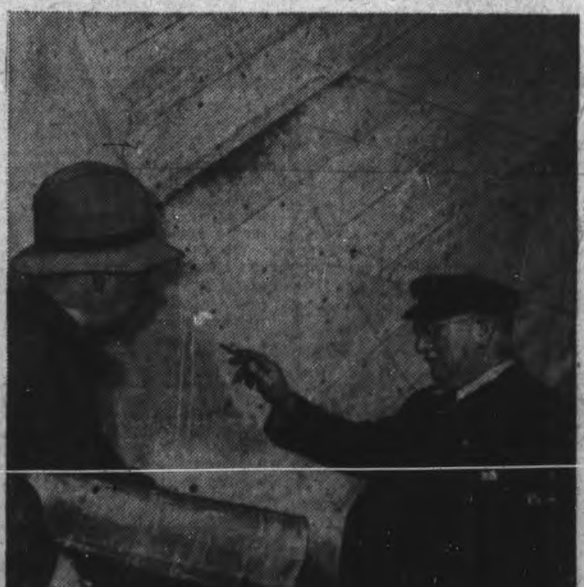
Long hours of heavy duty on war vessels of this size call for hot meals at all hours. Tests by Navy have proved value of special foods to aid vision at night.

The Navy relies upon Canadian shipyards to complete enough subchasers to make up flotilla numbers. Production of Fairmiles has been stepped up to the point that deliveries now keep pace with training of 12-man crews to operate them.



Almost ready to take to the water, this Fairmile makes a graceful photo with its long, racy lines against a background of clouds. "Give us more Fairmiles", says the Chief of Naval Staff. "I think the Nazis will learn to respect them."

These goggle-eyed codfish and haddock were swimming near a German U-boat when it was attacked recently in the St. Lawrence. The undersea explosions of depth charges took care of the submarine and also brought up a fine catch of fish.



The double-planked stem, soon to crash through ocean swells is checked by a shipyard foreman. Craftsmen like these are foundation of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Engagement Announced

Miss Margaret Reliena Gertley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gertley, 407 Wolfe Street, and Robert Adamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Adamson, 303 Mark Street, whose engagement has been announced. The wedding is to take place on September 19.

Naval Auxiliary Holds Successful Garden Party

Frowning skies and threats of rain forced the ladies of the Peterborough and District Auxiliary to the Navy to move their garden party from the shady velvet lawns of Mrs. F. D. Kerr's home on Rubidge Street, to the shelter of the beautiful house.

Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr., and Mrs. E. Wand, president and vice-president, received the guests, who were served tea in the dining-room, where a small open fire lent cheer to the dull day. Mrs. W. R. Parnell poured tea, and Mrs. Frank Lynch poured the punch which was offered as an alternative. Tea was served to the guests by Mrs. R. S. Goheen, Mrs. Gordon Moore and Mrs. Ritchie, King George Street.

A display of knitted articles for sailors was looked after by Mrs. A. Pilling, and the beautifully knitted articles aroused much interest among the guests. The garments included mitts, gloves, helmets, sweaters, socks, stockings and two-way mitts. Also on display was a ditty bag and its contents, sample of the 200 ditty bags which will be filled by members and their friends for Christmas gifts for sailors. The contents included candy, handkerchiefs, shaving cream, soap and many other things which sailors might find welcome and useful.

Fortune telling added to the entertainment of the guests and Mrs. Walter Farr was in charge of a home-cooking table.

Climax of the afternoon came when W. Jordan and Petty Officer Dexter Pilling, guests of honor at the tea, took turns making the draws for the coffee table and six beautiful cups and saucers on which tickets had been sold. The lucky winner of the coffee table was Miss M. Madeley of Toronto. Mrs. E. Ainslie, Mrs. H. E. Hilson, Mrs. Tom Record, Mrs. C. McDermond, Mrs. E. Martin, all of Peterborough, and Miss Edna Howson of Toronto won a cup and saucer each.

After the drawing had taken place Mr. F. D. Kerr pledged the gentlemen from the navy in a toast and the sailors replied. There was a good attendance in spite of the uncertain weather, and the sum of $80 was realized.

Cober-Wilford Vows Taken At Bride's Parents' Home

The wedding of Willow Fern Wilford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Wilford, 160 Morrow street, to Lloyd George Cober, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Cober of Kitchener took place Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Mr. H. J. Mahoney of Knox United Church performed the ceremony before the fireplace in the living room, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and baskets of pink and white gladioli. Mr. W. R. Potter, organist of Knox Church, played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a graceful floor-length gown of white silk jersey, styled with a shirred bodice with square neckline, a closely fitted waistline and an accordion pleated skirt. The short sleeves were criss-cross pleated and she wore white silk mittens. A hood of white silk jersey covering her head was caught with lily-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of Premier Supreme roses and bouvardia.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. P. Wills, who wore a floor-length gown of white corded taffeta with an all-over pattern of brocaded blue leaves. The full skirt fell from a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. She wore pale pink silk mittens and a cap of velvet ribbon and gardenias and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and cornflower.

Mr. Gordon Stauffer of Kitchener was best man and the ushers were Mr. K. P. Mills of Peterborough and Mr. M. O. Keffer of Kitchener.

At the reception which followed the ceremony the bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of turquoise blue daytime crepe and black accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a jacket frock of navy blue faconne with navy accessories. Both wore bouquets of Bettertime roses. The bride cut her three-tiered wedding cake at a table beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and covered with a lace cloth.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to the Muskoka Lakes, the bride travelling in a brown wool frock with brown and beige accessories. They will live at Kitchener.

Bride Entertained

Prior to her marriage which takes place today, Miss Willow Wilford was entertained by her friends and fellow workers. The girls of the traffic department of the Bell Telephone Co. made a presentation of a silver entree dish in the grapevine design. Mrs. Gordon Stauffer, Mrs. Milton Cober and Miss Irene Stauffer were hostesses at a kitchen shower held at the Forest Hill Gardens in Kitchener. Mrs. C. Bigford entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home here.

MINK AND SATIN

By ALICE ALDEN

THE FUR HAT, always a favorite with smart women, presents a challenge to the ingenuous designer who likes to give it a new twist each time it is tackled. Walter Florell, who delights in the picturesque, comes through with a beautiful and wearable creation of ice blue satin and mink. High crowned, as are so many of the newest hats, it has a satin bow and the mink brim curves sharply upward all the better to give a good view of the novel earrings. They are fur pompons with centres of little gold balls.

Sandercock - O'Connell Wedding Is First In Bethseda United Church

COBOURG, August 29.—(ENS)—A lovely late summer wedding was solemnized in Bethseda United Church, Harwood, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when Dora Eileen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O'Connell, became the bride of Albert Carruthers, youngest son of Mrs. John Sandercock and the late Mr. Sandercock of Comborne.

This was the first wedding to take place in Bethseda church since its erection some sixty years ago, and it was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, gladioli, dalhias and other autumn flowers and the guest pews were daintily marked with flowers tied with huge bows of white taffeta ribbon.

Rev. M. C. Fisher of Gore's Landing officiated at the ceremony, while Miss Helen Moyer of Omemee presided at the organ.

Miss Moyer rendered appropriate music prior to the ceremony and at 4 o'clock, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was charmingly gowned in white Alexandrine bridal satin, fashioned on long torso lines, shirred bodice and bouffant shirt falling in graceful bolds to the floor, long sleeves tight fitting with buttoned cuffs and self covered buttons extended from the back of the sweetheart neckline to the waist. Her shoulder-length veil of embroidered tulle illusion was caught to a scalloped coronet crown of tulle studded with seed pearls, pink roses entwined with white bouvardia tied with pink ribbon formed her bridal bouquet and her only ornaments were a diamond set wrist watch and a gold pendant worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The bride was attended by her foster sister, Miss Violet Patch, of Toronto, as maid of honor, her gown, an exact replica of the bride's dress with puffed sleeves was of water-lily-green tafetta, with it she wore silver sandals and a tiny hat of tulle and flowers with short veil. Miss Barbara Zufelt, of Harwood, was bridesmaid, gowned in Romance rose tafetta in the same style. She wore gold slippers and a tiny hat of tulle and flowers with short veil. Both attendants carried old fashioned nosegays of gladioli, bouvardia and fern tied with white ribbon. The groom was supported by Mr. Everett Harper of Camborne, and Mr. Glenn Hogg of Harwood was usher.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Garnet Isaac sang very beautifully "I Love You Truly." The groom's gift to the bride was a travelling bag, to the soloist and maid of honor, French cologne, to the organist and bridesmaid, compacts, and the usher and groomsman leather billfolds.

After the ceremony, the guests motored to Sunset Tourist Home on Rice Lake, where the reception was held Receiving with the bridal couple was the bride's mother in a British navy crepe ensemble trimmed with rouching braid, navy blue hat and corsage of pastel sweet peas. The groom's mother was becomingly frocked in a gown of Pursuit blue trimmed with black braid, black accessories and corsage of pastel sweet peas.

The tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of pink and white. The three tier wedding cake centred the bride's table with white candles in silver holders on either side of the cake, and pink roses in silver baskets.

Immediately after the reception, the happy couple left by motor for a two week's honeymoon to the Muskoka Lakes. The bride wore for travelling a Glamour rose wool sport suit, white sheer blouse and black accessories with a corsage of white roses.

SMARTLY PRACTICAL

By ALICE ALDEN

THESE DAYS, clothes that combine practicality and chic are the choice of American women. Mary Astor is wearing an excellent example of this type. It is an attractive full length sweater coat of bright red woollen. She wears it with a navy blue wool skirt and a white blouse with a matching red knit collar, all adding to a very patriotic color scheme.

DOROTHY DIX

TIME AND SEPARATION ARE BEST CURE FOR CALF LOVE.

Dear Miss Dix: Our son of 17 has become infatuated with a girl, 15, and insists upon marrying her at once. He was a very sensible, dutiful boy until he started going with her, but he has become so influencd by her that he will not listen when we try to reason with him and show him how disastrous such a youthful marriage is bound to be.

The girl is far below him socially and has little education. They would have nothing in common after a little flare of passion burnt out. In addition, the boy has no way of making a living, and I certainly do not want to take on the support of a nunwanted daughter-in-law. Can you suggest any way to break up the affair? My son says that the reason he is in such a hurry to marry the girl is because he is afraid something will happen that might make him lost her.

Answer: Time and absence are the most potent remedies for the cure of calf love. If you could send your son away to school for a year, or get him a job in a distant city, or even let him make a few months visit, he would come back cured.

He could see new faces prettier than the one he left behind. He'd meet girls peppier, more interesting, with a keener line than his crude uneducated little fiancee. There'd be new interests, new diversions, new amusements to turn his thoughts away from love to sports, to football and hockey, and his studies or business. The world is full of such a number of things besides love, especialy when we are 17.

I think, even if you have to make some sacrifice to raise the money to get your son away from home and away from the girl's urging a hasty wedding, that it will pay you to do it. It will be cheaper than having to support a daughter-in-law and her progeny.

Perhaps there is no other thing that causes more misery than the child marriages which are so common nowadays. A boy and girl meet, think they have fallen in love with each other, and marry, without giving one thought to the seriousness of what they are doing. They are mentally as immature as when they wore rompers. Their characters are unformed, their tastes as changeable as the wind. They haven't the slightest idea of what kind of people they are going to be when they grow up nor what they are going to need and demand in a mate.

Resent Being Tied Down.

But they marry, and before the ink is dry on their marriage license their childish crush on each other is over. And they've fallen in love with somebody else. They want to play around and have a good time; they resent being tied down by babies, and the whole sorry mess drags into the divorce court.

But not before they have brought sorrow and often ruin to their parents, who have to take on their support and spend on them the little savings they had put aside for their own old age.

The marriage of adolescence is nearly always a tragedy. It's a pity that every community does not have some nice padded cells in which they can lock up the temporarily demented youngsters, who are bent on marrying before they are ready for it, until they come to their senses.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 30.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries for an eventful and intriguing day in which there should be a wide diversity of interests and functions. There may be unforeseen change, travel or new experience or adventure, in which there may be pleasure, honors and personal gratification. Also there are strange and unorthodox or subtle lures calling for integrity, honesty, and good common sense, lest there be pitfalls, regrets and disappointments, Stay true to principle.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of diverse and strange adventures and romantic experiences, in which there may be subtle, intriguing, as well as worthy opportunities for progress and good fortune, albeit openings to test integrity, sound principles, and fidelity to duty, convention and reality.

A child born on this day should be ambitious, energetic original and versatile and eventually successful despite lures to the subtle intriguing and expedient, with ideals and emotional urges swerving from the accepted and practical tenets.

For Monday, August 31.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of vast, momentous and memorable scope and expansion, culminating in honors, achievements, enhanced prestige and popularity, with increased finances, credit and possessions, besides the fulfilments of cherished and desirable hopes and wishes.

Those whose birthday it is may have a splendid year in which their highest aims and aspirations, hopes and wishes, may be attained, with increased fortune, possessions and substance prestige, personal standing and honors. This to be attained through industry, enterprise, indomitable will and practical ways, means and tactics, with excellent mentality.

A child born on this day should have excellent endowments for attaining high place and power in life by its constructive mental and physical energy, firm will, determination and purpose.

Hong Kong Letters Starting To Arrive

No word has been received as yet by Al Spencely, concerning the safety of his son, Walter Spencely who was serving with the Royal Rifles when Hong Kong fell last Christmas Day. Other soldiers from this district sent the first mail and the letters and cards started to arrive on Thursday, at Lindsay, Port Hope and Campbellford, although there are still quite a number not heard from.

Down at Campbellford, Pte. Fred McArthur writing to his father, Jo McArthur wrote as follows: Dear Dad and family, "Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and in the best of health. I hope you are the same. Tell my little boy I will be home soon, and give my love to my wife. I play softball twice a week here. So long for now, write soon."

This man's little boy is about three years of age, and his wife who still lives in Campbellford was formerly Jean Taite.

There are two boys from one family in Campbellford missing at Hong Kong, Willis and Richard Grieves. Today Willis Grieves sent a card to his parents but there is no mention in the card of his brother, and the brother has not sent a card as yet.

Confined Not Dead

FITCHBUURG, Mass., August 29 —(AP)— The United States navy reported Joseph A. Bond, jr., "missing" and he was, at least technically. While on furlough, Bond was married here and got his dates mixed up, arriving to his post after his ship's departure. The ship was sunk in a collision and Bond's parents were notified he was missing. His bride received a letter from him yesterday—saying he was alive, but a bit confined for the present.

This Week In Radio

Radio listeners will be pleased to know that Edward MacHugh, Scotch baritone, who is known on the radio as the Gospel singer, and who has a program over WJZ every afternoon at 1.15, may now be heard on Sunday at 4.30 p.m. in a program called "Easy Listening," over WJZ.

Having taken the air for the first time last Monday, the new morning program, "Show Without a Name," is off to a flying and hilarious start. Heard each morning at 9.05, CBL, it becomes a full hour program Saturday mornings.

Parks Johnson returns to "Vox Pop" after a three-week vacation, and brings coast-to-coast audiences guests Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour, CFRB, Monday at 8 p.m.

Tuesday, September 1, the "Happy Gang" returns to CBL. The cast remains the same as last year—Bob Farnon, Blaine Mathe, Eddie Allan, Kathleen Stokes, Hugh Bartlett and Bert Pearl. The "Happy Gang" may be heard Mondays to Fridays, inclusive, at 1.15 p.m.

All over the country, model communities have been springing up, designed to provide the most modern conveniences for the workers who have left home to join the production army. In a new dramatic series called "Step It Up," to be broadcast over CHEX, the program will describe some of the personal problems which arise in war industries. "Step It Up" is heard Wednesdays at 8.30 p.m.

After appearing with summer symphony concerts in many parts of Canada, Sir Ernest MacMillan has returned home to Toronto and will appear as guest conductor of the Toronto Philharmonic Orchestra on Thursday, September 3. His assisting artist will be Lansing Hatfield, young American baritone. The concert will be broadcast over CBL at 10.15 p.m.

Reginald Stewart, the Scottish-Canadian conductor and pianist who will be heard in recital on Tuesday night at 10.16 p.m. over CBL. Mr. Stewart is particularly well known in Peterborough musical circles, having been heard in a program here with the Concert Association.

"Caravan" halts once more on Friday night at 10 a.m. over WABC to present an hour of North and South American music designed to delight the listening audience with Lanny Ross and Connie Boswell, the singing stars.

Guard Your Children's Eyes
Before school opening be sure to have your children's eyes examined. Prepair them for the long year of close study which is ahead.
If the examination shows that lenses are needed we can prescribe correctly—if it is just exercise treatment to strengthen the eyes, we have the proper equipment—and if your child does not need lenses we will tell you.
Proper lenses may mean the difference between high marks and just a pass—don't put it off—make an appointment today.

Letters May Be Written Quickly

Sample Letters Show You How

"How letters do pile up," worries Joyce, ready to put off writing again because she can't think how to begin, what to say.

A great pity to lose friends that way! Easy to write quickly, charmingly with hints from sample letters by good writers.

No hesitating, then, over that note of thanks to Margie for her gift. Trippingly you write, "Darling of you to send me that exquisite lamp—it's a bright spot in my room."

With correct forms before you, you quickly answer the tea invitation written on Mrs. Grey's visiting card. Using the third person, you begin, "Miss Joyce Jones accepts with pleasure . . ."

That letter of introduction is simple when you have a guide at hand. Tactfully you write: "An old friend, Alice Graham, is moving to Middleton. She's devoted to music—I'm sure you two will find much in common."

Where to get good sample letters? There are lots of them in our 32-page booklet! Has letters for business and social occasions, invitations, tips on bright, interesting phrases, colorful words. Right beginnings, closings, correct stationery.

For your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR THE DEFENSIVE

IF YOU ARE going to err in one direction or the other, it is well to remember that favoring the playing of a hand with your own side as declarer limits rather definitely the number of points possible, to the number potentially dealt into the cards. If you have more of a preference for doubling and beating the opponents' contracts, there is virtually no limit to the number theoretically possible if they have bid too high. One of the biggest differences between heavy winners at rubber bridge and those who are losers is in the great sums the former occasionally write down on the pad for whaling the daylights out of the opposition.

"Why didn't you bid 4-Spades on your last turn, rather than double?" asked a kibitzer who was watching South, one of the game's most noted "money players."

"Watch and see," answered the star. He did, and he saw.

The spade K was opened, the 7 sent to the Q, the diamond A scored, the heart 10 was led, East ducking because of the J in dummy, and the A won the trick. The diamond K was cashed for the fifth trick by South, who then gave declarer his first trick with the club 9 to the A. East collected his heart K and Q, then led the 5 to the 7. The 9 then took the seventh trick for the defenders.

That made the contract down four tricks, giving North and South a total of 700 points. Analysis of the hand showed that 4-Spades could have been made, with the loss of two tricks in clubs and one in diamonds, but that would not have been anything like as productive of points as the whaling given to East's heart contract.

Canucks On Hand Wherever There's Trouble

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, August 29. —(CP) — Canadians seem to make a habit of popping up wherever there's a chance of a scrap, and the messdeck of this Royal Navy corvette was no exception.

"Hello, Joe, how's tricks," greeted the leading stocker, and I knew here was a Canadian shipmate for the voyage back to Canada. After completing an Eastward Transatlantic crossing via Canadian corvette, I was returning to the Dominion with another convoy on a British sister craft. The leading stoker was from Albert, N. B.

He was a Royal Canadian navy sailor working in a British ship for his watch-keeper's certificate. But he said he would be "glad to get back on a Canadian ship."

With him was a stoker from Kentville, N. S., a short, stocky lad who enlived his stretch of duty in the greasy, humid glory hole by extolling the beauties of the Annapolis Valley.

But Louis LeBoeuf of St. Hyachinthe, Que., had shaken off his Canadian notalgia and was a real Royal navy man. He had joined the British navy eight years ago and "liked it fine."

Louis had moved to England from Canada with his mother 10 years ago and now dropped his aitches in the customary spots, giving an added fillip to his faint French-Canadian accent.

12 Years Service at 30.

Fellow passenger with me on the corvette was [illegible]other Canadian, Chief Petty [illegible] Pat Morrow of Preston, Ont., who has made his home in Halifax for the last six years.

Rturning from a course in England, he was headed for an instructor's post in the Royal Canadian navy and was looking forward to spending several more.

The ship just couldn't go fast enough for Pat. He had spent nine months in England, and was anxious to get back home to his wife and baby girl.

In fact, when the quiet trip finally came to an end and the corvette bumped gently against the jetty, he had had all his gear packed 24 hours, and for the last three had been sitting on the deck, waiting to jump ashore.

But one thing worried him. His family didn't know he was coming. "Wouldn't it be awful," he would ask gloomily, "if they were visiting my folks in Preston when I arrived?"

The Japanese Serves Canada

One of a large number of Japanese moved from the coastal areas of British Columbia to work on inland jobs, this lad is shown as he tops corn on a farm in Essex county. Although his parents were Japanese, he is actually a Canadian citizen and as such is at liberty to come and go at the camp where he and his companions are boarding.

captured 13 additional villages during increased assaults upon German fortifications in the Upper Volga bog lands near Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow.

Soviet companies still hold the nothern section of Rzhev, a Pravda dispatch said, and are striking at the Germans behind plane-laid smoke screens.

The Red Navy and supporting planes were credited with the destruction of four more Axis vessels, a submarine in the Black Sea, a transport in the Baltic and two transports totalling 12,000 tons in the Barents Sea.

Numerous prisoners were declared by the army newspaper, Red Star, to have been captured on the Central front, where Field Marshal Model was reported in charge of Nazi defences as Commander of the 9th Army.

Adolf Busy in South

Seized document of a subordinate said fresh troops must show reliance and stubbornness so that Hitler would not have to remove divisions from the Southern offensive, Red Star said. Model himself was quoted as advising his officers that Hitler was thinking about them, although he was busy in the south.

Among the prisoners was a group of Poles who had been forcibly inducted in the German army, the army paper said. They surrendered voluntarily, bringing a machine gun with them, it added.

Russia's central front offensive remained concentrated against Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, and several more points on the outskirts of that Nazi stronghold were reported neutralized.

Tanks Strike From Rear.

"In another sector our rifle units, supported by tanks, stormed an inhabited locality which the enemy had transformed into a strong pocket of resistance," the Soviet information bureau said. "A tank crew penetrated the enemy's rear wiping out about 90 Germans."

(German dispatches broadcast by the Berlin radio said strong Soviet tank forces were counter-attacking before Stalingrad and some Red armored vehicles had been buried as stationary firing points "further to strengthen their defence positions," but declared the Nazis had gained from the west).

The midnight communique announced that a Russian warship had sunk an Axis submarine in the Black Sea and that Russian airmen had disposed of a German transport in the Baltic.

Counter attacks were declared to be inflicting enormous losses on the troops making up the jaws of the pincers aimed at Stalingrad by Nazi Field Marshal Fedor von Bock.

One Soviet force, striking back after two days of defensive fighting northwest of the steel centre, annihilated about 2,500 of the enemy to regain control of an important locality, the communique said. Red army tanks—the 50-ton KV's and the medium T-34's—were reported to have surrounded a hollow where enemy forces were concentrated and annihilated 300 men and destroyed nine German tanks.

Southwestward, the Germans advanced in one phase of the Kotelnikovski-to-Stalingrad push, but they were then hurled back with a loss of two tanks and two infantry companies, it was announced.

More than 300 Germans were declared killed and 21 Nazi tanks wrecked in two other actions in that theatre.

Caucasus Push Slows

German attempts to cut deeper into Western Caucasian defences south of Krasnodar were declared frustrated.

A group of German parachutists and automatic rifle men seeking to expand Nazi holdings in a mountainous central Caucasian area southeast of Prokhladnenski was reported cut to pieces, its members slain or captured.

Gunners aboard a Russian armored train were credited with destruction of 15 tanks in this sector, and Red Star said the Germans had been driven from a village they captured two days ago. On the mountain passes, a German Alpine unit was reported besieged.

"South of Krasnodar, in fighting for a height," the mid-day communique said, "Our troops routed the 104th egiment of the 97th German Light Infantry Division, disabled six tanks and killed several hundred enemy officers and men."

Few Reports on Fight.

While there was no indication of how the land fighting was going, a recapitulation of Allied communiques issued during the last week showed the Japanese air force has taken a severe mauling in the Australian theatre.

These bulletins said the Japanese have lost 42 zero fighters four heavy bombers and two dive-bombers since last Sunday. In addition to an unestimated number of planes damaged. Allied losses in the same period have been announced at only four planes.

Today's communique did not mention any Japanese aerial activity in the Milne Bay sector, where Allied planes previously had been credited with the destruction of two enemy dive-bombers and two fighters.

Three Japanese planes were reported to have attacked Darwin on Australia's northwest coast during the night, but the bulletin said they did no damage.

There has been no word here concerning the battle of the Solomons since a United States navy communique issued in Washington Thursday announced that "Japanese surface forces appear to have withdrawn from the vicinity of our positions in the Tulagi area."

Japs Leave All Bolt To Bush As Yanks Arrive

By ROBERT C. MILLER

MARINE HEADQUARTERS, GUADALCANAL ISLAND, THE SOLOMONS, August 8 (Delayed) (BUP) —The marines have landed, and the American flag is flying today over the first Japanese-conquered territory retaken by the United Nations in the Pacific war.

Less than forty-eight hours after the United States armada drove undiscovered to the very flank of Japan's newly created empire and opened a surprise naval and aerial attack on the Solomons, the marines, backed up by the fleet and units of the Australian Navy, and supported by navy, army and Australian bombers and fighter planes, accomplished all their prescribed objectives.

I went ashore with a landing party of marines and witnessed the operation from the beginning. The Japanese strongholds of Tulagi, Tanambogo, Mbangai and Makambo, were captured, and objectives controlling the larger Guadalconal and Florida Islands were occupied according to plan.

Japanese casualties suffered in the battle far exceeded those of the United Nations.

The resistance encountered by the marines varied. On Tulagi, Tanambogo and Mbangai Islands, it was very bitter. On Guadalcanol and Florida Islands, the marines encountered little opposition.

Got 40 Jap Planes.

Japanese bombing raids on the invasion fleet were beaten off by anti-aircraft fire and an umbrella of navy fighter planes, which togethered destroyed approximately forty Japanese planes during the first two days of opperations of Guadalcanal alone.

Japanese bombing was relatively light.

Today's action involved mopping-up operations and suppressing Japanese snipers, with patrols encountering increasing resistance in all sectors.

Breakfast Surprise.

A great amount of booty and some prisoners were captured.

The Japanese were so surprised by the suddenness and velocity of the attack that they fled into the interior in many cases. Unfinished bowls of breakfast rice, with chopsticks still in them, were found in the mess halls of many Japanese camps.

One shore battery — two 70-millimeter artillery pieces — was found with fuses placed in the shells but not a shell fired. The reason for the suddenness of the artillerymen's departure was found nearby — a huge shell crater, where a naval shell had landed.

The first prisoners captured on Guadalcanal were sick Japanese who had been abandoned in their tents by the retreating enemy. These Japanese, suffering from malaria, said the shellfire from our naval units was the worst they had ever experienced.

The marine raiders countered the strongest opposition with the aid of strong naval bombing formations and intense shelling by naval surface units. They soon overwhelmed the Japanese opposition and completed on schedule their assignment.

The greatest prize captured was the Japanese-built airport at Guadalcanal. This field was 85 per cent completed and ready for use by land aircraft. It was put into operation immediately.

It gave the United Nations a complete base within bombing distance of the main Japanese bases in the South Pacific. Allied planes were operating from this field within a matter of hours.

Also captured intact were base installations scores of huge trucks, great quantities of stores, food, fuel, medical supplies and oil.

The hastily departing Japanese did not even take time to destroy a single piece of vital equipment when they evacuated this area and fled into the interior.

The job done by the marines, most of them fresh out of camp and under fire for the first time, was magnificent. The task confronting them was dangerous, dificult, and damnably mean. Yet each and every one of them gave everything he had for the success of the venture.

Apparently roused by this round-the-lock schedule, the Germans struck back last night, dropping explosive and incendiary bombs in northeast and eastern England, mostly in coastal areas. The Germans said Sunderland was one target.

Eight persons were killed in one town in northeastern England when a bomb destroyed four homes. Workers dug in the debris throughout the night and rescued a baby boy alive. He was the only survivor.

Bombs were dropped during daylight today on a west England town.

Two Nazi bombers were destroyed

The German attacks, however, bore no comparison to the massive R.A.F. attacks against the continent. Last night's smash was the third of the week.

On Monday night Wiesbaden and Frankfurt were the targets. On Thursday night, the powerful bombers, escorted by Canadian Spitfire squadrons flew hundreds of miles to the former Polish port of Gdynia a few miles west of Danzig, while other planes blasted the German locomotive-building centre of Kassel.

Fortresses Out Again.

United States Flying Fortresses filled in between the raids with a daylight attack on Meaulte, important airplane centre in Northern France yesterday.

R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadrons escorting the Fortresses scored one probable and also damaged several Nazi planes in heavy fighting. Other British and American Spitfire squadrons and fast Boston attack-bombers swept the invasion coast from Calais to the Seine.

One R.C.A.F. fighter was lost out of the two escorting squadrons led by Sqdn. Ldrs. Norm Bretz of Toronto and Keith Hodson of London, Ont.

Returning Canadians said opposition for a few minutes was almost equal to that encountered over Dieppe.

"It really was thick and fast while it lasted," said PO. Don Morrison of Toronto. "Jerry had a lot of kites in the air."

German Drive Near Climax In Stalingrad

The 1942 German campaign in Russia approaches its climax as the Hitlerian hordes manoeuvre into position to execute pincer movements enveloping Stalingrad, key Russian industrial city in the north and the Caucasus, extremely vital food and oil producing area in the south. By skirting the Caucasus mountains the Germans may push down toward the Caspian Sea, putting them into position for a possible junction with their Japanese allies.

sity of Saskatchewan as general manager for one year, effective November 2."

The board recommendation will go to War Services Minister Thorson, of whose department the CBS is part, and early action by the Government was expected.

Mr. Morin said later that the fact Dr. Thomson's appointment would be for one year did not mean his services would be limited to that period. He might continue as general manager after the year had elapsed.

Dr. Thomson, born in Stirling, Scotland, came to Canada in 1930 after he had served for six years as secretary for Youth and Education of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. A graduate of Glasgow University, he served during the First Great War with a Highland Regiment and later with the Rifle Brigade, rising to the rank of captain. After the war, he graduated from Trinity College, Cambridge, with honors in theology.

Dr. Thomson was in Ottawa last night, but said he could make no statement regarding the board recommendation, as he still had to receive leave of absence from the University Board of Governors at Saskatoon before he could accept any appointment.

No Other Changes

Mr. Morin said that Maj. Murray's new appointment would not involve other changes in the CBS staff.

"Maj. Murray has given great service to broadcasting, and we are glad to be able to make continued use of his experience and knowledge," said Mr. Morin. "In his new office he will be able to devote his time to the creative work for which he is well-fitted, and to the development of the programs."

Dr. Thomson had applied to the University Board for leave of absence for a year, but when that year had elapsed Mr. Morin said it might be found possible to continue the services of Dr. Thomson. The board was gratified at being able to obtain the services of "an outstanding educationist."

The board will meet again November 2, and Mr. Morin said other recommendations in the committee report would come under consideration later. Among other committee suggestions was the proposal that the board be strengthened by the addition of representatives of Labor and Agriculture.

Spitfires Keep Huns On Run In Desert War

By EDWARD KENNEDY.

AT AN R. A. F. SPITFIRE BASE IN THE RESERT, Egypt, August 29 —(Delayed-(AP)—Spitfires in the hands of crack R. A. F. formations composed of Canadian, British, Australian, New Zealand, American, Argentine and Trinidad pilots have proved to be the masters of Messerschmitts in the month the Allied fliers have been undertaking large-scale operations here persons in close touch with the desert war said today.

These sources gave this picture of the latest phase of the fighting in the air.

In recent weeks Messerschmitt 109-F's repeatedly have run away from these craft. Hurricanes, Kittyhawks and Tomahawks are a match for the Messerschmitts at lower altitudes. But these supercharged Spitfires climb 30,000 feet and are still full of fight up there.

This has altered completely air fighting in Africa. The Messerschmitss used to stay above a certain altitude, jockeying for position for fights against the Tomahawks, Kittyhawks and Hurricanes which had to stay a little below.

But now the Messerschmitts may find themselves sandwiched between Hawks and Hurricanes below the Spitfires above.

Thus the air war over the desert has climbed to new heights and with still later models of British and American planes being turned out may soon ascend higher still.

The boys who fly the Spitfires are enthusiastic about them. They include Calvin Taylor of Cobalt, Ont., and Daniel Schofield of Montreal, who now is in hospital with a slight stomach wound inflicted by a bullet in an air fight.

A companion of these men who remains on Malta is Po. J. A. Smith of Regina, who destroyed one enemy plane, probably destroyed a second and damaged a third. He was then shot into the sea but fell in the midst of a British convoy and not only saved himself, but his dinghy, kit and parachute as well.

EMPLOYERS
Please help to prevent this...

SOME people are now selling their Victory Bonds. If it were a case of dire necessity to raise money because of unemployment or sickness, nothing could be said against it, but Bonds are being sold by people enjoying prosperous employment, and the money is being spent unnecessarily.

Victory Bonds were offered with the implied understanding that they should be held "for the duration". No new savings or money is provided to help carry on the war, by selling Bonds to a third party. The action is little short of sabotage. It is a betrayal of the men and women on active service and a negation of the whole purpose of Canada's War Financing.

Please take whatever steps you consider practical to persuade your employees to hold their Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates; by personal appeal or by a message in pay envelopes. It is also suggested that you clip out and post this announcement on your Employees' Bulletin Board.

SAULT STE. Quebec Losing Rights Call-up In Two Weeks

JOLIETTE, Que., Aug. 31.—(CP).—Maurice Duplessis, leader of the Union Nationale opposition in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, said here Sunday that "Quebec is losing all its rights one by one while undergoing the gravest crisis in its history."

Mr. Duplessis, addressing an open air political rally attended by several thousand persons, singled out radio broadcasting.

"Radio broadcasting is a provincial matter especially since it has become one of the most powerful means of educating the masses," he said. If the Union Nationale were back in power, one of the moves made would be to attempt bringing broadcasting within the provincial orbit. "Quebec is entitled to manage its affairs according to its needs, its requirements and its religion," he said.

In St. Hyacinthe, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former Dominion Minister of Public Works, said that "French Canadians should be allowed to run their own affairs, and must not become the slaves of anyone."

"The world is upside down and nobody knows what tomorrow will bring. But whatever the problems the French Canadians will meet and surmount them. There is in Canada no majority powerful enough to crush French Canadian minority."

Bishop O'Connor Passes Away During Holy Hour Sunday Evening

Most Reverend Denis O'Connor, fifth Bishop of Peterborough, died Sunday evening at the episcopal residence, Hunter street, in his fifty-ninth year. His death occurred just one week after the passing of the diocesan Vicar-General, the late Monsignor W. J. McColl, former parish priest of Lindsay, at whose funeral mass in St. Peter's Cathedral last Wednesday morning Bishop O'Connor assisted with most of the priests of the diocese.

The news of his death during the Holy Hour of Sunday evening, a devotional period which he inspired and encouraged since his coming to Peterborough, was announced by the tolling of Roman Catholic church bells about 7:30 p.m. Although it was reported at the morning masses when prayers were being said for the sick, that he was critically ill, the reality of Bishop O'Connor's death was a deep shock to the people of the city parishes. They had known of an illness which was causing grave concern to his priests, and they were also aware that apparently he wished to minimize the report of its seriousness. His attendance last Wednesday at the funeral mass in memory of Monsignor McColl seemed to be reassuring, and probably allayed the feelings of uneasiness throughout the city parishes until the messages from his bedside were made public on Sunday morning. It was realized then that Bishop O'Connor must have rallied both strength and spirit to be present at the funeral of the priest who had been deputy administrator of the diocese.

The preceding deaths of two highly valued priests, Rev. P. J. Galvin of Grafton only a month ago, and Rev. Paul Costello of Hastings earlier in the year, must have weighed heavily upon the heart of Bishop O'Connor during this recent time of his own increasing illness, the gravity of which he apparently desired to withhold from his people.

Hepburn Finds No Demand For Fall Election

TORONTO, Aug. 31—(CP).—Premier Hepburn today characterized talk of a fall Provincial election as "so much rubbish." The Premier just returned from a week's tour of the Lakehead, where he said he found "no demand anywhere for bringing on the expense and unrest of an election."

"This expense of an election would mean use of gasoline and tires, cost of paper for printing and would also mean finding some 20,000 enumerators to go throughout the province," Mr. Hepburn said. "It would be most difficult to find these enumerators."

"I have no evidence that there is any desire for an election and as I have pointed out on more than one occasion we should get on with the war effort," he continued. "Further, the powers of the Legislature have been reduced to those of a county council, with the Dominion exercising its over-riding authorities in nearly all our fields. But of course I'm not complaining about that."

As to whether redistribution would be effected before an election is held Mr. Hepburn declared this would likely be done by a committee struck at the meeting of the Legislature next February.

He reaffirmed a previous statement that no special session of the Legislature will be called this fall to ratify the agreements between Ontario and Quebec now pending, on development of power sites by both provinces on the Ottawa River. The Cabinet, he said, has power to ratify these agreements by Order-in-Council and send them on to the Legislature for approval.

Stalingrad Defenders Hold Against Swarms Of Tanks; Russians Press Past Rzhev

Blow At Nazi Capital Fires Defence Works Electrical Plant Being Special Target; Reds Recapture 4 Villages In The Caucasus

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 31—(AP).—The Red army held back the growing German pincers push against Stalingrad from the northwest and southwest for the sixth day today and apparently won the initiative in bloody engagements on several other fronts.

Field dispatches said tank detachments were battling in the corridor between the Don and the Volga and the Soviet armored crews were holding their own, disabling many of the invasion machines.

Hundreds of tanks and bombers screened manoeuves by large invasion forces northwest of the Volga river city, where German vanguards had been swept from a strategic zone by week-end counter attacks.

The Germans struck hard also southwest of Stalingrad in the sector officially designated as "northeast of Kotelnikovski," the Nazi-held rail town 95 miles south of the city.

Russia's central front troops expanded their holdings by forcing a river crossing yesterday and fought on with the Germans in the streets of Rzhev, 13 miles northwest of Moscow.

The Soviet Information Bureau's mid-day communique said there were no material changes at the front overnight.

Red army bombers pounded Berlin and other cities of Central and Eastern Germany Saturday night. The Government announced that 48 fires and nine heavy explosions were set off in the Nazi capital.

The Baltic ports of Koenigsberg, in East Prussia, Danzig and Stettin were other targets and a total of 43 fires and a dozen explosions were reported from these thrusts. The Government said all bombers returned.

One Hot Spot.

Russian planes which bombed Berlin the night of Aug. 29-30 were tossed about by the concussion of furious anti-aircraft fire and they played a desperate game of hide-and-seek with dazzling German searchlights, airmen in the raid reported to-day.

Berlin was hit hard, they asserted. After their missions had been completed they could see fires dozens of miles from the German capital, they said.

Sergei Danshin, pilot of one of the Soviet bombers which made the flight to Berlin said Berlin was brilliantly lighted when he arrived. Searchlights made a bright ring around the city and fliers who had come ahead of him had started many fires.

"Comrades who had preceded me were still blasting their targets with bombs," he said.

His own machine, Danshin said, was found by one light, and in a moment a dozen others were on him. But he had found his target, plants of the Deutsche Industrie Werke.

"Looking back he saw the beginning of three more fires, one of them started by a terrific explosion.

The Russian raiders looked for the vast Siemens Electrical Appliances and Motor Plant in Berlin. They expressed confidence many of their hundreds of small, medium and heavy bombs damaged those works.

About 50 fires were counted at the Berlin area, Danshin asserted.

498 Huns to 206.

Moreover, it was declared that 498 German planes were destroyed during the last week, against a Russian loss of 206.

Fresh Nazi attacks upon the Russian lines before Stalingrad, bomb-scarred arsenal city on the lower Volga, were declared repulsed. Invasion columns were stemmed in the western Caucasus and four villages were recaptured in the Prokhladnenski sector, field dispatches said.

(The German High Command was quoted in a Berlin broadcast as saying that poweful Soviet blows west of Moscow had gained some ground, but the defences of Stal-

Duce Complaining

LONDON, Aug. 31—(CP)—A foreign diplomatic source who could not be quoted by name said today he had received unconfirmed advices from the continent indicating Hitler and Mussolini would confer soon on the dual problems of campaigns in Russia and Africa. The meeting probably will take place at Hitler's Russian front headquarters, the source said, adding he had heard that the Italian Premier "has some complaints to make," possibly over the use of Italian troops and certain phases of collaboration within Italy.

Navy Pulverizes Rommel Base Fights Way Home

By LARRY ALLEN

ABOARD A DESTROYER OF THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Aug. 30.—(Delayed).—(AP).—British warships smashed Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's big Axis supply base in the Egyptian desert south of El Dada with a pre-dawn bombardment today and fought their way home under ceaseless dive-bombing concentrated on this flotilla leader.

Naval gunners fired 1,000 high-explosive shells into the sleeping German-Italian base in 42 minutes. They left a wide area of destruction and huge fires amid barracks, tank parks, repair shops, ammunition and fuel depots.

Casualties among Rommel's armored corps technicians, vital for maintenance of his tanks and armored cars in any contemplated offensive, were regarded by British observers as heavy.

Throughout the attack there was no answering fire from the shore. The action was broken off in the moonlight at 4:57 a.m. and this destroyer pulled away, following the other warships.

I was standing on the starboard side of the bridge with the chief of the expedition, a young, black-haired lieutenant commander, when a strange craft suddenly emerged from a dark patch of water. The officer ordered the guns to fire.

Tracer shells split the darkness as the ship's batteries poured streams of explosives into the sea.

50 Stukas Show Up

Soon after the rise of the sun, blood red, the Germans launched an attack with more than 50 dive-bombers, one of the fiercest and most intensive ever loosed against the surface craft.

Out of the sun swooped six planes for the first round.

Screeching, they made for this destroyer like a beast after prey. Pom-pom batteries, machine guns and turret guns of the destroyer were brought into play and the following warships added to the defensive fire, but the pilot paid little attention either to the guns or the other vessels.

They droned close, then pulled out of their dives. There was a terrifying swish of heavy bombs. Holing the sea close alongside the destroyer, the bombs gave her a huge jolt, but she plowed on.

Heavier and heavier assaults came in succession. Thousands of empty shell cases littered the decks, gunners were weary and the superstructure was riddled by bullets.

The dive-bombers persisted until the destroyed was well within sight of our home base.

Nevertheless, the lieutenant commander reported the casualties were slight. I escaped with cuts, bruises and shock.

Part Time Limits Set At 2 Weeks; Permit For All Jobs

By JACK WILLIAMS

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP)—Tightened employment regulations which provide compulsory employment for persons now unemployed were announced today by Labor Minister Mitchell and Elliott M. Little, director of National Selective Service.

Under these orders, which become effective at midnight tonight, selective service officers are enabled to approach any person in an effort to induce them to take more essential work than that which they are now performing.

Four main points listed in the joint announcement were:

1. No employer may dismiss any worker and no worker may leave any job without giving seven days' notice in writing.

2. No person may seek employment and no employer may hire or interview with the intention to hire any person unless that person holds a permit to seek employment.

3. No person capable of working may remain voluntarily unemployed and any person not working full time for a period of two weeks or more can be ordered to take full

Giant Lancaster Thrills Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP)—One of Britain's giant Lancasters, reputedly the world's most formidable bomber, circled Toronto today and proceeded to Malton airport to be welcomed by 5,000 employees of National Steel Car Corp. which is to manufacture the four-engined monsters of the air.

Downtown office workers rushed to roof-tops to view the machine which was piloted by Clyde Pangborn of the Royal Air Force Ferry Command who also flew it from Britain last week.

The plane stopped in Ottawa today to pick up Munitions Minister Howe, Ralph P. Bell, director of aircraft production and others.)

In all the plane is armed with 10 guns, mounted in four power-driven turrets, in the nose, the tail, and the top and the bottom.

Its 102-foot wingspan, 69-foot length and 20-foot height dwarfed the Harvard Training planes which clustered around it at the air station.

Compulsory Call-up Due In Two Weeks

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—(CP).—Announcement of a new plan of calling up men for compulsory military service and of handling applications, for postponements is expected within the next two weeks, Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, said to-day.

At a press conference held to announce new manpower regulations. Mr. Little told newspapermen army call-up quotas now are being determined by National Defence officials in close collaboration with the selective service branch.

Machinery for both call-up and deferment is being set up by National Selective Service, Mr. Little said. He deferred answering detailed questions until the later conference and said he was not in a position to say whether Maj.-Gen. L. R. Lafleche, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services and now in charge of call-ups, would transfer to Selective Service, which is under the Labor Department.

It was the desire of Selective Service officials to see that the army quota was maintained at its peak without reducing the production of food and essential war sup-

Allies, Inc., took down theeir shutters for business this morning with prospects not quite so blue-Mondayish as usual, which is a cautiously-backhanded way of recording that things looked a bit brighter—and this was true both in the crucial European theatre and in the Orient.

We are not to jump to the conclusion the enemy are on the point of breaking up, or anything of the sort. Our dangers are terribly great in the face of Germany and Japan.

Still, the signs of strain undoubtedly are there. And that strain is the symptom which points to coming exhaustion.

That to my mind is the most important development in this fierce race against time. The Allies' hopes of winning without having to wage an interminable war of attrition depend largely on their ability to hold the master gangster on the Russian front during the few remaining weeks until winter comes to stall him. This means that much hangs on how long the Hitlerites can keep up the terrific speed they've shown thus far—a rate which couldn't be carried on indefinitely by any fighting machine.

Moscow reports a continuation of the remarkable hardening of the Red defence. The Russians are holding on the vital southern front, while farther up the line they actually are maintaining their smashing offensive against the Nazis northwest of the capital.

While this stiffening of Russian resistance is due in part to their own stout spirit, probably coupled with the employment of reserves held for eventualities, yet I believe we must attribute a good deal of the change to a natural weakening of the Nazi offensive. There's nothing strange in this, for the endurance which the Germans have displayed in their great drive has already exceeded the expectations of many observers.

Several things are working against the Nazis at this stage:

1. Their fighting forces are increasingly feeling the physical strain of this unprecedented offensive.

2. Their communications must be getting into sad state, being greatly over-extended and their transport in the recently-captured territory being dependent on war-torn highways and broken down railways which have the wide Russian gauge that doesn't fit German rolling stock.

3. Their war industry at home is slipping, partly because of deterioration of machinery which can't be replaced, partly because of lack of skilled workers, and partly because of shortage of raw materials. We have fresh evidence of this in the

AUSTRALIANS SMASH JAPANESE FORCES IN NEW GUINEA TRAP

Drive Invaders To Peninsula North Of Milne Bay Begin Wiping Them Out

All Heavy Supplies, Tanks Abandoned on Beach Nipponese Warships Save Some Men Pulling Them Out By Night After 3 Days' Fight

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 31 (CP).—Hard-fighting Australian ground troops, slashing through the muddy jungle of southeastern New Guinea with Australian and United States air units aiding from above, have smashed the Japanese invaders of the Milne Bay area in a carefully-laid trap and with them a new menace to Australia.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in a special communique today, announced that Australian troops commanded by Maj.-Gen. Cyril Albert Clowes, an Australian veteran of the Middle East campaigns, had driven the Japanese out of the narrow peninsula north of Milne Bay where they are being "rapidly reduced."

Although a portion of the Japanese forces probably was saved from destruction by evacuation on Japanese warships at night, their losses have been heavy, the communique said.

All of their heavy supplies, including tanks, were abandoned on the narrow beach of Milne Bay, which they entered so confidently Wednesday.

The communique told how the Allied command in complete secrecy prepared for the Japanese thrust, the fourth enemy attempt to reach the advanced Allied outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

"The enemy fell into the trap with disastrous results to him," the communique concluder.

Milne Bay is only 430 miles from the nearest point on the Australian mainland and some 225 miles southeast of the Allied base at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

Fast Being Cleaned Up

Bitter fighting still was in progress along the muddy trails of the jungles and mangrove swamps of Milne Bay's north peninsula, but the communique said the area was "rapidly being cleared of the enemy."

Australian troops, "brilliantly supported by American and Australian air units," were credited with achieving the success.

The Japanese who escaped from the Milne Bay trap apparently were taken off on eight destroyers and a cruiser which slipped into the bay Saturday night. Allied bomber pilots, hampered by bad weather, were unable to break up the action.

Prime Minister John Curtin, informed of the Milne Bay communique, said: "I express our gratitude to the gallant forces and able leadership for all that is being done for us. Australia is well served."

Army Minister Francis Forde said that "in their planning and execution Australia's military advisers acted with great foresight and ability. Although the latest news is encouraging it does not minimize the seriousness of Australia's position."

The Japanese adventure in Milne Bay was the fourth phase of an endeavor to capture Port Moresby, the communique said. The Allied base is on the south coast of the island and is protected on the north by the high and forbidding Owen Stanley range.

The Japanese first tried to turn its left flank with their landings at Lae and Salamaua, but this "proved impracticable," the communique said.

The next attempt was aimed at the rear and a large convoy force was engaged at sea and "repulsed and dissipated by air and sea action."

(The communique did not say specifically that this air and sea action was the battle of the Coral Sea from May 4 to May 9 in which Australian and United States land and naval air forces inflicted such great damage on a Japanese fleet unit it was forced to retire. But that battle was the only action reported from the Coral Sea of the scope suggested by the communique.)

AN EXCELLENT opportunity may be presented on this day for deriving very definite, probably surprising or peculiar benefits by means of cleverness, shrewdness, strategem, intrigue and faculties and forces seemingly operating from the realm of the so-called "fourth dimension." There may be either premonitions, insistent urges or compulsions, or "hunches" to do things seemingly impractical, idealistic or unwarranted but these will prove of solid worth and success.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of peculiar, strange and unaccountable experiences, although these will culminate in definte advantages and benefits. There may be inner guidings, strong intuitions or premonitions, or psychic urges, which may seem to move on dangerous grounds. Thees may, however, lead to success, ambitious transactions with secret orders, large corporations, diplomatic or political bodies. In all be alert to duplicity, imposition of glamorous intrigues. The ideals soul aspirations and mystical tendencies may find practical expression in art, music, poetry or literature.

A child born on this day may have many talents of a creative and idealistic turn, culminating in exceptional success. Its intutitions, mystical and psychic urges may be the mainspring to practical progress.

Mr. Hepburn said this was entirely a matter for the Federal Government. No police were being sent there, and no request had been made for police assistance by the municipality.

"Inasmuch as this is a war industry, the Federal Government has to maintain law and order," Mr. Hepburn said. He added that the Dominion Government had the whole thing in its own hands. "I do not anticipate trouble," he said. "In my opinion the judgment, after discussing the situation with the men, there will be no overt act committed. The relationship between the men and the management seems to be the best. The whole complaint is with Ottawa which controls wages and prices."

known shortage of German warplanes, and a scarcity of gasoline which the Russians report is so bad as to have stalled a large number of tanks in one sector.

Has Hitler the strength to smash Russia before he himself collapses? That's the crux of the matter, and indications are he hasn't.

Out in the Orient the Japs have been getting it from both the Australians, Americans and Chinese in no uncertain manner. Australian headquarters announce the defeat of an enemy air force which landed at Milne Bay, strategic point on the south-eastern point of New Guinea, uncomfortably close to the Australian mainland. United States marines also have annihilated the Nipponese who tried to recapture the islands which they took in the Solomons recently. And three more enemy destroyers have been sunk or damaged by bombers.

On top of this the amazing Chinese, who just can't be beaten, are running riot in Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces in an offensive which has carried them steadily forward. A notable achievement has been the capture of Chuhsien, which has the largest airport in China and is within easy striking distance of Japan. Chinese possession of this field presages some moment of hell for Tokyo and other Japanese cities in days to come.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 7 of 10 In Weekend Toll

(By The Canadian Press)

Ten persons were reported to have lost their lives in Eastern Canada over the week-end. Seven were killed in traffic accidents, two were drowned and a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force lost his life when he fell beneath the wheels of a plane.

Ontario headed the list with five fatalities. Three youths were killed in an automobile accident near Windsor, in which five others were injured. The dead are Bernard E. Potvin of Sandwich Township; John Deibell, Jr., 17, of Tecumseh, and William Chalmers, 20, of Windsor.

At Cornwall, Melvin James Armstrong, 54, native of Saint John, N.B., died from injuries suffered when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile. Francis Grey, 17, of Clayton, near Kingston, drowned when he fell from a boat in the St. Lawrence River. It was believed he suffered a heart attack while standing in the boat.

In the Maritimes, there were three fatalities. At Dartmouth, N.S., LAC. C. M. Edwards, of Windsor, Ont., lost his life in an accident at a nearby eastern airport. The airman had been servicing a heavy aircraft, and fell beneath one of it wheels as it was being towed. He was killed almost instantly.

Mrs. Phoebe Foster of Milton, near Liverpool, N.S., died a few minutes after being struck by a car while crossing the street. At Plaster Rock, N.B., 12-year-old Leonard Sisson, was killed when hit by a truck after dismounting from his bicycle.

The other pair of week-end fatalities were in Quebec. At Mille Isles River, 30 miles north of Montreal, Paul Homer, 18, was drowned when a canoe in which he was paddling upset. Romeo Lauzon, 45, of Napierville, was killed when the car in which he was riding, overturned in a ditch not far from his home.

The recapture of Liangkaitu, north of Nanchang, was announced and heavy fighting was reported from Lientang only nine miles rom the city.

The Central News Agency said the Chinese advance in Chekiang Province continued that that Lungyu, 20 miles east of Chuhsien, was occupied to-day after heavy fighting during the night. The largest air base in China is at Chuhsien, which has been retaken by the Chinese in the present offensive along with the smaller air base at Lishui.

It was also reported unofficially that Lanchi, 20 miles north-west of Lungyu had fallen to the Chinese. The city had been held by the Japanese since May 30, when it was captured in the drive which resulted in temporary Japanese possession of the 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad.

Field dispatches said the new Chinese offensive there was making good headway, now menacing Kuntien, only about 28 miles north of Canton. The Japanese around Tsungfa, 30 miles north of Canton, were reported withdrawing after one of their counter-attacks was crushed. A small force near Tsungfa was reported surrounded.

time for a period of two weeks or more can be ordered to take full time suitable work.

4. All employers must report to employment and selective service offices their future labor needs and must fill their current needs through the unemployment office.

The announcement was made at a press conference at which Mr. Mitchell presided. The labor minister explained the policy as making effective the government's intention "completely to mobilize the manpower of the Dominion."

The orders followed a nation-wide broadcast by Prime Minister Mackenzie King Aug. 19 in which he said: "The government's policy is that every man and woman capable of performing some form of war service should undertake the service for which he or she may be best qualified and which the demands of war require."

Waiting On Call-up Plan.

Mr. Little postponed until a subsequent conference, expected within two weeks, questions on the call-up and deferment of men for the armed forces which comes under his jurisdiction in a reorganization of Government departments.

In placing the joint statement before a group of some 15 newspapermen Mr. Mitchell said the general plan which Canada was adopting to utilize her manpower for war needs had proven effective in Great Britain and should prove equally effective in Canada.

Advice of local committees representing employers employees, agricultural and other national groups would be sought in making the new orders effective, the minister said.

Mr. Little told the newspapermen that in providing compulsory employment for those now working only part time or not at all the Government was acting on the principle that "voluntary employment is something we cannot afford."

Compulsion applies to persons now unemployed or on part time jobs, but not to efforts of selective service officers to have workers move to more essential jobs.

An effort will be made to arrange transfers so that men will not be asked to go to jobs with a lower wage rate than that which they now receive but provision is made in the new orders for supplementary allowances.

Some Bonuses for Changes.

A national selective service officer may arrange for the payment of the cost of transportation of the workers, their dependents and effects when it is considered necessary. A suplementary living allowance of not more than $5.00 a week may also be paid if the worker is separated from his family and his earning capacity on the new job is insufficient to pay increased costs or if the new job involves a decrease in his weekly earnings.

The regulations clarify temporary employment of agricultural labor on other jobs during off-seasons. It is permissible for an agricultural worker to take another job for a period up to 30 days without losing his status as eligible for postponment from call-up. Permits are required if he is to be away from the farm for more than 30 days.

It is the desire of selective service officials that farmers should get off the farm and undertake other war work in periods when farm work is not sufficient to keep them busy, Mr. Little said.

For all employment, permits will be granted by selective service officers on the basis of a priority schedule which has been established by selective service in close collaboration with the munitions and supply department and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. This schedule will not be made public because of the constant revisions which are anticipated as requirements fluctuate.

Increased control over manpower involves the acceptance of greater responsibilities by employers as well as employees, the announcement said.

Must Notify S.S. Office

"It is important now that every employer realize that he must notify his local employment and selective service office of his labor needs as far as they are anticipated," the statement continued.

"Substantial increases in staff and in the number of offices have been made to facilitate the allocation of labor and from now on no excuse will be accepted from employers for any disregard of the order that they obtain all employees through these offices.

"As the supply of labor decreases, employers must be prepared to make greater use of women, to use their labor more efficiently and to expect curtailment of certain less essential lines of industry.

"In planning the best use of our available manpower, much information will be required. When employees receive requests for information they should bear in mind that it is required to provide them with the men and women they need. They will shortly be asked to file returns giving the numbers of their employees and broad occupational groups and from time to time they may be requested to give other information."

No age limits are mentioned in the regulations which appear today in a special edition of the Canada Gazette, selective service officials said they apply to every employable person.

The regulations will not affect the employment of harvest help which comes under a provision enabling workers to take temporary work for not more than 30 days.

Two Runaways Hitch-Hike To Winnipeg

Two eleven-year-old Peterborough boys have set a new record for fast travelling. The two Bobby Gilmour of 623 Aylmer Street, and Kenneth Dawson of 585 Harvey Street have been missing from their homes since 11 o'clock on Friday morning. This morning Chief Constable Newhall received a message from Winnipeg police that the two youngsters had been picked up in the Manitoba city.

When the two were reported to the police as missing it was the opinion of the officers that the boys had hitch-hiked out of town and would turn up in some nearby city or town.

They were not expecting news of a trip to Winnipeg, however. It is thought the two lads obtained a ride as far as Toronto on Friday and climbed on board the Winnipeg train that night. They stalled off the train crew for some time by telling them that an uncle in another car had their tickets, and eventually reached Winnipeg. They will be sent home by the Winnipeg police.

CLARENCE H. GILLESPIE

HASTINGS, Aug. 31.—The funeral of the late Clarence Humphries Gillespie, whose sudden and unexpected death occurred Wednesday night, was held from the family residence on Saturday, thence to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of which he was a valued member. The funeral was attended by a capacity gathering, representative of the entire village and surrounding community, and was under the direction of the Hastings Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 633, of which the deceased was worshipful master this year.

Following his passing hundreds of people, men, women and children, wended their way to the home to pay their last tribute to one of Hastings' business men whose kind and sympathetic disposition endeared him to all who knew him. Widely known for his absolute honesty and fidelity of character either in public or private life, a favorite of the children, a good neighbor, a prominent citizen, his place will undoubtedly be difficult to fill.

Clarence Gillespie was born September 8, 1906, in Hastings and was the eldest of a family of three, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gillespie, now of Keene, Ont. On September 25, 1937, he married Annie Spooner, and in October purchased the grocery business owned by W. Beavis, and only six weeks ago moved his stock over to the Fleming block where he continued his thriving business until death called so suddenly. He was a keen lover of sports and will be sadly missed by the young people of the community. His love and genial nature made him especially dear to his devoted wife and little daughter, Vivian. He also leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gillespie, Keene, and two sisters, Mrs. Clarence Robertson (Helen), of Keene, and Mrs. Gordon McAllister (Marian), of 17½ Christie street, Toronto.

The funeral service was feelingly conducted by the Rev. D. K. Perrie, who read words of consolation from the Old and New Testaments, and in his personal remarks gave reference to the ever-growing and increasing Christian faith of the deceased.

Following the service at the church interment took place at Trent Valley Cemetery, where the local Masonic brethren, assisted by brethren from several district lodges, conducted their impressive service at the graveside. The pallbearers were Messrs. Grant Sine, Everett Hess, Scott Fife, Pat Dodd, William Kumph, John Doherty.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Deceased was passionately fond of all flowers and the beautiful floral offerings showed the esteem in which he was held. Flower-bearers were the boys of the softball Club and others.

The floral tributes included the following: The family, broken circle; mother and dad, Helen and Marian, Mrs. A. E. Spooner, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnston and Dorothy Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Spooner and Betty, Hastings Masonic Lodge No. 633, Keene Masonic Lodge, Pastmasters' Association, Peterborough; Ladies' Aid, Presbyterian Church; business men of Hastings, Hastings Softball Club, National Grocers, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. A. MRS. FRED W. COOPER.

Maud Marian Edney, beloved wife of Fred Walter Cooper, 23 Lundy Lane, died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Monday, August 31 following an illness of two weeks. She was 62 years of age.

The late Mrs. Cooper was a staunch Anglican and one of the outstanding workers at St. George's Anglican church in the south end of the city. A devoted wife, and mother, she was a kindly woman, who had won a large circle of friends by her quick sympathy and readiness to help anyone who was in need.

She was born in London, England, a daughter of the late James Edeny and Charlotte Merrill and she came to Peterborough with her husband 34 years ago. She was a member of the Peterborough Lodge, Golden Link Rebekah.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters and one son, Mrs. W. Bullied, Toronto, Florence at home and Ernest W. (Jack), also of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 2 at two in the afternoon from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, and interment will be in Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. C. E. Moore of St. George's Anglican church, will conduct the funeral service.

my face pressed to the deck a little brown cockroach scampered before my eyes. My first impulse was to kill it. But I knew it wanted to live. I flicked it away.

The dive-bombers came in teams of sixes or tens.

Exclamations punctuated the explosions.

"Stukas! Diving. Aircraft—range one four zero."

I thanked God at least we had not run out of ammunition for if that ever happened the dive-bombers might blast the warships out of the sea like sitting ducks in a shooting gallery.

Big bombs washed the destroyer's decks with geysers of water and sand from the bottom of the Mediterranean.

German shore batteries then opened fire.

Simultaneously, more dive-bombers roared overhead. Near misses rocked the vessel.

A dozen or more German shells whistled over my head before the destroyer passed out of range of the land-based guns. The destroyer never answered the shore shelling. We were involved enough with the planes.

I had had no food or water since the previous night. But there was water in a wash basin in the cabin of a lieutenant, apparently poured just before the attacks started.

I didn't matter. I drank it to wet my parched tongue. My lips were so dry they fairly crackled and I couldn't even make myself heard in conversations with sailors.

A petty officer found some ham and bread on the mess deck. I ate ravenously.

A Nazi flier dropped a stick of eight bombs on our port side. Smoke poured from the tail of his plane as he pulled away under the gunfire.

British fighters appeared to battle the enemy squadrons and brought down one plane.

Italian bombers and Messerschmitt fighter-bombers sped into the fray and explosives fell by the score. British seamen nearly dropped from exhaustion. Minutes seemed like hours.

Within sight of our home quay, the Axis crews ceased their assaults.

The launch of Admiral Sir Henry H. Harwood, Commander-in-Chief of the British Mediterranean fleet, swished toward the destroyer across the blue harbor waters and the Lieutenant-Commander reported by megaphone that the ship's casualties were slight.

"Well done, you all," the Admiral said.

(The German high command claimed yesterday that a British destroyer had been badly damaged by bomb hits off El Daba and that 12 British planes were shot down).

Naval aircraft spotters reported that the shelling of the El Daba concentration, one of the most important bases for repair and equipping of Rommel's tanks and an advanced supply centre for the entire army, exceeded expectations.

Fire control was plotted from photographs supplied by aerial reconnaissance camera crews. Naval planes dropped flares over Sandy Hill, a landmark of El Daba, and that hill was the aiming point for the concentration of broadsides on the base about two miles inland.

Their guns spouting flame, the warships sailed slowly past El Daba and then reversed to send out other salvoes.

There was no immediate response from the Axis shore batteries, whose crews were undoubtedly surprised, but a few hostile shells whistled out as the fleet made its turn.

Lindsay Parents Hear From Son In Hong Kong

By The Canadian Press

In many Canadian homes last night letters from prisoners of war at Hong Kong brought happiness to relatives of men of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Quebec Royal Rifles.

The letters, first to arrive in Canada since the fall of the Crown colony last Christmas day, told of fathers and sons "alive and well," but all showed strict censorship by the Japanese.

Rfmn. Melbourne J. J. Carter, writing to his wife in Toronto, dealt with censorship, saying: "I can't say very much because we are allowed to say only just so much and no more."

It was learned last night that Lt.-Col. W. J. (Billy) Home, Officer Commanding the Quebec Royal Rifles, is a prisoner and in "good health."

In a letter to his wife, vacationing at Riviere Du Loup, Que., he said he expects to be able to write every four weeks. Mrs. Home said the letter was "cheerful."

None of the letters mentioned food, but Pte. George Hallada, 21, a member of the Winnipeg Grenadiers whose home is in Port Arthur, said: "The Japanese are treating us very good . . . We have nothing to do but pass the time."

Word of Lindsay Boy

Lieut. W. F. Nugent of Lindsay, Ont., who was wounded and spent four months in hospital, reported that he now is "well, hale and hearty, comfortable and enjoying myself." He has a brother, Sgt. Pilot Jack Nugent, a prisoner in Germany.

Many of the letter told parents, wives and children "not to worry." Sgt. Robert John Clayton of Toronto said: ". . . if you want to help me, please don't worry."

Capt. F. J. Deloughery, the only Canadian Roman Catholic chaplain in Hong Kong, said there was "no cause to worry." He, like many other men, wrote that he was well and active.

George Porteous of Saskatoon, who went to Hong Kong as a representative of the Y.M.C.A., reported that he was active organizing sports and clubs among the Canadian prisoners. He also said he had a new pastime—learning to play the trombone.

Among the officers of both the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Quebec Royal Rifles baseball, cricket, and bridge help ward off the dreary days of the prison camp.

Maj. John H. Price of the Quebec Royal Rifles said he was getting "plenty of exercise" spending his

Proposes Trying Conscrpition Without Quebec

TORONTO, August 31 — Conscription for active service overseas for all of Canada except Quebec might be advisable, Lieutenant-Colonel Alan Cockeram, D.S.O., declared Saturday at a Canadian Legion rally held in Goodyear Park, New Toronto.

"We might have to forget about Quebec, and if so, let us have it and get on with the war," declared Colonel Cockeram. "However, if such a course is forced upon us by necessity, we can hardly be expected to forget it. Twice in 25 years is too much. French-Canadian leaders should realize that Quebec is part of Canada, part of the Empire.

"I realize that brave French-Canadians are dying overseas, and I give all tribute to them," continued the speaker. "But there are some French-Canadian leaders at home whose leadership spells a bad day for Canada as a whole. We must treat the French-Canadian people with tolerance, but a time will come when we will have to look at the Treaty of 1774 which established their rights, with a view to revision.

"We are the majority in Canada and the majority should rule," declared Colonel Cockeram. "If the war is not fought successfully in Europe, it will be fought on the shores of the St. Lawrence, which is the age-old route of invasion of America. Quebec should not forget that.

Colonel Cockeram called upon the veterans to provide leadership in Canada. Just as the people of England said in the First Great War, "Asquith must go," so must the veterans of Canada have as their battle cry, "Mackenzie King must go," the speaker declared.

"He has been weighed in the balance and found wanting," asserted Colonel Cockeram. "We must have a leader who inspires confidence, one whom all can follow. For the first time since this war began nearly three years ago, it is being brought home to the Canadian people.

"The casualties that are coming in from Dieppe ought to bring us a deeper realization that all the contributions of time, labor and money that we can make pale into insignificance against the sacrifices that our soldiers are making overseas. The Canadian lines have for the first time been thinned in battle. The soldiers who gave their lives believed that the places would immediately be filled from well-trained reserves. Are those reserves available? Ever since the war began I have advocated having trained and experienced reserves ready for overseas service when needed. They are needed now.

"While our soldiers are risking their lives to give us security, we must do our part at home," continued the speaker. "We must realize that the war is not an opportunity to reap a rich harvest, demand high wages and special privileges by threats of strikes. As a soldier of the last war I can truthfully say that nothing arouses a soldier's indignation more than strikes and unrest and unnecessary delays in industrial plants.

"The Government knows our manpower situation is serious and it knows conscription is expedient, yet it closes its eyes to the obvious means of relieving the situation," said Colonel Cockeram. "On the very night that Canadian blood was flowing on the shores of Dieppe, the Prime Minister of this country made a radio address in which he told the people of Canada how the Government proposed to allocate the man and womanpower of the country. He said nothing on the all-important question of how our forces overseas are to be reinforced. He is still playing to those 65 seats in Quebec. To my mind, unless men are conscripted for overseas service, they might just as well be left in their civilian employment and be made to train for home defence at night."

Munro Returns To Tell Of Dieppe Action

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Eleven days after Dieppe, when he accompanied the Canadian troops who wrote a deathless chapter in Canadian history, Ross Munro, for two years Canadian Press war correspondent, arrived in Toronto last night for a month's leave.

First man to return to this side from the shell-churned beaches, Munro, during his leave, will tell the people of Canada, and particularly the relatives of men who stormed the Nazis' defences, how they fought, of how some died, and of how they drove home their thrusts against the enemy.

Through Canadian Press, member newspapers arrangements are being made in each of the home cities of regiments which participated in the Dieppe operation for Munro to make an address. His eye-witness story, written after he returned with the Canadian troops from Dieppe, has been acclaimed as one of the war's finest pieces of reporting.

Munro will speak at an open-air gathering in Windsor today, and is expected to be heard by some 20,000 persons, including relatives of members of the Essex Scottish Regiment which attacked the Centre Beach at Dieppe, and the military forces stationed at the Border City.

On Tuesday night, at 9 o'clock, Munro will speak over a Toronto station hook-up. Already, in despatches he has portrayed the deathless heroism of officers and men of the Royal Regiment of Canada and the detachment of the Toronto Scottish, which fought in the Dieppe raid.

Munro went into the hail of fire and steel with the Royals when they stormed the Nazi defences in a flanking movement to the main Dieppe raid at Puys. Through those hours on alien soil, packed with valor, he saw members of the Toronto unit fulfill their part in making of Dieppe a symbol that Canadians will remember for the bravery of brothers, husbands, sweethearts and friends under murderous fire, for their nonchalence in the face of danger and of death.

Pretty Teachers Take Cycle Vacation

COBOURG, Aug. 31.—It is "see Ontario by bicycle" for Margaret Perowne, Ruth Schnebly and Patricia Maybury, High school teachers of Montreal, who stopped at Cobourg this past week-end on their return trip to Montreal. The girls started out on August 14th and are scheduled to be home again by Labor Day as school starts on the following day.

Last summer Margaret and Patricia cycled to Gaspe on their vacation, while Ruth spent her vacation convalescing from a broken back received in a skiing accident. This summer Ruth is doing her convalescing on a bicycle and finds it of great value in limbering up muscles which had become stiffened during the long period in which she was in a cast. Ruth and Margaret are both teachers of physical training in their respective High schools in Quebec and are convinced that there is nothing like a long bicycle trip to keep in condition. Patricia is a French specialist at her High school, and also finds it valuable to keep in top physical condition to keep up with the steady grind of classes.

"There is nothing like it," they said when asked how they liked doing their vacation on bicycles. The only drawback from a financial standpoint was that cycling was too stimulating for appetites, with the result that it meant digging down ino the budget for meals. Countering that, however, was the fact that where an extra pound went on through heavy eating, the exercise had it off in short order.

The charming school marms estimated that the first part of their journey took them about 500 miles, ending up at Huntsville and Bigwin Inn. They travelled on a carefully planned itinerary, with an average of 40 to 50 miles per day. One day they rode 60 miles, and the result was a three-day layoff due to a strained muscle in one of the girls' knees. All their cycling is done by day, and therefore no lights are needed. Each girl carries about 25 pounds of luggage on her wheel, in the carrier in front and in saddle bags. They estimate about two dollars each per day for meals and a dollar each for lodging at night.

"It costs more than going in car. I think," estimated Margaret.

The girls found traffic very heavy up around Huntsville and in the northern parts of the province. They always stay at tourist homes or cabins, never at hotels. In Oshawa they found no tourist homes hich were not filled up and stayed at a tourist camp a few miles west of Oshawa.

"The people up in Ontario are very friendly," stated Patricia.

"Some of those truck drivers are too friendly," smiled Ruth. "Every time a truck passes us the driver starts to blow the horn. It is rather startling when you are not expecting it. Everybody waves at us as they pass."

This morning the cycling trio started out on their way back to Montreal and home. Patricia was a bit worried though as the rear tire on her wheel was worn smooth, and so far they have been unable to buy a new tire anywhere on their trip.

Lakefield Pass List Tops Average 2 New Teachers For Upper Grades

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 31.—(ENS).—Public School pupils of the village will start off the new term on September 8 with the same staff of teachers as last term, but students of the High School will have new mathematic and science and agriculture teachers.

Attendance at the Public School looms larger this term than last, according to Principal Everett G. Sloan and is expected to be about 250. This figure will run some of the rooms to fifty or more pupils which is a handful for any teacher, but records show that some years ago the total ran to 271, which meant that most of the rooms must have had close to the fifty mark.

Miss Elsie Kidd, handling the kindergarten primer, with newcomers, is expected to have 22-35 tots under her care; Miss Bertina Beavis in room 2 will handle 38; Miss Aileen Young in room 3, 41; Miss Murietta Jory, room 4, 46; Herbert Parkin, room 5, 55; Principal E. G. Sloan, room 6, 49.

The school had a fine record of promotions in the past term with Principal Sloan putting 17 of 19 through the entrance class at an average age of 13.7 years.

According to average ages for Ontario, the various classes show up in the most case slightly under the provincial list. The following table shows the averages at the end of May—in the beginners' class after their first term:

Grade	Average for Ontario	Average for Lakefield

New High School Teachers

In the High School, Principal E. F. Harvey faces a strenuous term with two new teachers on a staff of four, both in their first school, and the new defence course to handle as well.

Miss Eileen Waterman, of Springfield, Ontario, replaces Mr. John Aymer, teaching mathematics, and Mr. W. B. Drury, B.S.A., of Barrie, a graduate of University of Toronto and O.A.C. at Guelph, will handle science and agriculture. He replaces J. L. Minshall.

Mrs. Harry Stabler, who has been on the staff for the past 13 years, will continue with the languages, and Principal Harvey, on the job 15 years, handles English and history. The new defence course will be split up among the staff, Miss Waterman having taken her course during the summer at Ontario College of Education. Mr. Drury, unable to get into a class during the holiday season, is expected to join the Prince of Wales Rangers Reserves and get his training that way.

It is expected Mrs. Stabler will attend a course at Orillia during the first two weeks in September, the regular school classes in the village not opening until Tuesday, September 22, along with the rest of the High schools, in accordance with department wishes to give the farmers every chance possible of aid from High school students.

The defence course will be taught to pupils in Grades 10, 11 and 12.

Principal Harvey is anxious that any country pupils planning on attending this term get in touch with him as soon as possible that a curriculum be worked out allowing for time off to help with late harvest and fall work on the farms. Mr. Harvey states the school is in excellent shape throughout and the grounds in top form and gives especial credit to Caretaker Charlie Bickell.

New Giant Cargo Plane On Way

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 —Quantity production has begun on a giant new cargo-transport airplane and the first ship already has been completed in the mammoth Texas plant of Consolidated Aircraft Corp.

In order to provide a cargo plane which will meet the urgent needs now of speedy transportation of war materials and personnel over long distances, Consolidated has provided a transport adaptation of its 28-ton Consolidated B-24 Liberator long-range bomber.

According to information which the War Department has allowed to be made public, the Liberator transport flies faster than any American bomber, except its B-24 counterpart, with a range which exceeds that of any land plane in production. It is stated that it is capable of carrying the greatest human or cargo load of any airplane now in mass production.

The new Liberator bomber can carry a maximum cargo load in excess of 10 tons, while its top speed is over 300 miles an hour. Extreme range is placed at nearly 4,000 miles.

The airplane is powered by four high-speed engines, horsepower of which was not announced. Turbo superchargers give added speed and ceiling.

Once At Dunkirk

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—An R.C.A.F. training plane, which two years ago took part as a bomber in the evacuation of Dunkirk, made an emergency landing here Sunday. The pilot, forced down by battery trouble, said the plane been converted into a trainer after it had outlived its usefulness as a bomber.

Gathering Fury War Shifts Into 4th Year

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The war moves into its fourth year with big decisions impending, and with the fate of millions hanging in a precarious balance.

On the third anniversary of the German invasion of Poland the war still was gathering fury.

An impression grows in many quarters that the fourth year would bring decisions of the greatest importance, and more particularly that Britain and America at last would be able to exert their vast strength effectively.

The most urgent questions are:

Will Russia be able to hold out another winter, to tie up a good part of the German Army in the East?

Will the second front in Europe come into being?

Will the Germans be able to declare a pause in the east to open up another Battle of Britain in the air this winter?

Will the Commandos so harry the Continent with such as the Canadian-led raid of Aug. 19 on Dieppe that an appreciable portion of the German forces will wear themselves out rushing from spot to spot?

Will the United Nations make an all-out effort to smash Germany from the air?

Will the American occupation of some Solomon Islands grow into an effective offensive against Japan or occupy a sufficient portion of Japan's naval strength to prevent a Nipponese attack on Siberia —in effect, providing the second front for which Russia has pleaded?

Russia Is Important.

Of these major questions, speculations concerning the holding qualities of Russia and the turn of Allied strategy in Western Europe appear to be the most pressing.

To the world they are questions of vital interest, and to Hitler a matter of life-and-death urgency. The very heart of the Axis pattern of war has been to avoid two fronts, to take on one major job at a time. But a new front in some other part of the Continent would mean two front for Hitler—unless Russia is eliminated as a fighting factor soon.

There are suggestions in reports from Axis quarters—admittedly untrustworthy—that the German plan of the moment is to stabilize a winter line along the Volga River and then turn to the west to meet whatever blows Britain and America may strike from that direction.

But even if the Axis did reach the Volga on a broad front, there would remain the question of whether the Russians would permit a stabilization of the line, and whether they could somewhere find the energies to duplicate last winter's offensive operations.

If Russia does find such strength the task of the Allies in the west will be simplified. So Russia at the beginning of the fourth year of the war remains an elemento f utmost importance, still retaining the power to contribute measurably to the doom of Hitler even should the Germans reach the Volga and penetrate deeply into the Caucasus.

Divert Axis Strength

In the west, the Commando raids, persistent air attacks and the resistance from populations of occupied countries have diverted much Axis strength, and the ever present threat of a second front operation is a major worry for the German High Command.

The Germans were being kept guessing as to where a second front operation might start—Norway, the Netherlands, France, or even Italy after a campaign in Africa. The raid on Dieppe complicated the guessing game.

Some elements of the German High Command had been maintaining that strong coastal defenses alone would make France impregnable from the west, and that consequently the second front would start at a more remote spot. But the Commandos demonstrated that if the Allies are resigned to accepting losses, a landing can be made and a foothold held on a strongly-defended coast.

Thus, a second front might be opened up the hard way. That, for the Germans, involves keeping stronger garrisons in France, and the possibility that Norway, the Netherlands or Africa might be chosen for United Nations offensives still remained.

There remains also a probability that the next few weeks or months might bring air operations in the west on an unprecedented scale. An important consideration, as the war moved on, was the state of morale in Axis and occupied countries, and it is a question on which the United Nations apparently are incompletely informed. Conditions of life are getting harder. Food is becoming scarcer. Europe faces a winter with inadequate stores of fuel. Discipline is becoming more severe, regimentation more intense.

After Sailing Fleet

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Nelson Rockfeller, whose peacetime duties as co-ordinator of inter-American affairs for the United States government have assumed new significance since Brazil entered the war, is en route to South America today to aline a sailing vessel fleet and rich raw material areas with the war effort. His plan looks to the establishment of local, inter-port services by auxiliary-powered sailing craft on a schedule of limited calls at ocean ports by deep-sea vessels. Thus the big ships will make fewer stops, quicker voyages and, said Rockfeller, "help whip the submarine problem."

His Aides Died

ISTANBUL, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Advices from Tirana, capital of Italian-occupied Albania, said Sunday an Albanian student attempted to kill the Italian governor, Gen. Mulletti, with a bomb last Tuesday as he was leaving his residence. Mulletti was uninjured but two of his aides were killed, the reports said. The student was shot on the spot.

Only 80 In U.K. Earning Over $24,000

DUNDEE, Scotland, August 31 — Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said yesterday that after three years of the most expensive war in history Britain's financial front "stands strong and firm."

He conceded that the tax burden was "heavy and grievous," but said it was being borne with fortitude because "money is nothing compared with the sacrifices so many others are making in life and suffering.

He said some 9,500,000 wage earners and others with small incomes were making a direct contribution to the war effort to the tune of 270,000,000 pounds ($1,080,000,000) a year through income taxes.

"It is not yet sufficiently realized how great a contribution is being made by those who possess the largest incomes, most of whom had considerable commitments and responsibilites," Sir Kingsley said. He estimated that only 80 persons in Britain now were making 6,000 pounds $(24,000) or more, whereas they numbered 7,000 in 1938.

U.S. Slices Down Tire Allotments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 — The gravity of the nation's rubber shortage was emphasized by separate actions of the Office of Price Administration and the War Production Board.

First, the O.P.A. made sharp reductions in tire and tube quotas which will be made available for rationing to essential civilian users in September.

Second, the W.P.B. tightened its control over crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and rubber scrap, and placed further restrictions on the uses to which these products may be put.

In announcing the reduced tire and tube quotas, Price Administrator Leon Henderson called upon all vehicle operators to intensify tire conservation methods as the only way to make the quotas for September serve even the essential needs provided in the tire rationing regulations.

The O.P.A. fixed a quota of 239,445 new truck tires for the states and territories in September, compared with 316,695 for August; a quota of 262,256 recapped tires and recapping services for trucks, compared with 355,883 in August; and; an inner tube quota of 262,261 or trucks against 347,696 in August.

Passenger car tire allotments were fixed at 38,297 new tires for applicants on list A, which includes the most essential services; 115,544 grade 2 tires for class B eligibles—war workers only; 486,468 recapped tires or recapping services, and 333,450 inner tubes for both A and B classes. August quotas were 58,308 new tires, 87,860 grade 2, 637,959 recaps and 418,910 tubes.

While the over-all reduction in both passenger car and truck tire quotas are about in line with the sharp drop in replacement sales that is ordinary at this time of year, Mr. Henderson pointed out, they come this year at a time when the vehicles, particularly trucks, that continue to get rationed tires are working overtime to meet heavy demands being made on all transportation.

1500 more IMPERIAL POLICIES to workers in offices

● Among the 8,000 new Imperial Life policyholders last year, more than 1,500 were office workers. They represented many age groups, many kinds of business and, of course, their insurance needs varied also.

Imperial Life wrote policies to match each individual age and need. Policies to guarantee income for dependents, to assure children of a good start in life, to pay off a mortgage, to provide independence in the later years of life—these were some of the reasons behind the purchases.

To these 1,500 office men and women who became policyowners, a new sense of security was provided for themselves and for their families. Their investment gave them peace of mind they could not have won by any other means.

To an increasingly large cross-section of the people of Canada, The Imperial Life is "my insurance company." Why not let Imperial Life protect your future, too?

Three Years On The Home Front

In this last week of the third year of the Axis war some persons on the home front may feel fairly well satisfied with what they have been doing to bring about victory and the re-establishment of freedom throughout the world since the German war machine roared across the borders of Poland on September 1, 1938. Of course there are larger aspects of the war than the home front, with thirty-eight nations engaged in this tremendous global struggle but the home front is within our own vision and estimate, and it is going to be put to a severer test in the first months of this fourth year.

Any implied question of our acts and work and contribution to the winning of the war gratefully omits from its scope those families whose men are in the army and the navy and the air force. Those who have given fighting men to the Empire and its allies are thereby set apart from the rest whose sacrifice, if that term of tribute has actually been earned, has not cost them one night of worry and unrest. They have done what has been asked of them. Out of their wartime income they have bought Victory Bonds; some of them have worked longer hours than in normal times. Even so, they don't get up at five in the morning of summer—six when winter comes—as do the young men in the training camps of the air force; probably the army too.

So, we have bought some bonds! Now, what else? We are doing with a little less tea and sugar. We must not forget those deprivations. Possibly we are not getting as much meat as in peace time. What else, apart from the money that has been lent to the country, with interest?

Blow off the chaff of salvage and precautions and contributions to the auxiliary services, and the harvest of "sacrifice" on the home front seems to be surprisingly light.

On the industrial sector, both urban and rural, we may sometimes forget than even our contributory work, the producing of grain and guns, gunboats and so on, would have amounted to mighty little if our fighting men had failed to keep open the ocean channels of delivery.

If many of us will look back frankly over those thirty-six months of war we shall have to acknowledge that we have done so little rather than so much of action and other efforts that could possibly help to victory. This summer, for example, has followed a familiarly pleasant pattern for a lot of folks—motoring and fishing, vacations and dances.

Farmers have worked hard this season, and willingly, too, producing foodstuffs for overseas and at home. They know that if we had been beaten back to the last ditch of defending our own shores there would not be much left of Canadian agriculture, and agricultural income.

As a matter of plain fact the folks on the home front have not even been nicked yet—in three years of war. Grant the exceptions, but as for the rest they should be ready for the call that is coming this fall with another Victory Loan campaign following the incidence of the new income tax; and the Red Cross and other services are somewhere in the background. At any rate, we may feel satisfied with what we have done in those three years, but the legions of the home front have nothing to boast about—yet.

There has been a special industrial job, at wages that are hardly proportionate to the pay of the men of the fighting forces. And if a lot of men were not out there on the fighting lines there would be no industrial job here at home. Some men will burn the last gallon of gasoline they can get from the rationing scheme; others talk of striking to get more money; some grouse about the protective ceiling of prices. Possibly these are the exceptions in the ranks of the home front, but they are rather conspicuous. And they can't point to much accomplishment on their wartime credit side when they are asked to dig down for the financing of this fourth year of the war, beginning this week.

Financing Own Destruction

Germany learned much after the last war in finding ways of getting out of paying reparations. What she learned she is now putting to good effect in collecting of reparations and France today is, of course, the greatest contributor.

Reparations as we might call them have not been levied as such for the present, but we have only heard of the collecting of the "costs" of the army of occupation. These funds are set at a figure far above the actual costs, and according to the New York Times, are placed at the disposal of Germany in the form of franc balances advanced to the Vichy Government by the Bank of France. The proceeds, above what is actually needed to meet reparations costs, have been used by Germany to buy materials in France and to accumulate control of French properties on highly favorable terms.

The New York Times tells us how smoothly this scheme is functioning. Although payments to Germany in the first five months of this year have totalled 60,000,000,000 francs or nearly half of the total expenditures of 121,000,000,000 francs in the period, advances by the Bank of France to enable the government to meet its expenditures have come to only 23,000,000,000 francs.

The New York paper says the explanation is this: As Germany receives the payments she spends them in France buying up everything of real value. The expropriated French property owners who receive the francs can find no other outlet for them but to buy government bonds. This in turn puts the Government in funds again to continue its payments to Germany.

So the cycle is complete: The Bank of France grinds out loans, the Vichy Government turns the money over to Germany, Germany buys up French property and securities, the former French property owners use the funds to buy government bonds and the Government turns the money over to Germany again. Thus the French are made to finance their own destruction.

It is "controlled inflation" and no doubt history's first example. The Germans have tried both and they know well that inflation is more deadly than poison gas. In it they have found a formula for the systematic economic extirpation of their beaten enemy: The only outcome will be to leave the Nazis in possession of everything of value France once owned while leaving Frenchmen, literally a nation of rentiers, helpless to escape the ruin and degradation condemned by currency inflation.

Municipal Qualifications

A resolution calling for an amendment of the Municipal Act compelling every candidate for municipal office to make a cash deposit of $25 on qualifying was turned down last week by the elected representatives' section of the Ontario Municipal Association. It was the general opinion of the delegates that in war-time no bar should be set up against persons wishing to offer themselves for public service and one delegate went so far as to describe the resolution as undemocratic.

Undemocratic or not we have felt for a long time that if the best men were to be secured to give their services to the municipality on councils or boards of education that there should be some restrictions placed on the necessary qualifications.

However a fee of $25 would hardly serve the purpose that the sponsors of the resolution had in view. Some other means must be found to get the type of man who is interested in the welfare of the community to qualify as candidates.

We have in Peterborough some young men on our city council who are vitally interested in municipal affairs and in seeing Peterborough progress but we fear that if there had been a qualifying fee of $25 even if they did get it back providing they polled one-half of the votes obtained by the lowest elected candidate that they would hardly have offered themselves as candidates.

Getting elected in Peterborough costs money and unfortunately there is very little reward for the services which are given. Qualifications of the candidates so often never enter into the question when the voter goes into the polling booth. The ballots are too often marked for the man who is well known and who is generally acclaimed "as a good fellow."

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is a long war for did not Sir Thomas White tell Canadians in 1917 that the proposed income tax would be only until the war was over. It has remained and it has increased by ten times.

Vessels loaded with grain and Red Cross supplies reach Greek port, democracy's answer to a famine-stricken nation.

Soldier Given More Confidence

From MONTREAL STAR

(This brief story on how Canadian troops in training here regard the Dieppe raid was written by an Englishman now serving in the Canadian Active Army. It seems to reflect the thoughts and feelings most men will have experienced in the training centres of the Dominion.—Ed.)

THOSE who doubt the military value of the Dieppe raid should visit any Canadian training centre where relatively unseasoned troops are being accustomed, in an increasingly intensive manner, to the conditions of 1942 warfare.

For Dieppe, from a strategic point of view, was evidently more than a brilliant testing of Germany's coastal defences at one of their less vulnerable points. It was a vast, dramatized illustration of the need for a knowledge of Commando tactics on the part of all members of the army which Canada is building today, and which well may bear the brunt of the final assault upon the Continent when it comes. It cannot fail to justify, in the minds of recruits, the lessons which officers and N.C.O.'s back from overseas are trying to instil; it will make their task much easier.

FOR months we have been conditioned for the job ahead according to the demands of an increasingly exacting syllabus, but sometimes it has been hard for us to believe, in the still peaceful atmosphere of rural Quebec, that the things we have been made to do bore any connection with reality. We have hurled ourselves upon the ground at the blast of a whistle, struggled with respirators at the cry of "gas!", leaped into ditches and taken imaginary pot-shots at imaginary aircraft, waded streams in the very shadow of still existent bridges, and crept up hillsides in the dark towards a point where a hypothetical enemy without ammunition was waiting to establish us as technically dead. The men who were training us, and who had learned their lessons in England, did their best to infuse into us that sense of combat which is a prerequisite of good soldiering, but they must have found at times that their patience was sorely tried. The manoeuvres remained for some of us a sort of game, and news from abroad, where Canada's men have been waiting—training, waiting, training—did not, before Dieppe, entirely dispel that fatal illusion.

THEN, in a few hours, it became for all of us with even a touch of imagination the most exacting game we had ever played. We knew that the enemy who was waiting above the beaches was anything but hypothetical. And we could not help wondering if the Canadians who died in that raid, some of whom we knew, had not possibly been killed because they failed to throw themselves upon the ground with the impulsive simple-reflex action of the trained soldier, or leaped into a ditch a thousandeth of a second too late, or taken insufficient cover from aircraft which plunged down upon them in a way which our hitherto academic charts had told us they would plunge.

Not that we doubted the training of the men who performed a feat which we shall have difficulty in living up to! But the graphic and precise description of that raid made us think suddenly of possible deficiencies in our own reactions to the training schedule.

PERHAPS it may seem unjust that men should die in order to prove that well-prepared lessons were worth learning, but men have died before in order to stir their countrymen out of lethargy, and their deaths have not been considered as vain. Furthermore, we are only a small section of the Canadian army which must have benefitted in a technical way from the results of the Dieppe raid—the soldiers being instructed in the primary art of obedience, and learning the rudiments of modern war in preparation for advanced training. There are the engineers, the specialized technicians whose crafts were represented in, and contributed to the success of, that foray, and—by no means the least—the officers who will lead many of us in similar enterprises. In view of the influence which the story of Dieppe has had upon many of us, how much greater must it have been upon those who had already studied the new and still evolving science of modern assault from the sea.

AND out of the knowledge that this experiment has been so brilliantly accomplished must surely come two thoughts that will contribute to the confidence of the ordinary soldier, and the efficiency of the Canadian rank and file as a fighting unit—first, the realization that relatively small percentage of losses sustained in proportion to the enormous risks involved proved that the men who led us were ready, and had anticipated, in so far as it was humanly possible to anticipate, the exact conditions they met; secondly, that the minds which made such accurate predictions will surely be able to gain incalculable stores of experience from the venture.

Most of us did not put these thoughts in so complicated and round-about a way as this. We merely remarked that it looked as if the boys, in high places and low, were sure pulling together.

THUNDER-HEAD

Early for Tokyo Bombing

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

SPECTACULAR extension of the reach of the United Nations air arm is promised by a new war development, the Chinese recapture of their air bases.

From the Shuhsien and Lishui fields 1,300-mile raids on Tokyo are within the known capabilities of heavy bombers. The bases were built laboriously largely for the purpose of such assaults, which now are within sight of realization.

Under existing circumstances, however, the possibility of repeated and punishing assaults on the Japanese homeland seems remote.

The war picture has undergone a major transformation since the recaptured Chuhsien airfield was dug out of a valley last year by thousands of coolies and pronounced one of the best natural airdromes in East Asia. Lishui is about seventy-five miles away, and several other bases also were built at the time.

Now the Burma Road has been cut and China is all but isolated except by air. The vanguard of the expected force of American bombers is in action under Brigadier-General Claire L. Chennault, along with fighter planes, but it is sadly hampered.

Gasoline, bombs, spare parts, all must be brought in by air. So much fuel must be carried by transport planes for their long round trip flights over some of the world's loftiest mountain ranges that little space remains for cargo. Like mule pack trains, which must carry big loads of feed for the animals, planes of the aerial Burma Road tend in military slang to "eat themselves up."

A four-motor heavy bomber, it is estimated, burns nearly a gallon of fuel a minute at cruising speed. Aside from this difficulty, there is the uncertainty whether the fields can be held and made secure enough from further Japanese advances to serve as springboards for attack.

The Japanese have ample cause, nevertheless, for their fear that sooner or later there will be visits from China of a more formidable nature than James Doolittle's surprise call of last April.

The Japanese, like the Nazis, appreciate both the importance and stubborness of geography. Targets other than Tokyo are even closer to the Chinese airfields. The Japanese Ruhr, the heavy industry area of Northern Kyushu, is only 800 miles distant, and Osaka and its war factories but 1,000 miles.

And the Pacific war already has seen the conquest of problems as knotty as sending bombers to China and keeping them flying.

A Lesson in Royal Lineage

(ST. THOMAS TIMES-JOURNAL)

A SLIP that occurred in the current issue of Life magazine tempts us to offer correction, and along therewith to bring forward a singular historical coincidence. Life printed a series of handsome pictures of the British royal family, underneath a group placing an inscription about the royal family carrying the blood tradition of William the Conqueror, Richard Plantagenet, Edward III., Henry VIII., Queen Elizabeth and the Georges of Hanover. This was erroneous as far as Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth are concerned, since there is no Tudor blood in the present royal family; moreover, Queen Elizabeth never married, despite various romances circling about her name, and left no descendants. The genealogical tables in Green's "Short History of the English People," show that present British royalty is descended from the Yorkish branch of the family of Edward III., one of that branch named Margaret in the early 1500's wedded the then King James IV. of Scotland, from whom descended Mary Queen of Scots and her son, James I. of both England and Scotland, and so on to the Georges of Hanover.

It has been remarked that the British royal family set high store on their Stuart descent, despite the frailties that that family developed. Royalty has a right to its own opinion on the subject, but many students of history regard the Stuart monarchs of England as a poor lot, and even think of the Cromwellian Protectorate, which split in two the Stuart succession, as a much more brilliant era than that of any of the Stuarts. Besides one of them having been beheaded, another, James II., was driven from the throne and was succeeded by William of Orange, whose wife Mary was a Stuart, having been a daughter of James II. But of course the royal family could hardly be expected to subscribe to the above Cromwellion estimate

The singular historical coincidence which we now bring forward is that Charles I., who was beheaded largely at Cromwell's insistence, and Oliver Cromwell were ninth cousins. Cromwell also was of Stuart descent. His parents were Robert Cromwell and Elizabeth Steward (variably spelled Stewart or Stuart), his mother having been descended from Alexander, the Lord High Steward of Scotland, the ancestor of the whole royal family of Stuarts. The genealogists work out the tables to show that Cromwell and Charles I. were ninth cousins. Such fact is not so surprising as might appear at first glance, for it is well known that in the course of centuries and the unions of persons that occur, an effect is that many British families have more or less royal blood in their veins. Hence the fact of ninth cousinship is of small account alongside the manner in which fate crossed the paths of these two men, in the beheading of the one and in the virtual succession of the other to the kingship in the name of the Protectorate.

Sticklers for authorities are referred to Paxton Hood's Life of Cromwell, published in 1883 by Funk and Wagnalls; to Forster's "Lives of British Statesmen," vol. vi., and to Mark Nobles "The Cromwell Family."

Churchill's Grim Outlook

(FROM MONTREAL STAR)

THE return of Premier Churchill to Great Britain after his lengthy conference with Premier Stalin at Moscow, his visits to Iran, Iraq and Egypt, and his exhaustive inspection of conditions and numerous consultations with British commanders of the Indian, Middle East and Egyptian armies, has given rise to the usual spate of speculation and rumor. London cables report "diplomatic quarters" as stating that at the Moscow conferences an agreement regarding a second front was reached that was satisfactory to Russia, Britain and the U.S.A. alike. The various London papers write along the same lines editorially.

There is, however, absolutely no official confirmation of this report, which may be wishful thinking, but certainly expresses the sentiments of the British people as expressed by Lord Halifax on his return to Washington yesterday, when he said: "I think that talk (about a second front) represents a growth of offensive spirit everywhere. With it, however, there is sensible recognition of the fact that our technical staffs are the best judges of how, when and where."

Whatever action in the direction of a diversion to draw Nazi forces away from the Russian front is contemplated, if any, will, we may reasonably assume, be made very shortly, because the crisis on the Stalingrad front and in the Caucasus is growing more acute hourly. Any such diversion would come as a profound relief to the heroic Russians, who are standing up against the mightiest attack ever yet made by any group of armies in the history of warfare.

Make no mistake about it, the spectacle is a very grim one, no matter in what direction we turn. We must be prepared for serious news at any moment. We have not yet begun to win this war, and the sooner the entire population of this Dominion and of the North American continent realize that fact, the better speed we shall make with our war effort,—provided the demon Strike is annihilated first.

A Bible Message For Today

And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place: and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting.—Matt. xvii, 14-21.

And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.—Matt. xxi, 22.

Unconsidered Trifles

It was at a concert in aid of the local Spitfire Fund. A lady whose voice was simply appalling had just finished her song, and Brown almost had a fit when he found his wife was applauding her boisterously.

"What on earth are you clapping for, have you gone mad?" he cried. "The woman's voice was simply awful."

"Oh, but her dress is lovely," cried his wife, "and I want to have another look at it so that I can give the dressmaker hints upon making mine."

Florrie, a very small evacuee, answered, "Please, miss, when the lady who we is staying with gets the last of us washed, she marches us up for bed, and then says, 'Now for a bit of peace'."

"You want more money to pay your dressmaker?" said her husband. "But I gave you £5 last week for her."

"Yes, dear," explained the wife, gently, "but it just happened that she did not send the bill."

The Wedding Pageant

Alexis Smith wears a lace wedding veil caught just behind the pompadour with a cluster of gardenias. It is draped like a mantilla, but without the high Spanish comb.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MANY a furlough bride has enough time to plan a formal wedding, and also has heirloom bridal finery into which she will slip on the Great Day.

It's a pity to cut an heirloom lace veil to modern fashion ... much better and just as easy to drape it a la mode, and leave the veil intact to pass on to the next generation.

That's why we show you this photograph of Alexis Smith posing in wedding costume for Hollywood, as the arrangement of the Duchesse lace veil couldn't be prettier and it is merely pinned to the coiffure. You girls who wear pompadours will appreciate the tip.

DOROTHY DIX

WE ARE STILL VERY FAR AWAY FROM MATRIMONIAL MILLENNIUM

For One Thing Husband and Wives Should Learn to Tell the Truth.

The matrimonial millennium to which all hopeful brides and bridegrooms look forward will arrive when:

Boys and girls use their brains as well as their eyes in selecting their mates and take the trouble to find out before marriage whether they are getting what they want, instead of waiting to discover after marriage that they guessed wrong.

When husbands and wives take each other "as is" and make the best of their bargains, instead of trying to cut each other according to their own little perforated paterns. As long as a husband and wife flatter each other the honeymoon never sets, but when he begins finding fault with her cooking and making fun of her hats and she commences criticizing his grammar and his table manners, it is down for keeps.

When men and women cease to have a childlike faith in the old superstitution that there is some conjure in the marriage ceremony that will turn a ne'er-do-well into a go-getter, and make a feminine clotheshorse prefer basement bargains to little numbers from a speciality shop, and realize that what people are before marriage they are after marriage, only more so.

When brides learn how to cook and run a budget before marriage, instead of giving their unfortunate bridegrooms chronic dyspepsia and throwing half of their salary in the garbage can while they are acquiring the art of preparing edible food and pinching pennies.

Courtesy Is Required

When husbands and wives treat each other with as much courtesy as they show to strangers, and wives take as much trouble to doll themselves up and be easy on their husbands' eyes as they do for a dinner guests, and husbands make as much effort to sell themselves to their wives as they would to a good customer.

When the family argument is taboo and husbands and wives walk high, wide and handsome around the subjects on which they disagree, instead of dragging them out on the carpet and fighting over them like dogs over a bone, thereby conserving the peace and saving wear and tear on nerves and dispositions.

When husbands and wives will be able to tell each other the truth and deal with each other with honesty and frankness, instead of the husband having to lie about having had to stay downtown at night balancing the books or meet a buyer from Oshkosh when he really played poker with the boys, and the wife having to tell that her new hat was a little bargain that she picked up for $5 when she actually paid $20 for it.

When husbands and wives eliminate the continual squabble over money that keeps more married couples sore at each other. When the husband tells his wife frankly just had much his income is and gives her her share of it on which to run the house and for her individual use, instead of making her come to him like a beggar for every cent; and when the wife appreciates how hard her husband earns every dollar and tries to save him as much as possible.

When in-laws stay in their own homes and do not clutter up their children's premises by being perpetually camped in the guest room, and by assuming that they have the right to boss their daugthers-in-law and tell them how they shall runs their houses, and to borrow money from their sons-in-law.

When men and women will not marry until they are ready to settle down and go domestic, and as long as they want to philander and regard children as brats and making a home slavery they will stay single.

When husbands and wives will show each other appreciation and never forget to say "thank you" for the devotion and service that each gives the other.

When every day, every husband and wife will do their boy and girl scout good deed by telling each other how much they love him or her, and how happy they have made them, and how blest they thing they are in being married.

These are some of the things that would bring about the matrimonial millennium, but so far there is no sign on the horizon of its arrival.

Baked Half of Hubbard Squash (see below)
Shredded Cabbage and Parsley Salad
Apricot Cobbler Hot Cocoa

NOTES: Baked Corned Beef Hash is a superior supper dish and I recommend it to any cooks who do not have it in their repertoire; 2 cups chopped corned beef (canned or homecooked), 4 cups chopped boiled potatoes, 1 cup milk or cream, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, 2 tablespoons minced onion (2 tablespoons chopped green pepper or parsley are preferable but not essential), (no salt is needed). Panfry the onion and pepper for 3 minutes, then add all remaining ingredients (except the parsley when used), and mix well and place in oven and bake for from 1 to 1½ hours, adding milk if needed. If baked at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours, squash may be baked at the same time, but additional milk will doubtless be necessary. I think the best way to serve Hubbard Squash is baked. One-half medium size squash will serve 6 people. Scoop out seeds, and brush surface lightly with butter and sprinkle with salt. bake "as is" for from 1½ to 1¾ hours at 350 deg. Fahr. If this were not an "economy" dinner I would suggest pouring over cut surface ¼ cup cream about 15 minutes before squash is done.

WESTCLOX GIRLS TROUNCE YORK LADIES 16 TO 4 TO WIN ROUND

Bob Falkenburg Whipped By Argentinan

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Alejo Russell of Argentina, third seeded foreign player in the United States tennis championships at Forest Hills, employed a terrific service to defeat Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, United States interscholastic champion 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, yesterday in a resumption of their match interrupted Saturday by weather.

Each had won a set, and Falkenburg led 4-3 in the third when they began play before an early crowd of about 3,000 in the stadium. Russell's service, one of the fastest in the game, was the deciding factor.

Pancho Segura of Ecuador, the top-seeded foreigner, gradually got his game going after a shaky opening set and won his first-round match from Ensign Ronald Edwards of Ithaca, N.Y., a towering left-hander, 9-7, 6-3, 6-1.

Pancho appeared to be suffering from "stadium fright" in the initial set, and had to scramble hard to pull it out, but once he gained control of his two-handed forehand shots in the second set he made fast work of the ensign.

Ted Schroeder Jr. of Glendale, Cal., seeded No. 1 among the men was scarcely afforded a good workout by Private Gilbert Hunt of Texas, whom he overwhelmed 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. Frankie Parker, now of Hollywood, went further toward justifying his second seeding by beating Richard Hart of Miami, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

Lieutenant Gardnar, Mullovy of Virginia, seeded third, easily trimmed Isador Bellis of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, while William Talbert of Cincinnati, seeded fourth, turned back E. Victor Seixas Jr. of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6. The clay court champion, Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, put out Robert Dixon of Syracuse, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Sidney Wood Jr., the New York veteran, was the only one of the domestic seeded players who was carried to extra sets in winning through the second round. He defeated Charles Masterson of Baldwin, N.Y., 6-1, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Harris Everett of Orlando, Fla., seeded No. 1, beat Corporal J. Gilbert Hall of Texas, 6-2, 6-3, 10-8, while George Richards, the sensational young left-hander from Montebello, Cal., who is seeded eighth, beat George Ball of El Paso, Texas, 7-5, 7-5, 6-[illegible] in a tight match.

Quakers Capture Second Tourney

In the second tournament with St. Mary's Tennis Club of Lindsay, the Quakers clinched the series with a four matches to three decision during the week-end. Unlike the first conflict on Friday night that gave the locals five matches out of six, the follow-up in Lindsay proved more difficult as the Scugoggers unleashed a torrent of energy that came perilously near sweeping the confident Quakermen off their feet. Grace Caddy and Howard Macdonald finally rallied in the last match of the day and saved face for their club. The Quakers are shifting teams desperately in the men's doubles division but have yet to come through with enough winners to gain the odds over Lindsay, as was neatly proven by the clean sweep made by Lindsay in this department over the week-end. Local stars retaliated however, by taking three straight mixed doubles competitions and the laides doubles.

Dorothy Weese and Isabel Martin had little difficulty in disposing of Lucy Callaghan and Kay Meehen in two sets 6-0, 6-2. This first win was valuable to the Quakers since it turned the scales in their favor.

Anne Callaghan and J. G. Sabourin gave an easy first set to Peggy Lawless and Horace Fisher but showed remarkable stubbornness in the second before losing the match 6-0, 8-6.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Duncan teamed up perfectly to defeat Catherine Williams and Guy Mills 6-4, 6-1.

A Close Match.

Eleanor Meehan and Father Cox came within an ace of crashing Grace Caddy's and Howard Macdonal's house of box-tops in one of the most crucial and precarious matches of the day. The Petes took the first set, lost the second, and rapidly approached the danger line in the final test but firmly buckled

18 Hits Made By Locals In Second Game

Banging out 18 solid base hits and capitalizing on their opponents 11 errors, Westclox Girls trounced Toronto York Ladies, 16-4 at Riverside Park, Saturday night, thereby taking the first round of the P. W. S. U. playdowns in two straight games.

The season's largest crowd saw Westclox spot the visitors three runs on I. Burke's long home run in the first inning, and then settle away to play fine ball behind Marg. Watson's steady hurling to allow the losers but a single run in the next eight frames.

Westclox got one in the last half of the initial inning, another in each of the third, fourth and fifth and then took complete command in the sixth on seven hits and the losers nine errors as the Toronto defense fell completely apart. They added their final run in the 7th.

The losers after scoring three times in the first failed to cross the plate again until the eighth, going down in order from the fourth through the seventh.

Westclox turned in one of the best defensive performances of the year, contributing but two errors to the Toronto cause, both of which came late in the ball game, long after the issue had all but been settled by their long lead.

That Marg. Watson had the losers hitter's completely hand-cuffed is clearly shown in the fact that the Westclox' outfielders were called on to handle but one fly ball in the entire game.

The Fielding Gem.

Marg. Hawthorne turned in the winner's fielding gem with a jumping catch of a line drive, while all the Westclox infielders handled a flock of fielding chances in great style. V. Walker and I. Burke each made a nice grab of infield flies for the Toronto team while D. Gill had a nice running catch of a liner in short right field.

Toronto opened the scoring in the top half of the first, when I. Burke smashed a home run to deep left centre, scoring afte J. Nicholls who had walked and L. Hodder who reached first on a fielder's choice.

The Westclox got one back in their half. A. Anderson, first up, beat out a bunt, and scored on E. Armstrong's double to centre. Both teams went scoreless in the second, the winners leaving a couple stranded on the bases, and Toronto failed to score in the third. Westclox picked up another in their half, M. Hawthorne getting the first of her five singles and scoring on I. Bullock's double.

They got another in the fourth after the losers went out one, two, three in their half. D. Walker got to first via the four ball route, and scored on an error and V. McLean's double to right field. The same thing happened in the fifth. Toronto 0, Westclox 1. M. Hawthorne started it this time, singling to centre. She went to second on an error and scored on V. Patterson's two base blow.

Then after York Ladies went down in order in the sixth, the winners broke loose in their half. A. Anderson singled, went to third as V. McLean was safe on an error. E. Armstrong singled and both runners scored and she went to third as the Toronto pitcher threw wild to that base after the throw in. M. Hawthorne singled and after an infield fly produced the first out of the inning, she scored when D. Gill dropped M. Watson's long fly to right, the Westclox pitcher taking third on the error. B. Rome doubled, sharply to right, scoring M. Watson. Then after V. Patterson flied out, D. Walker walked, A. Anderson was safe on an error, filling the bases. V. McLean tapped weakly to the pitcher's box, but R. Allen threw wild to first, all runners being safe and B. Rome and D. Walker scoring. It was the Toronto teams sixth error of the inning. Then E. Armstrong, M. Hawthorne and I. Bullock hit successive singles, which coupled with two errors produced the final three runs of the game before M. Watson grounded out to end it. The totals for that inning were, 11 runs, 7 hits and 9 errors.

Toronto got their final run in the eighth on singles by B. Dorrington and G. Wright, coupled with a Westclox error, and the winners completed the scoring in their half with a single run, produced by V. McLean's triple and an infield out. The box score:

By FRED D. CRAIG

Congratulations are in order to the Westclox team. The Peterborough girls made a clean sweep of their series with the Toronto winners, winning in Toronto 12 to 5 and taking the second game here Saturday by 16 to 4. There never was any doubt as to the superiority of the Big Bens in the series. They played smart ball in the field, behind effective pitching by Marg Watson, and hit the spheroid hard when on the attack. Marg Hawthorne who shone defensively with a circus catch, also led the hitting parade Saturday with five hits in six times up while she carried in four runs. Eunice Armstrong was next in line with three solid blows and everybody on the club got at least one safe hit. It was Westclox's day all the way. The game attracted the largest crowd of the season despite the fact that the Toronto team ran into motor trouble on the way down and were hours late in getting here. The game in fact did not get under way until six o'clock but the fans took the long delay patiently and the crowd was almost as large as it had been at the hour advertised for starting the tilt. Westclockers expect to play the winners of Hamilton-Intercounty League series next.

* * * * * *

Big Preem Whiteley of Oshawa has been fogging his fast ball past batters for a long time but Plazas discovered Saturday that the right arm of the Motor City ace has lost little or any of its z-p. Whiteley was on top of the Peterborough batters all the way. He walked two, with two out in the first, but got the next batter, yielded a double to W. Starr in the second, allowed Crowe and Blewett to bunch a single and a double in the sixth for a run, gave up a single to Eddie Starr in the seventh and a double to Art Heal in the eighth and that was the sum total of the Petes' offence for the day. Preem struck out eight, six of them in the first three innings and when he wasn't whiffing Plazas had them lofting flies, sixteen of them going out in that way while Oshawa had only three assists, which must be a record low. With their attack stopped cold the Peterborough gang, as usual when a team is not hitting, looked bad and the Colts had little trouble in piling up the 13 to 1 score. The bottom fell out of the ball game in the third inning when Oshawa scored six times and it was just a case of playing out the string after that. Oddly enough, in spite of the big score, the game was rattled off in the very fast time of exactly one hour.

* * * * * *

The second game of the series will be played here Wednesday at 6 o'clock and in spite of the one-sided trimming they absorbed at Oshawa Plazas are confident that they can tie up the round with a win over the Colts at Riverside Park. They admit that they were guilty of a bad game in the first tussle but they say they will snap back into form in the return game and give the cocky Colts a real argument. They expect to face Dean McLaughlin, tricky Oshawa heaver, in the battle here. McLaughlin has a lot of stuff on the ball and while he lacks Whiteley's smoke, is considered by Oshawa fans as more of a puzzle. However Plazas hope to find him more to their liking than Preem turned out to be. Dave Wilson will likely get the pitching assignment for the Plazas. The biggest crowd of the season will be on hand to see the old rivals tangle. Oshawa and Peterborough have staged some red-hot battles on the softball diamond and Wednesday's clash looms up as one of the pepperiest of the whole list.

Brintons Vs. Electrics

Brintons and Electrics will clash tonight at 6.30 o'clock at the Bowl in a girls' game that should be about as close as the weather has been lately. On the season's record the two outfits are very evenly matched and now that they are facing each other in a series for the intermediate championship and the Knox Cup they should stage an exciting round, with the title going to the club that gets the breaks. These two clubs, new this season, deserve a lot of credit for the manner in which they have stuck to their guns, despite the fact that the two experienced teams, Westclox and Generals pulled away from them in the league race. They have kept on practicing and playing with the result that their work has improved noticeably and they have brought along a crop of younger players who will be the stars of the campaigns in the future. In tonight's game Mary Larmer, left-handed twirler for the Electricians will face Leila Hughes, right-handed Brinton pitcher in what should be a real duel. The clubs have earned a real crowd for this season and now that they have the right-of-way to settle the intermediate title should have plenty of patrons in the pews.

A Lot of Baseball

There was a lot of big league baseball over the week-end and it left the situation about the same in the American loop but tightened up the National League race. In fact the St. Louis Cards are a distinct threat to the supremacy of the Brooklyn Dodgers right now and they are getting so close that the Bums must be able to feel the hot breath of the pursuers on the backs of their neck. In the American League canter New York and Boston fared about the same over the week-end. St. Louis throwing a depth charge into the Red Sox by taking the first game of a double-header from them when Johnny Niggeling held the second-placers to one run. The final count was 4 to 1 for the Brownies. Red Sox smothered St. Louis in the second battle. Old Ted Lyons added another to his long list of wins with a 2 to 1 victory over Philadelphia A's but Penetang's Phil Marchildon, one of the pitchers of the year came back with a four-hitter in the second game to give the A's a 3 to 2 win. Another grand old veteran won himself a ball game yesterday when Red Ruffing pitched a five-hitter against Detroit to win 7 to 1. A homer by Harris was the only run scored off Ruffing. m

In the National League, Johnny Beazley of the St. Louis Cards picked up his 17th win of the season as the Cards triumphed over Boston 8 to 3. The Cards scored five runs in the sixth to wrap the contest up. Whit Wyatt of the Brooklyn Dodgers added another win to his collection as the Bums won 3 to 1 over the Pirates, the first game of a double-header. Hughes, brilliant Phillies' pitcher tossed a three-hitter against Cincinnati Reds but it was of little avail; Johnny VanderMeer shutting the Phils out 2 to 0 in the first game, Cincinnati took the second game 8 to 5, Ray Starr at last winning his 14th game of the season. Carl Hubbell started for New York against the Cubs, but it was Adams, amazing relief pitcher, who got credit for the 8 to 6 win. It was the 51st game in which he had worked this season.

Great Saving Job

MISSOULA, Ont., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Forest service officials, hard pressed to find single men for fire lookouts in competition with the draft and well-paying defence jobs, have hired married couples, many of them newlyweds. Officials say it doubles the efficiency of the lookout stations; it is a remarkably healthy way to spend the summer, and it provides the newly married couples with a nice bank account—there isn't any place to spend money on a lookout.

Alsab, Whirly Both Win Coveted Stakes

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP) —Alsab, $700 bargain colt owned by Mrs. Albert Sabath of Chicago, climaxed a brilliant comeback Saturday by winning the $179,400 American Derby before 35,000 spectators at Washington Park.

Alsab defeated the front running With Regards by three and one-half lengths with Anticlimax third, one and one-half lengths further back. The Irish-bred Rounders, which defeated Whirlway in the $25,000 Arlington Handicap a month ago, was fourth in a field of sevn.

Alsab ran the one and one-quarter miles over a slow track in 2:06 3-5. As a result Mrs. Sabath collected $60,850 This brought Alsab's season's earnings to $158,865, and his total winnings in two years to $269,465.

Valdina Orphan which ran as an entry with Rounders, finished fifth, King's Abbey sixth and Aletern seventh.

With Regards, which was not supposed to compete unless the track was muddy or sloppy, ran a surprisingly good race, although no match for Alsab.

With Regards Goes Wild.

Halfway down the backstretch With Regards was a good dozen lengths in front of Alsab, still in fifth position. Jockey George Woolf, in a magnificent ride whipped Alsab a couple of times at this point to get him started. For a moment it appeared he wasn't going to show his usual powerful finish. Then he started coming.

Going into the stretch turn Alsab was gaining with every stride. Then he got a break. With Regards still in front, went wide at the stretch turn. Valdina Orphan Anticlimax and Rounders, who were in second flight of horses directly behind With Regards, also drifted out.

Woolf grabbed the chance. He sent Alsab through a wide hole on the rail and Alsab same willingly.

Rosetown Challenges

CAMDEN, N.J., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Whirlaway won the $10,000 added Trenton handicap at Garden State Park Saturday, as everybody expected, but he surprised the crowd by becoming a front runner instead of demonstrating his famous stretch drive.

The long-tailed Calumet Croesus, who jumped his total earnings to $467,036 with the winner's purse of $8,500, was given a rousing battle by George E. Widener's Rosetown, but crossed the finish a length ahead of the Widener mare. Miss Helen Hickman's Aonbarr was third a nose behind Rosetown, with Mrs. C. S. Bromley's In Question fourth and last.

A crowd of 18,492, including many celebrities, turned out to watch turfdom's outstanding horse in his first race on the new track.

Fifth Stake Victory

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Devil's Thumb, the bargain basement son of Grand Slam, rounded out his grand slam of Saratoga's ancient racing features for juveniles Saturday.

The youngster, who was picked up for $3,000 at the yearling sales a year ago by W. E. Boeing, airplane manufacturer, came from far back to take the thirty-eighth running of The Hopeful for his fifth straight stake victory of the month-long meeting and boosted his earnings to $62,875.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

This week we enter the home stretch of the 1942 lawn bowling season. One can hardly realize that we have been bowling for three months, June, July and August, yet we have. On all sides we hear the remark "Where has the summer gone to?" As far as we are concerned, we have not the slightest idea.

Our only advice to bowlers is this: From now on, take advantage of every bowling opportunity that presents itself. The month of September is a short one, and will soon pass; and then its a case of stowing away the bowls until May 24, 1943—and that's eight long months.

However, we have lots of bowling to do yet. To-night and Wednesday night No. 2 group plays, and on Tuesday night and Thursday night No. 1 group plays.

Friday night we will have our usual tournament and on the extra greens R. Burns intends to stage the novice competition.

On Wednesday the ladies are holding a trebles tournament but this will not affect the men's games at night.

On Thursday our club will be represented at Toronto in the Globe doubles by two pairs: P. Moore and C. Giroux, R. F. Downey and C. Renaud.

Besides all this the ladies will carry on their doubles schedule And we suppose (although we have nothing official) they will soon commence the playoffs for the third prize in the rink schedule.

Now, if that's not crowding the days and nights for one week, we don't know what will.

Anyway, let's hope for some nice weather and a successful conclusion to a summer of real fine sport.

Some Sport Shots From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, August 13 — (CP). — There's never been anything like it, this Sunday knockout softball tournament in Hyde Park that drew an estimated 15,000 persons throughout the day.

As many Britons glimpsed the game for the first time—and liked it—R.C.A.F. Overseas Headquarters emerged victors after an extra-inning final and were presented with the Knights of Columbus Trophy by Group Capt. J. E. Hunter of Ottawa. Headquarters and teams from four Canadian squadrons made up the draw with H.Q. winning the final 6-4 from a squadron whose commander is Sqdn. Ldr. R. F. Begg of Vancouver.

For the first time in history, the sanctity of Lord's has been invaded by women cricketers. The team, made up of W.A.A.F.s, didn't play on the famous square in the middle of the match ground, however but on wickets on the spacious nursery or practice ground behind the stands. They opposed an R.A.F. men's team, who batted and bowled left-handed. Barring this handicap, normal cricket was played with everyone properly attired.

P.S.—The Mere Males won.

Rated by many judges as No. 1 world batsman, Wally Hammond, England cricket captain now in the R.A.F. still scores centuries. Word has been received that he scored 129 while playing for the Gezira Club in Egypt. That gives him a record of scoring centuries in eight different countries.

Hammond, who never goes anywhere without his cricket bag, has passed the three-figure mark in Australia South Africa, West Indies New Zealand, India and Egypt. As a schoolboy, he made hundreds in Malta and China.

Sixty-three-year-old J. P. Long, headmaster of Edmonton Council School, took his 63rd wicket of the season while playing for Edmonton Cricket Club seconds against Enfield. He was bowled in 15 matches this season and says he feels "well enough to go on playing until I'm 70." He's been a cricketer 50 years, 36 of them with Edmonton.

To The End Of Their Gas

HIGHLAND MILLS, N.Y., Aug. 31.—(AP).— Gypsy Rose Lee, who stripped her way from burlesque into legitimate stage fame, is honeymooning to-day with Actor Alexander Kirkland. "We're going as far as our gas will get us," he said after a midnight marriage ceremony at her home here. It was the second marriage for Miss Lee and the first for Kirkland.

We're All Right, Sure To Win Says Durocher

By GIB STALEY

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—(AP).—Here's good news for those Flatbush fans who may be having qualms about their beloved "Bums," the Brooklyn Dodgers:

"Don't worry about us. We're all right and we'll win the pennant for you again." Signed—Leo Durocher.

That sums up the fiery Dodger manager's attitude about the National League pennant race, which has become hotter than a four-alarm fire since the St. Louis Cardinals have won 19 of their last 23 games.

Durocher was the picture of confidence as he banded together Larry McPhail's million-dollar team for another joust today with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Yesterday, the Dodgers split a twin bill with the Bucs and saw their lead over the rampaging Cards reduced to three full games.

"Sure the Cardinals are hotter than hell right now," Durocher said. "They've got a good team and a great manager in Billy Southworth. But if they keep going the way they are we'll simply have to get hotter.

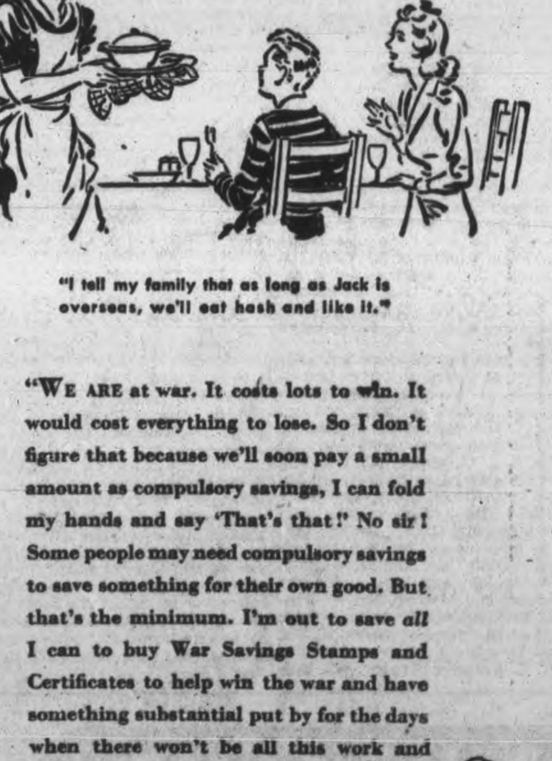
"My boys have been playing good ball and I'm not worried a bit about winning the National League pennant again. And here's another thing: My players are just as confident as I am. They're a great bunch and they are always in there fighting."

Durocher was quick to point out the Dodgers have plenty of games remaining on their home grounds, adding: "We're still three games ahead, have a couple of more games to play than the Cards and it's up to them to catch us—not for us to catch them. And you can believe me that our boys aren't losing this pennant now without a helluva struggle."

Party For 'Mom'

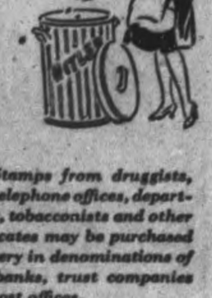
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP).—Because Mrs. J. H. Edmondson treated them so handsomely while entertaining them week-ends, four soldiers gave a party for her at a hotel here and gave her a cup inscribed "To our darling mom." Mrs. Edmondson says "they are like real sons to me. They called me up on my birthday and sang 'Happy Birthday,' and reversed the charges, just like our own children would do."

Eat Hash—and like it!



"I tell my family that as long as Jack is overseas, we'll eat hash and like it."

"WE ARE at war. It costs lots to win. It would cost everything to lose. So I don't figure that because we'll soon pay a small amount as compulsory savings, I can fold my hands and say 'That's that!' No sir! Some people may need compulsory savings to save something for their own good. But that's the minimum. I'm out to save all I can to buy War Savings Stamps and Certificates to help win the war and have something substantial put by for the days when there won't be all this work and overtime."



"I've christened my garbage can 'Hitler' and believe me he doesn't get anything that's worth anything."

Buy War Savings Stamps from druggists, banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, grocers, tobacconists and other retail stores. Certificates may be purchased for immediate delivery in denominations of $5, $10, $25 from banks, trust companies and post offices.

PLAZAS SMOTHERED BY OSHAWA COLTS IN FIRST OF PLAYDOWNS

Whiteley Stops Petes Cold With Five Hits

Plazas who have been riding high, wide and handsome over local opposition all season, ran into an open switch at Oshawa Saturday afternoon and were smothered 13 to 1 by Oshawa Colts in the first game of the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playdowns. The second game will be played at Riverside Park at 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening.

The Peterborough representatives were stopped cold by the veteran Preem Whiteley who whistled a fast ball at them so effectively that he held the hard-hitting hockey squad to five safe blows, while Oshawa on the other hand took kindly to the offerings of Tom Parsons on the mound for the Plazas, slamming out 18 hits during the engagement.

It was plainly not Plazas' day. Impotent on the attack as Whiteley wove a magic spell around their bats, they were guilty of four defensive slips that figured in the run-getting and after the third inning when Oshawa chased six runs over the counting station the rest of the activities was nothing more than a formality.

Whiteley struck out eight, allowed but five hits and issued only two bases on balls, both in the first frame. Don Crowe and Joe Blewett managed to put two hits together in the sixth inning and that meant the only run allowed by the big Oshawa smoke-baller. Parsons had nothing in his repertoire to stop the Colts and in addition they got the benefit of all the breaks to help pile up the score.

Red Jubenville led the winners' attack with four solid blows but at that he did not do as much damage as Third Baseman Hall with a couple of freak hits. Hall came up in the third with the bases loaded and two out and dropped a pop fly along the left field line. The ball took a crazy hop to the side into foul territory, going for a triple that cleared the sacks. Later Hall golfed one almost off the grass and the drive went between Blewett and Sero for a home run.

There were few fielding features. Joe Blewett had one when he tore in fast to make a circus grab of a short fly to centre and Art Heal had another when he ran back into left field to negotiate a fine catch.

After Heal and Kingdon had struck out Peterborough had a chance in the first when Crowe and Blewett walked but Sero filed to centre.

Start It First

Oshawa started the scoring in their half. Hall was tossed out by Crowe but Dalton scratched a hit on a roller that Parsons knocked down and couldn't field. Trewin popped to Heal. Nelson singled to right, sending Dalton to third. Jubenville drove a single into left, scoring Dalton but Sero cut Nelson down at third when he tried to go two bases on the hit.

W. Starr doubled with one out in the second but Eddie Starr flied out to centre and Parsons whiffed.

The Colts picked up another run in their half. Bidgood singled to centre and was sacrificed to second by Little. O'Reilly struck out but Whiteley ripped a singled through third, sending Bidgood in. Heal made a nice catch of Hall's fly to short left.

Plazas didn't move a wheel in the third but Oshawa staged a big inning that broke up the ball game. The trouble began when Sero dropped Dalton's fly to left, the batter reaching second. Trewin doubled to centre to score the run. Nelson popped to Parsons trying to bunt but Jubenville going to third. Little forced Bidgood at second on a roller to Crowe, Jubenville scoring. O'Reilly dropped a double into centre and Whiteley was passed, filling the bases. Hall unloaded them with a lucky triple, a pop fly that lit just inside of the left field foul line and then bounced to the cars. Blewett's running catch of Dalton's fly to centre ended the disastrous inning.

The Petes again went out in order in the fourth while Oshawa got another marker. With one out Nelson bunted safely and Jubenville's hot shot to Parsons went for a single. Bidgood filed to Kingdon in right and when Nelson broke for third after the catch Kingdon threw past the difficult corner, letting Nelson score. Little fouled to W. Starr.

Petes Get One

The Petes finally broke into the score column in the sixth. With two out Don Crowe lined a single into left and scored when Joe Blewett dropped a double into the same field, Blewett going to third on the throw home. Sero popped to Jubenville.

Oshawa came back with three. Dalton singled through short. Trewin lifted one to Heal. Nelson singled to right, and Jubenville to left, Bidgood was safe on Parsons' error on his bunt and when Little forced Bidgood on his hopper to Crowe, Don's throw to complete the double was wide and Little ran to second. The net result of all this was three runs. O'Reilly's hopped to Parsons retired the side.

Eddie Starr beat out a tap to short with two out in the seventh but Parsons lifted an easy fly to Nelson.

Oshawa got their last run in their half when Hall, second man up, homered to left centre on a drive that he golfed almost off the ground.

Art Heal led off in the eighth with a double over second but Kingdon and Crowe flied out and Blewett rolled to Bidgood. That was the last Plaza threat, the side going down in order in the ninth. Little tripled with two out in Oshawa's half and O'Reilly walked but Whiteley flied out to Sero.

Wings Hold Fifth Taking Leafs Twice 5-4, 3-2

By The Associated Press

It's taken a little longer than usual, but Newark Bears have clinched their seventh International League pennant in the last 11 years.

Although the Bears lost the first game of their twin bill with Baltimore yesterday, they had the flag stored away before the start of the second because the second-place Jersey City Giants lost their opener to Syracuse Chiefs.

Young Ray Flanigan limited the Bears to five hits in the first game as his mates collected nine off George Washburn, including a three-run circuit clout by George Staller in the third, for a 5-1 triumph.

Milkman Jim Turner hurled the 2-1 victory in the second game and immediately was promoted to the parent New York Yankees. Turner will be eligible for participation in the World Series. The Yankees sent Norman (Red) Branch to Newark in exchange for Turner.

Jersey City and Syracuse each won by the whitewash method.

Ewell Blackwell turned the trick for the Chiefs in the opener allowing only five hits, while Johnny Wittig retorted in the finale, scattering eight bingles. Both scores were 4-0.

Rochester Red Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs in a double-header by 5-4 and 3-2 scores and remained in fifth place—just outside the playoff ranks.

Montreal Royals divided a bargain bill with Buffalo Bisons, losing the first tilt and winning the aftermath behind the three-hit pitching of Al Sherer, 5-0.

Dutch Meyer led a nine-hit attack against three Royal tossers in the curtain raiser with three hits in as many trips to the plate. Jack Graham of Montreal, hit three homers, one in the opener and two in the wind-up.

In games Saturday Toronto defeated Montreal 4-2 in the opener but lost the nightcap 2-0; Baltimore made it 6-5 over Newark; Rochester blanked Buffalo 1-0 in 10 innings and Jersey City and Syracuse split a doubleheader. The Chiefs won the first game 5-1 and the Little Giants the second 7-4.

Art Milnar, Indians, and Dutch Leonard, Senators—Pitched victories as their teams split double-header, latter registering five-hit shutout.

Ted Lyons, White Sox, and Phil Marchildon, Athletics — Divided mound honors in double-header, latter tossing a four-hitter.

Deluxe Dinner For Whirlaway

None of your blue plate specials for "Whirlaway," but a real de luxe dinner. One of the chefs at Garden State Park race course is serving the turf king shortly after his arrival for the Trenton handicap. The little horse with the big tail is, of course, favored to win.

Dodgers Split With Pirates, Cards Grab Two

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sport Writer

Like Indian summer, cuffless trousers and ceiling prices, that pennant duel between Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals—which most folks figured would get here sooner or later—finally has arrived.

After coasting along through most of the National League campaign, the Dodgers found themselves separated from the threatening Cardinals today by nothing more than three short games.

Whether they need it or not, the Cards seem to be getting help from all the other clubs in the league.

The Cardinals started the Dodgers down the hill, but Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates also got in a couple of licks.

Most alarming to the Flatbush followers, and perhaps as responsible for the Brooklyn slump as anything else, is the leg injury of centre fielder Pete Reiser which put the National League batting leader in the hospital after hobbling him for nearly two weeks.

Pistol Pete, who has failed to get a hit in his last 15 official trips to the plate and has been out of the lineup frequently of late, finally was sent to Johns Hopkins last night for treatment of a torn ligament in his left thigh.

The Dodgers fired both barrels at the Pirates yesterday and came away with nothing better than an even break, while the Cardinals swept a doubeheader with Boston Braves for a total of 19 victories in 22 games.

Wyatt Takes Opener.

Whitlow Wyatt pitched the Dodgers to a 3-1 decision in the opener, although he had to have help in the eighth inning, but Larry French failed to last through the first inning of the nightcap as the Bucs pounded him and three relievers for a dozen hits and triumphed, 9-5.

Vince DiMaggio drove in five Pittsburgh runs in the second game, while Rip Sewell held the Dodgers to six blows and weathered a four-run rally in the eighth.

The Cardinals beat the Braves, 8-3, in their first game, snapping a tie with a five-run outburst in the sixth. The second, however, went 11 innings before Harry Gumbert, who pitched two-hit ball in five innings of relief, doubled for the run that won for him and the Cards, 3-2.

Cincinnati Reds beat Philadelphia Phils, 2-0 and 8-5, with Johnny Vander Meer hurling the shutout and Max Marshall and Bert Haas spicing the nightcap for the victors with home runs.

New York Giants downed Chicago Cubs, 8-6, in the first game, but the second ended in a 5-5 deadlock with darkness halting play after nine innings, during which Manager Mel of the Giants made the 2,500 hit of his major league career.

In the American League, St. Louis Browns helped take some of the pressure off New York Yankees by splitting with Boston Red Sox while the Yanks were winning a pair from Detroit Tigers.

Red Ruffing pitched five-hit ball to beat the Tigers, 7-1, in the first game, but it took a 10th-inning single by Pinch Hitter George Selkirk to decide the second for the Yanks, 4-3.

John Niggeling hurled the Browns to a 4-1 first game victory, beating the Red Sox for the fifth time this year. The Sox bounced back to take the second, 12-6, but still trail the Yankees by eight gimes.

Cleveland and Washington divided their bargain bill, the Indians winning the first game, 3-1, and the Senators capturing the nightcap 2-0, as Dutch Leonard hurled five-hit ball in his first start since a broken leg benched him last April.

Ted Lyons won his weekly game for the Chicago White Sox, pitching a 2-1 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics, but the A's rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to squeeze out, 3-2, in the second game with Phil Marchildon pitching four-hit ball.

Cleveland edged out the Yankees 6-5 on Saturday in the last appearance of the Tribe in New York this season. Roy (Stormy) Weatherly, benched on Friday for weak hitting returned to the Cleveland lineup and hit three singles, a triple and home run in five trips to the plate.

In other American League games on Saturday Boston defeated Chicago White Sox 4-2 and Washington triumphed 4-1 over Detroit behind the eight-hit pitching of Bob Newsom.

New York Giants swept a doubleheader with Pittsburg on Saturday, winning the opener 2-0 on the three-hit pitching of Hal Schumacher and the nightcap 7-1. The Cardinals whipped Philadelphia Phils 5-2 on the seven-hit pitching performance of Mort Cooper and Cincinnati edged out a 1-0 victory over Boston Braves.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP). — A lot of folks expect the next heavyweight champion to come out of the armed forces, but Lou Diamond— the honest brakeman — predicts that postwar champs in every class will be service men... "They don't just learn boxing; they learn to fight," is the way Lou reasons...."Whe a guy sees his buddy take a licking he goes in there to knock the tar out of the other guy."....And, of course, there are a lot of big, healthy customers from the "hick" towns who are getting their introduction to boxing in the army and who'll stay in the racket after the war rather than return to those hick towns....Diamond signed up one soldier scrapper, Clent Conway, last spring, but since Clent has been transferred, the brakeman doesn't know where to find him.

This Beats the Band.

When the Elkhart (Tex.) school board ran out of candidates for their vacant football coaching job as every man they picked resigned to take another job, they finally handed the task over to the school's band director, W. K. Sides, who had played football in college but never had coached....He will teach band work in the mornings and coach in the afternoon....Wonder what he'll do with his time between halves?

One of the students at the Army Officer's Training School at Miami, Fla., is Steve Hamas, the old heavyweight. If Steve dishes out anything like what he took the last time he visited Berlin, there'll be some rough times on the other side.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, August 31 — (CP).— The strategic retreat of football from sports prominence in Eastern Canada may give box lacrosse its most successful playoff run in years.

Canadian semi-final will be played in Montreal, with the Western champion meeting the Quebec provincial titlist. The winner will move on to Toronto to meet the Ontario representative for the Mann Cup and the Canadian crown.

In previous years, lacrosse finals in the East drew well, but were passed by that goodly section of the sports populace more interested in football. This gate-reducing factor will be much weaker this season, with the Ontario Rugby Football Union only major Eastern football organization in the field. Lacrosse will fill the gap for many fans.

The lacrosse will be at least as good, perhaps better than previous years. Quebec boxla is stronger, because many hockey players—amateur and professional—took work in Quebec war industries this spring instead of returning to their native environs. Quebec boxla has a backbone of hockey stars.

Ontario lacrosse started our poorly, but has improved tremendously. The Mann Cup champion St. Catharines Athletics looked extremely sad at the beginning of the season, but finished with seven wins in their last eight games. Athletics are hottest of Ontario's five boxla clubs right now and the heat may last long enough to send them back into the Canadian finals.

But it looks from this point like British Columbia's year in lacrosse. Vancouver Burrards or Norvans, with New Westminster Salmonbellies an outside possibility, will represent the coast. The B.C. champion should beat Quebec on polish alone and probably will have a slight edge on Ontario's hope.

Incidentally:

Dean Griffing, Regina's colorful football impressario, was in Edmonton last week....He's purchasing agent for a Prince Albert, Sask., firm engaged in war work....Bill (Halifax Herald) Bartlett reports that the lacrosse to be played in Halifax this fall will be a new variation....It will be played on a field on which a reasonable facsimile of a box lacrosse floor has been marked, but there will be no sideboards ....Among R.C.A.F. players in a game against the Navy to-morrow will be Earl Curran, Orillia, Ont., Red Laindell, Johnny Todd and Duke McClelland, Mimico Ont., Joe Greenberg, Ted Wright and Gordon Jukes Toronto, Specs Clark and Len Sampson Cornwall Ont., Bill Ludlow, Fergus Ont and Johnny Young of Brampton, Ont.

Crime Increase Noted At Eastern Port

By ARTHUR MERKEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

HALIFAX, August 31 —(CP) — Gnarled old lady of Canada's eastern gate, upon whose skirts the buildings and streets of Halifax have clustered for centuries, the Citadel is getting a bit crotchety. So many people are climbing over her that her dress has been torn and some of her stays undone.

Three years of war have, in fact, strained the old lady to the utmost. Thousands of ships have dodged about her feet down in the harbor, bringing with them a doubling of the population, a tripling of crime figures, an increase in disease and a serious housing shortage.

Geared to support a population of about 70,000, the Halifax-Dartmouth area now houses some 125,000 persons, plus a "floating population" of about 5,000 and 10,000 population" dwellers. In most cases, wartime restrictions have prevented the area from adjusting various public services to meet the influx and evidences of the resulting "squeeze" are everywhere.

Strangers have spent as much as six months looking for apartments or houses, meanwhile living in rooming houses. Two days after Wartime Housing Limited and city authorities reached an agreement for constructing 200 prefabricated dwellings here this fall, in addition to 1,100 already built, city officials announced they had on hand "more than 200 applications."

Parks Crowded.

Simple things that were once taken for granted now are inordinately complicated. In some areas, the city water supply is so overstrained, taps won't flow for hours at a time. Most old-line citizens spend their evenings at home or with their friends because theatres, dance-halls, parks and clubs are so overcrowded they are uncomfortable. The Dingle, for instance, is a popular park area across the Northwest Arm. Before the war, some 200 or 300 might spend the afternoon there on a busy Sunday. One Sunday a few weeks ago attendants said they handled 25,000.

Police Chief J. J. Conrad says petty crimes increased 333 per cent during the first four months of this year compared with the same period in 1939. The police force has been increased by 15 men from the pre-war total of 79. The Chief wants 13 more, but the city can't find the funds or the men to fill his request.

Yes, the old lady of Citadel Hill is having her troubles and not minding who hears her complains. "I don't know where it's all going to end," she says. "And I can't cope with it myself much longer."

Prosperity Too.

Of course, the war has brought a tremendous wave of prosperity to the city. But, the Citadel figures the prosperity may disappear with the war. Aside from the business of sending, mending loading, feeding, fuelling and berthing ships, only one war industry is located here—shipbuilding, and there's very little of that for most of the facilities are taken up with repair work.

If the Canadian Navy is kept up after the war, however, as Navy Minister Macdonald says it will be, and the shipbuilding program is continued, Halifax's outlook may be better than before.

Beer And Liquor Bring Many Fines

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31 (ENS) —The aftermath of the street dance in Hastings on August 26 was heard in the local police court here on Friday afternoon when three of the merry-makers appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. Maxwell Martin, 18, of Warkworth was picked up by Provincial Constable D. M. Carruthers for consuming beer in an authorized beverage room and following his plea of guilty he was assessed $10 and $2.50 costs. Booked on the same charge Ernest McBride, 18, of Haldimand township also pleaded guilty and contributed a similar amount. Likewise from Haldimand township came Allan Willis, 27, who pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance at the street dance. He was apprehended by Constable Carruthers and his plea of guilty cost him $5 and $1.75 costs.

Charles Paterson, 40, R.R. 1, Dartford, was charged with drunkenness at Hastings on August 15 and he entered a plea of guilty through his counsel J. F. R. Douglas. He was assessed $10 and $6 costs. Police Constable W. Wellman laid the charge. Fred Cole, Asphodel township was booked by Constable Wellman on a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm to Welling Buck but the charge was withdrawn.

Two juveniles, aged 13 and 15, were given one and two years suspended sentence respectively following charges of breaking into summer cottages in Seymour township. They allegedly stole a fishing rod and reel as well as a quantity of meat from a refrigerator. All of the stolen articles except the meat, were recovered. Provincial Constable Carruthers laid the charges as a result of investigation of complaints.

Bride Entertained

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31 (ENS) —Miss Grace LaBrash was feted at a delightfully arranged pre-nuptial shower given in her honor by Mrs. F. F. Long on Wednesday evening. About twenty-five guests attended the affair and Miss LaBrash whose wedding to Signalman J. D. Southern will take place in September was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts. During the evening a buffet luncheon was served and a very enjoyable social time was spent.

A large willow tree near the scoreboard in Riverside Park has a low hanging limb bare of leaves which has contributed to five minor accidents during the last ten days. Small children swinging on the limb have fallen off when enthusiastic playmates have given the limb a violent shove. It is good fun for the older children, but the small ones are usually casualties.

The car was driven by Harry Lancaster, R.R. 7, Peterborough who told police that he had been blinded by the lights of an approaching car and as a result went into the ditch.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Russell Henry, casting in Rice Lake with a Lucky Strike plug bait, hooked an 11-pound lunge. In less than an hour she added an 8-pounder. All were using the new Lucky Strike submarine minnow.

Cent candies in showcases at the corner stores are fast disappearing, and the usual plan of giving the youngsters a cent for being good or doing a job is falling into disuse. Instead the youngsters not only demand a nickel but an extra two cents as a sort of cost of living bonus, so that they can buy a soft drink.

Presentations Made To Rev. J. V. McAuley

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31. — (ENS)—Called to Lindsay, where he will succeed the late Monsignor Mccall, Rev. J. V. McAuley bid farewell to members of St. Mary's Parish here on Sunday. Though the morning Mass actually provided the occasion for his farewell message Father McAuley, who came to Campbellford seven years ago, was given impressive evidence of the high regard in which he is held by his Campbellford and district congregation during the afternoon. St. Mary's Church was nearly filled with people at 3:30 when the priest entered to offer a final Holy Hour with his parishioners who only a week ago had learned with regret that he had been summoned to Lindsay.

Following this came the presentation of farewell gifts and illuminated addresses to Father McAuley who was noticeably moved by these expressions of friendship. The gifts included a purse of money presented by Andrew Clarke on behalf of the congregation with Jack Anderson giving the address in which high tribute was paid to Father McAuley's priesthood in Campbellford and to his continuous fostering of the Holy Name Society. Next was the gift of a beautifully upholstered chair and matching foot stool, the gift of the Catholic Women's League. Mrs. Robert Lee made this presentation and Miss K. O'Shaughnessy read the address in which she expressed the feelings of the entire congregation in her well chosen remarks.

There was two other presentations, and with each of these was an address praising the priest for his splendid work in the parish. From the children was a combination walnut end table and book rack for which Dan Black gave the address assisted by Pat Doherty while Patsy Robertson and Coletta O'Keefe made the presentation. And from the young ladies of the Blessed Virgin Sodality came a lovely trilite floor lamp with oynx base. This address was given by Miss Frances Lynch and the presentation by Miss Margaret Robertson.

His voice choked with emotion as the good priest who leaves on Friday for his new charge, responded with thanks for these "manifestations of your goodness." His closing words were inspired by thoughts of the man who was to replace him. "My successor will take up and carry on the same work, and I hope you will show him the same loyal and loving devotion."

Patriots Flock To Grab All The Meat

Most of the down town meat stores were as bare this morning as the 'burned earth' in the wake of a Russian retreat.

"Just what we said Friday," Arthur Millen of A. and P. remarked to the Examiner as he swung back the refrigerator door disclosing two lonely cuts of beef that might have weighed ten pounds apiece. It was full on Friday, but Saturday's buyers carried off everything. Mr. Millen shook his head when asked about today's replacement and the replenishing of the ice box.

"I don't know what we are going to get," he said.

"Have you any meat to sell? We could use a whole lot," was the comment at Loblaws.

Beuhlers were likewise dubious, and Harry Rishea at F. & G. suggested: "Don't say too much about it. We have some meat, and we may get more." Evidently he believes in hoping for the best.

The meat shops that buy from the packers carcasses that bear the Government stamp as a guarantee of quality were out on the end of a lean limb this morning. Some of the other shops that buy cattle from farmers and prepare the meat for sale over their own counters are possibly going to have sufficient supplies on hand for the week. On the other hand report suggest that farmers are not disposed to unload cattle right now. With good pasturage and heaps of feed in and around the barns their general plan is to continue feeding, producing more meat which will eventually bring them more revenue.

A telephone call to Canada Packers today elicited the information that all steers, heifers and good cows are required first for supplying the military camps and other Canadian forces. Of prospective excess the outlook seemed to be just as clouded as the retail men reported.

Housewives will probably have to do considerable shopping around this week. And if meat fails them they will have to use their dietary knowledge to obtain proteins from other sources.

The only dark spot on the Saturday splurge was some evidence of buying more hams and bacon than were necessary. Many persons were asking for six, eight an ten pounds of bacon, and dealers telephoned to Canada Packers wondering what they should do about this unexpected flurry. These folks are actuated by such a strong sense of selfishness that there is not much likelihood of shaming them into the spirit of just carrying on with ordinary busying as other families do. They never heard of that motto of passive patriotism: "They also serve who only stand and wait."

His Own Building

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 31—(CP).—Charles Procuiner of Truro appeared before Magistrate John Crowe Saturday, charged with breaking, entering and stealing from his own building. He allegedly entered a rented apartment owned by himself and removed some furniture, after he had been ordered to reduce the rental. The case was adjourned to Tuesday.

Children's Day Nets $16.66 For War Victims

One week ago today the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund announced the setting aside of the two following Monday's for the purpose of reporting the efforts of children at the week-end on behalf of the Fund.

In so doing there was no reason to know that there would be any particular thing to report, because at that time no effort was under way, and so, it might be said that this was another venture in faith, as have been many things in connection with the fund.

It is therefore with a great deal of pleasure that today's report is able to fulfil what was bespoken for it, for there are the efforts of three groups of children to relate in this day's story for the fund.

About a year ago, a bazaar was held on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Collins at 191 Lake street, and here again a group of children, Mary and Anne Collins, Joan, Kay and Phyllis Woods, Doreen Heard and Fergus O'Brien of Douro who was visiting at the Collins home, had a stall with donations gathered from the neighbors to sell, and realized the sum of $7.64 for the fund, which of course marks their second effort on its behalf.

Then two girls, Dorothy Bagnall of 181 London street and Mina Campbell of Albert street, solicited donations of a varied nature and occupied the market stall, and in this manner realized the sum of $5.02, which is also a repeat effort to help along the work of relieving the distress of air raid victims in Britain.

Finally, two other girls, Frances Cameron and Mary Rody, salvaged milk bottles which they received 5 cents each for, and coat hangers besides holding a small draw on a pair of pillow slips, and made the sum of $4.00 which appears to their credit in this day's list for the fund.

Only one week-end now remains before the summer recess ends, and the children will be returning to resume their school duties, and it would be a good wind up for the holiday season if a number of children could climax what has been a really splendid effort on the part of a number of them, by staging something on behalf of the fund.

By getting in touch with the secretary of the fund at headquarters in the Examiner Office of telephoning 9896, they will receive every help that can be given to facilitate this.

Old Tractor Is Given Otonabee Red Cross

An obsolete tractor of 1917 manufacture is offered by a group of Otonabee farmers to the Red Cross Society to be converted into cash by sale as scrap metal. Ralph Drummond told the Examiner Saturday that a neighborhood group of farmers who have been working together for probably three generations decided at a recent meeting that something should be done with the tractor. It was one of the one-cylinder type, no longer in use, and taking up space at Walter MacFarlane's farm.

Some one spoke of selling the machine, but the Red Cross Society can have it and do the selling. The weight is about 5,300 pounds but the tractor will have to be broken up, reduced to scrap and hauled to the metal market.

The Drummond-MacFarlane company, an unofficial name, is composed of nine farmers in Otonabee who have been combining their forces in some of the major operations of farming, principally in the work of harvesting and threshing grain. It was first organized by the grandfathers of the present generation, and has quite a long history in that section of Otonabee.

Sgt. Pilot Albert Leether Killed In Action Overseas

Stg. Observer Albert Leether, R.C.A.F., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leether, 504 Chamberlain street, reported missing on August 25, is now reported by the War Department as killed in action on a bomber flight to enemy territory. He is the fifth flier from Peterborough city proper to be reported as killed during World War 2.

SGT.-OBS. ALBERT LEETHER.

One of the top-ranking athletes of the Peterborough Collegiate for more than six years, Leether, popularly known as "Ab" to a host of friends, played quarterback on several Collegiate rugby teams, and also for one year with the Orfuns in the O.R.F.U. For a couple of seasons he played hockey with the Church League teams from All Saints' Church, but rugby was his favorite.

Following graduation from the Collegiate he entered the employ of the C.G.E. Company, working in the main office. He enlisted with the air force on December 18, 1940, and received his wings as a sergeant observer on October 12, 1941 at Fingal. He was 23 years of age last March 5.

Sgt. Leether was posted as missing following air operations on August 25, the day of the Dieppe attack, and it was not until Sunday that his parents received further word from the R.C.A.F. headquarters in Britain that he had been killed in action, and the bomber apparently came down over England. He was buried at Eversham Road Cemetery, Stratford-on-Avon, England, last Friday.

His father Frank Leether served overseas in World War 1, being twice wounded, while on active service with the 5th C.M.R.'s. He enlisted with the 93rd Battalion in this city.

Surviving this gallant young flier, are his sorrowing parents, and one sister, Alice Leether.

Woman Sniper Works On Rule Dead Germans Are Harmless

Smiling Luidmila Pavlichenko, 26 year old sniper, who holds the highest record for Soviet Guerillas, being credited with killing 309 Germans, has arrived in Washington, D.C., where she is attending the International Student Assembly. While there she is to be the guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Believe it or not, this outstanding woman soldier intended to be a history scholar in Kiev, Russia, but the war brought about a change in her plans. In explaining why she became a sniper, Miss Pavlinchenko said grimly, "Every German who remains alive will kill women, children and old folks. Dead Germans are harmless. Therefore by killing Germans I am saving lives."

The girl holds the rank of Junior Lieutenant an she wears the uniform of the Red Army and four medals, which include the Order of Lenin, the highest decoration her country can bestow. She fought in defence of both Odessa and Sevastopol and while wounded four times, never at any time abandoned her post. Maybe that has something to do with her success with the 309 Germans.

Miss Pavlichenko told Washington reporters that she learned to shoot a long time before she went to Kiev University, and it is probable that she was one of those trained as children in the art of handling a rifle. The three essentials for a good sniper she related, are "good aim, adroitness and endurance."

She has become very well known to the Germans who hate and fear her, but as yet she has evaded capture so successfully that the Germans, using loud speakers, turned towards the Russian lines offering various bribes trying to win her over to their side.

She is only one of many thousands of women who are fighting thus in both Russia and China in different guerilla units that are taking such a heavy toll of the enemy. They are so well trained from early youth, that to the enemy, they have become almost ghost-like in the way they suddenly strike and fade away leaving no trace except the enemy dead. They come from nowhere. Germans have been known to take over villages that were practically nothing but a heap of rubble, where no human could possibly be secreted, and yet through the hours of darkness the guerillas would materialize and strike with deadly precision.

Careless Driving Count Brings Fine

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving, Adrian Devlin, Peterborough, was fined $5 and $3.50 costs in police court this morning. The charge arose out of an accident at Water and Hunter streets on Saturday night when Devlin's car and another driven by William Doherty, Indian River, came into collision. Not much damage was done but Devlin was arrested after the accident. Doherty gave evidence this morning and after he had finished his testimony, Magistrate Langley remarked that there was about as much evidence of careless driving on one side as on the other.

Aged Cripple Dismissed On Begging Count

"I am all broken down and need hospital treatment," declared a crippled elderly man in police court this morning when after a week's remand he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on a charge of begging. It was explained to the court that the man had been charged at his own request last week in order that he might have a week in jail but apparently his condition had not improved.

"I can't send him to a hospital," said Magistrate Langley. "He has been a nuisance around here for a long time," commented Chief Newhall.

The man was dismissed and limped out of court on crutches — the problem of how he was to get hospital treatment apparently limping out with him.

Quakers Capture

down to take four straight games to win the match after being behind 2-4. The scores were 6-4, 5-7, 614.

Jim Doran and Joe Baker breezed through in sterling fashion for Lindsay in magnificent match with Jack Miller and George Scott. The Quaker players pulled off a 6-1 victory in the first set but met with swift and sure revenge from that point on to the dramatic finish. The young Lindsay stars played tricky tennis but not without stiff resistence from the reliable steadiness of Jack Miller and the accuracy of George Scott's shots. At one stage of the game the Quakers had the Lindsayites supposedly stopped at match point for three points, but their opponents survived the threat and broke through the defence to win the set and later, the match. Lindsay had no end of heartbreaking moments but the final heartbreak was left for the Peterborough team. Lindsay's playing is reflected in the scores—1-6, 8-6, 6-3.

Father Cox and Bill Callaghan sent the Quaker team of Al Conlin and Ralph Charlton spinning dizzily with two straight sets 6-1, 6-1.

This sharp upset was followed in quick order by another similar victory for Lindsay, when Jack Callaghan and Rhys Williams chalked up two sets with twin scores of 6-3, 6-3 against Roger Barrie and Warren Trotter. The Quakers, (or Quacks), whichever you prefer, apparently suffered from everything but lack of confidence but there will come a day!!!—

Much needed refreshments restored lost energy (???) to the Quakers and tentative plans were made for another tournament soon with the St. Mary's club.

A statement in the local weekly recently to the effect that "tennis ain't what it usedterbe" will be forced to take a back seat if the Quaker Tennis Club continues activity at its present rate. Keen interest is displayed by club members in these competitions with other clubs, and the club championship single matches, which are now rushing forward to the final play-off stage, are absorbing all Quaker tennis enthusiasts at this time. Perhaps tennis isn't doomed to an early downfall after all and with the progressive Quakers leading the way we can say with confidence that tennis will be played locally as long as there is a ball in reserve to sacrifice itself to the cause. Golf may adopt a few former tennis champs but this will not imperil the game of tennis to any terrifying extent. As a parting shot, it is consoling to know that if the rubber shortage warrants the complete curtailment of production for tennis balls, that at the same hypothetical time the manufacture of golf balls will undoubtedly cease.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ROBERT H. SPENCER.

WARKWORTH, Aug 31—(ENS)— The death of Mrs. Robert H. Spencer occurred at the family residence in Brighton township last Monday. The late Mrs. Spencer was a daughter of the late George and Rose Breeze and was born in Brighton township on July 9, 1861.

She was a well-known and highly respected resident of the community, and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Alman of Frankford and Charles of Brighton township, also one daughter, Margaret, at home.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held at her late residence on Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock and was conducted by Rev. Delve of Wooler.

The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which she was held.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. C. Cole, G. Darling, J. Hennessey, W. Chase, S. Montgomery and W. Gillings

Interment was in McPhail Cemetery.

MRS. ELLEN BYRNES.

MARMORA, Aug. 31.—(ENS). — Marmora lost one of its oldest and most highly respected residents on Friday in the person of Mrs. Ellen Byrnes, who passed away in Belleville Hospital after an illness of three weeks.

She was born in Throopstown eighty years ago and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gehan, pioneers of that district, who came to Canada from Ireland to settle there. There were twelve children in the family with now only one surviving, Mr. James E. Gehan of Marmora.

The late Mrs. Byrnes came to Marmora thirty-nine years ago and has since resided here with her son, Mr. T. J. Byrnes. She made many friends by her kind and neighborly disposition and news of her passing was received with feelings of sincere regret. She was a member of Sacred Heart church, the Altar Society, the Catholic Women's League and the Sacred Heart League. Her husband, Thomas Byrnes, predeceased her forty-eight years ago. She is survived by one son, Timothy Byrnes, one brother, James E. Gehan, Marmora and three grandsons.

MARY TIMS

LIFFORD LINE, Aug. 31—(ENS) —The death of Mary Cecile Adeline Tims took place on Thursday at Bolton, after an illness extending over several months. She was the daughter of Mr. Cecil Tims and the late Mrs. Adeline Cairns Tims. She spent her entire life at the Tims homestead, where she was born with the exception of the past four years spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McCullough, former residents of Manvers, now living at Bolton.

She was in her twenty-second year. Although confined to her room for the past eight months, death came unexpectedly, her final serious illness being of only a day's duration. She suffered from a heart condition.

A sister, Doris Tims predeceased Mary by nine years. She leaves to mourn her father and one brother, George Tims, both residing at the farm home near Lifford. The remains were brought by motor from Bolton to Lifford on Thursday evening, Mr. Tims accompanying the Bethany undertaker on the journey.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence with Rev. Harding of the United Church officiating. He brought a touching message of comfort to the bereaved and read two favourite hymns "Abide With Me" and "Forever With the Lord."

The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Mary's cemetery, Lifford where interment was made in the family plot.

Many beautiful floral tributes adorned the casket and were carried by neighbouring friends including, Lawrence Staples, Thomas Staples, Clare Staples, Don Emery, Gerwin Mulligan, Percy Preston, Charles Staples and others. The committal service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. Mr. Mason, rector of Manvers parish.

Pall bearers were Messrs Cephas Staples, Offa Staples, Archie Wilson, James Strachan, Thomas McCullough and Harvey Gray.

Smart Slip-Cover Style You Easily Make

Old Chair Is a Beauty Again

An elegant, tailored slip cover is what that frumpy old chair needs!

You can make one yourself easily, the pin-on way. Such a smart style as we show—of satin-stripe apricot rayon, with kick-pleat flounce—isn't a bit beyond you.

Start at top back of chair and smooth your fabric down the inside-back and seat, allowing 4 inches for tuck-in between. Pin fabric down every 3 inches, then cut around the pins, leaving 1½ inches for seams.

Next, smooth fabric over arms, back, sides and cushion in the same way, pinning and cutting as you go. For arm fronts and wings you may want to make paper patterns for exact fit.

Now you pin all the pieces together, un-pin them from the chair, baste, try on and sew. Last of all, add the flounce.

Our 32-page booklet gives exact details, step-by-step diagrams for making slip covers the pin-on way for differently shaped chairs, sofas, auto seats. Tells how to make swag and pleated flounces, decorative seams, trimmings. Suggests colors, fabrics.

For your copy of "How to Make Slip Covers," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU MAY BE BLOCKED

TOPS OF THE suit bid by your partner are very nice things to hold, giving assurance that tricks will not be lost in the suit and enabling you to set it up. But if you have nothing except the tops, such as the ace-king or the ace-king-queen, without any small cards of it, there is a grave danger that, after its establishment, you may not be able to obtain entry to those cards to use them. Even one small card of the suit can then be worth its weight in gold, when you are playing a No Trump contract or one in a different suit.

Because of his even distribution, with no doubleton or shorter holding in his hand, South felt that the same number of tricks should be makable in No Trumps as at hearts. So, since only nine tricks are enough for a No Trump game, whereas ten are needed in the major, he based his decision on that factor, especially in view of his diamond K and club Q and his desire to have the lead come up to them, instead of through them.

How valuable one little card in hearts would have been. If South could have traded the heart Q for either the 4 or 3 held by West and East respectively, his No Trump game would have been easy. But unfortunately the rules don't allow that.

West led the spade 4. The declarer put on the 5 from dummy, hoping to be able to use the Q as an entry to dummy after hearts were set up. East, however, was smart enough to keep his K over the Q and played the 6, the J winning. Came next the heart A, K and Q, then an effort to get into the dummy to run three more hearts by leading the club 2 to the K. East took this with the A and returned the diamond 5 to the 3 and J. The A scored, the 8 brought out the K and now South tried spades for entry to dummy, but the 10 to the Q fell to the K, and the dummy was dead. Two diamonds followed, setting him two tricks.

If South on his final turn had bid 4-Hearts, after hearing North show his length with a rebid of the suit, game would have been unstopable. Two tricks could have been lost in diamonds and one in clubs, but the working of the spade finesse would have made game safe.

Three Baskets Of Tomatoes Sell For $1.00

Three eleven-quart baskets of tomatoes for one dollar was the price barometer of their quantity on the farm produce market Saturday. Twenty cents for a six-quart basket and thirty-five cents for the eleven quarts.

"Three of the big baskets for a dollar," said Herb Doig, who invariably combines a bit of showmanship with his selling of garden truck.

The price was standard for the day, but that special three-basket lot looked like a lot of tomatoes.

Everything but young pigs moved fast on the market Saturday, and the junior Yorkshires were apparently getting less attention than on recent week-ends.

The apiarists, yes, the honey-men, will soon be off the market at their present volume of sales. B. McManus, of Lakefield, says it will only be a month or possibly less until the last of his crop is gone. Alan Brown has a contract with the Ontario Co-operative that has to be filled, in addition to the regular local business, and he expects that by the time the cold weather comes he will be missing from the market.

The price of honey was pegged at the same levels as last year, four-pound tin for 65 cents, a levelling that was not greeted with enthusiasm in the bee business. The public knows that it is about the best food in the whole list, and with the sugar shortage as additional stimulus, the week-end sales have been heavy. Producers are usually sold out early these Saturdays.

Pears and wild grapes were additional specialties reaching the local market. Clapp's Favorite pears were 50 cents the basket at N. Moncrief's stand, and also at the Pleasant View Gardens counter. Other Moncrief prices were. Tomatoes, 25c for six quarts and 40 cents for eleven quarts; Melba apples, 50c a six-quart basket; Peerless and Wealthies, 50c a peck; Lombard plums, 60c, and sugar plums, 80c.

Alexander apples were 40c a basket at the Pleasant View stand. Some of the Doig prices were: Potatoes, 40c a peck; Savoy cabbage, two for 15c; peppers, 3 for 10c; corn, 25c a dozen; cucumbers, 35c the large basket; celery, 10c, and two bunches for 15c.

Olan Potatoes $1.65

Most of the potatoes were $1.75 a bag. That was the price for Cobblers grown by J. A. Moore, of Campbellcroft. Kinsmen's Warbas were $1.75; but D. Olan sold out his Cobblers at $1.65. They were all gone around 11 o'clock.

Arthur Stinson's onions were $2 a bushel and carrots $1 a bushel. He also had a lot of tomatoes at $1 a bushel hamper. Fred McMahon sold peas at 40c for six quarts and cauliflower at 5c up to 30c.

Eggs were steady at 38 to 42 cents for the medium grades, but the morning's broad ranges was from 25c to 45c, with peewees at the small end and the extra selects at the big. Mediums were around 40c the dozen and specials 43 cents.

Chickens were 30 to 33 cents a pound and hens 28 cents. Several baskets of butter reserved for customers were priced at 38c the pound. Some pullet eggs were 28 cents. The best gladioli upstairs were 60 cents the dozen.

Wild grapes were 20c the six-quart basket. Thimbleberries were 30c. Yellow beans were three quarts for 25c. Vegetable marrow, 10c each. Bowmanville "glads" were 50c a dozen spikes.

Fred Clifford told The Examiner that on second thought he had decided to leave the chard and spinach at home. He is nearly out of both any way. "The people won't buy it, so what's the use of me bothering to bring in a couple of hampers," he said.

Saturday's market was largely attended, opened a little earlier than usual and was decidedly brisk. Six weeks pigs were marked at $7 each, and another man was asking $8 for seven-weeks-old.

ingrad were deeply pierced and the Germans maintained their gains in the western Caucasus despite difficult terrain.

(A Nazi news agecy dispatch said the Russians had towed several hundred unpainted and motorless tanks from Stalingrad assembly lines to emplace them as pill-boxes on the Steppes outside the city itself described as "a veritable fortress.")

Tank Pill-Boxes

While as many as 700 German tanks were reported stalled in the Don-Volga corridor area for lack of fuel, Red marines and armed peasants joined Soviet soldiers in defence of Stalingrad.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's men forced the invaders from a community northwest of Stalingrad in house-to-house fighting which left hundreds of German casualties in the streets and also regained nearby hills, "thus obtaining a commanding position over the whole locality," the Moscow radio announced.

The Soviet information bureau illustrated the scope of the counter attacks by a declaration that one Red army force, supported by armored crews, destroyed 18 German tanks and nine field guns and wiped out about 600 Germans.

"On another sector northwest of Stalingrad," it said, "a heavy defeat was inflicted on an Italian battalion, which in the course of one day lost at least 70 per cent of its effectives."

Dispatches said the Russians had engaged the Germans in the heart of Rzhez, 130 miles northwest of Moscow and crossed the Upper Volga ga west of that fortified city in an encirclement manoeuvre co-ordinated with the frontal assault aimed to wipe out the whole Rzhev-Gzhatsk-Vyazma salient.

Reds Recross River

The mid-night communique also spoke of victory in a river-front battle, but did not specify whether it was the valley of the Volga or the Vazuza, 60 mile long tributary which rises near Vyazma.

"By the end of the day," it said, "our troops had crossed the river and continued fighting on its western bank."

Three engagements in the battle for Stalingrad were officially declared to have cost the Germans 28 tanks, 16 field guns and 600 dead.

"In the Kletskaya area (within the Don bend northwest of Stalingrad) our troops continued active fighting operations and made a slight advance," it was announced.

Cossacks sabered about 300 Germans and fired 20 munitions trucks in an attack upon the rear of an infantry column in the mountainous approaches to the Black sea south of Krasnodar, in the western Caucasus.

Russian artillerymen defending the pathways to the Grozny oil fields and trans-Caucasia in the Prokhladenski area were credited with wiping out about a company of German infantry, three tanks and 11 trucks in an unidentified river crossing.

12 Years As Bishop

Bishop O'Connor was consecrated head of the diocese of Peterborough on June 11, 1930, in succession to the present Archbishop M. J. O'Brien of Kingston. With the rank of Monsignor he was Vicar-General of the diocese of London and Rector of St. Peter's Seminary in that city when he was chosen to relinquish both parish and academic work to assume the administration of the old diocese of Peterborough.

Bishop O'Connor was born at Blyth, Ont-rio, in 1884, and began his studies for the priesthood at Assumption College, Sandwich, where he attained a brilliant standing in classics. He finished his course in theology under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. A candidate from the diocese of London, he returned to that city in 1909 and was ordained priest there in St. Peter's Cathedral by Archbishop McEvay in June 1909.

Immediately following his ordination he was appointed to the Church of St. Alphonsus in Windsor where he remained three years. When St. Peter's Seminary was opened in London in 1912 the young priest was selected for a position on its staff, and occupied the Chair of Dogmatic Theology for eighteen years. He was also appointed in that year assistant priest in the city's parish of St. Mary. These responsibilities were entrusted to him by the late Bishpp Fallon of London who had remembered the outstanding academic record of Denis O'Connor in his progress through college and seminary. In 1913 he was made rector of St. Peter's Seminary.

Vicar-General of Diocese.

The next promotion Bishop O'Connor received followed in 1915 Vicar-General of the diocese of London. When he came to Peterborough in 1930 the tribute was paid to him that "for the past fifteen years he has worked constantly and faithfully with Bishop Fallon for the welfare and development of every cause in the diocese, in matters pertaining to church affairs, charitable undertakings and especially in the development of Bishop Fallon's broad educational plans. On several occasions when the Bishop was absent from the diocese, Monsignor O'Connor was named administrator."

Such in brief retrospect was the experience and accomplishment which recommended Bishop O'Connor for the vacancy in the diocese of Peterborough following the advancement of His Excellency Bishop M. J. O'Brien, D. D., as coadjutor Archbishop of Kingston in 1929 with right of succession to Archbishop Spratt. Prior to his coming to this city he received the degree of LL.D. from the University of London.

The consecration of Bishop O'Connor at St. Peter's Cathedral in this city on June 11, 1930, was one of the memorable events in the long history of this diocese and its administrative centre of Peterboro. The apostolic commission was delivered to the new prelate by the Papal delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, Most Rev. Andrea Cassulo. The sermon was preached by Archbishop O'Brien, and it is recalled that much of the details of the preparations for the ceremony of that day were arranged by the Rev. Paul Costello, late parish priest at Hastings.

Salvation of Souls.

In his address to the congregation of clergy and laity in assuming his new duties on that occasion Bishop O'Connor said he had po policy to announce and no plans to formulate. His transcendent purpose in life was the salvation of souls. "In pursuit of that purpose," he continued, "there is nothing in my mind but Jesus Christ and Him crucified. I wish to live at peace with all men, and I desire for that purpose that there be union among you. For me there is neither Jew nor Gentile, neither bond nor free. You are all one in Christ. I ask for your support in all things that matter; the conquest of virtue over vice, the triumph of spirituality over materialism; and I ask your help in carrying on the work of God which has been entrusted to me in this diocese."

The years since then confirmed the introductory words of Bishop O'Connor as they indicated the manner of man and citizen and shepherd of souls which he was and continued to be during his administration which he began that June day in 1930. His sermons were admirable examples of lucent address through which his thoughts and ideas glowed in simple English words and phrases. Early this year he wrote a brief warning about the recent trend of people from farms to engage in urban work, and this is what he said in part and plain statement that was characteristic of him: "The wartime trek to the cities has been alarming. There is an abundance of work and ready money there. It will not always be so. Let me earnestly caution our people not to abandon the good green acres of home." That was a message especially directed to the men and women of the farms, and that last phrase reflected his own love of the land from boyhood memories, a little gem of short and simple words —"the good green acres of home."

Surviving are four sisters: Miss Mary O'Connor and Miss Catharine O'Connor, both of Wawota, Sask.; Mother M. Catharine of Loretta Abbey, Toronto, and Mrs. Julia Sweeny of Edmonton, Alta., and three brothers: John, Bartholomew and Martin O'Connor, all of Wawota, Sask.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning with requiem high mass at St. Peter's Cathedral beginning at 10 o'clock. Burial will be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

The funeral mass will be celebrated by the Apostolic Delegate, Most Rev. Ildebrando Antoniutti.

Crown Toronto Girl New Harvest Queen

OAKVILLE, August 31 — Complimenting farmerettes attending Oakville Community Fair, Saturday night Ontario Minister of Agriculture P. M. Dewan declared many farmers had told him they could not have carried on this summer without the girl's help. The Minister also acknowledged the good work of the Women's War Service League sponsoring the Fair but warned that this and similar organizations throughout the Province would have to increase their efforts as much more would be asked of them than in the past.

Sandwiched in between two Oakville bands and followed by the famous race horse Ten To Ace, forty-seven farmerettes drove into town on massive hayracks drawn by heavy draught farm horses. In the ensuing contest judged by quality of personal farm work done and for camp spirit shown, Miss Joan McKague, pretty, well-tanned Toronto blonde, was selected "Harvest Queen," and duly crowned by Lady Baillie, league president. Second and third awards went to Miss Pat Gordon, Kingston and Miss Dorothy Miller, Brooklin.

Ten To Ace, introduced by his owner, Harry Giddings as "Canada's wonder horse, the finest horse Canada ever produced" looked on while Mr. Giddings presented to Lady Baillie for Red Cross purposes the King's fifty guineas won in the race for the 1942 King's Plate.

Alexander Maclaren Director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, stated that the work of his fifteen camps manned by 1,800 farmerettes and high school boys, would terminate Sept. 22 to enable workers to return to school. Mayor Dr. F. M. Deans presided over the event, attended by 4,000 people.

This action still is in progress, but the enemy is held up by the Owen Stanley range and the communique said he "is subjecting himself to extraordinary air losses because of the extreme vulnerability of his exposed position."

"His latest effort was to turn the right flank by a surprise attack at Milne Bay. The move was anticipated, however, and prepared for with great care. With complete secrecy the position was occupied by our forces and converted into a strong point.

Today's regular communique said that sporadic fighting in the Kokoda region had resulted in repulse of the enemy with heavy casualties.

Propose Tax Exemptions Be Lifted On Industries Making Munitions

TORONTO, Aug. 31—(CP) —Removal of tax exemption on industries engaged in the manufacture of munitions and operated or owned by the Federal Government, was asked in a resolution from the city of St. Catharines, which was adopted by unanimous vote of the Ontario Municipal Association at its 44th annual meeting here Friday.

The resolution had previously been approved by the elected representatives' section, the assessors' section, the rural section and the resolutions committee.

"War and defence industries owned by the Crown are claiming exemption from municipal taxation under restrictions provided for in the British North America Act and the Assessment Act of this province, which legislation was never visualized as becoming applicable in this way," the resolution states.

It further points out that "it is unjust and inequitable that municipal taxation, in the communities in which these industries are located should be forced to assume additional tax burdens as a result of exemption from taxation of such industries."

The resolution also asks that costs should be "absorbed along with other costs of production of armaments and munitions of war and be borne by the nation as a whole." Copies are to be sent to the proper authorities.

Scorching Heat Wave Turns Armies To War For Wells

LONDON Sept. 1 — (CP).—The situation around the stubbornly-defended Russian city of Stalingrad remains virtually unaltered, with the Germans having achieved only a "very slight advance" from the south-west, a British military commentator said today.

Northwest of Moscow, the Russians still are fighting hard about Rzhev; but there has been no major attack by either side in 24 hours, this informant said.

He added that in the Caucasus there had been no further German progress worth mentioning.

A searing heat wave beat down upon the Stalingrad front and Soviet dispatches said the only relief found by soldiers fighting across the sunparched Steppes was in the partial shade provided by the smoke rising from the battlefields.

Water was becoming more and more of a problem for both sides because normally-filled streams had run dry. In some sectors one canteen of water had to suffice for a two days' ration.

In one area the opposing Russians and Germans were locked in a struggle for a well situated in No-Man's Land.

Even at night the heat was described as so intense that candles melted in dugouts.

In a recapitulation of aerial losses in August, the Moscow radio reported destruction of 1,788 German planes against 936 Coviet craft. It said that in the last week alone 498

Adolf Calling For Sacrifices

BERLIN, (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 1.—(AP).—Hitler called upon the German people to make "the highest of its sacrifices" this year as Germany started its fourth year of war to-day.

Urging this sacrifice at opening of the winter relief campaign last night, Hitler said that "in this most tremendous struggle of all times, the German soldier is making his heavy sacrifice in battle under scarcely imaginable deprivations."

His appeal to the German people was made from his headquarters and was read over the German radio.

He said "the greater part of the European nations and also the peoples of the Far East" have joined the Nazis in an alliance of loyalty "which will prevent our countries from becoming the prey of Bolshevik barbarism or Jewish Anglo-Saxon capitalistic exploitations."

He asserted that the effort of the Allies "to starve the European peoples" has failed and the war would end with a "decisive victory of the "have-nots."

Chased Home

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN, England, Sept. 1 — (CP).—Large forces of high-flying British planes crossed the Channel to France this afternoon after R. A. F. fighters had chased a flight of Nazi Focke-Wulf 190's which had bombed a small southeast coast town and machine-gunned its streets from 20 feet.

The German planes hit a hospital, killing one person, and a bomb which burst near a road crew killed three workers.

Chinese Smash Jap Reserves Racing To Front

CHUNGKING, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Chinese forces storming across Chekiang have intercepted and routed reinforcements rushed up by the Japanese in a frantic effort to halt Gen. Chang Kai-Shek's forces approaching Kinhwa, one of the last enemy-held air bases in the coastal province, the Chinese high command announced today.

The Japanese were ambushed as they moved up a branch railway line running between Kinwha and Lanchi while another Chinese column made further progress in a drive along the main rail line from Tangki toward Kinhwa.

A military spokesman said Tangki, 15 miles west of Kinwha, had fallen to the Chinese. With the occupation of this town, he said that Kinhwa is menaced by a Chinese nutcracker offensive shaping up along the two rail lines. The Japanese have been in possession of Kinhwa since last May 28.

In Kiangsi, the Army spokesman said, the Chinese had advanced closer to Nanchang, main Japanese base in that province. He reported that Chinese troops captured Kiangsmancheh, on the east bank of the Kan River below Nanchang, last Saturday after an engagement in which the Japanese lost heavily.

New Regulation Breaches Costly

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Heavy penalties are provided for violation of new manpower regulations, selective service officials said to-day.

Persons committing a breach of the regulations are liable to a fine of $500 or 12 months imprisonment, or both.

This penalty clause applies to all the regulations including requirement for seven days' notice in writing before a worker leaves a job or before an employer lays off a worker, the compulsory employment of persons now unemployed who must remain on their new job unless they have permission of a selective service officer to leave and the employment of all new help through an employment office.

Rebel Plot To Hit Allied Troops; Americans Kept In

BELFAST, Sept. 1 — (AP). — Police announced to-day that a great arms and explosives dump captured near here on Sunday night was to have been used by the outlawed Irish Republican Army in armed attacks on British and United States forces in Northern Ireland.

A police statement said the special manifesto issued by the I.R.A. calling the presence of United States forces in Northern Ireland an act of aggression made it clear that "this illegal organization has been preparing for attacks on members of the armed forces of the Crown, police and United States forces stationed in Northern Ireland."

United States troops have been ordered to stay off the streets of Belfast to-morrotw it was announced to-day as tension mounted with a report that the outlawed Irish Republican Army was planning attacks on British and American troops in Northern Ireland.

Enough to Rock Capital.

Police said 17 persons had been detained for questioning as all available officers concentrated on investigation of a plot which, they said, had reached a point where the organization was able to amass explosives enough to wreck half this Ulster capital.

One man armed with a Tommy-gun was killed when the arsenal was uncovered yesterday in a raid on a farm five miles from this city. Authorities saiad they suspected he was an important member of the outlawed Irish Republican army.

All police leaves were cancelled amid a situation growing more tense as the hour approached for the scheduled hanging to-morrow of Thomas J. Williams, 19 year old I.R.A. member, for the slaying of a policeman last Easter morning. Security forces were on guard against any disorder.

Police said they believed the arms and ammunition dump was an arsenal of the I.R.A. It contained 10 beer-barrel-size kegs of nitro-glycerine, gunpowder, other explosives.

Strenuous efforts went on, meanwhile, to gain a reprieve for Williams, convicted with five other Belfast men of killing the policeman who was on patrol against anticipated disorders on the anniversary of the 1916 Easter rebellion.

All were sentenced originally to be hanged. Williams took full responsibility ofr the shooting, however, and the other five were given a reprieve. The Lord Mayor of Dublin is among persons who have sought leniency for him.

Selective Service Ends Firm Name In Help Ads —Mystery Till Applicant Contacts The Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 1—(CP). — Firm names will disappear from all "help wanted" advertisements under a ruling made by Selective Service officials today.

New orders governing manpower and employment make it necessary for firms to fill all employment needs through employment offices. To make this plan effective "help wanted" and "situation wanted" advertisements can only be placed in newspapers through the employment office.

Officials said today that the present policy would be to have these advertisements appear over the name of National Selective Service and the applicant would not know the name of the firm sponsoring the advertisement until he applied at the employment office.

Gen. Pearkes, First Division Chief, Returning For Pacific Command

OTTAWA, Sept. 1—(CP),—Defence Minister Ralston announced today that Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, at present commanding the 1st Canadian Division overseas, shortly will arrive in Canada to assume the appointment of general officer commanding-in-chief, Pacific command.

Gen. Pearkes, who is 53, won the Victoria Cross as a Major at Paschendaele in the First Great War. He has been in command of the 1st Canadian Division since July, 1940.

Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the general staff, took over temporary command of the Pacific area last June. Col. Ralston announced at that time that this appointment was made "to deal with organization plans arising out of expansion of army forces in that command."

There was no indication in the announcement as to who would succeed Gen. Pearkes as officer in command of the 1st Division.

It said, "Maj.-Gen. Pearkes at present commanding the 1st Canadian Division will shortly arrive in Canada to assume the important appointment of general officer commanding-in-chief, Pacific command."

The Pacific command has taken on increasing importance since Japan entered the war on the side of the Axis and particularly since Japanese encroachment in the outer Aleutian Islands.

Gen. Stuart replaced Maj.-Gen. R. O. Alexander as officer commanding the Pacific command last June. Gen. Alexander was appointed inspector-general of the army for central Canada.

It was announced at that time that the chief of the general staff would be in command of the Pacific area until a successor to Gen. Alexander was appointed.

Distinguished Career.

Gen. Pearkes "has had a long and distinguished military career," said Col. Ralstons announcement to-day, issued through the Army Branch of the National Defence Department.

He joined the Royal North-West Mounted Police (now known as the

Tokyo's Foreign Chief Togo Quits

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), Sept. 1.—(AP). — Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo has resigned "for personal reasons" and his office has been taken over by Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo, the Government Information Department announced to-day.

Togo's resignation was presented to Emperor Hirohito by Premier Tojo to-night at the Imperial Palace.

Togo had held the Foreign Ministry portfolio since formation of the present government last October.

The announcement of his resignation, broadcast by the Tokyo radio, recalled that in the course of his diplomatic career Togo had been stationed in Germany several times, the las time as Japanese ambassador in Berlin in 1937.

Trouble Over Russia.

CHUNGKING, Sept. 1 — (AP).— Chinese to-day unofficially expressed the opinion that Shigenori Togo resigned as Foreign Minister of Japan because he refused to support the Tokyo Government's plans respecting Russia.

The belief was current here that a majority of the Japanese Cabinet contemplates some vigorous stand in relation to Russia. In some quarters it was believed Japan is about to demand assurances from Russia that the rear of Japanese armies facing the Chinese will not be attacked. Others expressed the opinion that the Japanese are about to attack Siberia.

Observers here said that Togo's resignation could not be explained on the basis of Japanese military reverses because the Foreign Minister has nothing to do with the direction of campaigns.

Allied Aces Hounding Jap Remnants

Mop Up New Guinea; Bombers Drop 10 Tons Upon Lae

By MURLING SPENCER

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Sept. 1 (AP)—Allied fighter planes roared above the Milne Bay jungles of eastern New Guinea today, heavily strafing any Japanese remnants left by the veteran Australian land troops who were mopping up the enemy.

A severe night attack was made on the Japanese air base at Lae, 400 miles to the northwest, and skirmishes on land developed at nearby Salamaua. Other sharp fighting was reported at Kokoda at the base of the towering Owen Stanley range half way to the most advanced Allied base at Port Moresby.

The known Japanese surviving the Allied ambush at Milne Bay were pushed back into a narrow peninsula north of the bay. Day-long reconnaissance flights failed to uncover any evidence of Japanese troops, installations or stores beyond in the thick jungle. The pilots, however, saw three damaged barges and three tanks bogged in the muck and mud, all mute evidence of the stoutness of the Australian land forces.

Allied bombers dropped 10 tons of explosives on the Lae airdrome, leaving it smoking and battered.

United States B-17 and B-26 bombers delivered the attack on Lae, starting fires visible for 30 miles and damaging a number of grounded planes. The enemy was caught by surprise because no planes rose to intercept and only meagre ground fire was thrown up.

Leave Dead Behind

The Aussies at Milne Bay reported the Japanese abandoned large quantities of material. In one spot, 50 dead enemy troops were found.

The belief was expressed that the Japanese who fled by warship Saturday night had been hard pressed, because the enemy seldom leaves bodies, for religious reasons, and because valuable notebooks, papers and maps are found on the corpses.

Difficult communications hid the exact strength of the remaining enemy units.

3 Tanks Caught

An Allied spokesman said the Australians fighting about Milne Bay, commanded by Maj.-Gen. Cyril Albert Clowes, had destroyed three Japanese tanks. He said the invaders had moved about half-a-dozen armored machines ashore before

States Planning Meat Ration In Four Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(CP). — Americans will be asked by the Government soon to forego the extra steaks and crops they are able to buy with their record-breaking pay envelopes, and in about four months all meat will be rationed.

Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard announced last night the food requirements committee had decided on rationing as the best method of assuring an equitable distribution of what he termed the largest livestock production in history.

(J. G. Taggart, foods administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said at Ottawa last night there is no need of meat rationing in Canada "so far as our domestic situation is concerned."

(He added that "of course, I can't say how future developments outside of our domestic sphere might affect meat—or any other commodity for that matter." An unusually heavy demand from Britain for meat might necessitate rationing in Canada, he said.)

Meanwhile, a conservation campaign, possibly including "meatless days," will be instituted to limit civilian consumption of red meats to about the same average amount as has been eaten per capita during the last 10 years.

2½ Pounds Per Week

"It will give our civilians approximately 2½ pounds of meat per person per week," Wickard said, "as contrasted with the one pound to

ORILLIA, Ont., Sept. 1.—(CP).— Fumes ignited by an electric baking oven caused an explosion early today in the enamel department of the Canada Wood Specialty Company here blowing out the front wall of the building.

The resulting fire was quickly brought under control.

Axis Strike At Dawn Along Qattara; British Centre Holds

WITH ALLIED FORCES IN EGYPT'S WESTERN DESERT, Sept. 1—(AP).—A new battle of the western desert opened at dawn yesterday with an assault by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps just north of the Qattara depression.

The main attack, in the area of El Hemimat, near the Qattara depression, came after a successful night raid by New Zealanders and a weak Italian attack which was repulsed with heavy losses.

An eight-mile German drive into the minefields on the southern flank of the British line near El Alamein, rimming the Qattara depression, was reported in a Reuters dispatch from Cairo.

In the centre, British troops held firm against exploratory thrusts.

American medium bombers—B-25's, like those which bombed Tokyo —went into their first action, joining Canadian, British and other Allied fliers in the battle.

Armored vanguards of perhaps 140,000 Axis troops between El Alamein and Bengasi were believed locked with light British forces in what may be the opening phase of a struggle for mastery of the Nile valley, Suez and the whole Middle East.

4 Hun Divisions in Van.

Four German divisions— the 15th and 21st Armoured Divisons of 17,000 men and 200 tanks each, the 90th Light motorized Division of 14,000 men and the 164th Infantry Division of 17,000 men— were said to form the spearhead of the Axis attack.

Parachute troops which arrived in North Africa at the same time as the 164th Division also are believed to be attached to this force.

Two Italian armored divisions, the Ariete and the Littoria of 8,000 men and approximately 150 tanks each, also suppy some of the enemy armor. There are six Italian

2 Canuck Fliers Escape In Eire

CALGARY, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Flt. Lt. Grant Fleming of Calgary, interned in Eire since his bomber crashed last winter, has escaped, according to a cable from him received yesterday by is cousin, Jack Fraser. Fleming won the D.F.C. for piloting a crippled flying boat over the Atlantic last summer.

This break-away followed an unsuccessful attempt early in the summer of Canadian and English airmen to flee from the Currah internment camp. Whether Fleming was a participant then was not known.

Names of the participants were never made public but stories reaching Rathdrum, over the hills from the Currah in County Wicklow, told of a rough-and-rumble attempted mass escape which came to grief because of one thing— "ersatz" bolts in the ladder joints. When the ladders collapsed the guards rushed in.

Among the Canadians known to be at the camp with Fleming are PO. R. G. (Bob) Keefer, Montreal;

That Middle East Bridge Must Stand

150 Boche Divisions Ready For Channel Coast Minute Russians Out Of Supplies

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP)—Three years after Hitler hurled his war machine against Poland and sowed the seed of global war, a key to Allied strategy lay today in the great Middle East land bridge from the Egyptian desert to the Caucasus.

Fighting rages at both ends of the bridge—on the sands west of the rich Nile Delta, where Field Marshall Erwin Rommel has opened a new campaign, and around Stalingrad, where the Russians are fighting to save their arsenal city of the lower Volga.

That bridge must be held, in the opinion of qualified but unofficial and unidentifiable observers, if the United Nations—in the midst of plans for invasion of Europe and an amphibious campaign for control of the Pacific—are to make the fourth year of the war a year of great offensives leading to ultimate victory.

Should the Allies hold in the desert and the Red Army keep the Germans in check until spring, and draw enough strength from Allied factories to mount an offensive in 1943, the prospects for a successful invasion of the continent are regarded as extremely good.

The crippling of Soviet Russia through the fall of Stalingrad and Baku, these sources said, would force the western allies to reconsider plans for such an invasion and lengthen the war considerably.

Nevertheless, they saw the situation as hopeful in comparison with Sept. 1, 1940, and Sept. 1, 1941, especially in view of the growing might of Allied air forces in Western Europe, Africa, India, China and the southwest Pacific.

Officials say there is nothing to indicate the swift collapse of Germany or Japan, through military defeat or internal revolt, and both are conceded to be capable of tremendous offensive drives.

But it is considered obvious the power of the Axis has passed its maximum.

Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, premier of the Polish Government in London, in a statement marking the aniversary of the invasion of Poland, said he thought a "period of gradual exhaustion" has started for the Germans that would "prepare the way for final triumph."

The entry of the United States into the war "automatically decided the final result," he said, and he declared the Canadian-led raid on Dieppe "proved that an invasion of the continent is absolutely feasible."

Unless maritime communications with Russia are improved, observers find it difficult to see how the Soviets can achieve an offensive in Eastern Europe.

4,000 Quit Over Income Tax

Quebec Workers Object To Pay Deductions

SOREL, Que., Sept. 1 (CP)—More than 95 per cent of the 4,000 day shift workers at Marine Industries Limited returned to their jobs today, after a short work stoppage described as a "protest cessation" aimed at new Federal income tax provisions that some of the workers did not understand. Plant officials said the rest of the protesting workers "are coming back in dribbles."

They stopped work yesterday afternoon but 580 returned to their jobs before the shift ended, and the night shift was not affected.

The 500 who returned yesterday did so after they heard Edouard Simard, vice-president of Marine Industries, tell them they were "kicking today because for the first time, you're beginning to feel that the war is hurting you. It is time you realized that you are in this war and, whether you like it or not, you will have to do your share. Not only is the tax going to hurt you, but there will soon be another Victory Loan campaign and you will have to do your share."

Fortresses Startle Europe

No Losses In 100 Raids—May Start New Air Race

LONDON, Sept. 1—(CP).—Colin Bodnall, air correspondent of the Daily Mail, declared today the success of the United States Flying Fortress in Europe is likely to start a race between the United Nations and the Axis to produce a plane "akin to an aerial battleship."

"Just how well it has established itself within the short space of a fortnight is now the subject of close study by startled experts on both side of the English Channel," he wrote.

The Fortresses, he said, have carried out more than 100 offensive sorties against the enemy in daylight without loss of a single plane.

"No other bomber has such a record in Europe," he wrote.

"In the course of these operations they have destroyed or severely damaged at least 11 Focke-Wulf 190's which attempted to intercept them. Their bombing, all done from a great height, has been exceptionally accurate in every case."

HUNS PUSH WEDGE DEEPER AT STALINGRAD AS DRIVE CONTINUES

Altered Menus Forecast For Canadians

"There is no danger of Canadians starving during the coming winter; there is an ample food supply on this continent," declared Rotarian Frank C. Paterson, Onatrio agricultural representative, in addressing members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon Monday on the subject, "Our Food Supply."

"We shall, however," Rotarian Paterson warned, "find it necessary to still further alter our menus because of wartime conditions."

Introduced by President Ian F. McRae, Rotarian Paterson said there was a vast difference in the situation in respect to the food supply in Europe as compared with America.

"You know, of course," said the speaker, "that the United Kingdom has been on strict rations since the outbreak of war, and while everyone over there says they have enough to eat and reports indicate that the population is healthy and fit, yet they lack variety."

Reviewing the food situation in Europe, the speaker said that the facts were not easy to obtain, but there were many hints that there was an unfavorable harvest. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics stated that Italy was loaning wheat to Germany, although the Italian civil populations was under strict and severe "bread rationing."

Russia was apparently not going to harvest enough wheat for domestic requirements. Reports from Germany indicated that the severity of last winter did damage to crops, and it was certain that occupied countries would be relieved of much of their grain crops for the benefit of German soldiers and civilians, causing a further aggravation of a serious situation. "We understand," said Rotarian Paterson, "that the hand of famine hangs over Europe."

The great dairy herds of Holland, Denmark, France and Belgium were vanishing. Many of the cattle not taken at first by the Nazis were now being killed because there was no feed for them, and for the same reason many of the fine dairy cattle of Switzerland were being slaughtered. The swine in Europe were diminishing and so were the poultry flocks. Spain was very nearly clean out of food, Norway had her fishing fleet in use for other purposes, and the most productive areas of Russia were scorched earth.

"We hear," said the speaker, "that hunger is more or less universal in Europe." Against this background of a famine and starvation in Europe we in this continent have a contrasting picture of plenty. We are even confronted with a problem of surpluses. In Canada and the United States the carry-over of wheat is enormous, and in South America food stocks are piling up, while all across the British Empire are more piled-up surpluses. A wheat crop of 2½ billions for this continent was indicated.

Big Local Crop

Locally, Rotarian Paterson said, there had been harvested one of the biggest crops ever produced. The hay crop was nearly three times as great in volume as last year. Barns were filled with it, much of it of good quality. The winter wheat crop was much greater in acreage than last year with a higher yield per acre. Spring grain had yielded well, except on very low land. Canning peas produced a very high yield per acre, but the acreage was not large enough. Pasture had been good and milk production very well maintained. While potatoes were not very good and ensilage corn did not grow very well and shortage of labor had hampered most farmers in their routine work, livestock herds and dairy population had increased.

"All in all, we have a good harvest and an active productive agriculture," declared the speaker.

Worry Over Next Year

North America, he said, had had a big crop this year, but there would be considerable worrying about 1943. Labor would be scarce, there might be more food rationing, price control was complicated and the wartime regulations frequently became confusing.

Rotarian Paterson reviewed agricultural conditions throughout Canada to show how the farmers have been meeting the demands for more food for Britain. They had done a splendid job, he said, in meeting Britain's bacon requirements, but all the hogs that could be produced in Canada were needed. It was estimated that the total next year would be 8,000,000 hogs, a million more than this year's total.

Speaking of butter production, the speaker said that on account of the relatively higher price of cheese, production was not adequate under the ceiling price. Stocks of butter at present were very low, and it was hoped that the subsidy of six cents a pound would stimulate production to a point where rationing would not be required.

The Beef Problem

Rotarian Paterson dealt with the beef situation. The problem, he said, was due (1) to the United States market situation and the privilege Canadian producers have of shipping 200,000 head a year across the line where the prices had been higher; (2) to the great increase in the domestic market through heavy wartime employment, the requirements of the fighting forces and the diversion of pork products to Great Britain; and (3) the difficulty of doing those things with the cattle available without breaking the price ceiling.

"Recently cattle prices have been forced down because the export quota was filled and by the ceiling regulations," said the speaker. "As a result very few butcher cattle are going to market. The natural thing for the farmer to do is just to hold on until his steers get a bit heavier and until the price is adjusted. Feed is plentiful. Right now we have reached another low in beef supplies. You may not be able to get a nice roast this week or next, and also the supply of other meats will be short, but as this plan works to conserve our resources it should be of ultimate value to us."

Rotarian Paterson said that Canada's beef controller, the secretary-manager of the Wartime Food Corporation, was a former Lakefield man, Dick Graham, taken from the Department of Agriculture at Toronto.

"In my opinion he has one of the toughest jobs in the Dominion today," said the speaker. In addition to the market beef problem, there was the feeder cattle problem, an even more touchy subject. It would take considerable time to get the beef business under control. Food required by Britain or our fighting men was taken first, Canada got what was left.

The Farm Labor Problem

Speaking of the outlook for next year, Rotarian Paterson stressed the seriousness of the farm labor problem as a result of enlistments and the demands of industry, and remarked that some difficulty was expected in maintaining production. Moreover, the task of converting feed crops into higher value food products was a big undertaking. While there was an abundance of grain, there was a shortage of meat and butter. The army was being fed as no army had been fed before, and workers in industry and others must have a share of high protein foods and those containing the essential minerals and vitamins. Food supply, said the speaker, was the turning point of the last war, and it was rapidly becoming more and more a probability in this war.

"Food itself won't win the war, but lack of food, the right kind of food, might easily lead to defeat. Each move brings its own crop of headaches, but in spite of some grousing about the ceilings and the rough spots in human planning which have not yet been straightened out and smoothed over, the farmers of this country can be depended upon to give, as they are giving, the utmost of their strength and endurance in producing food for consumption at home or in the United Kingdom or by our fighting men and our Allies."

"There is a necessity for increased food production of the kind and quality required, and it is necessary that every citizen should co-operate in this effort throughout the land if maximum results are to be obtained," concluded Rotarian Paterson.

Rotarian George A. Gillespie expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker for his educative and timely address.

Flier Killed; Lived At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of this town just received the sad news on Monday of the death of their son, Flight Lieutenant Gordon Wilson, 24. He was killed while on Active Service in England. The Wilson, who came to Campbellford the latter part of May had four sons on Active Service in England up to the time of Gordon's death. They all enlisted in Manitoba where the entire family lived until the early thirties when Mr. and Mrs. Wilson came to Toronto. Flt. Lieutenant Wilson went overseas early in 1940 following his enlistment at Winnipeg and subsequent training. His wife now resides in that city.

Africa and Russia in Iraq or Iran would almost isolate Russia and India and would foreshadow a junction of the Japanese and Germans in a vast military structure.

The Nazis then would be able to transfer at least 150 divisions to Western Europe.

Here is an outline of the world strategical situation as seen in London as the fourth year of the war opens:

War In The Air.

The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. has balanced German superiority over the Red air force by a series of paralyzing raids on German industry. Enemy defences have proved inadequate and the average British loss in these "saturation" raids is well under 10 per cent.

The fighter command of the R.A.F. and Allied air forces combined to exercise air superiority in the commando raid on Dieppe, 70 miles from the nearest Allied airfield, with great loss to the enemy.

This feat indicated to Britain that the time is at hand when Allied fighters will be able to spread the necessary air umbrella over any invading forces in Western Europe.

But German and Italian air power has virtually closed the Western Mediterranean to all but heavily-escorted convoys.

War at Sea:—

The British and United States navies are regarded as having recovered from the crippling blows dealt them by the Japanese in the first months of the Pacific war. Japanese sea power has been weakened by Allied victories at Midway, in the Coral Sea and in the Solomon Islands.

The anti-submarine campaign is declared to be progressing more favorably than anyone hoped six months ago.

Added to American measures, pilots of the R.A.F. coastal command are smashing at U-boats in American waters and the Bay of Biscay, while the bomber command has hit repeatedly at German submarine yards and engine factories.

War on Land:—

China, the senior Allied combatant, is now gaining some of her own back after being slowly encircled by the Japanese who are reported to be waiting for some significant Russian defeat, such as the fall of Stalingrad, to launch an attack on Siberia.

As a result of the battle of the Solomons, communications between the United States, Australia and New Zealand may be kept open and material and men can be gathered there for an attack on Japan, observers said.

A thumping defeat for Field Marshal Rommel would change Egypt from a desperately-held base to a concentration area for an Allied drive across North Africa which would place soldiers and aircraft of the United Nations in a position for an invasion of Italy.

Last, and most important, Britain—the unsinkable aircraft carrier—is the staging area for an invasion of Europe which it is taking for granted will be attempted in the fourth year of the war by every new technique, including "saturation" bombing, parachute troops and air-borne infantry.

Make Tanks Water Carriers.

The battle for water between the Don and Volga became so urgent that tanks were converted into water carriers loaded with everything from pots and buckets to barrels.

At one place the Germans sent four tanks to guard a well. Russian snipers were declared to have blown up every one of the tanks, enabling Red infantry to capture the well along with all surviving Nazis.

The heat wave was local, for Moscow was enjoying the coolest days since last spring while to the west of the capital rains drenched the fighting front, slowing operations.

The government newspaper Izvestia said that northwest of Stalingrad the Germans had failed to achieve even the smallest success in the past two days despite the arrival of a storm trooper division and Italian, Hungarian and Rumanian reinforcements.

Izvestia said that Soviet marines had joined the fighting is this sector and that their counter-attacks aided in capture of fortifications guarding a communications line.

learning they could not be manoeuvred effectively on the swampy terrain.

He did not estimate the size of the Japanese forces remaining on the peninsula, but said they were fighting only defensively and had lost the initiative throughout the area.

Walter Lucas, a London Daily Express correspondent accredited to Gen. Clowes' headquarters, said it is likely Allied casualties there will be high. Indicating the toll among the invaders might never be known, he said the Japanese survivors are removing their wounded and dead.

Japanese parties, seeking to establish themselves on a sea flank of the Solomon Islands, and less than 250 miles east of Port Moresby, formed for marching rather than fighting when they landed.

They assembled in columns of threes and moved along a trail from the fore-shore until the ambushed Australians struck. Lucas said Japanese naval gunners put up a heavy and sustained barrage, but the shells exploded harmlessly on a hillside.

Rommel Uses

infantry Divisions of 10,000 men each in North Africa.

Some Italian Divisions, notably the Pavia and Trento, were severely mauled in fighting earlier this summer and may not be at full strength.

It was the view of well-informed British military sources that Rommel began his offensive earlier than expected because the British rate of reinforcement had been greater than his own despite the long sea journey from the United Kingdom.

Rommel's supply line however has been constantly harried by air attack. He is believed to have resolved to attack before further Allied reinforcements made an assault impossible and his position untenable.

Prospects of checking Rommel and counter-attacking in force appear good although British official comment is guarded.

In this battle Rommel, master of manoeuvre, is denied space necessary for great flanking movements which played so large a part in his previous victories.

Confident Alexander.

The danger to Alexandria is admitted here but there is an indication that well-informed British circles belive Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Britain's Middle East Commander, is capable not only of stopping the Axis drive but of administering a sharp defeat.

Such a development might be the prelude to a series of offensive operations aimed at throwing the enemy out of North Africa and opening the way to overseas operations by Allied forces.

For weeks Rommel has been receiving supplies and reinforcements, repairing tanks and equipment. His air forces have been bombing Allied airdromes behind the lines. Newly-arrived parachute troops have been acclimating themselves in the desert.

Allied forces also have been busy. Gen. Sir Harold Alexander succeeded Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck in the Egyptian command. New supplies and reinforcements have been streaming into the desert.

Rommel's tanks are only some 75 miles from Alexandria and about 120 miles from Cairo and 180 miles from the Suez canal.

Beyond is the strategic link of land which ties the Egyptian front to the battered Russian lines in the Caucasus.

Rommel's drive may well be a jab of the southern claw of the pincers which Hitler hopes to clamp around all the countries of the Middle and Near East. The northern claw already has bitten trough the northern Caucasus and stands now in wild and difficult foothills of the Caucasus mountains.

Between the two claws stand the British 9th army and other Allied forces, preparing for such a manouevre for months. There are the Persian gulf ports, through which Britain and the United States have been supplying both the Allies forces in the Near East and the Russian armies. There, in Iraq, are rich oil fields. And, in the middle, is Turkey, beset on all sides by the armed forces of belligerents, but still netral.

Heavy Allied Barrage

The German armor was attacked vigorously from the air and by artillery as it pushed toward the Allied lines.

Rommel's 90th light infantry, to the north, was shelled heavily by British artillery as the Germans became tangled in minefields. Then they were taken on by our forces.

Fighting spread all along the 30-mile line leading northward to the Mediterranean near El Alamein village.

Rommel had pulled out his armor and many of his best troops and moved them by night some 14 miles from their bases to get in position for the attack in the south.

Preceding the assault were heavy Axis bombings of Allied desert camps. These began as a half moon rose above the horizon and were followed by artillery barrages which started at 4 a.m.

The R.A.F. also was active during the night and as day broke an intensive counter-attack from the air began with American medium bombers and fighters participating.

American B-25's—the same kind of bombers used in the raid on Tokyo—went into action with formations of Bostons manned by South Africans, three times hurling high explosive bombs upon German armor and enacting a considerable toll.

British fliers call the B-25's Mitchells after the late Gen. Billy Mitchell who was retired from the United States Army years ago for expressing strong opinions on the importance of aircraft in war.

Plowing Match Set For Next October 14

Peterborough Plowmen's Association decided last night to hold their annual match on October 14. A committee to take charge of arrangements, including location of the match fields, is composed of Art McIntyre, chairman; Harry Grant, Howard Quinn, Robert McAdam and G. A. Gillespie. The meeting was held in the Co-op Hall.

The plowing match is apparently the only public event of the year in the county carrying on the usual affairs of normal times. With the cancellation of the provincial match which was to have taken place in Huron, the Ontario Association has requested local branches to make a special effort to sustain interest in plowing.

City's Northern Line Pierced On Soaring Casualties 48 Tanks, 2,000 Men In Day

Reds Throw Off Nazi Naval Raiders In Attack On Caucasus Coast 3 Villages Retaken On Kalinin Front

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Sept. 1—(AP).—The Russians said today the Germans had deepened a wedge toward Stalingrad from the southwest and infiltrated that city's northwestern defences, but emphasized the casualties suffered by the invaders all along the front.

Scattered details reported in the mid-day communique indicated Germany's loss of at least 48 tanks and about 2,000 killed.

After fighting in which about 400 Germans were killed, "one Soviet unit withdrew to new positions" before the Kotelnikovski-Stalingrad pincer claw, the Soviet information bureau said. Tank crews were declared to have repulsed numerous attacks on other sectors of that area.

Red army men still menacing the Axis flank within the Don bend waged both offensive and defensive warfare and reports from the Caucasian battlefields were highlighted by a declaration that Soviet cavalry recaptured a Nazi-occupied village south of Krasnodar.

German naval parties are attempting to raid the Caucasian coast in conjunction with the overland drive from Krasnodar, but these are being smashed, a Pravda dispatch from the Black Sea fleet declared.

The Communist Party newspaper said Russians were striking at German-held ports with gunboats, torpedo boats and planes.

Tremendous new forces of men and machines were reported moving up to bolster the Axis assault upon Stalingrad.

Pravda said the Germans, hurrying ammunition, food and fuel to their forces fighting between the Don and the Volga, were using squadrons of transport planes and long lines of trucks guarded by tanks.

The midnight communique said no material changes took place at the front yesterday but it reported the Germans had wedged into Soviet lines southwest of Stalingrad and "infiltered into our defence positions" northwest of the city.

Red Army artillerymen and air crews blasted column of Field Mar. Fedor Von Bock's reserve troops, arms, supplies into retreat northwest of Stalingrad, destroying most of its trucks, Soviet reports said.

Other Soviet forces overwhelmed Italian regiments assigned to a Don ben salient in the area of Letskaya, the Russians said.

Prisoners and such material as 38 field guns and 265 machine guns were captured in the Kletskaya action, which dug into Axis positions protecting the Don bend crossings.

Huns Using Many Planes.

Indicating a relatively heavy use of planes in the western Caucasus, the Soviet Information Bureau said 18 German craft were shot down south of Krasnodar. Cossacks wiped out 200 parachutists landed behind the Russian lines, it was announced.

Seven German tanks and 23 trucks were destroyed and more than 200 Germans were slain during continued fighting for strategic Centra Caucasian highways about Prokhladnenski.

The midnight communique made no reference to the Russians' central front offensive, but said Soviet troops on the neighboring Kalinin front had captured three settlements in fighting which cost the Germans 800 casualties.

Farther north, a Red Army force was declared to have destroyed 28 Nazi blockhouses and pill-boxes and accounted for a company of Germans in a local attack.

Wipe Out 9 Batteries

Soviet artillery on the Leningrad front silenced nine German batteries and destroyed 23 enemy blockhouses and dugouts while Red army scouts and snipers killed more than 150 of the invaders, the Information Bureau said.

A German-held settlement in the Voronezh area on the Upper Don was raided by Russian tanks. The armored forces were reported to have wiped out Germans and destroyed equipment, including 15 field guns, eight mortars, 15 trucks.

Savagery of the fighting northwest of Stalingrad was illustrated by a declaration that a Soviet unit repulsed three attacks, destroyed six tanks and killed more than 250 Germans.

A German infantry and tank force attacked Soviet positions in the Kletskaya area (apparently after the Russian-Italian action) and about 30 German tanks were disabled by grenades and gunfire, it was announced.

Hog Raisers Doing Excellent Job Says Ottawa Urging Still More

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 — (CP). — The grunting of millions of Canadian hogs is beginning to sound something like a paean of victory to Dominion agriculture authorities.

With charts of hog production pointed upward, Canadian Bacon Board officials said to-day farmers raising hogs have done "a fine job" even though more hog marketings are required to supply all the needs of the United Kingdom for bacon.

Increase has been piled on increase in the demand or more bacon for shipment overseas, and thus far Canadian producers have met the demand.

Bacon exports totalled 170,337,000 pounds in 1938; 187,824,000 in 1939; 345,604,000 in 1940; and 464,614,000 in 1941. This year the Bacon Board hopes to ship 600,000,000 pounds or more.

Agriculture Department records showed to-day that hog gradings to August 22 this year totalled 3,839,069 against 3,564,843 for the corresponding period of 1941.

Three factors have made possible the bacon export achievements of the past year officials said:

1. Canadians generally have eaten less bacon, leaving more for export.

2. Farmers have concentrated more extensively on hog production.

3. The average slaughter weight of hogs has been increased. This has meant that while the hog gradings show an increase the actual gain is larger than is thus shown because the animals marketed are heavier and more bacon is made available.

As was the case last year, the prairie provinces have carried the main share of the increased production, with Alberta well in the lead.

Hog gradings in Alberta to Aug. 22 numbered 1,130,647, an increase of 251,544 compared with 1941. Saskatchewan gradings numbered 414,569, an increase of 149,035, and Manitoba 703,526, up 101,457. The Maritime provinces showed a gain of 3,459 with total gradings 45,039.

Relieved Pains In Back and Hips, Says This Local Lady!

Has High Praise For Syntona as Nerves Are Relaxed and Sleep is More Restful. Condition followed Indigestion, Gas, Acidity and Heartburn.

"The way Syntona has helped me is just grand, and I will be glad to have others know about it," said Mrs. Florence Hinchcliffe in a recent report.

"I had been troubled with indigestion, stomach gas, acidity and heartburn. Then, severe pains set into my hips and back. These pains became so bad I couldn't even walk at times. My nerves were bad, I slept poorly and I suffered with frequent headaches and constipation.

"I wasn't taking Syntona long before my food began to digest better without all that indigestion, sourness and gas. Then the pains went away and my nerves felt relaxed. I sleep better now and I arise mornings feeling rested and happy."

Syntona contains no harmful drugs or depressors. It is made only from the pure extracts of herbs, roots and barks that aid in proper assimilation of food to build sound bodies and strong, healthy nerves. It rids the system of irritating acids and poisonous waste matter. Many who have used it say that even after the first few days, the whole system takes on a new feeling of energy and resistance.

Mrs. Florence Hinchcliffe

Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, to-day and find out for yourself about Syntona. It has helped hundreds here and can do the same for you.—(Advt.)

Navy Men Laud Canuck Show Tops At Dieppe

WITH THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY, Somewhere in England, Sept. 1 — (CP Cable). — "You just can't say too much about the magnificent way Canadian Navy men acted—those ratings were tops," said the burly officer.

The officer, Lieut. Jack Koye of Saskatoon, is one of the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve officers serving in combined operations and he was talking about the Dieppe raid before starting a leave.

With him at this R.C.N. shore station was Sub-Lt. Dana Ramsay of Victoria, another "wavy Navy" man who sailed safely through the crazy quilt of screaming shells along Dieppe's shore in the only all-Canadian flotilla of landing craft in this operation.

"That's right," said Ramsay. "Our men were just magnificent."

Ramsay and Koye each commanded a landing craft which took members of the Montreal Black Watch ashore.

After months of combined-ops manoeuvres they and the ratings welcomed a chance to go into action with the Canadian "pongos." (A "pongo" is a soldier in the vernacular of combined-ops men.)

"You should have seen the men when we learned we were going to carry Canadians," said Koye. They shouted, 'Boy, oh boy, lets go.'

Something Big.

"Long before we got in range of the German guns it was obvious the show was going to be super-tough. The landing craft were still aboard the mother ship when we could see an in-shore battle between other vessels and German E-boats.

"The most beautiful sight I ever saw was when we came close to the beach in landing craft. We could see bombers sweeping in over the shore flying at zero height and blasting Dieppe. By that time the Germans were throwing everything they had at us.

"The whole beach was lit up with flares. We took the landing craft right in and I tell you it didn't take those Canadian 'pongos' long to get away. Under cover of our smoke screen they set up Bren guns and we pulled off to wait for the time to go in and get the boys again."

From others at this station came the story of Ramsay racing his landing craft in ahead of a motor launch to pick up a Norwegian airman who had been shot down, and the story of Koye taking over and bringing back to England the flotilla after the flotilla commander was killed.

In peacetime the 26-year old Koye, a big, broad-shouldered fellow with an underslung jaw, played hockey with Saskatoon Wesleys and later for New York Rovers in the United States Amateur League and Philadelphia Ramblers of the American League. His wife lives in Winnipeg.

Untagles Propellor.

"Those coxswains, stokers and gunners—you never saw anything like it," said Koye. There was, for instance Coxswain M. (Mac) McIntyre, of Norwich, Ont., who took over the flotilla leader's boat and got it offshore when it looked for a time that he mightn't be able.

"He had to get right out into the water and untangle the rope which got around the propellor," Ramsay said. "Another time I watched one gunner put a whole pan of Lewis gunfire into a German plane. He never wavered but just stuck to the target until he had to turn away because another plane was coming in from another angle."

Koye mentioned another gunner of this flotilla—Norman Mitchinson Anrie, a seaman from Ontario. "I saw him cut the wing clean off a JU-88 with Lewis gunfire," Koye said.

"Or take those stokers. Most of them were prairie sod busters who used to run threshing machines but they can't be beaten on a job like this. Their job is a tough one. They're all by themselves and haven't much protection. But every time they'd pop up from their station they'd shout 'How're we doing,' then go right back to it and never mind what kind of fire was going on around them."

Among the coxswains were Bill Belontz, of Brantford, Ont., J. J. McGregor, Jim Cole and Joe Spender of Hamilton, Ont., and G. (Porky) Morrison of Toronto.

400-$5,000 Seats

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1—(AP).—Five thousand dollars buys a luncheon date with Hedy Lamarr today. The screen star, helping in the Treasury Department's drive to sell $1,000,000,000 in war bonds this month, is lunching at the Midday Club and the price of a seat at her table is a pledge to buy $5,000 worth. The luncheon was a sell-out —400 had reserved seats.

Can Blitz Save Stalingrad?

A gigantic, last-minute counter-attack launched by the Red Army northwest of Moscow to divert German pressure from imperilled Stalingrad reportedly has cost the Germans 24 to 30 miles of territory and 45,000 men. This Central Press Canadian map shows the general area involved in the action. Heavy line denotes German advance toward Stalingrad and Moscow.

Dutch Assure Queen Nation To Live

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Celebration of the 62nd birthday anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina came to a climax at a demonstration in Albert Hall last night in which the Premier of the Netherlands Government, Peter S. Gerbrandy, called the queen "a symbol in our fight for freedom."

Holland will survive, the Premier assured the Queen, adding that he and virtually all Hollanders repudiate political efforts to bring about a union between the continental homeland and Germany.

"A few lackeys of the German National Socialists, who are unfaithful to their country, lately have chattered about blood, race and a union between the so-called Germanic peoples to serve as the basis for a German Reich under which the kingdom of the Netherlands would disappear," Gerbrandy said.

"Fortunately there is not a single true Netherlander to whom such imitation of the foreign intruders appeals in the slightest degree."

The Queen, who returned Wednesday from a visit to Canada and the United States, passed the day quietly in her residence.

Young Minister Called As RCAF Chaplain

Rev. W. O. Nugent, above, has received a call to the R.C.A.F. as a chaplain and has tendered his resignation as minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Cobourg. The resignation will be considered at a meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough on September 8th, Rev. Nugent will preach his farewell sermon here on Sunday, September 8th, and his new duties will commence at Lachine on September 18th. Formerly of the church of St. Andrew and St. Paul of Montreal, Rev. Nugent came to Cobourg to succeed Rev. J. B. Rhodes and was inducted as minister here on December 1st, 1939. He is also the present Moderator of the Presbytery of Peterborough. In July of last year he was sent to Newfoundland as missionary and was stationed at an American naval and army base there, returning to Cobourg in January of 1942. During his stay, he bcame very popular.

Rotary Shelves Plan For Air Cadets

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — (ENS)—Rotarians here have shelved for the present their plans to sponsor an Air Cadet unit in this town. Their decision was announced following a report of Chairman Gordon Maxwell of the Boys' Work Committee who said he had gone carefully into the question and that neither he nor his committee felt they could recommend such a program to the Club at the present time. He said in tabling his report that although there were many angles favourable to the formation and sponsoring of a local group such as the training and discipline it would provide for the members he felt there were certain difficulties which rendered the plan impractical at the present. One of these he said would be to get a commanding officer willing to devote two nights a week, 12 months of the year.

"We have not been able to find anyone who would be willing to do this," he said, adding that another difficulty would be finding a suitable place in which to hold lectures and drill. He foresaw a move to form the Air Cadets as likely to seriously deplete Boy Scout and Boys' Brigade units already formed locally. "It would be from their ranks that the most likely material would come."

Pointing to the fact that only those who were physically fit could receive the training Rev. Maxwell declared that the club's duty as he saw it was to all boys, whether or not they were physically fit. As an alternative to the Air Cadet plan he suggested the club might well devote any surplus money to building and equipping a suitable gymnasium where sports such as basketball and badminton could be played. This would be open to all and could be used for many indoor activities. "If we all put our shoulders to the wheel such a building (equipped with showers, etc.) could probably be built for $2,000.00." The president, P. C. Denyes said a further report on this suggestion would be given at the meeting on September 14th.

Speaker of the day was Adjutant Norman Buckley, officer commanding the Peterborough Corps. He was introduced to the club by Rotarian Alex. Turnbull and his remarks were confined principally to the work being done by the Salvation Army particularly in wartime. He said, "Our job is not simply to take people in, feed them and let them out again. We try to give them a new conception of life and a new outlook so that they won't get into trouble again." He added that the Salvation Army tried to help people regardless of race or creed. Speaking of the local drive which Rotarians have taken over and which will begin here on September 21st, Adjutant Buckley said that the only way they could be sure of making it a complete success was to contact everyone. It is hoped that the drive locally will realize $1,600.00 for Campbellford and Seymour. Two years ago the drive here netted $2,400.

At the close of the speakers remarks Rotarian Bert Taylor, chairman of the Salvation Army Drive expressed his thanks on behalf of the club to Adjutant Buckley.

Huns Not Fussy

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1—(AP). — Leland B. Morris, United States Minister to Iceland, and former Charge d'Affaires in Berlin, cautioned last night the Allies must "not be misled into the belief that the German people were recalcitrant or unwilling to make war sacrifices." He told the 43rd annual encampment of the veterans of foreign wars that they "want to be the top dog amongst nations, and they are not particularly concerned from a moral viewpoint how that ascendancy is to be arrived at."

Military Ruse, New Gun Break Hun Line

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

WITH THE RED ARMY NEAR RZHEV, Sept. 1.—(AP).—A Russian major wth curly hair and a blond moustache stood on a height facing Pogoreloye-Gorodische Monday and told how the German line was broken before Rzhev, first by a military ruse and then wth United States-made tanks and the Red Army's secret gun, "Katiusha."

Now through the Nazis' vaunted winter line, the Russians have passed Rzhev on the north and south, cleared the entire northern bank of the Volga and driven from the north outskirts into part of Rzhev itself. This offensive has been strongly sustained since Aug. 4.

This is how it happened, the major said:

"The Germans concentrated their forces to the south and paid little attention to the northern sector, thinking the Red Army would not be able to make strong attacks here.

"Through their scouts, the Germans knew five or six days ahead of time that the offensive would take place, but they didn't know what direction it would take.

"To deceive the enemy, we sent a battalion forward at 3.30 a.m., Aug. 4, from the south, while the real offensive was scheduled at 6.15 a.m. from the north.

"This ruse succeeded and the enemy was fooled. The prisoners we have taken all thought that the offensive started at 3.30 a.m."

The German 161st Infantry Division massed to meet the supposed attack on the south, but the Russian battalion withdrew. Then Russian artillery pumped shells into the enemy ranks.

Germans Demoralized.

The Germans were demoralized by an hour and a half of this fire and lost 60 per cent. of their personnel, the major said. The Russians on the north advanced 7½ miles, meeting only slight resistance from isolated enemy units.

Pogoreloye-Gorodische was encircled and captured by Russian troops charging from the surrounding forest, after Russian artillery had pounded the enemy positions for an hour, exterminating the enemy garrison of 650 men.

Generally the Russians broke through a nine-mile section of the forty-mile line, running from Rzhev to a point east of Gzhatsk.

The Germans, puzzled for days as to the direction the offensive would take, kept their troop reserves in the rear, but concentrated three flights of aircraft, totalling 400 planes, in the Smolensk, Wyadma and Vitebsk regions to bear the first brunt of battle.

The Russian fighters warded off mass bombing Aug. 4 and 5, the major said, but the Germans sent up a cloud of fighters Aug. 6 and made an average of 350 bombing flights daily.

"This, said the major, "rather effectively slowed up the tempo of our advance. The Germans did gain some time and they used it to bring up reserves from other sectors."

The Germans introduced into the battle parts of the Fifth Tank Division, the Fourteenth Motorized Division and the 328th, 129th and Tenth Infantry Divisions, the latter entering the struggle directly from the march. Now they are fighting fiercely to halt the Red army advance.

Although the German first line was quickly shattered, the enemy clung more tenaciously to the second line of defences, running as much as four miles deep. They held out in some pillboxes long after the Russians passed them until they were blasted into the open.

Elaborate Defenses.

I walked through the elaborate defenses of Pogoreloye-Gorodische, outpost of the line.

There were three rows of barbed wire, flanked by minefields and backed by shallow trenches. The approaches were covered with mortar and artillery emplacements. Inside the town, casemates were dug in the cellars of the houses. The Germans had burned some of the houses to camouflage the casemates.

In the trench line were open earthworks with emplacements for three machine-guns, casemates with timber roofs and deep dugouts for barracks. The communications trenches were about four feet deep, not supported by timber, and now they were filled with clay, water and the litter of their late occupants. The walls had crumbled under Red army shells.

"That is the work of Katiusha," the conducting officer said. He pointed to craters ten feet deep.

Only One Killed

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP)—Exchange Telegraph News Agency cancelled today a dispatch from India it had issued earlier declaring 201 persons had been killed and others injured Aug. 28 when police fired on a rioting mob near Gorakhpur. In a substitute dispatch from Gorakhpur it quoted the district magistrate as stating one person was killed and others were injured when police fired on a mob of 200.

New Health Idea

EDMONTON, Sept. 1—(CP)—Free medical health services organized on the same basis as the public school system were advocated in an address by Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F. candidate in the provincial by-election here Sept. 22. He said the health services proposed by his party were being provided in New Zealand, a country half the size of Alberta.

War Tapers Off Britain's Holiday Spirit

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Britain's "stay put" vacation season, the most unique in the history of the seaside-living nation, is over.

The country's war workers, refreshed by a fortnight's breather after a year's all-out effort, have returned to their benches.

As the holiday season approached Philip Noel-Baker, parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Transport, warned the public:

"We are at the gravest crisis of the war. We dare not allow the smallest interruption in essential war traffic....guns and tanks and war material must have prior claim. Railway companies cannot promise to take anybody where they want to go."

No extra trains were placed in service for holiday travel, the basic gasoline ration for private motoring was stopped. Everybody was warned about the inconveniences they would meet if they left home.

Britons seemed to have even scared themselves into a stay-at-home August Bank Holiday, normally the biggest excursion period of the year, when everything closes down for three days. Early indications pointed to a "black weekend," but crowds which thronged stations during the initial rush tapered off. Holiday resorts weren't nearly filled and travel in some areas was reported to be quieter than on ordinary days.

Specials for Stay-at-Homes.

Local authorities, urged by Government officials, took the necessary steps to make the holidays as pleasant and entertaining as possible for the men and women who stayed at home and puttered about garden allotments.

Rrcreational and entertainment facilities were increased and extra provision made for hiking and camping. There were more bands in parks, more orchestras and other concerts and more community singing. One London borough imported 500 deck chairs to give a seaside atmosphere while Newcatsle hired 100 donkeys to give children rides on the moore.

London, setting an example for other towns and cities, sanctioned fishing without permits. On every sunny and some cloudy days men and boys thronged the Serpentine, the waters of Batterea, Finsbury and Victoria Parks, Clapham Common, Hampstead Heath, Tooting and Hainsault Forest. They didn't care whether they got a bite or not although carp, pike, roach and bream were reported to be plentiful.

The Capital, crowded as never before by Canadian, United States and British troops as well as provincial visitors, experienced a box-office boom during August which broke peace-time records. During one week the 10 leading West End theatres took in $150,000 while one popular film realized about $200,000 over a five-week period.

Death Strikes Family Taking Four

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — (ENS). — Sad news greeted Mrs. Henry Field of this town when she received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Herbert MacBride, of London, yesterday. The letter told of the deaths of four relatives, including her sister and her husband, all as a result of enemy action. Her sister, Mrs. Robert MacFore, and her husband were both killed when a bomb blasted their home in Wimbledon. Making their deaths even more tragic was the fact that Mr. MacFore, who had been on service in Egypt had just returned home on the preceding day to recuperate from wounds suffered there, and according to Mrs. Field he had barely seen his 9½ months old son when the tragedy occurred. The baby was not in the house at the time the bomb struck and neither were their two older children, ages 6 and 4. They had fortunately been evacuated to the country for the summer. Mrs. Field told the Examiner that her sister had been a transport driver in the A.T.S. The other two deaths were of Canadian soldiers who had married cousins of Mrs. Field—Pte. George Baine, formerly of Hamilton and Cpl. Frederick Haddie of Toronto. Both of these soldiers died as a result of wounds suffered in the raid on Dieppe.

Suspended Sentence Given Two Youths

PORT HOPE, Sept. 1 —(ENS)—On Monday afternoon, August 31, the case of William Forsythe of Hope Township and Thomas Stothart, also of Port Hope came before the magistrate charged with breaking and entering the premises of Mr. Victor Paedon, 198 Yeoville street, with the intent to commit theft. Many witnesses were heard and both men pleaded guilty and were placed on suspended sentence for two years and were ordered to make restitution.

Forsythe and Stothart were arrested on August 19 by Inspector W. H. Longheed and Provincial Constable Broughton on a charge of a break-in at the home of Mr. Victor Paedon on the night of August 2, when $250.00 was taken, $157.80 of which was found in tin cans near a farm owned by John Ferguson near Port Hope.

Port Hope Couple Observe Jubilee

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Broadbent, well known Port Hope couple, observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Monday, when the entire family assembled to honor them. Mr. Broadbent kept a bakery shop in Port Hope for many years.

Family Honors Port Hope Couple Married Fifty Years Monday

PORT HOPE, Sept. 1.—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Broadbent celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Monday, August 31, surrounded by their family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent, who were married fifty years ago in Toronto by the Rev. Mr. Wightman, were born in England and have lived in Port Hope for over forty years, where Mr. Broadbent, up until one year ago, conducted a bakery.

Mrs. Broadbent, whose maiden name was Sarah Emma Jessup, was attended at her wedding fifty years ago by her sister, Eleanor Jessup, now Mrs. S. Brunt, of Toronto, who also was present at the anniversary, as was the best man, Mr. John Jessup, brother of the bride.

A lovely luncheon was served on Monday to the immediate family, at Greenwod Towers at 1 p.m., where a presentation of a purse of gold was made by two of their grandsons, Russel Knowles and Bobbie Broadbent and a very lovely address was read by a granddaughter, Mrs. Ewald Stander.

After the toasts Mrs. Bert Broadbent sang "I Love You Truly" and Muriel Knowles gave a piano solo.

Among those of the immediate family who were present at the luncheon were Mrs. H. Martin (Ada) of Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Thompson (Sybil) of Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Knowles (Alberta) of Toronto, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent, and Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent, and Mr. and Mrs. Russel Broadbent, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. Broadbent, who reside in Port Hope, and six grandchildren, Muriel and Russel Knowles, Bobbie and Garry Broadbent, Mrs. Ewald Stender, Mr. Ronald Martin of Buffalo, and one grandson, who was unable to attend, Mr. Hugh Martin, also of Buffalo. Also present at the luncheon were the bridesmaid, Mrs. S. Sprunt and Mr. Sprunt, Mrs. Annie Whitehead and Mr. John Jessup, all of Toronto.

After the luncheon the happy couple were at home to their friends at their home, 37 Bramley street north, where tea was poured at a daintily arranged table centred with summer blooms and tall white tapers, by Mrs. Eugene Sanders and Miss Elsie Thompson. The beautiful three storey wedding cake sat on the buffet.

Brazilians Busy Expanding Rubber Industry

Brazil, which has recently entered the war on the side of the United Nations, is a fine source for strategic supplies, according to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. One of these is rubber, since there is an acute shortage in the United States, where it is estimated more than 800,000 tons will be needed this year.

"Apparently it is generally expected that only relatively small amounts of additional natural rubber will be made promptly available, the Trust Company adds, in part, "Several regions, however, are considered capable of development as producers of the material within a few years. Brazil's forests provide the greatest concentration of mature trees for tapping. There actual work is progressing as planned under a program of expansion of production ,organized jointly by Brazil and the United States with a view both to meeting an emergency need and to preparation for continuing commercial importance after the war.

"Rubber is the most important of the urgently needed materials that Brazil can help supply. By agreement with the United States, the entire Brazilian output in excess of minimum local needs is reserved for the States for a period of five years. Portions of the locally manufactured rubber products also are to be sold to the United States, and domestic manufactures not essential for war purposes are restricted. Of the comparatively small amount of natural rubber to be expected in the near future from all sources still available to the United Nations, the Brazilian supply hold the most promise. During its period of greatest activity, about thirty years ago, the Brazilian industry produced approximately 40,000 tons annually, about 60 per cent of the total world output at that time.

"Organization of working forces for the Barzilian rubber enterprise is progressing, with technical direction and means of financing supplied partly by the United States. The task involves the migration of thousands of workers, the provision of housing and a variety of installations for the protection of their health, extension of roads into forest areas, the assembling of equipment for transportation by water and by land, etc. Tappers already at work reportedly number about 40,000, with half as many more to be equipped by the end of this year."

Machineshop Gutted

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 1.—(CP)—Officials of the North Van Ship Repairs, Limited, today surveyed damage done by a fire which swept through the shipyard's machineshop for four hours before being brought under control by the yard's volunteer brigade and the North Vancouver Fire Department. There was no estimate of damage.

Finds 1733 Coin

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 1.—(CP)—A small treasure trove was found by a man near here, who unearthed a coin dated 1733. Aside from the date, the only other legible thing on the coin was the figure of Brittania.

Staggered Hours Looming For Shoppers

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 — (CP). — The golden age of the Canadian shopper—infinite variety of goods on the shelves and plenty of time in which to buy them—appears to be entering its twilight.

Already wartime restrictions have reduced the number of articles for sale, especially non-essentials, and taxation is reducing the amounts of money Canadians have to spend. A further step was indicated with the disclosure that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has invited study of ways of shortening and staggering the hours retail stores are open for business.

Prices Board officials said that no order on hours had been issued, but that suggestions for hours' adjustments had been made to Edgar Burton, retail administrator. Proposals had been formulated and now were receiving consideration of the trade throughout Canada.

Nine Hours for Druggists.

An indication of the steps which may be taken was the announcement in Ottawa by Irwin H. Derby, president of the Retail Druggists' Association, that Ottawa druggisst soon will be operating on a nine-hour day basis. At present most Ottawa drug stores are open fifteen hours daily except Sunday.

The Ottawa decision was made after a questionnaire had been sent to druggists asking their opinion of shorter hours and what they should be.

It was understood that similar steps to obtain the views of the trade are being taken elsewhere.

When any trade group agrees on hours which may be established, the Prices Board has the authority to make such hours applicable to the community, or generally throughout the country if this is desirable. But no action was anticipated in any case until the trade concerned had been consulted and its views obtained.

Ottawa authorities said that the shorter hours and staggered hours would assist in two ways. In many cases where long hours mean two shifts of employees, the shorter hours would mean the release of men and women for other employment such as that in war industries. Staggered hours would help to ease the strain on transit facilities in cities, often overburdened at rush hours.

Floods In China

CHUNGKING, Sept. 1 —(AP)—The worst floods in 50 years in South Kwangsi province had routed 300,000 Chinese from their homes to-day and inundated 32 districts. About 700 were reported dead and some 60,000 were said to be starving. Some 20,000 were reported living only on grass.

Men And Women Needed

The people of Canada are going to be told, what they should do and what they must do, for within the next five months this country will need and must get from somewhere a quarter of a million more men and women, in order to carry on its war effort. Liberty to work at the job of our choice, in circumstances largely of our own creation and for such rewards as we have hitherto had some part in determining, must for the time be laid aside. There is no other way. We are still free but we must sacrifice some of that freedom if we wish to remain free.

Unfortunately, to meet this need in man and womanpower, there is no reserve in this land to draw from. Practically every employable Canadian is at work. Hence we might ask where are these men and women to come from. The outline of what the Government proposes to do is startling. There is sure to be disruption, dislocation and inconvenience for everyone. Things must be done and the only way to do these things and keep Canada's war industry rolling, is to shift men and women out of their present non-essential jobs, into those of war production. Industries, that are not now contributing anything essential to war production, will find that they have to do something to contribute to the war effort.

There are, indeed, endless possibilities and a whole array of disturbing-looking prospects but have not men and women been asking for two years and more for some greater war effort on their part and now they are going to be given the opportunity.

Elliott Little, National Director of Selective Services, has been given the task of getting the men and women needed for the war industries and from his addresses and the way he has taken hold of the job he will waste no time and get right on with the job of manning every post needed to be manned in war industry.

The employment regulations have been announced and may be divided under four headings, affecting both the employer and the employee. First no employer will be allowed to dismiss a worker, nor can a worker leave his job, without giving in either case seven days' notice in writing. It might be noted that the regulation says "in writing," for often in the past this has not been done, employee has quit on a minute's notice and employee has been fired on just as short notice.

The second regulation practically "freezes" all employees. No worker may seek other employment and no employer may hire, or interview with the intention to hire, any person unless that person holds a permit to seek employment which he must obtain from selective service office.

The third regulation is the one which mobilizes the entire man power of Canada. Every man or woman capable of performing some form of war service will be expected to undertake the service for which he or she is best qualified and which the demands of war require. The Government, according to Mr. Little, is working on the theory that voluntary employment is something Canada cannot afford at the present time. Compulsion applies to persons not gainfully employed or to those only part time employed, but it does not apply to the efforts of selective service officers to have workers move to more essential jobs. However the bonuses offered and the protection given will probably overbalance the desire to remain in non-essential jobs. Farmers are also urged to get war jobs, when farm work is not sufficient to keep them busy, but from what we have seen in this district we think the men who have stayed on the farm will find their job a 12-months a year one.

The fourth regulation calls upon all employers to report to employment and selective service offices their future labor needs and they must fill their current needs through the unemployment office. In planning to make the best use of our available power much information will be required and it is only in this manner can it be determined what non-essential jobs to eliminate.

No More Paper Wanted

Owing to the splendid response by the people of Canada for paper of all kinds the Government has announced that no more paper of any kind is to be collected. At the beginning of the year the country faced a shortage of waste paper to manufacture into various products, both for wartime needs and domestic requirements. So great has been the effort on the part of the public, and Peterborough in no way played a small part, that this condition has been rectified and there is today an actual surplus of some lines of waste paper.

However the need still remains for scrap rubber, scrap metal as well as bottles and rags and every citizen is urged to collect every bit of this kind of scrap. Rural mail men in many sections of Canada are doing a worth-while war effort in collecting scrap rubber. The farmers along the mail routes are putting out the scrap rubber at the mail boxes and the couriers are picking it up and seeing that it is taken to the proper depots.

A Bishop's Example

The priesthood, too, knows tragedy such as that which this week struck the diocesan household of the Roman Catholic Church in Peterborough, as death summoned Bishop Denis O'Connor before the mourning of his late Vicar, Monsignor W. J. McColl, had lifted from the affections of those whom long association had bound in the friendship of the religious life.

The news columns have paid tribute to his natural endowment of a fine intellect, and to that phase of the career of Bishop O'Connor as Rector of St. Peter's Seminary in London, Ontario, prior to his appointment as the head of the diocese of Peterborough twelve years ago. The same columns a few days ago reflected another facet of his character, in the account of the funeral of Monsignor McColl last Wednesday, a glimmer of resolute fortitude, not the least of the virtues in these days of courage, as he must have steeled himself to be present at the last rites for the elder priest who had gone, perhaps aware that his own going was near at hand.

That sense of duty, the high spirit of carrying on against the inclination to give in, and it is understood that Bishop O'Connor was wracked with pain toward the end, is a quality of heart which those who have known him may wish to remember as a silent message he has left to all his fellow citizens. And, if not a message, for that was not his modest, almost diffident way, then an example in these months of trial and challenge, transcending the easy eloquence of his words too seldom heard on public occasion in the community.

Three Years After

Three years ago tonight millions of Hitler's soldiers moved into Poland and against these 16 German panzer and motorized divisions the Poles had one panzer division; against 4,320 planes they had 404, of which only 36 were bombers. The course the Poles followed, even with this great disparity of strength, was not one of appeasement, for they well knew following Czecho-Slovakia that a nation may lose everything, and yet not fall if it upholds its honor at all cost; they realized that a peace purchased on Hitler's terms would make them forever subordinate to Germany.

They realized that Hitler, like Geron and Otto 900 years ago, like the Teutonic Knights of the Cross 700 years ago, like Frederic, co-perpetrator of Poland partition, like Bismarck, wrested lands and faith away from the Poles, always began his aggression against chosen victims by asking for only a tiny scrap of land. Once the opening wedge was driven in, the rest would soon follow.

In those three year Poland has suffered tremendously. One million Poles have been taken to Germany as forced labor; 400,000 were shot, hanged or murdered and about 500.000 have starved to death. That is the price they have paid for defying Germany. It staggers the imagination to think that every tenth human being in German-occupied Poland has already been hanged or shot, tortured to death, starved, or after being turned out of house and home, robbed of all his worldly goods, deported to forced labor in Germany or left to face hunger and privation.

But in spite of all this, defenceless, deprived of all aid from without, a prey to the most bestial oppression, the Polish nation fights on a challenge to all freedom-loving people in the world.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The million Germans who are homeless as the result of British bombing raids will have difficulty in believing any more official German reports. The Nazis always said their people would be protected against that kind of thing.

Canadian Press Marks Birthday

By J. A. McNEIL
General Manager, The Canadian Press

AT THE 25th anniversary today of its founding, The Canadian Press stands as a monument to the courage and vision of a small group of daily newspaper publishers who were first to realize the need for a system of news collection, exchange and distribution in Canada, controlled by its co-operating newspapers.

It is a testimonial also to the resourcefulness and disinterestedness of the whole body of those publishers who, inspired by the example of the pioneers, established and built to its present commanding stature a co-operative organization with international ramifications whch provides the people of Canada with the incalculable boon of a domestic and world-covering news service unequalled for accuracy, comprehensiveness and speed by any available to the press and public of any other nation.

Through the past quarter of a century the story of The Canadian Press has been one of continued progress and expansion. From its loyal ally, The Associated Press, it receives a news service covering the United States, the British Empire and the rest of the world, and distributes it from seven Canadian bureaux. Through these bureaux also it collects, condenses and dispatches the local and district news of its regional members for use by their fellows throughout Canada.

The New York bureau selects the essential news from the huge volume of AP and Reuters material and the output of the CP's London bureau and correlates it for Canadian consumption. A resident CP correspondent covers Washington from the Canadian viewpoint. And at the London bureau a staff of eight Canadian-born and Canadian-trained writers supplement the flow of AP, Reuters and other agency news with dispatches on conditions in Britain of special Canadian interest.

To the London bureau falls the vital task of keeping Canada's citizens informed of the welfare and the exploits of the Dominion's forces overseas. Typical of its service is the magnificent chronicle of the Dieppe raid written by Ross Munro, CP War Correspondent attached to the Canadian Army, and the complementary stories provided by his London colleagues.

Though it was on September 1, 1917, that The Canadian Press first functioned as a national entity, its origins go back for a decade previously, and its history would be incomplete without a resume of the happenings of those 10 years. Prior to 1907, the daily newspapers of Canada were dependent upon commercially-operated news services of indifferent quality and limited quantity.

The Canadian Pacific Railway held the Canadian rights to the Associated Press service, which it distributed through its telegraph facilities. The Great North-Western Telegraph Company, now absorbed in the Canadian National Railways, operated the Easson service, named after its manager and consisting of Canadian news collected mostly by G.N.W. agents. Larger dailies supplemented these news supplies by special services from the leading papers of New York and Chicago and by an expensive system of correspondence from other Canadian cities, while smaller papers relied on "boilerplate" shipped from central points.

A gradual realization by Canadian publishers that they should organize their own news service became general because of a series of events beginning in 1907, when the C.P.R. arbitrarily doubled its fees for AP to the three then-existing Winnipeg dailies. Their publishers organized the Western Associated Press, secured other Prairie newspapers as members and subscribed for other available news services. When the C.P.R. imposed discriminatory rates against this material, the W.A.P., supported by Eastern publishers, appealed to the Board of Railway Commissioners at Ottawa. Meanwhile the publishers of the Maritime provinces, encouraged by the Westerners' action, organized the Eastern Press Association on similar lines in 1910.

Late in 1910 the Railway Board gave judgment for the W.A.P. and ordered equality of press rates, whereupon the C.P.R. voluntarily surrendered its AP franchise. This made necessary an organization to acquire the service on behalf of the daily newspapers, and Canadian Press Limited was incorporated, with separate sections—morning and evening—composed of the publishers of Ontario and Quebec. The W.A.P. and E.P.A. continued as entities but their members were also members of Canadian Press Limited, with a loose working arrangement for exchange of Canadian news between the four bodies.

By 1917 it was recognized that this wasteful and cumbrous method should be replaced by an integrated and truly national news system to match and further foster the new national spirit engendered by Canada's participation in the First Great War, then at its peak, and the four sectional organizations merged their identity in The Canadian Press, a co-operative, non-profit corporation.

Establishment of a leased wire system from coast to coast was handicapped by three non-productive geographical gaps. The Dominion Government made a grant of $50,000 per annum toward the cost but as time passed the publishers realized that this subsidy raised the danger of political interference with their news, and when in 1924 the grant was withdrawn they cheerfully absorbed the deficit and went on record that never again would The Canadian Press accept funds from any outside source, public or private.

Formal celebration of the 25th anniversary is being deferred until the time of the annual meeting next spring, when CP members, now 90 in number, and their editorial aides from the Atlantic to the Pacific will gather to recall the successes of the past and plan for still further progress.

A Bishop's Finding

Bishop Wells, the principal Protestant chaplain, says that on the average the English and Scottish girls the Canadian troops are marrying overseas are of a higher intellectual standard than the boys.

The great thing about being a bishop and an honorary colonel to boot is that you can say what's on your mind.

Bishop Wells has apparently studied this marriage question and looked into all the angles; and the result of his study is that he believes it is a good thing for Canada that 5,000 of our boys have married English and Scottish lassies. A good thing for the British Isles too, he adds. Particularly close ties are in this way kept bound between Canada and the Motherland, and besides it gives the boys a sense of home over there on the eve of their departure for the Continent and all it can mean.—Ottawa Journal.

TRAILER TINTYPES

Canada Enters War's Fourth Year

By John Le Blanc, Canadian Press Staff Writer

(This is one of a Canadian Press daily series on Canada Enters War's Fourth Year.)

HALIFAX, Sept. 1 (CP)—Battlements compounded of air, land and sea power confront the invader who would gain a foothold on Canada's eastern frontier in the fourth year of the war.

The Dominion's three forces on the Atlantic coast have been welded into a powerful defence organism under a unified command. Navy, army and air force stand ready to act as one at the first appearance of an intruder along the indented coastline from the United States to Labrador.

And the men of the United States fighting services join the Canadian defenders in Newfoundland, the craggy bastion that stands athwart the sea-threshold of the St. Lawrence River—classical invasion route to the heart of the continent. All along the hundreds of miles of island and mainland coast, men and ships and planes and guns stand at the alert. The vigil extends around the clock.

At sea the navy, burdened with the task of getting the convoys through, has the help of the far-ranging coastal patrol of the air force. From a chain of airports, the big bombers drone ceaselessly farout upon the Atlantic, bomb bays loaded and observers on the watch.

The navy's own patrol ships scurry up and down the shore from Halifax and from other bases that have mushroomed up in the months of war. The minesweepers plod daily through their dull task. At the mouths of the vital harbors, steel nets open their meshes only to friendly craft.

On land, the powerful guns of the army's coastal batteries point their snouts seaward in unspoken challenge, their numbers multiplied many times since the start of war. Now and then, their throaty rumble is heard as the gunners keep them in fettle.

Along the coastal roads, the army maintains endless watch. Travellers are halted and must explain their business. These infantrymen, too, keep a watch seaward as auxiliary to the vigilance of the other forces.

A little further inland, the army has its concentrations of men and equipment that can be rushed swiftly to endangered areas. There are constant manoeuvers, with theoretical defenders fighting off hypothetical attacks on important objectives.

Around the important centres and the installations vital to war stand the anti-aircraft guns and the searchlights, with men at the ready 24 hours a day. Hostile aircraft would be sighted well before reaching their targets through the R.C.A.F.'s network of Aircraft Detection Observers—a corps of hundreds of civilians spotted throughout the sprawling Atlantic Command.

All these diversified defence formations are under the hand of Maj.-Gen. W. H. P. Elkins, Officer Commanding-in-chief, Atlantic Command. In time of attack, army, navy and air force would function as an integrated force under his order in a triple-strength dose of trouble for the intruder.

Brighter Aspects for the Allies

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

THE greater world war that Hitler loosed in Poland on a tragic September morning turns into its fourth year today with many symptoms that it is rounding more than a dateline corner.

Battle reports from all fronts are beginning to form a pattern that must give Berlin pause. Despite tremendous Nazi military achievements in Europe and huge Japanese conquest strides, nowhere has the triple Axis yet been able to clutch decisively at victory. Instead, the portents of this Sept. 1 all favor the United Nations fellowship, only now beginning to bring into play its matchless resources in war making.

It is still too soon to say that Hitler's "victory-offensive" in Russia has been stemmed. The great Russian oil fields on the shores of the Caspian Sea are all but cut off in the Caucasus fighting. A Nazi spearhead column may be actually on the banks of the Volga south of Stalingrad.

It is not too soon, however, to say that the prime obective of the Hitler campaign in Russia is still beyond its reach. He has poured out German blood and that of his Allies without breaking Russian will to resist. Another winter is coming on, only weeks away, and Russian armies of the North before Moscow are on the attack, not the retreat.

MORE THAN DIVERSION

The real scope and purpose of a mounting Russian offensive west and northwest of Moscow is still to be disclosed. However, the mere fact that foreign war correspondents have been permitted by Moscow to go to the Rzhev front to verify Russian advances in that sector indicates that it is more than a diversion attack to ease pressure on Stalingrad.

Henry Cassidy, Associated Press correspondent on the scene, reports a nine-mile Russian break through Nazi fortified lines about Rzhev. There are indications moreover, that Russian central armies are pressing against the German holding front all the way from the south flank of the Valdai Plateau above Rzhev to the Kaluga region southwest of Moscow.

It may be the beginning of a Russian major counter-offensive on a 100-mile front or more, timed to catch the Nazi thrust in the south too deeply engaged to be halted. At the worst, a prolonged siege of Stalingrad seems impending, with German supply lines badly extended and the autumnal rains already beginning in the north to flood the Volga and Don deltas in due course.

The essential fact, as Cassidy noted, however, is that, regardless of the German advances in the south, the Russian armies in the centre and the north are on the aggressive. They have found the strength to batter through Nazi lines heavily fortified in depth, using many American trucks and tanks. They have also found the bombing planes to batter at German cities from the east as British and American air forces are blasting at them from the west.

Meanwhile American troops, planes and fighting gear have been pouring into the British Isles virtually unimpeded and American naval and air power has been already sufficiently expanded to deal Japan heavy blows in the Pacific, in China, in Burma, and to organize in India. For whatever reason, Japan is on the retreat again in China, and Nipponese tentacles reaching out to seize or blockade Australia have been lopped off.

Berlin explains Japanese back-tracking in China as due to accomplishment of a mission. What mission is not stated. It seems clear, however, that the China offensive which followed the fall of Burma has neither broken Chinese fighting ardor nor relieved Japan of the peril of long-range American bombing from Chinese bases. That is coming certainly, as certainly as the long nights of the oncoming winter season will see British, American and Russian bombing over Germany make it a season of terror there such as Britain knew in previous war winters.

There are bright aspects to this Sept. 1 for the United Nations fellowship as well as bitter memories. It may prove in retrospect a convenient date from which to reckon the ebb of the Axis war effort.

More Cheese For Them

The British public has had its points reduced and its cheese allowance increased. By and large, people are very well fed and very far from the hardships which they would gladly accept if the change eased the shipping situation. The management of food rationing is one of the most satisfactory and efficient sides of our war economy; but it would be valid to suggest that the increased supplies of cheese should be passed on to heavy workers before the general public gets its share; and that more unrationed goods should be brought under the points system.—The Observer, London.

A Bible Message For Today

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound....To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.—Isa. cxi, 1, 3.

Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?

Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.—Matt. xi, 2-6.

Letter To The Editor

TRANSPORTATION FOR SOLDIERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I note that the supplementary estimates passed at Ottawa include $10,500 to cover expenses of senators and members of parliament going home for the Easter recess. This, no doubt, is in consideration of valuable service rendered to their country and we have no fault to find with that. But we cannot see why our men who are on active service, risking their lives every hour of the day and night to make our parliamentary sessions possible, cannot travel to their homes on furlough free of charge. Our men in England are now given four free traveling warrants a year but here they cannot even get one. It is true they get a reduced rate but even so the distances to be covered make it very hard for many men to raise the money necessary for a trip home.

Hundreds of appeals have been made to the Government on this question, and thousands of people have signed petitions that men be given free transportation once a year at least. But the reply has been that the exigencies of war are such that they cannot afford this privilege. As we have a nationally-owned railway we fail to see why.

We could cite many instances of thousands of dollars being spent on beautifying the surroundings of military establishments, recruiting drives, etc. If the men already enlisted were given a better deal there would be no need of recruiting drives.

This letter has been endorsed by the Welfare Committee of the Women's Auxiliaries and we would like to hear from other interested parties on the subject. If sufficient pressure is brought to bear on the authorities we may get fair play.

Smart Dinner Dress

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SHOPS report that women are going for dinner dresses again, but that the demand is for simple but smart models, dresses that can be worn many times and yet always be smart in any gathering. Here's a splendid example of this type of dinner dress. Modeled by lovely Alexis Smith, it is of black crepe cut on simple, slender lines with a collarless low V neckline and modified fullness gathered into the centre above and below the waistline. The interesting trimming is of bands of nude net inserted into the bodice.

More People Start Smoking Air Raids Get the Blame

Four years ago, just a year before war was declared, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Smart and their little daughter Doreen, went to England. Just before war broke out Mr. Smart joined the Royal Air Force. Later he was sent to Canada and has been stationed at Kingston with the R.A.F. for more than a year. The Air Ministry allows wives and families of men permanently stationed in Canada to join them after a certain length of time and quite recently Mrs. Smart whose maiden name was Edna Simmons, and Doreen have returned to Peterborough and are living with the former's parents on Eucid Ave.

They have been living in Weston-Super-Mare, a seaside resort not far from the great city of Bristol. An Examiner reporter asked Mrs. Smart if Weston had suffered at all in the terrible raids on Bristol during the big blitz.

"No," said Mrs. Smart, "but we had two big raids this summer, on successive nights. The raids lasted two hours each and 600 homes were unusable after it was over." Mrs. Smart had newspapers with pictures showing the extent of the damage done in Weston's business and residential areas. Instead of incendiaries, the raiders dropped oil bombs which burst when they struck, spraying everything with a thick coating of oil and causing the 160 fires that started to spread rapidly. "Our house wasn't struck," said Mrs. Smart, in answer to the reporter's question, "but a bomb hit a church quite close to where we lived." Auxiliary firemen from Bristol came to help fight the fires.

After the raid mobile laundrys and the Queen's "flying messengers" came to help the bombed families, and ambulances of the Canadian Red Cross took care of the injured. The "flying messengers" explained Mrs. Smart "are mobile kitchens."

Asked about food and rationing, Mrs. Smart said, "Nobody starves, and we all get enough to eat, but there is very little variety. Children get a bar of chocolate or two ounces of candy a week and children under six are allowed oranges. Milk was rationed in spring and summer and probably will be again in the winter but the school children were given a pint of milk a day at school." A point system is used for canned goods and packaged cereals where these are available. "We were allowed two eggs a month each," said Mrs. Smart, but when we got them they weren't always very fresh." There is plenty of fresh vegetables but almost no fruit. Such fruit as there is, is very expensive. Peaches are 60 cents each.

"Clothes are rationed, too," said Mrs. Smart, "and children's clothes are very hard to get. All the big stores in Weston were destroyed in the raids and that made it all the harder. We were allowed 66 coupons each a year for clothes. Fortunately English clothes last very well. English shoes, which wear extremely well, are very expensive." Hats are not rationed.

"You just can't buy odd cups and saucers," Mrs. Smart told the reporter. "They come with complete dinner sets, but you can't buy them separately." Kettles and sauce-pans are not to be had except a few for those who have lost theirs in the raids, and glasses are scarce.

Beyond the fact that all the women smoke, and that everyone is very excited after a raid, Mrs. Smart said that people showed very few ill effects. Nobody seems to be suffering from the food rationing though nobody likes the montony of the food. Doctors claim that people are healthier now. Doreen was present during part of the interview, playing with her three dolls, which she brought from England with her, and she certainly showed no visible sign of suffering from the effects of rationed food and air raids. Asked if she was fightened during the raids, she said "No, certainly not!"

The Smarts had a Morrison Table Shelter. This shelter is used right in the house, and it's great advantage is that the occupants need not get up from a warm bed and go outside to a shelter. Many people were catching colds from doing this. The shelter is like a table with steel top and sides and can withstand a great deal of pressure.

Sent Gift Through I. O. D. E., Sender Thanked In Letter

Mrs. James Walker, 341 Charlotte Street has received a letter from a member of the F.A.N.Y. stationed with the Polish Forces in Scotland, thanking her for the necessity kit which she sent through the I.O.D.E. Mrs. Walker is not a member of the I.O.D.E. but she contributed the cost of one of these kits through a friend who is active in the Order, and her name and address were put on one of the bags. These kits contain such necessities as bobby pins, hair pins, soap towels, handkerchiefs and other necessities for which precious coupons have to be used, or which are just not obtainable in Britain to-day. Mrs. Walker is the first to have received any word of the arrival of these kits and she was interested to note that the letter bore the postmark of a Scottish town in which some relatives of hers had been bombed. This is the letter:

"Dear Mrs. James Walker:

"Thank you so much for the necessity kit which was sent to me today.

"You cannot realize how much we appreciate the thoughtfulness of all the things which these kits contain. All sorts of little comforts that are almost unobtainable over here, such as hair pins, Kirb Grip (bobby pins), soap (we have to have coupons for them). If you could all see the pleasure the members of this unit of Canadian and British women who are driving ambulances for the Polish Army opening their parcels and everyone feeling like Christmas time, you would be gratified and know that we do thank you so very much for your kindness to us all. It makes the world of free peoples seem so close that we are all friends and that if our hands cannot meet across the seas our hearts do. Yours very sincerely,

"Diano Tauber."

Newlyweds To Live In Peterborough

Standards of pink and white gladioli, ferns and geraniums formed the setting in the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, Monday, August 24, when Stephen Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lajoie, of Queensboro, took as his bride Mary Pauline McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCormick, Erinsville.

Rev. J. J. Powell officiated. Presiding at the organ was Mrs. Jos. Breault, who accompanied Mr. John Killoran as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Gerald, entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin. A gown of heavenly blue sheer chiffon, with intricately shirred waist and lace yoke and long full sleeves, caught at the wrists, was chosen by the bride. Her fingertip veil of French silk net with embroidered edge fell from a Princess Marina headdress, and she carried a cascade of variegated gladioli.

She was attended by Miss Mary Lajoie, sister of the groom, who wore a gown of pink triple sheer with floral pattern lace jacket and shoulder length veil which fell from a circlet of pink gardenias, carrying a bouquet similar to the bride's.

Mr. Michael McCormick, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and bracelet with brilliant settings; to the bridesmaid, a piece of silverware, and to the groomsman, a walnut veneer cigarette case.

Wedding breakfast was served at the Superior restaurant in Napanee to 15 guests.

Later, leaving for Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a rose wool two-piece suit with accents of navy.

On their return, a reception was held in their honor at Beaver Lake pavilion, where the bridal couple received many lovely gifts. They will live at 189 Reid street, Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Torrance. Mr. W. R. Young was at the organ and at the signing of the register Miss Ruth Hanna sang. The church was decorated with dark red and white gladioli with palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law Mr. Gordon Ralston, wore a dove white silk jersey own with finger tip veil of illusion and carried a bouquet of white swansonia and American Beauty roses. She was attended by her sister Mrs. James Harling of Kirkland Lake, as matron of honor, in an aquamarine silk jersey gown with tiny hat of American Beauty roses and a matching bouquet.

Mr. Edmund J. MacDonnell was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. William Bradley Dix and Mr. H. Douglas Bellinger.

The reception was held at home, Mrs. Deyell receiving in an Argentina blue crepe dress with large black hat and corsage of Joanna Hill roses and bouvardia. The groom's mother assisted, wearing rosewood taffeta with dubonnet hat and corsage of Sweetheart roses and cornflowers.

MARRIAGES OF THE FUTURE WILL BE MORE SUCCESSFUL. The Economic Independence of Women Will Necessitate Adjustments.

A man who asserts that the modern marriage is a complete failure wants to know whether I think the marriage of the future will be more successful, and whether in another generation or two husbands and wives will have worked out a better plan for living together in peace and harmony than they have now.

Not having the gift of prophecy, I cannot answer this question. However, I am optimistic enough to believe that the marriage of the future will be a great improvement on that of the past. I think that while no one will ever be able to devise a fool-proof scheme to keep husbands and wives from getting in each other's hair at times, human nature being what it is, married couples will discard the brutal methods they now use in handling each other and develop a diplomatic technique that will make them persona grata with each other instead of being sparring partners, as they so often are at present.

For this wishful thinking there are several good reasons. One is that the improvement in marriage has kept step with the advance of civilization, and even in the last 50 years it has changed immeasurably for the better. If a modern man treated his wife as Grandpa did Grandma, she would yank him into

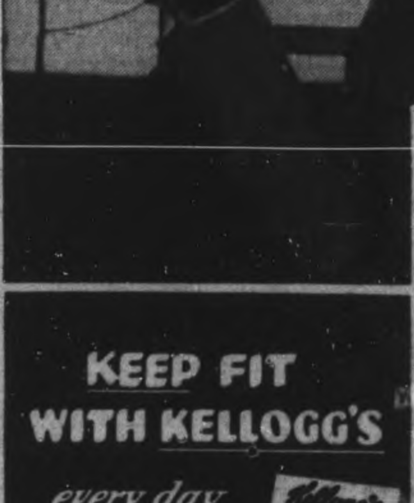
Is YOUR JOB the "sit-down" kind?



No need to put up with that "heavy-as-lead" feeling!

Don't let depressed, tired-out days slow you down, just because your job gives you no chance for healthful exercise. Follow these two rules of health: (1) To get well, see your doctor; (2) To keep well, watch your habits. Make sure elimination is complete. But don't resort to harsh cathartics. Instead get plenty of "bulk" in your diet. And get it in a form so delicious you'll want to take it every day! That means Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. Mildly laxative, they help supply valuable minerals and proteins, too. And they're so crisp and crunchy, so downright delicious you'll want a big bowlful of them every morning! Ask your grocer for the golden-yellow package of Kellogg's Bran Flakes tomorrow. It comes in two convenient sizes. And in restaurants, order the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

BRINTONS DEFEAT ELECTRICS IN FIRST OF KNOX CUP PLAYOFFS

Leila Hughes Strikes Out Thirteen

Brintons jumped out in front last night in the battle for the intermediate championship of the Girls' League and the Knox Cup by easily defeating Electrics 12 runs to 3. The second game in the series will be played on Thursday night.

Leila Hughes' fine pitching was too much for Electrics. The Brintons' right-hander held the losers to six hits struck out 13 of them, and was never in trouble except in the sixth inning when a single by Ruby Milburn was followed by a homer by M. Barnes to give the Electrics two of their three runs.

Electrics got off on the wrong foot. Their pitcher Mary Larmer was not on hand when the game started, and Maxine Hunter had to go to the mound. She was hit hard, but her support in the opening frame was very loose and the net result was five runs for Brintons, on two hits, one of them a homer by M. Barrie.

Mary Larmer took over the pitching duties in the second and the winners bunched three hits and two walks for three more runs, giving them a total of eight for the first two innings.

After that it was a ball game with the scoring cut down for the balance of the battle and the pitchers working in good form.

Brintons did not score again until the sixth when three hits and an error gave them three more runs and they added another in the seventh with the assistance of another fielding misplay.

Electrics got a run in the first when Ruby Milburn singled to score Maxine Hunter who had walked. They did not cross the plate again until the sixth when after Ruby Milburn had singled to right, M. Barnes hit a homer to deep right field, scoring two runs.

Brintons made nine errors, but in spite of that the fielding gems of the game were turned in by Ethel Barnes and Shirley Milburn at shortstop and second base for the losers, both of them coming up with feature plays.

Doris Walker led the Brintons at the bat with three hits in four official appearances at the plate. Ruby Milburn was the only Electric player to come through with two safe blows.

Dodgers Finally Get Buck Newsom

NEW YORK Sept. 1 — (AP). — The deadline for player eligibility in the World Series caused both of the prospective rivals, New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers to make an emergency trip to market yesterday—and both went to the same market.

In two deals with the Washington Senators the Dodgers obtained garrulous Louis (Bobo) Newsom, the righthanded pitcher who starred for Detroit in the 1940 series, and the Yankees bought outfielder Roy Cullenbine.

Beating the Deadline.

By getting the players yesterday the clubs made them available for service in the Series, which is limited to performers who were on the rosters of the competing clubs at midnight August 31.

The Dodgers had been trying to get Newsom off and on since before the season started. During spring training they made overtures to Detroit Tigers but Washington and St. Louis Browns refused to give waivers. Then Detroit sold him to Washington and Brooklyn made another futile try and about a month ago the Dodgers tried again. This time waivers were obtained on Newsom, but not on Alex Kampouris, a Dodger utility player who was to have been put in the deal.

The amount of money paid for Newsom was not announced, but probably exceeded the waiver price of $7,500 and in addition Brooklyn sent to Washington left-handed pitcher Jack Kraus, who has been at the Dodgers' farm in Montreal.

No figures were given out, either on the straight cash transaction which brought Cullenbine to the Yanks, but it was believed the Washington Club netted at least $25,000 or $30,000 in the two deals both of which had to go through the waiver process.

Cullenbine, one of baseball's best golfers, also is a former Detroit player, but was given his free agency by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis in 1939 when Landis cut the Tigers' bonds on some 90 players for mishandling of contracts. Afterward Cullenbine was paid $25,000 for signing with the Dodgers, was traded to St. Louis Browns in 1940, and then in the middle of the present season to the Senators.

He batted .317 and knocked in 98 runs for the Browns last year, but his average this season has stayed close to .250. He is a switch-hitter, batting either right or left handed.

The Yankees needed him because Tom Heinrich the expert rightfielder, enlisted in the Coastguard. He left the club after Sunday's game, reducing New York's outfield corps to Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller, the veteran George (Twink) Selkirk and George Stainback. The latter two have been ailing most of the season.

Newsom, who was 34 years old on August 11 broke into the major leagues at Brooklyn in 1929 when the club was managed by Wilbert (Uncle Robbie) Robinson, and the next year was sent back to the minors. His record for five games in two seasons was none won and three lost.

In 1932 he pitched one inning with Chicago Cubs and finally in 1934 came back to the majors to stay—but not to stay put. He was with St. Louis Browns that year, was sold to Washington the next season for $40,000, then travelled to Boston Red Sox back to Browns, on to Detroit, back to Washington, and now back to Brooklyn.

He won 20-20-21 games in three years from 1938 to 1940 and won his first two games for the Tigers in the 1940 World Series with Cincinnati. He tried to attain a third victory by pitching the final game of the Series, but he was beaten.

Last season he never got into winning condition and lost twenty games, leading the league in defeats for the third time in his career. This year he has won eleven and lost seven—sometimes looking helpless and at others showing his old-time magnificence, such as the day he held his former teammates, the Tigers, to one hit.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

It may be kind of late in the season to remind our bowlers about the rules of the game, but one of these days "somebody" is going to lose an important game all because "somebody" did not adhere to the rules.

For instance, what happens, suppose a bowler should make a lovely shot and trail the kitty into the ditch, and the kitty should hit a score board or a bowling case?

Or suppose a vice skip should forget to work up an end until the game is all over. What then?

Or suppose your opponent fails to stand six feet back of the kitty, and by so crowding everybody caused a bowl or the kitty to be burnt. Then what?

These are only some minor things in bowling but they loom up very

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Biggest crowd of the season should be on hand tomorrow, Wednesday evening when Oshawa Colts, winners of the Oshawa City League will clash with Plazas, Peterborough representatives, in the second game of the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playdowns. Oshawa took the first game of the round Saturday and the Plazas have to win the Wednesday night affair to even up the series and force a third game. It should be a real argument. While Plazas took a bad beating Saturday they are still full of confidence. They say this is another ball game and predict they will fight their way back into the running by handing Soup Campbell's Colts an artistic trimming here tomorrow night. There is plenty of battling spirit in the Plaza lineup as local fans know and it is liable to break loose tomorrow night and surprise the cocky Colts who on the strength of their easy win Saturday expect to romp through the series in two straight games. The battle will be staged at Riverside Park and will get away at 6 o'clock sharp.

Oshawa have a good ball club. Ronnie Nelson of hockey fame is a clever backstop and in Preem Whiteley and Dean McLaughlin they have two ace pitchers. McLaughlin who has plenty on the ball will undoubtedly do the tossing for them tomorrow evening while Dave Wilson is the probable Plaza choice. At first for the Oshawa team is Bidgood, although he may not be with them tomorrow night. He is now in the army and is in training at Newmarket. He managed to get down for Saturday's game but tomorrow is another day. At second is Red Jubenville who needs no introduction to Peterborough ball fans. Red galloped around second for a long time with the Oshawa ball club and is just as formidable in softball as he was in the Central Ontario League, covering lots of ground in the field and doing lots of damage with his bat. Hall at third and Dalton at short are well-known performers and so is Little in left field while O'Reilly and Trewin the other outfielders are classy players.

Ken Colling has the following dope on the softball situation down Belleville way: "After sweeping through their series with the Trenton Rexalls, the Army & Navy Vets now turn their attentions toward Kingston's softball greats, which this year happens to be the Victorias. Softball in the Limestone City wasn't the crowning success it has enjoyed in previous years paramountly because a successful City Baseball League was operated in the Limstone City. However, with only two teams from Kingston entered in a four-teamed loop the Victorias sallied through to a rather easy league title. In years past the Limestone City mushballers, when "Cowboy" Smith was their top hurler, always gave Belleville softball interests plenty of diamond argument. No doubt Johnnie Bawden will go to the hilltop versus the Vics., with Jim Hunter and Connie Harris available for relief duty. Incidentally when Point Anne did not sponsor a softball team this season it was a blessing the Vets. can thank their lucky stars. Murney Green has done yeoman service handling the Vets' catching duties, then there is Doug Bennett, Mike Whalen, Phil Loft and "Pee Wee" Hutchings, all former Cementmen who have materially helped Skipper Barriage's team to attain its present lofty perch."

Promising Athlete Gone

The death in action of Sergt. Observer Albert "Ab" Leether of the Royal Canadian Air Force has brought grief to Peterborough sport circles. The young airman was one of Peterborough's prominent young athletes who early answered the call of King and country. His specialty was football and he will long be remembered at Collegiate Institute as one of the steadiest and most dependable back-fielders to wear the uniform of the P.C.I. team in interscholastic competition. Reliable, hard-hitting and efficient, Ab Leether was a tower of strength to the Collegiate team during the years he wore the garnet and gray. A good kicker and forward passer and a useful man always in combined end-runs, he helped win many a battle for Collegiate and later when he played for a season with the Orfuns he gave a good account of himself when called upon. His death in action will be deeply regretted and the bereaved relatives will have the sincere sympathy of the sporting community in Peterborough, and particularly of the rugby fans.

Brintons have the edge in the Girls' League playoff series for the intermediate title and the Knox Cup. They broke out in front last night by outscoring the C.G.E. girls 12 to 3. However the round is a best four-of-seven affair and is far from being over. The second game of the series is billed for Thursday night and the Electrics can even it all up by coming back with a win on that occasion. They had a tough break last night in having to start without their regular pitcher and Brintons scored five runs in the first before the flinger could get into action. However, the Carpetmakers earned the win. They got splendid pitching from Leila Hughes who allowed only six hits and struck out 13 of the losers in eight innings and they played good ball in the field. Electrics on the other hand were guilty of nine defensive slips and most of them counted in the run-getting. Thursday night's affair is likely to see the Electrics going a lot better in the field and if they do it will be a nice battle.

Dodgers Pick Up Half Game

With the St. Louis Cards idle yesterday, Brooklyn picked up a half game more margin over the second-placers and now lead by 3½ games. However the Bums had an awful argument on their hands before they finally nosed out Pittsburg Pirates 5 to 4 in eleven innings, getting the winning run on an error after two extra frames. It was a strenuous battle. The Pirates fought the Dodgers tooth and nail, coming from behind to tie up the score in the ninth only to lose out eventually. Curt Davis, last of three Brooklyn pitchers to work was given credit for the win. Gornicki went the entire route for the Corsairs. New York Giants who have been playing fine ball recently ran their current winning streak to six games yesterday by beating the Chicago Cubs 7 to 6. The Giants won out in the seventh when Buster Maynard in a pinch-hitting role came through with a single that scored two runs and put the New Yorkers in front. Relief Pitcher Adams saw action again. It was his 52nd game of the year.

Elmer Riddle, one of the pitching sensations of last season won his fourth game of the current campaign for the Cincinnati Reds last night, defeating Philadelphia 8 to 1. Riddle issued eight bases on balls but he only allowed the Phillies five scattered hits. Rookie Eric Tipton hit his fourth homer of the season for the Reds. And while all these things were going on in the National League, New York Yanks and the Boston Red Sox were keeping on even terms in the American loop, both of them coming through with wins. The Boston victory over the St. Louis Browns was notable for the fact that Tex Hughson nailed his 18th win of the campaign to strengthen his position as leading American League pitcher and draw close to the coveted 20-win mark. Hughson was helped by the powerful bat of Ted Williams who drove in three runs with a double and a single. Boston won 8 to 6, in spite of a last minute uprising on the part of the Browns. The feature of the Yanks' win was that it was the first time in five years that Atley Donald had been able to take a decision over the Detroit Tigers. The Yanks made it easy for Donald this time, winning 8 to 3.

Kingston Man, Sted Craig, Drives Winning Horse At Kingston Fair

KINGSTON, Sept. 1.—Sted Craig, the master Kingston reinsman, piloted Bert Patch to three wins in the free for all class to feature the closing of the three-day harness meet at the Kingston Fair last Saturday. The consistent winner, Bert Patch, raced by Craig for the last two years, by E. Wilson of Mono Mills, had stretch struggles in all heats with Iola Grattan, owned by T. McCole of Pembroke, and piloted by Al Switzer of Penetang. Widower Grattan, owned and driven by H. Payne of Bloomfield, was third in all heats and Adam Poe, a trotter, owned and driven by D. Dowson of Port Perry, was fourth in all tests. Only four horses were entered.

The classified class produced a different winner in all three heats with Chester Grattan winning the mythical honors for the race with a first, and two seconds. Midnight Star had a first, second and third, while Northern Baron had a first and two seconds. Abbie Patch was fourth in all heats for the four-horse race.

Despite the threatening rain at the start and heavy condition of the track another large crowd watched the races.

TIGERS BOW OUT OF PENNANT RACE—PIRATES MAY GO TODAY

Royals Wallop Bisons 8-3; Hot Fight On

By The Associated Press

Although the Newark Bears have the International League pennant stored away and are assured of play-off berth, one of the hottest fights in the league's history continues for the remaining first-division spots.

After yesterday's curtailed program, in which Jersey City defeated Syracuse 4-3, and Montreal downed Buffalo, 8-3, the standings of the first seven clubs was:

Clubs	Won.	Lost	Pct.
Newark	87	56	.608
Jersey City	71	67	.514
Montreal	74	70	.514
Syracuse	72	71	.503
Toronto	72	73	.497
Baltimore	70	71	.496
Buffalo	70	77	.476

Only the first four clubs compete in the playoffs and with one berth already allotted Newark, six clubs still have a chance for the remaining three.

The season ends next Monday with Labor Day double-headers and it is possible that the contenders in the post-season competitions won't be decided until then.

Bobby Coombs, recently recalled by the New York Giants, kept the Little Giants in the runner-up role last night by besting the Chiefs although the Syracuse club threatened and scored all its runs in the final two frames.

Montreal moved into a percentage point tie with the Giants behind the six-hit pitching of Rookie Steve Nagy. Catcher Dixie Howell was the big gun for the Royals with two long doubles and an outfield fly. The combination drove in five runs.

Sport Shots From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON

LONDON, September 1 —(CP) — Fresh from a KO victory over Montreal's Eddie Petrin, Jolting Jackie Paterson took an easy 10-round decision from Phil Milligan of Oldham. The British and Empire flyweight champion from the Glasgow shipyards was not in his best form but scored steadily from the third round on. Milligan showed a strong two-fisted attack in the early minutes.

Overheard at Lord's: The 12-year-old cricket fan looked up from the match and said, "Daddy, I hope that's gunfire and not thunder, because we don't want the match stopped by rain, do we?"

The soccer sports are telling this story:

Billy Gibb, South African international outside left who played football in England, was captured at Tobruk. A few days later he turned up in the East Rand mining town of Boksburg and played in an important Transvaal league match — while German guards searched for him at the other end of Africa.

Gibb escaped with some comrades under heavy fire and reached the British lines after several days of wandering in the desert. He was granted leave, reached home and sped to the playing field.

Tipster talk that in Tipstaff the King owned another horse of the same class as Big Game and Sun Chariot blew up when Tipstaff finished third in the Amport Stakes at Salisbury after appearing a certain winner a furlong from the finish.

Starting at odds-on of 7-4, Tipstaff came up from the rearmost position to gain the lead, then weakened in the stretch drive. His performance was identical with that of his first race over the same course a few weeks earlier. He just didn't have the staying power.

Imagine beer costing $2.25 a pint! That's what golfdom's Henry Cotton realized at an auction following a match in aid of charity. Cotton now a flight lieutenant in the R.A.F., had the bar closed until the auction, then ordered trays of foaming ale less than an hour before the legal closing time.

Mouths watered and bidding was brisk.

Please don't try to break this record but from troubled India comes word that Robin Chatterjee of Alalabad has smashed his own world mark for manacled swimmer. With hands and feet tide he remained in the water for 60 hours and 50 minutes, bettering his previous record by 17 minutes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The United States college football season gets under way today with the "official" opening of practice in most sections... And here are a few of its problem: Pre-season practice will be a one-session schedule at a lot of schools where the academic speed-up has changed the usual opening dates; and what about late practice sessions in the dimout areas where the coaches can't turn on the lights?...What team will be known as "Army"—West Point, the Army All-Stars (East and West units) or the camp teams that survive the blitz against spectator sports?...If the folks in Washington are serious about cancelling the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, why not let them play without spectators and make the most of the broadcast that has been sold for $100,000?

The Baltimore fight promoters, who have had a pretty good thing in the Leo Rodak-Slugger White series, want to put on another episode—this time at 15 rounds...According to the American Field Service, which has just received a $10,000 donation from Tom Yawkey, Tom's Boston Red Sox are second in the American League "behind the New York Giants."

During the tour he paused to inspect the mechanical magic of a mousetrap that was causing passers-by to beat a path to a store window..."Why don't you buy a couple, Earl?" suggested Mrs. Merritt, "you could train them to play guard."

Yankees Dispose Of Detroit In 8-3 Struggle

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

One by one the also rans are bowing out of even a mathematical chance at the pennants as the September sprint starts in the major leagues.

Detroit Tigers dropped out yesterday, leaving only the first division in the American League still contending with New York Yankees. Pittsburg Pirates may go today, leaving the National League with the same situation, and even Cincinnati Reds, who were picked for the pennant by some observers last spring, may meet their doom this week.

Thus the big margins separating the first and second place clubs in each circuit from their lesser rivals will reduce the championship competition to basic principles in short order now.

The Yankees themselves took care of the disposal of Detroit with an 8-3 triumph that was Atley Donald's first over the Tigers in five years of labor in the American League. He pitched two-hit ball for eight innings, but his jinx threatened to catch up with him in the ninth, when the Tigers tallied three times on an error and four hits before Johnny Murphy rushed in to put out the fire.

Pirates Slip 5-4

The Pirates, who are within half a game of being eliminated from a pennant chance, were nosed out 5-4 in 11 innings by Brooklyn and the Dodgers have a chance to apply the finishing punch today.

The Dodgers pushed across the winning run on two singles and a wild throw by Elbie Fletcher to boost their lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to 3½ games.

New York Giants bagged their sixth straight conquest with 7-6 decision over Chicago Cubs. But it took a two-run pinch single by Buster Maynard to turn the trick after Harry Feldman had blown a five-run lead.

The weak-hiting Reds surprised their followers by manufacturing a five-run inning and overpowered Philadelphia Phils 8-1 in a night game in which Elmer Riddle pitched five-hit ball.

Boston Red Sox kept within eight games of the Yanks by setting down St. Louis 8-6, but they had to stave off a five-run rally by the Brownies in the ninth inning. Three of the tallies in this uprising came on Chet Laabs' 23rd home run.

The victory went to Cecil (Tex) Hughson, giving him 18 successes and putting him in front of all pitchers in both league in total triumphs. However, he had to have help to survive in the ninth.

In the day's only other American League action Chicago White Sox swept a double bill from Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 and 5-0. In the first game Johnny Humphries held the A's to five hits, one less than the Sox collected, and in the nightcap Lefty Edgar Smith scattered nine for a shutout and his fifth victory against 19 defeats.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG,

TORONTO Sept. 1 — (CP) — The only village in the world with a trophy on every mantelpiece is Dalroy, Alta., with a population of 21 men, women and children.

Dalroy Bearcats won the Provincial Intermediate Softball "B" title a few days ago over the R. C. A.F.'s No. 3 Service Flying Training School. The personnel of the school is a military secret, of course. But it won't be violating any trust to say that it has many more than 21 students, all youthful and able-bodied.

For many cities 1,000 times Dalroy's size one Provincial title in a season would be a good showing. For Dalroy, it is only average. Despite its limited manpower resources, Dalroy has won the Alberta Senior and Intermediate "A" Softball crowns in the past in addition to numerous ninor championships.

Eric Lauritzen, one of the big pushes behind Dalroy's softball prowess, has estimated for Tom (Calagary Albertan) Moore that a city the size of Calgary would have to win 4 000 championships to equal Dalroy's record on a pro rata basis.

Complaint Department.

George Perley, Ottawa Rough Riders secretary, takes issue with this bureau's statement last week that the Eastern Rugby Football Union folded "when it became apparent that only glory was left" as a reward for operating a football club.

He told the Ottawa Journal: "There was no question of withdrawing because the league might not draw enough money to keep the teams after the Air Force and Army decide not to enter The league would have been unbalanced ....It might be remembered that Rough Riders in other years stayed in the Big Four Union when the crowds were small and our club couldn't meet our financial obligations."

This is quoted from the Journal in fairness to Mr. Perley, who is among the most estimable of Canadian Sports Officials. We won't argue the point again at length. But the "unbalanced" angle is shaky. The Western Interprovincial Union carried on quite successfully, producing a reasonable proportion of Canadian champions, while operating with only three clubs. Several years ago it was Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary and later Winnipeg, Regina and Vancouver. The distances, too, were far greater than those the Eastern Clubs would have to face.

National Tennis Gets Down To Real Play

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. —(AP).— The national tennis championships began to get down to cases at Forest Hills to-day, and after nearly a week of extremely boresome competition it was about time.

A couple of promising third-round matches were on tap. In one, Sidney Wood, Jr., the veteran New Yorker who won a Wimbledon championship a decade ago in short pants, ran into Alejo Russell, champion of the Argentine.

In the other, Harris Everett, former University of North Carolina star, faced Pancho Segura, the jitterbug from Ecuador.

Only two other men's singles were scheduled, Ted Schroeder, Jr., the tournament's top-seeded star, playing James Evert of Chicago, and Seymour Greenberg, the national clay court champion, meeting Robert Smidl of Chicago.

The Wood-Russell affair looked like a toss-up. Wood, once one of the game's supreme stylists, has made a determined enough comeback this summer to be seeded fifth among United States players. Russell proved himself in winning the only match he has played from Falkenburg, the national interscholastic champion.

Two players, William Talbert of Cincinnati, and Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy of Jacksonville, already have won their third-round matches. Talbert defeated Vincent Paul of New York yesterday, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, while Mulloy triumphed over Tom Brown, Jr., of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 5-7, 6-1.

(40) HAND GRENADE

The usual hand grenade as pictured above is used in trench fighting, and may be thrown by hand as its name suggests, or fired from a discharger attachment on the regular service rifle. The range, when thrown by hand is naturally considerably less than when it is fired from the discharger. The grenade has been found to be a useful weapon in the breaking down of the moral of the enemy, and for certain types of trench fighting it is an indispensible weapon.

Five Indicted In Tool Holdup

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 —(AP) —The Justice Department announced to-day the indictment by a Fedral Grand Jury here of two dismissed War Production Board officials and three dealers in used machine tools on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States and interfere with prosecution of the war.

The former War Production Board officials named in the indictment were Robert B. Rhoades of Indianapolis and Ralph L. Glaser of New Haven, Conn.

The three dealers of used machine tools named were Louis F. Emerman of Chicago, and Frank L. O'Brien, Jr., and Clarence J. O'Brien of Philadelphia.

The conspiracy indictments charged that Rhoades and Glaser, who served as chief and assistant chief, respectively, of the available used tools section of the Tool Branch of the W.P.B. from January of this year until their dismissal on August 4, conspired with Emerman, a Chicago machine tool dealer and the two O'Briens, to prevent critical required machine tools from being allocated to war contractors.

the British civilian, 12 ounces to the German, five ounces to the Belgian..."

Discussing the rationing decision, he said:

"We ought to manage the supply so that the housewife who can't get to the store until afternoon won't be forced to do without; so that everyone has a chance to buy his fair share of the total."

Minimum requqirements of the fighting forces and their Allies for the present marketing year will be 6,000,000,000 tons, Wickard said. "On top of that, our civilian population, with the highest incomes on record, working harder than ever before, want more meat than ever before. They would take about 21,000,000,000 pounds this year.

"The total demand adds up to more than the total supply, 27,000,000,000 pounds of demand; 24,000,000,000 pounds of supply."

Pending the installation of rationing machinery, packers' sales for civilian use will be curbed by a war-production board order assigning marketing quotas. The order, expected in about two weeks, will apply to beef, veal pork, lamb, mutton and sausage.

The food requirements committee, headed by Wickard and including representatives of the army, navy, lease-lend administration, and other agencies, estimated national income this year at around $115,000,000,000, compared with $90,000,0000,000 in 1929.

No Need in Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 —(CP)—J. G. Taggart, foods administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said last night there is no need of meat rationing in Canada "so far as our domestic situation is concerned."

Commenting on United States plans for meat rationing, Mr. Taggart added: "Of course, I can't say how future developments outside of our domestic sphere might affect meat—or any other commodity for that matter."

For instance, he said, any unusually heavy demand from Britain for meat might necessitate rationing in Canada.

Meanwhile, other officials have pointed out that meat imports by Canada had never been large and had been reduced still further since the start of the war. Canned corned beef used to be imported from South America in fair amounts and some lamb from Australia and New Zealand, but these imports had been cut down since the war.

They added that Canadian meat production generally is sufficient for home requirements.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — (AP) —The Japanese people, who were told after the Battle of the Coral Seas that the United States Pacific Fleet had been annihilated, now are being warned to be prepared for new attacks by a "superior force," the office of the War Information reported to-day.

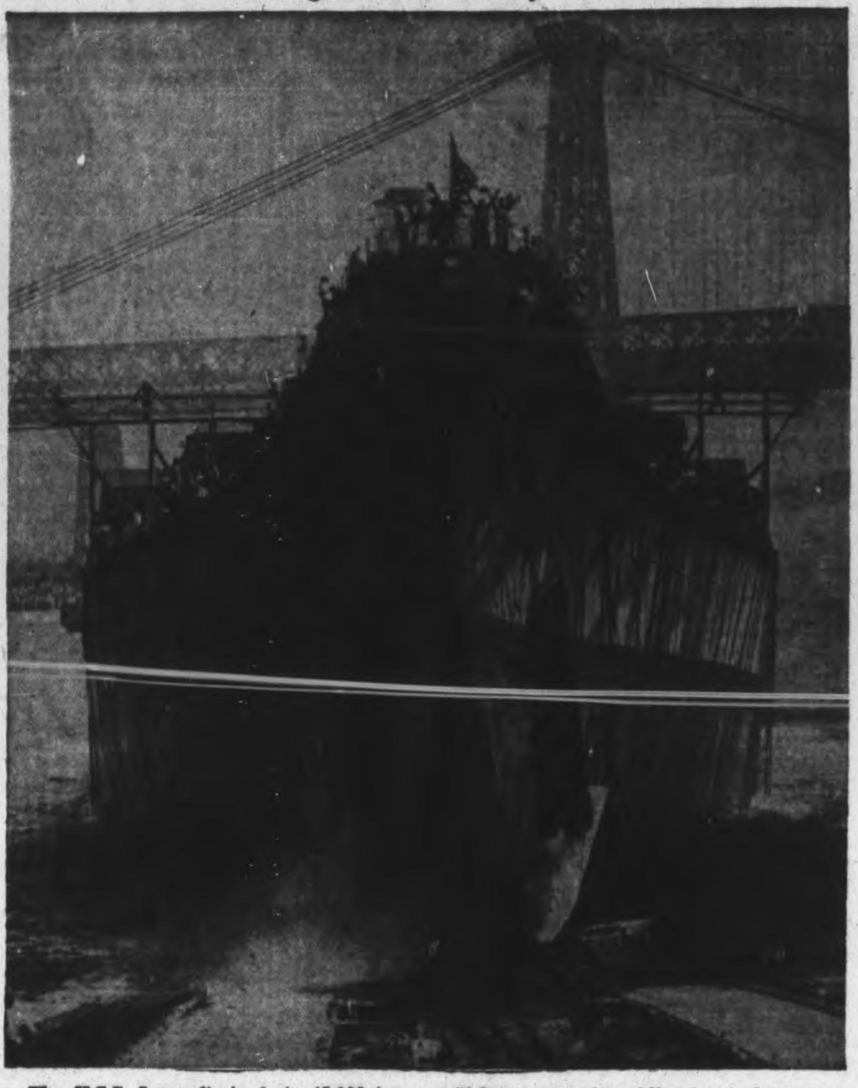
Launches World's Mightiest Warship



The U.S.S. Iowa, first of six 45,000-ton battleships under construction for the U.S. Navy, is shown as she was launched at the New York navy yard, the other day. Seven months ahead of schedule, the huge ship, which is expected to have a full load displacement of 52,000 tons, was started in June, 1940. She is 880 feet long and will have a main battery of 16-inch guns and will have a speed enabling her to keep pace with the fastest craft of a task force despite the weight of her super-heavy armor. Mrs. Ido Brown Wallace, wife of the vice-president of the United States, sponsored the ship and gave her the name "Iowa," home state of the Wallaces. The great battle-wagon is the fourth naval bearer of that name.

Ancient Capital Converted Into War Workshop

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

QUEBEC, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Three years ago, this was the quiet, easy-going capital of French-Canada, a year-round playground for tourists, a port of entry and exit for overseas travellers and a small-scale industrial centre nestled in the shadows of walls and fortifications of another era. Quebec gloried in its distinction as the only fortified city in North America.

Now, like many other cities in Canada it is a bustling centre of activity, a nerve centre of the Allied production line and an armored place where the men and women of the forces and war workers have replaced the sightseer. The changes didn't come overnight.

Quebec's citadel, towering on Cape Diamond, and the thick stone walls look almost the same as they must have looked when built by the British in 1832. The steep, slanting roofs are still as steep and as slanted as some of them were in the days of 1759 when Wolfe defeated Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham to win Canada from the French. The narrow crooked streets are still as narrow and as crooked as they were when Canada declared war in September, 1939.

In Many War Plants.

But to-day Jean Baptiste, who doesn't like to be rushed, and his English-speaking fellow-citizens realize that there is a job to be done and they quicken their steps down the twisting streets which lead them to their work. They are among the thousands working in shipbuilding yards, in ammunition plants in gas mask factories or in workshops where they made uniforms and boots for the fighting men.

Under the steep, slanted roofs and in some more modern buildings is crowded the city's population of 160,000 which has been swollen by the thousands of men women and youths who flock in from surrounding districts to work in war plants.

Shipyards are regularly turning out corvettes, minesweepers, and 10,000-ton cargo ships.

A small arms ammunition plant is turning out more ammunition of that type than any other arsenal in the world. Shoe factories have turned their peace-time facilities to making thousands of pairs of boots a week for fighting men.

All this is being done in a city which in peace-time had comparatively few alrge industries. Then, the railways shipping companies, a pulp and paper mill, the Provincial Legislature and the city were the employers of most hands.

Many Are Serving.

While the older Jean Baptiste, his daughter and sometimes his wife carries on on the production line, the younger men are in the forces at home and abroad. Some of them have lost their lives and others are missing. About 600 youths from the district were with the Royal Rifles of Canada when they made their last-ditch stand at Hong Kong. The fate of many of them remains unknown. Hundreds of other boys are serving in the Navy and Air Force.

The ancient capital is truly a bustling centre of war activity. As Mayor Lucien Borne puts it "we are doing our utmost to support the war effort of our country and to contribute to the great victory to be achieved eventually by the Allied armies."

$1 A Day Boost At Ford Plant

DETROIT, Sept. 1 —(AP) —Officials of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) said today negotiators had reached an agreement upon provisions of a new contract covering employees of the Ford Motor Company with the exception of sections dealing with wages and grievance procedure.

Wage demands, topped by a proposal for a $1-a-day increase, will be certified to the United States War Labor Board, the union said. Another conference has been scheduled on a U.A.W. demand for an umpire system of appealing grievances.

The National Ford Council of the U.A.W. has approved other contract provisions, a union spokesman said, and they will be submitted to Ford employees in a series of ratification meetings during the next two weeks. The union would not disclose specific terms of the new contract, the second between Ford and the U. A. W.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people are working harder, worrying more, sleeping less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living lowers resistance—increases body and mental fatigue. Overwork; hasty meals; irregular hours; worry—any of these may upset proper kidney action.

When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and poisons remain in the system. Then backache, headache, rheumatic pain, disturbed rest or that "tired-all-the-time" feeling may soon follow. To help keep your kidneys in good order—to help guard against physical let-down—use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for over half a century a favourite remedy for faulty kidneys. WARSAW, Sept. 1 —(ENS) — The Women's Asociation met in the basement of the church on Thursday for their August meeting. Nineteen members answered the roll call with a Bible verse containing the word "harvest." The treasurer reported a balance of $9.53 on hand and a total of $13.50 received to date on the diminishing teas.

In view of wartime conditions and restrictious on certain foods a unanimous vote was taken to not have the annual fowl supper this year, but each one who contributes toward the supper will be asked to give the value in money.

Anniversary services will be held on the first Sunday in October as usual and on the following Tuesday night a band and vocal musical program will be given in the church auditorium. Miss Doris Clysdale sang "Twilight on the Prairie."

Allies Mess Up Jap Burma Base

NEW DELHI, India Sept. 1 — (CP).— Striking after the Japanese had repaired damage caused by the bombing raids, Allied fliers in two days of attacks struck sharply at the important Japanese air base at Myitkyina, in North Burma, it was announced yesterday.

A communique issued by Brig.-Gen. Clayton Bissell United States commander of Air Forces in India, Burma and China, said the new raids were carried out on successive days by medium bombers and fighters of the R.A.F. and American Air Force.

(Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Headquarters in Chungking, China, issued a communique to-day saying that bombers yesterday raided the city and airdrome at Myitkyina. This represented an additional attack to the ones reported by Brig.-Gen. Bissell.)

The Japanese air base had been put out of commission temporarily in the previous American bomber raids.

Of the new attacks the communique said:

"The first raid scored direct hits on the air field and dispersal areas.

"Anti-personnel bombs were dropped on barracks and the town.

"On the second raid direct hits were made on the runway and anti-personnel bombs were scattered among buildings.

"From both raids there was no damage to our planes or personnel."

LOW DEATH RATE.

Twenty-seven deaths here in August was the lowest monthly mortality this year according to the records at the city hall. And the number of marriages at 47 was 17 more than in the last month of the summer of 1941. The vital statistics for August were: Births 80; marriages 48 and deaths 27. And in August last year, 81 births, 31 marriages and 32 deaths.

A 12 POUNDER.

Herb Jamison, manager of the C.D.S., knocked off an 8 pound muskie during his holidays and thought that would be the record for the season. However, on Sunday last while casting at Clear Lake with Bob Johnston, he tied into a streamlined 12 pound maskinonge and after a brisk battle landed it. The fish was caught near Dr. J. J. Craig's cottage.

PIRATE SHIP.

A new ship graces the horizon at Lake Chemong, and on Sunday many people wondered at its origin. The ship is fitted for sail, and was carrying a mainsail and two jibs. The boat was built by "Spike" Matthews and was launched about three weeks ago. It took more than two years to complete, but it is a credit to the builder, and the young crew have named it the "Pirate Ship."

QUITE NONCHALANT.

A husky youth from Buffalo equipped only with a sleeping bag and a cooking outfit, enquired at the Chamber of Commerce today for fishing information. He had no car and was advised to take a taxi to Lakefield, rent a canoe, paddle to Young's Point, and fish for the four days which he had to spare. Prospects of rainstorms when suggested made him grin, and remark "That would make it a more interesting holiday."

BAGS ARE SCARCE.

Jute bags, better known to the average person as ordinary potato bags, are scarce. In almost every home, hidden away in the woodshed, garage or cellar are some of these potato bags. They will be needed this fall to handle the potato crop, and housewives are requested to take good care of them, and see that they reach the farmers who can use them. Jute comes from the Far East and no more is available.

INDIGNANT.

One of these brain muddled women who doesn't realize there is a war one, and that men are dying and suffering pain and discomfort, raised quite a fuss on Monday in a city butcher shop. She asked the butcher for ten cents worth of hamburg steak for her dog, and the butcher refused to sell it, as his stock was low. "Feed the pooch some dog biscuits" was the suggestion made by the butcher, but he took quite a barrage of abuse from the woman.

NEW YORK PRICES

Butter in New York is 48 cents a pound and grade A eggs 58 to 65 cents the dozen. News reports say pay envelopes are heavier across the border, and evidently the drain on them is also heavier.

SEASON OPEN UNTIL SEPT. 15.

D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries, advised the Examiner today that the extension of open season for speckled trout to September 15 applies also to brown trout. This is good news to the fishermen of the district as it gives them an extra 15 days to go after the popular browns.

ARRESTED IN COBOURG

Gerald Minifie, wanted here for the theft of an automobile from a Cameron street residence recently, has been arrested in Cobourg, Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg has advised local police. Minifie is also wanted in Cobourg and will likely be tried there, the local charge against him being transferred to the Cobourg court.

STINK BLITZ

Police are endeavoring today to identify the contents of a small bottle left on the floor of the Chemong Park pavilion during Monday night's dance there. Indications point to the bottle being an amateur stench bomb prepared by some chemistry student with a misguided sense of humor but so far the officers have not found anybody, druggists included, who could say positively just what the liquid in the bottle really is. At all events it is powerful stuff, with plenty of b.o.

HORSES ARE AFFECTED.

Dairy owners and bread company owners report that the stock of rubber shoes for horses is depleted, and during the coming winter, all horses will have to be shod with steel. The introduction of rubber as footwear for horses had two advantages, as it reduced noise and absorbed shock from pounding on hard roads. Blacksmithing costs are rising as horseowners find it necessary to re-shoe the horses every week, because of wear from hard pavements.

IT OFTEN HAPPENS

A local young man who was a guest at a wedding party yesterday made two mistakes. The first was that he got hold of half a case of beer and the second was that he drove fast enough on Lansdowne street to attract the attention of police. When officers stopped the car the beer was discovered and this morning in police court the wedding guest pleaded guilty to having liquor in a place other than a residence and was fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Soda Biscuits Are Scarce Too

Canadians may have to go without biscuits due to the huge quantities needed by the armed forces of the United Nations.

Housewives may wonder why there should be a shortage of soda biscuits, when Canadian flour is so readily available, but Mr. F. W. St. Lawrence, vice president and managing director of George Weston Limited reports, that even the soda biscuits machines are now in full operation on iron rations for the troops.

With the biscuit industry, as with all industries, the war comes first.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 2.

THIS DAY may be very lively and probably exciting, although it may be beset with a variety of obstacles, upsets, adverse situations and strange frustrations. While the mind may be keyed up and clever, to meet such a chain of difficulties, and there may be little if any cooperation or sympathy from those able to help, yet the soundness and depth of the abilities and resources with the force of true principles, logic and industry, patience, self-reliance and perseverence should win out.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which ultimate success and security must be wrested from a variety of difficulties, obstructions and peculiar or extraordinary circumstances, probably of sudden and devastating force. Postpone new or radical operations, shun speculative enterprices and push forward with confidence to sound objectives.

A child born on this day while having a brilliant and versatile mind, which might draw public or community attention, yet may encounter obstacles and setbacks.

Gun Shots Total Passes $500 For War Victims

The work of administering the affairs of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has a number of rather pleasing features, not the least of which is the constancy with which a number of individuals and groups can be depended on to support the fund at stated intervals, which does help to assure a steady flow of help for which purposes the fund was organized.

This constancy of purpose is a truly British trait, and no matter what branch of endeavour one is engaged in to help along the war effort, this must prevail until the day of victory dawns, otherwise all our previous efforts must be of no avail.

Since October of last year, a weekly tabloid published in the Genelco Co., Ltd, plant with Arthur Kittson as editor has been one of those who could be depended on for help for th fund at regular stated intervals, and starting with an initial contribution of $3.25, these increased very much proportionately until with the donation listed to-day, which incidently marks the ninth contribution made, their total now has gone just beyond the $500 mark, which gives them an average of over $55.00 a time, which is a long step ahead of the first donation made.

There is a little interesting feature of this particular donation which is perhaps worth recording, for when the secretary of the fund informed Mr. Kittson that this particular donation brought their total within less than one dollar of the $500 mark, the other dollar was promptly added so as to surpass that amount.

At the H. McMahon store at Crawford's Grove, a penny box is stationed to help the fund along, and in part this is generously supported by the proprietors themselves, with all the odd change above the even dollar mark on Mr. McMahon's pay cheque always finding its way to the box. To-day $4.75 is listed from the latest collection made by the secretary of the fund from this box.

Farmers Attention Please.

A new feature in regard to making the utmost in use of the stall made available by the city council to aid the fund has been arranged, and in only the two days that has elapsed since this was proposed by the secretary of the fund it seems to have taken hold and been enthusiastically received to the extent that already three separate places have signified their intention of supporting the work being done by the fund to help the victims of air raids in Britain.

Given simply, the plan is this, one person in nearby small centres undertakes to call the farmers in that district to give one donation of farm produce, such as for example, a dozen eggs, a basket of tomatoes or potatoes or fruit, etc., who place their name on it, with the amount it should be sold for, and they either bring or send it in to the stall on Saturday morning, with each Saturday being given over to one particular centre. The fund secretary will secure two responsible young people from the city to act as sales clerks, and keep a record of all who contribute in this manner, in order that credit may be given to them.

This next Saturday has already been booked by the Fraserville centre with Mrs. V. R. Sweeting acting as convener and the following Saturday will go to Cavan centre with Sidney C. Boyles acting as convener, with September 19th also booked for the Springville centre with Miss Jean Fairbairn as convener.

The secretary of the fund would be glad to hear from other individuals who would undertake to act for their respective centres, so that the fund may receive help in this manner, and the stall booked for the day most suitable for them.

Special Meetings Called This Week

Meetings of committees of the City Council are being distributed over three days this week. First on the list is the property committee at 3.30 Wednesday afternoon, followed by the parks committee.

Alderman Sands has called the legal and transportation committee for Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock for consideration of amendments to the building bylaw and especially proposed changes in local traffic regulations. Peterborough bus management has been asking for cooperation from the city to provide better facilities in the operation of the buses, and it is understood a report has been prepared covering certain recommendations.

The Board of Works and finance committee will meet Thursday at 7.30 p.m., and fire and light committee Friday at 7.30 p.m.

St. James' Sea Cadets Have Training Craft Christened

A 26-foot lifeboat, equipped with mast and oar locks, was christened at the Crescent Street T-wharf on Monday night by the Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Church. Mr. Filer was acting on behalf of Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James', who was out of town. St. James' Sea Scouts are shown standing at attention during the christening ceremony while Pte. Betty Leggitt pours a glass of water across the bow of the craft. (McGillen—Staff Photo.)

Training Craft Christened For Sea Scouts

Marking another milestone in the history of Scouting in the Peterborough district, a 26-foot lifeboat, equipped with sail, was dedicated at the T-Wharf on Little Lake Monday evening before a crowd of 200 people.

Owned by the 10th Peterborough Sea Scouts from St. James' Church, the trim craft is the first ever to be dedicated for the training of sea Scouts in the district, and the official christening had all the characteristics of the major launchings of a ship of the Royal Navy.

"Today more than ever before we should train our boys for more serious duties of life, and it gives me great pleasure to dedicate this craft to the glory of God and the service of mankind," the Rev. William A. Filer of All Saints' Church said as he performed the ceremony of dedication before a flag-draped dais. Mr. Filer read first the 93rd Psalm, so well known to sailors all over the world, then led in prayer, and after the assembly had sung one verse of the National Anthem, Pte. Betty Leggitt, C.W.A.C., a sister of Scoutmaster Stanley Leggitt of St. James' poured a glass of water over the prow of the boat.

26 Feet Long

The lifeboat named the "Warspite," is a regulation deep-sea lifeboat, fitted for six rowers and a coxswain, and has a mainmast and sail, and the usual storage space at the stern and bow.

Nineteen sea cadets from St. James', along with Scoutmaster Leggitt, First Mate Cyril Davis and Second Mate James Nicholls stood in a semi-circle during the ceremony, and others well known in the realm of Scouting who attended included Barry Ottewell, president of the Scout Association, Commissioner John Hornsby, Albert Hope, Alderman J. E. Sullivan and Thomas Nice, city fireman, who spent 21 years in the Royal Navy, and is now acting as teacher of the Sea Cadets.

Commissioner Hornsby in a short address said: "We are not a military organization, but we feel that a well trained Scout will make a more efficient soldier." He presented second-class badges to Irwin Boyter, Gordon Scriver, Bill Lavoie, Albert Bradley and Jim Park. An ambulance badge was presented to Albert Bradley as well.

Albert Hope tendered his congratulations to Scouts and their officials, and Barry Ottewell presented Stanley Leggitt, Cyril Davis and James Nicholls with their charge certificates, indicating their ability to handle a crew of boys on the water.

Two more of the young Sea Scouts, Ray Allen and Marvin Boyter, obtained their swim certificates from Mr. Hope.

Following the ceremony, a crew of seven boys with the two mates rowed the boat out on the lake, to show the spectators how they could handle it. From now on regular training aboard ship will be part of the course of training for the boys.

It is interesting to note that this is the first time that the T-Wharf, constructed at a cost of $10,000 a few years ago, has been used for any official purpose.

Kingston Opens Station CKWS

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 1—(CP).—Kingston's new radio station, CKWS, went on full time broadcasting today after formal opening ceremonies last night.

The station, a link in the Allied Broadcasting Company, in which W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Whig Standard, is president, was formally opened when prominent Kingstonians went on the air and extended best wishes to CKWS.

Hon. Angus MacDonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Affairs, was one of the speakers who briefly extended best wishes to the new station.

CKWS is broadcasting on 960 kilocycles and will be on the air daily for 16 hours.

Morale Building Is Duty Of Radio

KINGSTON, Sept. 1.—"Radio as we know can be used with devastating affect on a nation, but it also can be used by a democratic country as a medium, not only of entertainment, but of morale building," Brigadier F. Logie Armstrong, O.B.E., officer commanding Military District No. 3, stated last night during the inaugural broadcast of CKWS here.

The brigadier stated he fully realized the importance of radio in a country that is at war, and that it was with extreme pleasure he accepted the opportunity to be one of the guest speakers.

"It is possibly this subject of morale which interests us a great deal more at this time than anything else, except, of course, the full defeat of our enemies, and this can only be brought about when men are fearless and their morale is high." he said. "And so I feel it is the duty of all radio stations in Canada to see that both the men and women of the armed forces, as well as the civilians, are kept on a level thinking basis during these times of stress."

In conclusion Brigadier Armstrong stated he was sure that the new and modern station would always carry out the high ideals of Canadian radio.

Dance Tickets In Great Demand

Tickets for the police dance to be held on the night of Labor Day in Brock Street Rink are selling fast, Inspector James F. Reid stated this morning. This is the big event in the local drive for funds for the Canadian Police second Spitfire fund and the police department hopes to raise a large amount to help furnish another Spitfire to take the place of the original police machine which has been destroyed by enemy action.

All members of the police department are selling tickets and it is expected that there will be a huge crowd in attendance at the dance. A feature of the program will be the announcement of the winner of the Popularity Contest, who will be introduced to the crowd during the evening.

Peterborough made a notable contribution to the first police Spitfire drive and the department would like to make this second donation a worth while boost for a splendid cause.

Swallows Leave On Aug. 7 As Per Schedule

Rumors to the effect that the swallows had gummed things up by not starting south on the appointed date have been refuted by Alex. Kay, 433 Downie Street, well known authority on birds and their habits.

Mr. Kay reports that the tree swallows left their gathering place at Downeyville on the dot, August 7, starting their long flight to the South Sea Islands off the Pacific coast. These birds are the ones that are mentioned in the song about the Spanish Mission at Capistrano, and they arrive at the Mission heading north on March 19.

The confusion concerning the swallows' departure is due to the fact that other swallows, of the same family, that is the tree swallows, winter in Cuba, Bermuda and the West Indies. These flocks travelling the Atlantic seaboard route, have only about one-third the distance to fly, as the Pacific swallows, therefore they leave later. Their habits, such as gathering places, and dates of departure should be regular, and reports indicate they are gathering south of Lindsay, between Coboconk and Norland, near Keene and north of Chemong Lake.

Any person taking an interest in these migrations will notice that all of the swallows face east, except the sentries, who face the opposite direction watching for more to assemble. These fellows are the tough sergeants of the unit, and must be obeyed. Mr. Kay would be interested in learning where the swallows are congregating at the present time, as the migration should start any day now.

It is certain that any tree swallows left here now, are the Atlantic swallows, and the others left as per schedule on August 7.

Traffic Officer Warns Speeders

Drivers who are using the Chemong Road as a speedway are likely to find that they have been indulging in an expensive practice. Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure has gone on the war path against these fast drivers and several of the youths who have been flying too low have been caught by the traffic officer. They are being charged under the war time regulations which prohibit a speed of more than 40 miles and provide a minimum penalty of a $15 fine. Traffic Officer McClure intimates that there will be papers for more offenders if the pace is not stepped down to comply with the regulations.

The guests enjoyed games throughout the evening and refreshments were served. Among those present were Mesdames A. Sheward, J. Hunter, M. Thomas, Fred McBride, William Curtis, Reg Simpkins, Wilfred Jones, Jack McGarrity, William Chamberlain, George Glass, Robert Harrison, Fred Lindsay, Joseph Hobbins, Mrs. Watson, A. Permit Refused As Cast Iron Not Available

"Cast iron scrap material is so critical at the present time in Canada that we cannot issue a permit to you."

That is a quotation from a letter to the Utilities Commission from he Department of Munitions and Supply bearing the information no 18-inch pipes were available for the extension of the new water main in Peterborough this fall.

The commission planned to continue in the near future the work which it completed this summer on Bethune street, laying an 18-inch main from Park Hill road to Sherbrooke street. Their purpose was to work north from Park Hill road and finish the link with the waterworks next summer.

On its part the commission wrote to the department some time ago telling them that stave pipe was not available and asbestos-concrete pipe made by Johns Manville was also outside the possibilities. Mr. Dobbin's letter on behalf of the commission expressed some apprehension "as to our situation due to increasing water consumption. Our average pumpage per day was 2,560,000 gallons in 1940, as compared with 3,120,000 gallons a day for the first six months of 1942."

Mr. Dobbin wrote that the population for this year had not been officially announced, but it was believed to be close to 30,000. In 1940 it was 25,500. Contract for 250 more houses has been let, and a staff house is to be occupied.

The reply from Ottawa conveyed a glimpse of extreme scarcity in the cast iron metal market, and a decision that Peterborough's waterworks project has to be abandoned for the present. "We would request that you take this matter up with us again early next spring," was the suggestion.

divorce court before he could say Jack Robinson.

In Grandpa's day a husband grabbed all his wife's property when he married her and she became his chattel just as much as his horse was. She had no personal liberty and was expected to get all the pleasure and excitement she wanted out of life by staying at home and being a good cook and having babies.

But the modern husband not only gives his wife financial and political equality with himself, but in the great majority of cases, honestly tries to make life pleasant and interesting for her.

Then, this is the first time in the history of the world that we have faced the fact that marriage is not a gamble and how it turns out is not just luck, and most of us are trying to do something about it. Many of our leading colleges have courses of study in the domestic relationship in which boys and girls are taught to analyze their emotions so they may not mistake a passing fancy for a deathless passion; how to pick out a suitable mate; how to meet the problems that arise in marriage; how to adapt themselves to those they marry. In a word, they are educated for marriage instead of drifting into it unprepared, and they will have as much chance of making a success of it as the highly trained professional always has over the blundering amateur.

Undoubtedly the growing economic independence of women that in another generation will be universal will necessitate some new adjustments in the marriage relationship. It will for one thing put wives on a par with their husbands and make marriage a real instead of a theoretical partnership. The girl who can earn her own bread and butter and cake will not marry to get a meal ticket. She will marry for companionship, for love, and she will expect her husband to go fifty-fifty with her in making a happy home.

This change in the status of the wife will bring about a great reformation in the manners and habits of husbands at large, for no man is going to treat the woman who can put on her hat and leave and go back to her old job the way he does one who is dependent upon him.

Furthermore and this I see as the great improvement in the marriage of the future, the husbands and wives who have worked together will have more sympathy for each other, because each will know how hard is the other's job. And they will not bore each other because they will talk the same language; they will know the same things, and they will have the same interests.

So believing these things, I look forward hopefully to the marriage of the future as the coming of the domestic millenium.

Police Chief Asked To Resign Sept. 15

PORT HOPE, Sept. 1—(ENS). — At a special meeting of the police committee which was thrown open to the council on Monday, Councillor Thompson, chairman of the police committee, gave a detailed report in connection with the workings of his committee which showed lack of co-operation and initiative on the part of the police force and submitted a recommendation which asked for the resignation of Chief of Police Thomas Murphy, to become effective September 15, which recommendation was received and adopted by council.

The council decided to turn over the old armories site to parks committee for parks purposes and suggested that a children's playgrounds be established if and when equipment is available.

Etiquette When Dining in Public

Manners Show Background

What is correct on this occasion? Should a girl who is dining with a friend invite a passing acquaintance to sit down for a chat?

Etiquette says NO, but her escort may do so if he cares to.

In our picture he is rising to shake hands, as is correct when gentlemen are introduced. It's up to the other man to make his visit brief.

When a woman stops at a table, even briefly, it is correct for men to rise and remain standing until she leaves or is seated.

What if you drop a piece of silver? Correct to leave it for the waiter to pick up. Or if he isn't near, say when he returns: "Will you please give me another fork?"

Does a woman ever order when dining with a man? Should she choose the cheapest dish?

These and many other points of table etiquette are explained in our 32-page booklet. Tells what's correct for formal, informal dining; how to eat tricky foods. Etiquette for dining at restaurants, clubs; buffet party etiquette, also.

For your copy of "Good Table Manners," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

HUSBAND YOUR HONORS

ACKNOWLEDGING the well-recognized principle that taking chances may be considered necessary for victory in any contest ranging from bridge to war, all great strategists also proclaim that chances should be avoided except when they stand to gain something. If two alternates are presented, one of them involving a risk and the other no hazard of loss, and each offering the same chance for gain, the gamble should be avoided. That applies to leads away from honors not in three-card sequences or longer, in order to husband their value.

South took a good deal for granted with that grand slam bid, counting on North surely to have the spade K. The king he showed in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps, however, could just as well have been in clubs. As near as South could tell, his partner might have held something like five spades headed by the Q-J-10 and the club A-K. If so, the slam would have depended on picking up the spade K by a finesse or drop.

As the cards lie, the grand slam in spades was unmakable except through co-operation from East, who led the diamond 2—away from his J-10. This rode around to the 9, giving the declarer an otherwise unattainable trick. Leading the suit at all would have cost a trick, as sending forth the J would have built a finesse against the 10.

The second, third and fourth tricks were top trumps, the next two heart tops, the heart J brought the Q and a ruff, then diamonds were cashed. On the heart K and 10 and the fourth diamond, three clubs were discarded by North, enabling him to finish the hand with the club A and spade 6.

East had no excuse for his diamond lead, when a safer one was available in hearts. Had he opened the heart 3, North could then have been set by a club trick at the finish.

If South leads the club Q to the K, takes the heart Q with the A and returns the club 10, how can East find out that South probably also holds the singly guarded diamond Q and therefore manage to make 6-No Trumps?

List Shuffled

LONDON, Sept. 1—(CP)—The Italian radio said today Field Marshal Wilhelm Siegmund List has been replaced as German commander-in-chief in the Balkans by Col.-Gen. Alexander Loehr.

Reports to London indicated the field marshal was transferred from that field after writing Hitler to criticize present operations and warn against another winter campaign in Soviet Russia.

Dispatches from Ankara three weeks ago said List was reported in command of an army concentrated on the Soviet front near Moscow for another drive at the capital.

Reveal Canadian Children Growing Bigger

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 —(CP) — Canadian children—taller and heavier than those in England, Scotland and the United States, continue to gain in stature, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics revealed.

The bureau report makes comparisons between surveys conducted in 1923 and 1939 and finds "a remarkable increase" in the stature and weight of children during the sixteen years.

"It is found that the excess in height of children in 1939 over 1923 amounts to from one to two inches between the ages of 7 and 13," said the report.

"A 5-year-old boy in 1939 was .8 of an inch taller on the average than a boy of the same age in 1923, while a 5-year-old girl is one-half inch taller.

This variation increases steadily with age up to a point where a 14-year-old boy of today is as tall as a 15-year-old in 1923, and a 13-year-old girl today is only about one-half inch shorter than a 15-year-old girl in 1923.

"Weights, it is found, follow the same general trends as height."

The report was prepared by the bureau in co-operation with the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children and the Toronto Department of Health. The survey covered children ranging in age from 5 to 15 years and provided an up-to-date table of average heights and weights for Canadian school children, superseding a record based on the 1923 survey.

The report said Canadian school children are considerably taller and heavier than average English and Scottish children, and slightly taller and heavier than American children.

The influence of environmental factors on the build of children was studied.

The report said: "Some factors which are found to affect the build of children are:

"The occupation of the father, whether the family is or is not assisted by direct relief, whether the school which the child attends is located in a relatively poor or a relatively prosperous district, the birthplace of the parents and the physical defects of the child."

An analysis of the academic standing of the child revealed that normal, that is nearly physically perfect children, are more advanced in school grade than are abnormal children.

Black Bass Weighs 4 Pounds, 10 Ounces

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1 —(ENS).—One of the nicest large-mouth black bass seen here this summer was being proudly displayed by a Toronto doctor and his wife in Campbellford on Saturday afternoon. The bass tipped the scales at four pounds ten ounces and was hooked by Mrs. C. J. Countryman while fishing off Parker's Point down at Bradley Bay. She was using a live minnow as a lure and hooked the fish while still fishing with her husband. They got a somewhat smaller specimen the preceeding day, 3½ pounds, but made the mistake of leaving it in the river all night, and when they went to look for it in the morning a turtle had demolished nearly half of the carcass.

Counting On France

VICHY, France, Sept. 1 (AP) —A German official openly stated today that Germany wants France to counterbalance United States influence in the war and asserted that is the reason French workmen are encouraged to go to the Reich.

Addressing a group of French correspondents in Paris, Counsellor Schwendemann of the German Embassy said "if we appeal for your aid it is because our men are fighting in the east against our mutual enemy, Bolshevism, which in turn receives aid from the United States."

5 Escape Death

BELFAST, Sept .1 —(CP) —The Government announced Sunday the commutation of the death sentences of five young Belfast men, members of the outlawed Republican army, who had been convicted of killing a policeman in Easter disorders.

The sixth man, Thomas H. Williams, 19, will be hanged Wednesday, it was announced.

The death sentences of four whose ages ranged from 19 to 21 were commuted to life imprisonment. The death sentence of Patrick Simpson, 18, was commuted to 14 years.

R.A.F. Fires Two Axis Ships Off The Libyan Coast

CAIRO, Sept. 1 — (AP) — R. A. F. bombers and torpedo-carrying planes set two Axis ships on fire and hit at least one other in an attack off the coast of Libya Saturday night and set fire to an oil tanker in the Mediterranean yesterday, a joint headquarters-R.A.F. communique said today.

The tanker was left "blazing from stem to stern," the communique said. The planes also attacked escort vessels with cannon and machine-gun fire.

Principal activity in the Mediterranean theatre was aimed at the Axis supply lines. There was nothing but patrol activity reported from the land front.

There were some air fights over the Alamein front, and British fighter shot down at least three Messerchmitts and damaged others, the communique said.

Two German bombers were shot down during Axis raids on Allied landing fields.

Meanwhile London reported a mysterious commando-style raid on the tiny island of Antikythera, between Greece and Crete, and a hot 24-hours of air action directed against Sicily from reinforced Malta, indicating Britain once more is striking strongly for the initiative in the Mediterranean.

The first word of the raid on Antikythera, which the Italians call Certigott, came from the Italian High Command which said a "small enemy unit" made a landing attempt on the night on August 28 but "fled on the quick intervention of our defences."

The island is just south of Kytherea, southernmost of the Ionian islands. Rocky and barren, it is almost midway of the 60-mile distance between Greece and Crete.

Orange Order Observes Decoration Day On Sunday

MARMORA, Sept. 1—(ENS).—The annual decoration service under auspices of No. 1 District Centre, Hastings Orange Association, took place on Sunday afternoon, members of Marmora, Wellman's Corners and Springbrook Orange Lodges joining with Tanner L.O.L. in a parade from the hall to St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Rawdon. Service was conducted by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, who gave an inspiring address on the subject, "A Loving God and a Suffering World." The lesson was read by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell. During the service Mrs. E. Colden sang "My Task." At the conclusion of the service, the brethren assembled in the adjoining cemetery, where over thirty graves of former members were decorated. District Master John Courtney led in the special ritual assisted by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell and Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. A list of brethren buried in distant cemeteries was read by Elwood Bateman, the district director of ceremonies.

Returning to the hall, short addresses were given by District Master J. Courtney, Bro. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell and Wor. Bro. W. J. Cottrell.

Lambeth Woman In Head-on Crash

CHATHAM, Ont., Sept. 1 —(CP). — Mrs. Earl McDuff, 35 of Lambeth, died on admittance to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning after an accident near Thamesville in which four persons suffered injuries. Earl McDuff, who was driving the Lambeth car, is reported by hospital attendants to be in a serious condition.

Robert Hooper London, driver of the laundry truck which crashed head-on with the McDuff car, will be charged with dangerous driving under Section 285-6 of the Criminal Code, Provincial Constable Robert Clark stated this morning.

The crash occurred shortly after six o'clock this morning. The McDuff's were proceeding east along No. 2 Highway, a mile east of Thamesville.

According to Provincial Constable Robert Clark, who investigated the Casco Laundry truck, driven by Hooper, moved out to pass a transport and crashed head-on with the Lambeth automobile.

The transport driver apparently did not hear or see the accident, and continued westward.

With McDuff were his wife, who suffered fatal injuries, and daughter Jean, aged 11, who suffered a fractured arm and facial lacerations.

Drs. Martin and Soper attended the McDuff family. Hooper was accompanied by his brother Kenneth of London. Hooper suffered a badly wrenched back and Kenneth was treated for cuts about the knees and face.

They were attended by Dr. Walker.

According to Constable Pavey of Thamesville there was considerable fog at the time of the accident.

Britishers Stab Isle Off Crete Upset Italians

LONDON Sept. 1 — (CP). — A swift raid by British forces on the small Mediterranean island of Antikythera between Greece and Crete first disclosed by the Italians, was tacitly, if not officially, confirmed by British sources to-day as a new surge of British air and sea activity on Axis communications to Africa became evident.

The Italians said the raid on Antikythera, which is about five miles long and from one to three miles wide was made by "a small enemy unit" on Friday night. The Italian high command claimed the raiding party "fled on the quick interventio of our defences."

In London an authoritative source who would not allow his name to be used, said "it is not unlikely that some sort of landing was made," adding that "if the report is true and whatever the nature of the landing, it doubtless was of minor importance corresponding to little more than patrol activity."

He added he would not be surprised "if we never heard of it officially."

"There may have been something there our forces wished to destroy," this source said.

A military commentator said a naval landing party "might have been after an enemy radio location station," but emphasized the operation must have been an an extremely small scale.

"Or the Navy men might have seen some goats on the island and gone after fresh meat," he added.

Blasting Sicily Dromes.

The Air Ministry announced, however, that R.A.F. planes attacked Sicily for more than 24 hours starting last Wednesday night, destroying at least 14 Axis planes and smashing many ground installations. Only three British fighters were lost in the operation which started after a small number of Axis planes attempted to raid Malta, it said.

British night fighters were sent over to Sicily and they attacked a seaplane base and machine-gunned a motor vessel from low level. The action was continued during the day when troop concentrations, hangars, barracks, storehouses and railroad properties were strafed. Ten planes were destoyed on this sweep, it was reported.

At twilight an Axis convoy was attacked with torpedoes and bombs, and a medium-sized merchant ship was reported sunk. Smoke was seen pouring from an escorting destroyer. That evening the attack on Sicily was resumed and two Axis planes were reported destroyed by Spitfires.

The attack on Sicily was seen here as an effort to drive Axis craft based in Sicily back to Italian bases and complicate supply problems for the Axis forces in Egypt.

Mrs. Bennett Morton Is Given Shower

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1 —(ENS). — Mrs. W. A. C. Witthum was hostess to a delightfully arranged post nuptial shower given in honor of Mrs. Bennett Morton at her summer home on Bradley Bay, Thursday evening. More than fifteen guests from Campbellford attended the affair which was designed as a miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. Morton was taken completely by surprise. Highlight of the evening came when little Anne Witthum, daughter of the hostess, brought in a large basket heaped with gifts for the recent bride, who was formerly Miss Grace Irwin. A very enjoyable social time was spent and at the close of the evening Mrs. Morton expressed her appreciation to the hostess and her friends for this tangible evidence of their good wishes.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 1—(ENS). — The annual decoration ceremonies of I.O.O.F. Royal Lodge No. 286 and Rebekah Lodge No. 98 were carried out on Sunday afternoon with a large attendance.

Led by the Havelock Kiltie Band, the parade assembled at the Lodge rooms and marched to Maple Grove Cemetery, where beautiful bouquets of cut flowers were placed on sixty graves of men, fourteen sisters' graves, whose names were read aloud by Post Noble Grand Ernest Seeney and Noble Grand Elda Thompson.

The service opened with the singing of the hymn, "Unto the hills around," and the introduction by Noble Grand Carman Coon, followed by prayer by the chaplain, Ernest Leeson. Rev. R. E. Lemon, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, delivered an appropriate memoriam address, reminding his audience of the uncertainty of human life, especially in these trying times of war.

The service closed with the singing of "Blest be the tie that binds" and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson. Later a number of the members decorated graves in Pine Grove Cemetery.

Von Bock Hits Closer To Stalingrad

South Pincer Gains But Reds Hold Fast On North Rim

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Sept. 2—(AP).—The Russians fought hard today for Stalingrad against hordes of German tanks and ceaseless bombing that had struck deep into the defence system but nowhere was there a sign of Soviet weakening which might lead to a major German break-through.

In the first detailed account of the massive struggle southwest of Stalingrad, the army newspaper Red Star told today how Von Bock finally cracked Red army defences after throwing two fresh divisions and hundreds of planes and tanks into the struggle.

For several days, the newspaper said, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's men held off the savage Nazi assaults northeast of Kotelnikovski. In five days of fighting, it reported, the Germans lost thousands of men, 100 tanks and 34 planes.

Paced by 80 tanks, the Germans then launched a two-column assault, Red Star related, with infantry-laden trucks rolling up behind the tanks in simultaneous dawn attacks.

A hundred Nazi planes filled the sky, pouncing upon Russian positions.

By the middle of the day, Red Star said, the Red army had met and turned back both German columns.

Von Bock brought up more troops, tanks and planes. Then in mid-afternoon the second violent attack was loosed.

In the ensuing wild melee that lasted until sunset, Soviet defenders were blasted from their positions by the overwhelming weight of Nazi fire and steel, forcing withdrawal to new positions.

(Again the extent of the German penetration was not announced. Nazi High Command claimed on Monday the pincer arm which was

Tries To Break British Line With Stukas

Axis Pounds For Hole On South Flank Space To Use Tanks

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(CP).— Axis concentration on the southern flank of the El Alamein line, nearest the Qattara Depression, suggested to some British observers today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel might risk trying to cross the deep, shifting sands of that sub-sea level desert valley.

A military commentator whose identity may not be disclosed, said the depression might be negoiated and that such an attempt, being in line with Rommel's past tactics, has been anticipated by the British commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander.

He conceded that the eight mile progress of the enemy through the British minefields was important, but he said the defences there were in depth and the advance did not mean they had been pierced.

Military circles dismissed Italian pressure in the centre as merely a feint.

Marshal Erwin Rommel had concentrated the German armor in the south and penetrated the low desert land between the El Ruweisat ridge in the north centre and the 600-foot height of El Heimeimat to the south near the Qattara depression.

An Outflanking Stroke.

The direction of battle still was unclear but it appeared that the German tactician hoped to outflank the British forces along the El Ruweisat ridge which roughly parallels the Mediterranean at right angles to the El Alamein line.

The main battle now is engaged in this 'valley' which is studded with British mines.

The opposing forces tend to face each other north and south rather than east and west, though Rommel's spearhead had made some progress directly to the east.

This eastward thrust has not yet reached alarming proportions.

Dust storms, made denser by the tanks and vehicles churning on the loose desert sands, blew spasmodically over the battlefield and hampered Allied air support, which nevertheless was strong from dawn to dusk.

British, South African and United States air squadrons were active.

By mid-day yesterday, seven separate bomber formations with large fighter escorts had scored important successes against the attacking enemy.

At various times nearly all the Allied formations were attacked by Axis interceptors but Allied fighters effectively protected the bombers. The enemy was using very large formations of dive-bombers escorted by Messerschmitt-109's.

Canada Heads Back To Golden Age Of Aztecs With Ban On All Articles Of Steel and Copper

OTTAWA, Sept. 2—(CP).—Under an order issued today by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, more than 400 articles ranging from silos and score boards to paper clips and crochet hooks were added to the list of products for which no steel, copper or any metal other than gold or silver may be used after the end of this month.

The order, announced by D. P. Cruikshank, co-ordinator of the metals administration of the Board, is designed to conserve supplies of metals vital to war work.

It was supplemented by a further schedule naming approximately 50 manufactured items in which no copper may be used after the end of September. Included in the latter category are weather stripping and insulation, lamp shades, cooking and table utensils, and lighting fixtures except for the parts necessary to conduct electricity.

Hun To Handcuff Prisoners Taken In Dieppe Sortie

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 2—(AP).—The German high command announced today that British prisoners taken in the Dieppe raid would be handcuffed in retaliation for what it said was a captured British order directing that hands of captured Germans be tied to prevent destruction of papers.

(The bulk of the Dieppe force was Canadian, with a Canadian officer, Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts of Kingston, Ont., in command of the expedition. Presumably Canadian prisoners are covered by the generalization "British" used by the German high command)

The handcuffing of the British—both officers and men—will start tomorrow and continue, the announcement said, "until the British Government by means of an official statement withdraws the above-mentioned order concerning the manacling of German prisoners of war."

"The German high command further declares," the announcement said, "that if in the future Allied governments adopt similar measures constituting defamation and disrespect of brave German soldiers, the German high command will reply by adopting drastic reprisals.

"German troops as proved by a number of photographs taken at Dieppe, have so far treated captured British in a true, sportsmanlike manner and the German high command leaves it to the British command to judge whether more German or British prisoners will be affected by this treatment instituted as a result of the British Government's attitude."

Studying Charge.

LONDON Sept. 2 — (CP). — British officials took under immediate consideration to-day a German announcement that British prisoners taken at Dieppe would be handcuffed unless the Government withdrew an order which the Nazi high command claimed directed the manacling of German prisoners.

Official comment was lacking, but it was reiterated unofficially that Britain always has scrupulously obeyed the Geneva Convention concerning treatment of war prisoners.

LONDON, Sept. 2 (CP)—Private Ora Foster, 22-year-old soldier from Pontiac, Mich., said today that "like most soldiers I did all the talking" when a lady graciously gave him a lift in her limousine.

Finally she asked: "You don't know who I am, do you?"

He replied: "I can't say as I do."

She identified herself as Queen Mary.

"I couldn't think of a thing to say," Foster confessed.

Foster was walking along an English country road Saturday evening when he thumbed a ride in the big car.

He acknowledged today he should have had some idea of his benefactors' identity when she briskly asked a colonel beside her to go up front with the chauffeur.

But he didn't, and so he talked—

Major Jap Base Kinhwa Totters

CHUNGKING, Sept. 2.—(AP). — Chinese forces have reached the immediate environs of Kinhwa, one of the last important bases held by the Japanese in Chekiang Province, and the fall of the city is imminent, the High Command said today.

The capture of Yungkang and Wuyi, southeast of Kinhwa, Aug. 31, was confirmed by the communique which said the forces of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek were sweeping northward and eastward along a railway.

Another Chinese column was sweeping from the southeast on Kinhwa, the communique indicated. The Chinese were said to be pushing northward from Lishui and Sungyang "on the heels of the Japanese."

Kinhwa is 85 miles southwest of the seaport city of Hangchow.

The capture of Suanping and Tsnyung Aug 29 also was claimed officially by the Chinese whose counter-offensive has erased many Japanese gains of this summer in the Eastern Provinces.

The railway town of Tangki, 15 miles from Kinhwa, was said to have fallen Aug. 31.

Steel Centre Really Flattened

Destruction Terrific Say Returning Canadian Bombers

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 2.—(CP Cable.)—Saarbruecken, centre of Western Germany's railway system and hub of a great coal, pig-iron and steel-producing area, was "Cologned" during the night by a strong force of British and Canadian bombers.

The raid was described by members of the participating Canadian squadrons as "another Cologne" and use of the term "Cologned" followed the German practice, during the heavy raids on this country, of "Conventrating" cities in the same manner as Coventry was bombed.

"Destruction in the town must have been terrific," said Flt. Sgt. Nick Turnour of Saskatoon and Vancouver.

Saarbruecken is on the French border south of German-occupied Luxembourg and is the centre of a highly-important coal and iron district of Germany.

More than 200 bombers were used, a communique said, but only three were lost, the lowest percentage since the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. undertook the mass attacks on Germany.

Mines For Miles Around.

Coal mines stretch for miles around the city and important steel and iron mills are located in it. On the occasion of the last raid, August 28, other R.A.F. bombers attacked Nuremberg.

Bad weather had forced the R.A.F. to close out its August operations with a three-night lull but it was able during the month to carry out a total of 12 night raids against Germany, an aerial offensive augmented toward the end of the month by Russian night raids against Berlin, Koenisberg and Danzig.

Striking into Germany on the first night of September, the bombers were at least starting out better than they did in August, when weather conditions hampered them until the night of August 4.

Residents along the south coast of England heard a great number of heavy bombers heading out across the Channel about midnight last night.

They returned in a steady stream three to four hours later.

German activity over England during the night was slight.

Attacks were directed against Northern England and an authoritative statement said a few bombs

Hanging, 2 Yanks Rile Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 2 (CP)—The appearance of two United States soldiers on Belfast streets touched off the first disorders today soon after Thomas J. Williams, 18-year-old member of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, was hanged in a heavily-guarded jail for the killing of a policeman.

When police sought to disperse a crowd of about 300 persons, angrily shouting at the Americans, "Why don't you stay at home?" two demonstrators hurled missiles.

Japs Move 5 Divisions North

Togo's Exit Seen End Of Need For Russian Link

CHUNGKING, Sept. 2 —(AP)— With the resignation of Shigenori Togo as Japan's Foreign Minister, reports developed today that fully five Japanese divisions had been moved north in the last month to bolster the Kwangtung army facing Soviet Russia and that a large Japanese fleet was concentrated about northern Japan.

Foreign observers expressed belief the five divisions aggregated 100,000 men assembled largely by the contraction of the invasion forces within China.

The Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao and the English-language National Herald declared editorially they considered the resignation of Togo, who helped negotiate the Tokyo-Moscow neutrality pact, a forerunner of action affecting Russia.

Ta Kung Pao said Togo had been known as a pro-Russian and that his exit showed "Japan has no more need to maintain diplomatic relations" with the U.S.S.R.

The National Herald said the shakeup, under which Premier Gen. Ideki Tojo assumed the foreign ministry portfolio, "protends some bold move by the Japanese war party."

Rommel's Zero Hour Timed With Adolf

Any Break In Caucasus Line To Let Hitler Fight All Winter In Warm Middle East

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's attack against the British army in the Egyptian desert bears the earmarks of being the big show for which we've been waiting—an all-out German effort to make quick conquest of Egypt and the Suez Canal.

This action is part of Hitler's grand strategy for over-running the Caucasus and the Middle East. He is placing wholesale dependence on this vast operation to win him the war.

Rommel's drive is inaugurated at the peak of the crisis in his master's battle in Southwestern Russia. It comes at the critical moment when Stalingrad is in grave danger, and the Nazi chief is threatening to break through into the lower Caucasus. Thus we have a classic example of Nazi co-ordination on a big scale.

If Rommel can over-run Egypt, capturing the great naval base of Alexandria, Port Said and the canal, he will pretty well have nullified the effectiveness of the British fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean. This will render the whole Middle East vulnerable to attack.

Meantime Hitler hopes to capture Stalingrad and crack the Red line which now bars him from a drive southward through the Caucasus to the northern border of the Middle East. Should he succeed he and his henchmen would be in position to make an assault from both east and west on the zone comprising Palestine, Syria, Iran and Iraq— a nutcracker movement.

And it's important to note that this latter phase of the plan could carried out after winter had largely sapped fighting on the Russian front north of the Caucasus. The winter isn't severe in the Southern Caucasus, and military operations both there and in the Middle East would be quite feasible.

With this background it's obvious the Allies must stop both Rommel in Egypt and his boss in the Northern Caucasus. It would be a catastrophe difficult to estimate if this Hitlerian scheme should succeed.

It's a dangerous moment for the Allies, but taking the position as a whole there's no reason to despair over our chances of dealing with it adequately.

We have no details of the strength of the forces opposing each other on the drifting sands of the Sahara. We do know that both sides have received considerable reinforcements since the fighting died down the first of July and it looks like a fight to a finish.

Bahr Gets 30 Years As Spy

Still Protecting Nazi Aides Says Judge

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 2 —(AP)— Herbert K. F. Bahr, convicted of conspiracy ot serve Germany as a spy, received a 30-year prison sentence today.

The sentence was the maximum prison term possible under espionage laws, but the court could have ordered his execution.

Judge William Smith in sentencing expressed belief Bahr still is protecting Nazi colleagues.

A native of Germany, Bahr obtained derivative United States citizenship through his father's naturalization. After a brilliant career at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y., he went to Germany as an exchange student in 1939.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation charged Bahr dropped his academic studies in Germany to enter the Gestapo's espionage and sabotage school for training as a spy. He was intercepted June 30 on the exchange liner Drottningholm when he arrived back posing as a refugee from Germany.

UNITED STATES TROOPS ARE ORDERED TO STAY OUT OF BELFAST

Worthington's Armored Division Over

By DOUGLAS AMARON

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 2—(CP Cable)—The Canadian "Dagger at the heart of Berlin" was sharpened today with the addition of thousands of troops for Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington's armored division.

The main body of the division's regimental formations and the commander himself have arrived in Britain, it was disclosed last night, to join the officers and men who preceded them here several months ago to undergo special training courses.

Airmen and ground crews of the R.C.A.F., and the first contingent from the Air Force's Women's Division to come overseas also were in the convoy, but it was "Worthington's Wallopers" who formed the bulk of the force, and they were anxious to "get going" in a resumption of training.

Gen. Worthington flew to Britain last week to be on hand for the arrival of the troops, but his presence here could not be announced for security reasons until the men had landed. The general was on hand along with Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, and Emrys Evans, Parliamentary Secretary of the Dominions Office, to welcome the troops

The ceremonial of the requiem Mass was invested with the black chasubles of mourning, against which the dark red habiliments of the prelates and Monsignors stood out in subdued contrast.

Choristers Present

The music of the Mass was sung by the choristers of St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, who are featured in the Roman Catholic broadcasts on Sunday, directed by Rev. Dr. J. E. Ronan. Included in the choral number was a "De Profundis" composed by Dr. Ronan. Harold Armstrong of St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, son of John Armstrong of this city, accompanied the choir as organist.

The front pews of the church were occupied by visiting priests of whom there were more than one hundred; relatives of Bishop O'Connor and state representatives.

The Cathedral scene was strikingly sombre in its atmosphere of mourning, broken only by the chanting of the celebrant and responses of the choir. The music by the visiting choir was close to perfection, and the setting as a whole deepened the sense of bereavement with the solemnity of long established rites of the church. The dominant impression of that hushed scene was not only the tribute paid by clergy and laity to the Late Bishop but the keen sense of fraternal loss felt by the members of the hierarchy, the passing from their midst of the humble man who had risen from an obscure boyhood at Blyth in western Ontario to virtually the highest honor and responsibility in the gift of his church.

Two beautiful wreaths were floral tributes from the City Council of Peterborough and the Canadian General Electric Company.

Representatives of the Catholic press were Rev. S. B. Plunkett of The Canadian Register, Kingston; and Rev. F. J. Brennan, London, of the Catholic Record.

The pall bearers were: Rev. V. G. McFadden of Downeyville, Rev. J. J. McCarthy of Douro, Rev. J. J. Garvey of Hastings, Rev. P. J. Collins of Trout Creek, Rev. James Collins of Parry Sound, and Rev. H. J. Fitzgerald, Trout Creek.

The Mass was followed by the rite of absolution, a ceremony repeated individually by Archbishop O'Brien, Archbishop McGuigan, Bishop Kidd, Bishop Brodeur and concluded by the Apostolic Delegate.

Relatives of the late Bishop who were present were: his sisters, Mrs. Julia Sweeney of Edmonton, Miss Mary and Miss Catherine O'Connor of Wawota, Sask., and Mother Catherine of Toronto; and from Detroit, Alonzo O'Connor, nephew; and four cousins, J. P. and Joseph Sullican, Walter Dalton and Mrs. A. W. O'Connor.

Bishop Dignan's Sermon.

The sermon of the Mass was delivered by Most Reverend R. H. Dignan, D.D., Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, a close friend of the late Bishop O'Connor during the thirty-three years of his priesthood. His text from the Apocalyse was: "I heard a voice from heaven saying: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth saith the Spirit that they may rest from their labor, for their works follow them."

"We have assembled here to-day to take a prayerful farewell of its noble Bishop, Denis O'Connor, whose mortal remains await but the commutation of this final requiem to be consigned to their last resting place," Bishop Dignan said. "Were we to surmise the unspoken wishes of the deceased from his characteristic attitude of self-effacing humility, we would be forced to set guard about our lips, for though words of praise might gratify this sorrowing assembly, they could but wound a heart that sought not the plaudits of men but rather to please God in all its actions. The Church, he would remind his hearers, is opposed to funeral eulogies and it should be, for a life well spent is its own recommendation, whereas if one's career has not been what it should, then charity would suggest that the 'least said the easiest mended.'

Death is a bitter thing to human nature. It is something from which our whole being recoils in horror at is very thought. This is inevitable since death is a punishment, a penalty arising from Adam's fall. For it was not in God's original plan that men should die. It was only when our first parents transgressed God's commandment that death was decreed as one of the disabilities arising from original sin.

"Need I prove that death is a punishment? Suffice it to recall that the supreme chastisement visited by a country upon its malefactors is the death penalty, which but anticipates the inevitable.

"Our love of our dead prompts us to enshrine their mortal remains in caskets of precious wood. A profusion of flowers may seek to offset the shock of the coldness and rigidity of those we love. Notwithstanding the stern fact remains that ghastly death, abhorent to man, has claimed another victim.

"But, for the Christian, death has been robbed of its terrors. Our faith teaches us that the soul of man is immortal. As St. Paul so beautifully expresses it: "We will not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning them that are asleep, that you be not sorrowful even as others who have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, them who have slept through Jesus will God bring with Him. Wherefore comfort ye one another with these words." What a beautiful comparison may be drawn from the falling leaves of the autumn season. How often have we not witnessed for instance the little rosebush, stricken by an arctic blast, shorn of its verdant foliage and bloom. It becomes a dead thing, a mere skeleton of its former beauty."

Hope of Resurrection

"But that little rosebush has the assurance from its Creator that another spring will dawn and that once again it will be reclothed in its former beauty. Can man, the masterpiece of creation, as he stands at the edge of the tomb, be told that death ends all?

"Buoyed up with the certain hope of the resurrection, fortified by the sacraments of God's church, accompanied by the prayers of his devoted priests, his fervent religious and faithful laity, the soul of your beloved bishop has stolen away unostentatiously as was his wont, to render an account of his stewardship. Well may St. Paul's words be applied to him: 'I have fought the good fight. I have finished my course; I have kept the faith. As to the rest there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord, the just Judge, shall render to me.'

"My dear brethren, may I be permitted to strike a personal note and to say that I have known your beloved bishop all the days of his priesthood. I was present at his ordination, thirty-three years ago, and also witnessed his elevation twelve years hence to the episcopal rank which he has ever borne with dignity and fidelity."

Bishop Dignan briefly recalled the first appointments of Bishop O'Connor after his ordination, and his career as vicar-general of the diocese of London.

"Those only who realize the isolation of the episcopal dignity will understand how the chief pastor must needs suffer alone betimes, while even those nearest him sleep in peace. Yet he must go on, if necessary to sacrifice all, in order that the church committed to his care may be safeguarded. Of such a character was Bishop O'Connor. He never acted from expediency; never trifled with truth to serve the hour.

"You, my dear brethren, are witnesses of his career as bishop of Peterborough. He succeeded 12 years ago to a diocese solidly established by four illustrious predecessors. He came in the distressful days of world-wide financial crisis. He has left in the equally trying days of warfare. Notwithstanding, he has built well on the foundations already laid and has added to the glories of the diocese committed to his care, first, as might be expected, from a former director of future priests by his stimulating example, by his augmenting the clerical ranks and then by the development of the parishes and institutions already founded.

"And now, dear brethren, there remains for me, in his name, to petition a remembrance in your fervent prayers. Whilst the voice of his good example still rings loudly in our ears, even as the fading echoes of sweetest music, may it waft into our heart of hearts on its wave lengths his modest petition: 'Have pity on me, have pity on me, at least you my friends, because the hand of the Lord hath touched me' (Job xix, 21).

"The pains of his approaching death he changed into joys by his acceptance of them as last opportunities to bear trials for Christ's sake. Thus taken they have become the wings that bear aloft the soul of the worthy Bishop Dennis O'Connor into the glorious presence of the bishop of bishops.

"'I heard a voice from heaven saying: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth saith the spirit that they may rest from their labors, for their works follow them.' May he rest in peace. Amen.".

A few of the many priests from the various parts of Ontario who attended the funeral are as follows:

Rev. F. C. Ferguson, Brantford; Rev. R. A. Jordan Brantford; Rev. W. C. Gehl, Dundas; Rev. J. F. Hinchey, Hamilton; Rev. W. H. McGuire, Toronto; Rev. J. H. Pocock, London; Rev. P. F. were dropped, causing some damage and a small number of casualties.

This morning R.A.F. fighters and a United States fighter squadron passed over the east coast of England headed for France.

Shortly before mid-day observers at Folkestone reported many squadrons of Spitfires were returning from the direction of the French coast, between Nazi-held Boulogne and battered Dieppe.

The fighters flew in from 200 to 300 feet above Dover Strait waters. Visibility was reported excellent.

Just Some Holes.

The squadron of which Turnour was a member returned intact. The only damage being flak holes in the aircraft piloted by Sgt. Allan Ross, of Holland, Man.

Wing Cmdr. Arthur Walsh, of Winnipeg, leader of another squadron, reported the town "well flattened" after the series of raids launched against it.

In London the Air Ministry described the attacking squadrons as "a strong force"—indicating that hundreds of planes participated. However, only three bombers, an unusually small proportion, were lost.

"The weather was good," the Air Ministry said "the targets were clearly seen and the attack was an outstanding success."

It was the second aerial blow on Saarbruecken in a week. With daylight, it was followed by formidable flights of Spitfires skimming over the channel to France.

PO. Bill McGuffin of Calgary, said that if there were any buildings in Saarbruecken that are not smouldering or smoking it will be a big surprise to him.

"We got there early," he said. "Coming in there were no lights but there were lots of fires burning when we got there. As we sat up there over the target we could see a tremendous flash, probably one of those two-tonners. Everything seemed to go up in the air. Then there were clouds of black smoke as though it may have hit an oil tank."

It was a quiet trip, he said, a fact he attributed to their being sent to this particular spot on a last-minute change of target.

An Unexpected Visit.

"Anyway, they didn't seem to be waiting for us," McGuffin said, "but for a last trip it was a good do.

"It really was just luck anyhow," he added "for the thing is that no matter how good a pilot you are most of these trips are tough. You know what I mean. All you've got to do is zig when you should zag, and then maybe you make it and maybe you don't."

Wing Cmdr. Walsh, describing the attack on Saarbruecken, said "I circled around looking for a place to bomb and could see the city quite clearly in the moonlight."

"There were big fires burning and we met with little opposition," he added.

Stg.-Bombaimer Phil Owen of North Bay, Ont. saw eight "good fires raging and about 20 others starting. Another member of the squadron said the south-west, north east and south-east sections of the city were burning.

Sgt. Bruce Bazley of London, Ontario, whose wife lives in Montreal, said he was in a machine behind one which dropped a two-tonner.

"When it dropped and burst," he said, "we could see everything go up in the air and in a big flash. Everything seemed to be lifted and a big ball of flame shot up, followed by dense black clouds of smoke."

PO. John Higham 22-year-old wearer of the D.F.C. from Assiniboia, Sask., who completed his first tour of operations with the raid, said the north-eastern section of the city appeared to be a mass of flames.

Not content with the successful bombing of their target and a narrow escape from three enemy night fighters, PO. William Sanderson of Duff Sask., took time out to shoot up a freight train.

months of July and August.

The expansion over 1941 amounted to 87 per cent. for all animals. Sheep were up 149 per cent., hogs 98 per cent. and cattle 46 per cent. A major part of the increase occurred Monday, with a decline noted yesterday in response to lowered prices.

Factors combining to create the heavy outpouring, in the opinion of livestock men, are:

1. The large numbers of meat-producing animals on farms and ranches.

2. The unprecedented demand for meat, which has made processors anxious to obtain as much livestock as they can handle.

3. The threat of ceilings over livestock prices, which has stimulated marketing earlier than usual.

Livestock men warn that many cattle are going to market with less weight than normal, and there are fewer head being fattened on farms for next year than was the case at this time in 1941. Producers blame this situation on meat ceilings, which they say make it unprofitable for them to fatten cattle.

Rommel Battered Hard By Air Seeking Soft Spot

CAIRO, Sept. 2 —(AP)—British forces were locked heavily in battle with Axis armor all day yesterday in the southern sector of the Egyptian front, British headquarters announced today.

The war bulletin, issued jointly by the headquarters and the R.A.F., said United States Army Air Force planes participated in extensive air operations over the entire area in which an Allied battle line was braced against the expected shock of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's powerful tank forces, again trying to grind forward toward Alexandria, the Nile and the Suez Canal.

The readiness of the Allies to meet Rommel's challenge was indicated by the communique's report that British forces made their own sally Monday night on the northern flank of the El Alamein line and brought back a batch of German prisoners.

Ground action yesterday centred between the Ruweisat ridge in the centre and El Himeimat, on the southern wing near the Qattara depression, the bulletin added.

Despite swirling sand beclouding the battle zone, it said, "the Allies air coverage was on a large scale and the hail of bombs which fell on the enemy was both "intensive and accurate."

"At least two large Stuka formations were attacked by our fighters and the enemy was on many occasions forced to jettison his bombs," the bulletin said.

"During the day at least six enemy bombers and five fighters were destroyed in these operations.

"More than a dozen were damaged. Our long-range fighters successfully attacked enemy motor transport on the coastal road between Gambut and Sidi Barrani."

Rommel After Soft Spot

Backing up his assault on the British lines near El Himeimat at the southern end of the Alamein line with an estimated 500 to 600 tanks, Rommel probed the Allied positions initially for a soft spot which might open a road to the Nile.

One of his spearheads was reported to have advanced eight miles through the dangerous Allied mine fields and one of the worst dust storms of the war.

The main column of Nazi tanks turned north after striking eastward near El Himeimat and a smaller column branched off to the south.

the British forces on their left flank just above the great Qattara depression (a huge sink in the desert) is clear. The crafty general's first purpose is to escape from the confinement in which the two armies are held on the narrow front between the Mediterranean Sea on the north and the depression on the south. He wants the wide open spaces where he can bring his tank forces into full play.

The British forces are holding the sea coast in strength; the centre of the British line was too strong for a direct frontal attack, especially since it would be unwise to risk tanks against fixed artillery. So Rommell hit on the south hoping to turn the British flank and open a road for himself to the east.

pact of Mohandas Gandhi's campaign of passive resistance proves a strange pincer movement that cannot be ignored. Unless Gandhi and the All-India Congress are persuaded to call off their bid for immediate independence, the British and American forces are confronted with the job of campaigning against the Japanese in Burma with a part of the population at their backs non-co-operative, if not definitely unfriendly.

Gandhi asserted before his arrest that unless Britain gained Indian confidence by an immediate grant of independence, a large part of India would be passive, if not actually hostile to the defending forces.

Despite necessary strengthening of the forces in Egypt, supplies continue to roll into India from Britain and America, including tanks and planes. The numerical strength of India's defences cannot be disclosed but one thing is certain:

While the reorganization of British commands in Egypt and the Middle East left to Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, the sole job of conducting the Burma frontier operations, these steps did not abate his problem of dealing with a local population which is keeping a considerable number of his soldiers busy.

The whole story cannot now be told but India's position has more flaws than it had a year ago. Nevertheless the police are taking comfort from the quiet conditions in the cities. Bombay has lifted its all-night curfew. From villages not connected with the outside world, there still come reports, however, of rioting and demonstrations such as disappeared from the cities when the Government drove the Congress campaign "underground."

When the Queen Mother asked him how he liked England, he recalled that he replied casually:

"There's no place like home but this is a nice place for a vacation."

A new suspicion it wasn't just another day in a soldier's life came when the Queen Mother asked another woman in the car to hand her a package.

The reply came: "Yes, Your Majesty."

"I knew that something was wrong then," Foster said.

But by then the car had reached the village of his destination and the Queen Mother identified herself.

Good Mustard

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(CP).—Lew Wak of Toronto was convicted on a charge of illegal possession of liquor after a policeman testified in court he had found a bowl in Wak's house containing a mixture of whisky, mustard and vinegar. Wak said "it made very good mustard," the officers said.

Hang IRA Youth Belfast Heavily-Guarded

BELFAST, Sept. 2. — (CP). — Thomas J. Williams, 18, member of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, was hanged in a heavily-guarded jail today for killing a policeman as a crowd gathered outside in protest, but, save for a mild street demonstration, there was no immediate reaction.

All United States troops in Northern Ireland had been ordered to stay out of Belfast today to avoid any violence against them on the part of I.R.A. members who opposed the execution and have claimed the right to clear Northern Ireland of British and American forces by "whatever measures present themselves."

Fearing the hanging would be the signal for widespread violence, especially after the discovery Sunday outside Belfast of a cache of explosives and arms, police were mobilized and a special force was posted around the prison early today. Only residents of the immediate area were permitted within 200 yards of the prison gate.

When an official posted the notice of Williams' execution on the prison wall, a crowd of hundreds of women began a procession toward the centre of Belfast, singing "God Save Ireland." As they passed police they gave what spectators described as a Nazi salute. Police broke up the procession, but the women reassembled and continued the march.

While the I.R.A. sympathizers gathered on one side of the street, another crowd gathered on the opposite side and sang the British anthem and "There'll Always be an England."

Final Plea Refused

The Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Northern Ireland, refused a final plea to reprieve Williams last night and said, "The law must take its course."

Five other Belfast men, convicted with Williams for the slaying of the policeman last Easter, had been granted leniency. Williams took full responsibility for the shooting.

The order making Belfast out of bounds for United States troops was issued after a police statement that an I.R.A. manifesto made it plain

Capt. Gemmell Tips Newsmen

Somewhere in England, Sept. 2—(CP Cable))—Canadian newspapermen were given an idea today of how combined operations assaults are staged on German-occupied territory when they watched soldiers from the Dominion simulating the destruction of an enemy radio station.

Accompanied by Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, commander of a division, the editors watched men of the landing assault training school scale a great cliff under the protection of air support, and blast their objective.

During the affray the editors were entertained by an interloping Spitfire roaring up over the coastal valley doing a double roll. It was not until some time later in another part of England that they learned that the plane was flown by a young Canadian pilot who had just destroyed one of two German aircraft over the Channel and was doing a victory roll.

At the school, the newsmen saw troops under Capt. George Edwards of Galt, Ont., cover an assault course, cross wire entanglements, operate three-inch mortars and conduct an attack on the beach from landing craft used at Dieppe.

Hanging

The police charged with drawn batons and the crowd quickly scattered. Other throngs had collected outside the jail where Williams was hanged, but, save for a mild street demonstration, there had been no other outbreak.

This Northern Ireland capital had been declared out of bounds for United States troops and the presence of the two soldiers, neither of whom was harmed, was not immediately explained.

The crowd was singing Irish Republican songs when the soldiers first were seen. The Americans were greeted with stiff-armed Nazi style salutes and jeering comment.

Two demonstrators were arrested on charges of rioting and were sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Annual Harvest Service Enjoyed Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING, Sept. 2 — (ENS). — The harvest thanksgiving service of St. George's-on-the-Hill was held on Sunday evening with Rev. K. D. Whatmough of Birch Cliff, a former rector, preaching the sermon and in charge of the service.

The church was beautifully decorated with green leaves and sprays filling the window ledges. The altar vases were filled with pink and white gladioli and the chancel was banked with baskets of flowers.

Miss Emily Pratt sang a solo and a new setting of the Benedicte was rendered by th choir. Mr. Whatmough preached on the thanksgiving theme, giving the origin of the annual thanksgiving service, as the idea of a minister in Cornwall many years ago. Later a minister in England who had read of the experiment by the Cornwall congregation suggested an annual harvest thanksgiving service to be inaugurated in the church year.

After the service the many friends of Mr. Whatmough welcomed him back to the village for this occasion. Rev. Mr. Johnson the rector, was in Perrytown on Sunday evening to take part in the 100th anniversary of St. Paul's Church.

Falling from a swing, Genene Thompson, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson, had the misfortune to break her right wrist. The accident occurred on Saturday afternoon while a group of children were playing in one of the camp grounds. Genene was taken to Port Hope for an X-ray.

Vacation time is almost over, as on Sunday very little motor traffic was noticed in or around this village. Rice Lake was calm and the weather was lovely.

Many campers were preparing to leave for their town homes this week and the cabins in the tourist parks showed signs of "moving time."

Rubber Smugglers

New York, Sept. 2.

DRAMATIC stories of rubber "smuggling" from the Japanese-dominated Indies begin to drift in.

People who should know tell us that many and many a small sailing vessel steals into Australian harbors these nights loaded with precious raw rubber. There are literally thousands of islands in the East Indies and the Japs can't—and don't try—to occupy them all.

The natives who run the blockade know they take their lives in their hands, but a fortune (to them) is the reward of a successful trip.

$10,000 Plasma Plant Set Up

LONDON, Sept. 2—(CP).—British scientists are spending a legacy of nearly $100,000 on a blood freezing and drying plant which will carry development of life-saving plasma still another great stride forward.

Building of the machine, largest yet erected for the freezing and drying of plasma, will put Britain ahead in a field of science which is being diligently studied, for peace as well as war, by all fighting nations. It was made possible through a gift to the Medical Research Council by trustees of the late millionaire chemist, Sir Henry Wellcome.

The machine resembles a giant refrigerator coupled to a group of tally cylinders. It will freeze and dry each week the blood gifts of 10,000 donors. Next week—or even eight years from now—the frozen dried plasma will give life to sick and wounded in any climate because it retains its quality indefinitely.

Dried plasma is saving lives in Egypt to-day and British warships, fighting their way to Russia, or Malta, carry the flake-like substance to save lives in the middle of intense actions or raging gales.

Picnic Weather

COBOURG, Sept. 2 — (ENS). — About 100 picnickers attended the outing in Victoria Park yesterday afternoon of Bethesda South United Church. Due to the necessity of work on the farm, the picnic had been held off for two months. Fortunately the weather was ideal yesterday and a very pleasant afternoon was spent in sports, followed by a tasty supper served in the park. The races were in charge of Marguerite Macklin and Willa Davey.

Flying Fortress Crashes With Load

This American Flying Fortress was taking-off for a raid upon Jap-held positions in the Southwest Pacific when it crashed with its full bomb load. The crew scrambled to safety—all of them unhurt—while ground-crew members rushed to the scene with fire-fighting equipment and extinguished the blazes which started in two of the motors. The bombs, luckily, did not explode. ABOVE shows the fire-fighters in action. The craft can most likely be salvaged.

Cobourg Pastor Honored By Congregation

COBOURG, Sept. 2 — (ENS). — Rev. W. O. and Mrs. Nugent were presented with an engraved silver tray at a meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last night. Rev. Mr. Nugent leaves shortly to assume his new duties as chaplain with the R.C.A.F. He was married a short time ago to Miss Jean Patterson, who was a member of the teaching staff of Cobourg Collegiate Institute. The presentation of a tray was made by Mrs. G. Pratt, and following is the address which accompanied the presentation:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are gathered here to-night to extend to our new found friend and minister's bride, a very hearty welcome to our church. Mrs. Nugent, I have been requested by the congregation of St. Andrew's to convey to you their joy at having you with us to-night. We hope that both of you in future years will have pleasant memories of the beginning of your happy wedded life in Cobourg. Your coming together has meant will, I beginning, keeping together will I am sure, mean progress and working together success and happiness for many years to come.

"There is no finer work than that undertaken by a minister and his wife, and I am sure after hearing the many fine qualities so highly spoken of by our minister of Mrs. Nugent during her Sunday School and Bible Class days and knowing that she is now loved and adored by our minister of the present day, she must be in possession of the good counsel and charm that will go far towards brightening the life of our friend, and also, I am sure, brighten the road for many who seek counsel in the church.

"We hope Mrs. Nugent, that you will enjoy this your first social evening with us as much as we enjoy having you here, and that this is but the beginning of many happy and long-lasting friendships. The Rev. Mr. McKenzie has asked me to express to both of you his regrets at not being able to be with us to-night."

The inscription on the tray read as follows:

"Presented to Rev. and Mrs. W. O. Nugent, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Cobourg on the occasion of their marriage, August 15, 1942."

The chairman of the evening was T. Tough, Clerk of the Session. The meeting opened with prayer by J. Nicoll. This was followed by the chairman's welcome and remarks by the church elders and managers.

Mrs. J. Randall was heard in a vocal solo "Sylvia," with "Bird Songs at Eventide" as the encore. She was accompanied by Alfred Mortimer. Brief addresses were also given by A. W. Skinner and Mayor John Burnet. The evening closed with the serving of lunch, with Mrs. D. Ewart and Miss M. MacCaughey pouring tea.

Grew Sees Japan Doomed To Be Rebuilt

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Joseph C. Grew's call for the utter destruction of Japanese militarism has stated in grim, blunt terms the nature of the unprecedented task that lies before us.

It's a declaration that haunts the imagination especially coming as it does from one who spent a decade in Nippon as United States Ambassador striving to prevent the growing influence of barbarism from disrupting peace. It means the pulling to pieces of the social structure of a great and ancient nation, the liquidation of the individuals who head the military caste, and then the colossal undertaking of rebuilding that nation into a useful unit of world society.

We are talking about one of the greatest epochs of world history. Mr. Grew's idea isn't new, of course, but being a post-war problem it has been pushed into the background in the heat of immediate battles. As a matter of fact what he says of Japan applies also exactly to Germany and his pungent words echo the Allied determination to smash Hitler and Hitlerism. Here's the way he put it in his broadcast on Sunday:

"That Japanese military machine and military caste and military system must be utterly crushed, their credit and predominance must be utterly broken, for the future safety and welfare of civilization and humanity. Let's put it in a nutshell: There is not sufficient room in the area of the Pacific Ocean for a peaceful America, for any and all of the peace-loving United Nations, and a swashbuckling Japan.

Same or Germany.

Substitute German for Japanese, and Europe for Pacific area, and this edict fits Hitler, the master gangster, who is trying to destroy Christian civilization and substitute paganism and slavery. Strange as those words may sound, that is the purpose of this man with the abnormal mind.

How are we to carry out this elimination of militarism and the remoulding of the minds of whole nations?

The consensus of Allied statesmen and observers however, seems to point generally in this direction:

Japan and Germany will have to be stripped of every vestige of military equipment—land, air and water. Their navies, military air forces and armies must be wiped out and their arsenals must be destroyed.

Hitler and all the other militaristic leaders of both countries must be permanently removed from the picture. Some say hang 'em, but perhaps more mature judgment will recommend that they be put behind prison walls for life.

Then the Allied Nations will have to establish military control of Japan and Germany— actually police them with troops. Our experience with Germany after the last war showed that lack of such safeguards enabled quick rearmament. Probably such military policing will have to be maintained for years.

After that must begin the long and arduous process of eliminating the militaristic idea from the minds of the people by education. We shall have to undo all that Hitler and the Jap militarists have done by intensive propaganda during the past 20 years, and especially in the last decade.

Half Of N. York's Longshoremen Looking For Jobs

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—War has brought new changes to the great harbor of New York, No. 1 port of the world, where once speedy ocean liners sailed with the luxury passenger trade and busy freighters carried the imports and exports for almost half the nation, says Wide World.

No longer do the sleek, brightly painted passenger vessels move slowly up the Hudson River with gaily waving crowds at the rail. If they come at all they come in battle dress, and secretly.

Passenger traffic to Europe, South America, Bermuda, and the Pacific has ceased. The last regular lines, the Portuguese and Spanish ships, have moved south in deference to the German announcement that New York was now blockaded.

One of the last reminders of the old days is the former French ship Normandie—the largest and most luxurious of all—now lying on its side at a Hudson River pier.

No longer do the hundreds of freighters bring their cargoes of spice and coal, of fruit and wool, tea lumber, coffee, and cotton to the great piers that gathered their freight and stuffed them again with wheat and machines for the world.

Some still come occasionally in the secrecy of convoys, but you have only to walk through the streets along the Hudson River or the East River to see the empty piers that once housed millions of tons of freight a year.

The port is not dead. There is military and naval activity as at every port, but the activity is considerably less than it was in the last war when the harbor's facilities were used to the utmost.

Store Sales Up 10 p.c. For July

OTTAWA, Sept. 2—Value of dement stores sales in Canada in July registered an increase of 10 per cent over a year ago, which was less than the average gain of 14 per cent during the current year to date, but the index, when adjusted for difference in the numberof business days and for normal seasonal variations, jumped from 134.0 in June to 145.1 in July. At the latter level, the Bureau of Statistics comments, the index was about on a par with the average index for the year to date. That reverses a three-month decline which carried the index from 22.9 points from the March all-time peak of 156.9. This upturn followed on the heels of the 1942 Federal Budget, delivered on June 23, 1942.

It is not possible to draw a direct comparison between the index of department store sales value and the retail price index of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics but a substantial part of the increase in the former is due to higher prices this year. The July retail price index was eight per cent higher than a year ago; the department store sales index was up ten per cent.

Wants Council Size Reduced

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 2 (Specia) — A proposal to reduce the size of the city counsil to a mayor and eight aldermen was made by Alderman Thomas Marshall at the first council meeting of the fall season.

Aderman Marshall gave notice that he would introduce a motion at the next council meeting concerning the reduction and asking that it be placed before the electorate at the next municipal election. The motion will request the legislature of the Province to pass a special act to reduce the council from its present number of a mayor and thirteen aldermen to a mayor and eight aldermen.

No discussion on the matter was heard at the council meeting but it is expected that the aldermen will express their opinion when the motion is placed before the council.

At long last, the mayor has a chain of office. Mayor Thompson wore the new chain for the first time at the council meeting. It was recently purchased to replace the former chain that mysteriously disappeared last spring.

St. Nazaire V.C.

Lieutenant Commander S. H. Beattie who was in command of the Campbeltown, which destroyed the main gate of the Nazi naval base at St. Nazaire on March 28 has been awarded the Victoria Cross. Commander Beattie was taken a prisoner and the story comes out of Germany that when the news of his award was received a special parade was ordered and the Nazi commandant saluted Beattie.

The story is related by a fellow prisoner of war in a letter home. "We had an exciting ceremony this week," he wrote. "A special parade was held and the little commandant in full regalia called out Commander Beattie and said that official news had arrived of his V.C. and saluted him, which was gentlemanly. Naturally there was wild applause, and we all feel now that the raid must have been thought worthwhile at home.

This is not the type of story which usually comes out of Germany and we do not know what Goebbels would say when he hears it. However brave men are always honored by both friends and foe.

New Conservative Setup

One hundred and fifty rank and file members of the Conservative party are going to seek to bring the party up to date at a meeting this week-end in Port Hope. R. K. Finlayson, chief secretary to Viscount Bennett when he was Prime Minister, is the organizer of the gathering, and in defining the purposes of the gathering Mr. Finlayson said: "The crust of old conservatism has never been broken. New Conservative thought has never been allowed to develop. There is nothing wrong with the party at all. It was never so vital. But there is too much thinking in terms of 50 and 60 years ago. We want to bring people's minds up to date. Has the Conservative Party a pair of eyes to see just what is going on?"

The attendance has been restricted to 150 and neither Hon. Arthur Meighen, National Conservative Leader, nor Hon. R. B. Hanson, House leader, will be present. The whole thought of the gathering is to have a perfectly frank discussion on Conservative thought and policies and how these policies may aid Canada first in winning the war and then in post war reconstruction.

The idea of the gathering is a good one. All political parties at times require a general overhauling, if they are to serve Canadian democracy, and there is no time better than the present for the Conservative Party to break down the old ideas and the policies which are entirely out of line with modern day trends and thinking.

The five movie houses in the City of Kingston admit soldiers on the flat rate of 25 cents and the suggestion has been made that possibly the theatres in Peterborough might do the same.

There are between 800 and 900 men at the Training Centre practically all the time, and while they can find numerous other recreations every man likes seeing a show. However, the charge of 42 cents makes a big hole in the day's pay of $1.30, it is claimed.

Peterborough's theatres have been noted for their generosity to every community scheme and we feel sure that they will give the soldier, the airmen or the sailor all the breaks possible.

Women Are More Careful

Records of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board indicate that a very small proportion of persons, who are sufficiently seriously injured to receive a compensation payment, are women. The last report published by the Board dealing with the sex and marital condition of injured workers, shows that out of 22,438 persons who received compensation for disabilities lasting seven days or longer, only 663, or roughly three per cent., were women. Of course more men than women are employed, and it can be taken for granted that women are placed on lighter work than men but those things alone are not sufficient to account for this great disparity. Thus it seems that women are more careful than are men.

The place of women in industry, when a shortage of manpower occurs, must be recognized, and that shortage is becoming increasingly evident every day. Women excel in work requiring care and constant alertness, good eyesight and the use of light instruments; at work requiring dexterity and speed, including the operations of small machines to finish small or irregular parts; the assembly of delicate instruments; the loading of shells, and women operate successfully large machines on heavy work when such work is assisted by the use of lifting devices and pneumatic chucks.

Newspapers During Wartime

Newspapers during the war are as badly hit as anyone else in the community, and with the ever increasing scarcity of goods and discontinuance of some lines altogether the commercial side of the business has been seriously affected. Expenditures have been continually increasing while the revenue has been decreasing.

"Some newspaper readers seem to imagine," remarks the Oshawa Times, "that the war has been a bonanza for newspapers and it is rather difficult to convince them otherwise. As far as news of the world events is concerned the idea is correct but in other regards newspapers have been as badly hit as any one else!"

The war has provided plenty of news and wonderful opportunities but services have had to be extended and there are heavy tolls to secure this copy and the costs of keeping correspondents in the field have increased.

The editor of the Guelph Mercury was told the other day that papers would be hard up for copy when hostilities ceased and that newspapers would return to peacetime routine with reluctance. The truth of the matter was contained in the editor's retort:

"The newspapermen will be glad from the bottom of their hearts, from the office boy to the highest paid man on the job, when the time comes to run a streamer across the front page telling that the peace treaties have been signed. The war has been a serious matter for the newspapers. From a commercial side, it has hit them just the same as it has many other lines of business. It has been a perpetual round of increasing expenditure and decreasing revenue. From an editorial and news point of view it has been a nightmare...It will be a happy day again when a crash with no one hurt can get into the corner of the front page, and a church social will be considered once more of sufficient importance to assign a reporter to cover it."

Affiliation Rejected

By an overwhelming vote delegates to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, meeting last week in Winnipeg, rejected proposals for outright affiliation with the C.C.F. Much of the opposition came from members of the C.C.F., and rightly so, for they argued that the Congress should not try to tell its trade unionist members what their politics should be and at the same time delegates felt it advisable that the Congress should not be bound to any political party.

In the past there has been too much play by both the Liberal and Conservative parties for the labor vote but on the whole the trade unionist has pretty well steered an independent course, thus in this way he had more to do than he is often given credit for in electing or defeating governments. Rather we believe, labor has accomplished more for the workers in pressing for legislation favorable to him by not playing politics.

Another highlight of the convention was the election of Pat Sullivan as a vice-president and according to veteran convention attenders it was the first time in 25 years that a left winger has been given a seat on the Congress executive. Two factors possibly had a lot to do with his election. His internment in 1940 while in the midst of an organizational drive for the Seamen's Union made him a labor cause celebre, for part of his vote can be interpreted as a vote of protest against the Government's internment policy. On the other hand his behavior during the Congress might have helped him for he showed no ill-will for his internment of 22 months. His speeches were always, according to the Winnipeg Free Press, "well reasoned, moderate and to the point." The Winnipeg paper goes on to say "that he gave the Congress the impression that he is an able and solid trade unionist." However we feel that his internment played a bigger part in his election than the Winnipeg newspaper is prepared to admit.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canadian folk never expected to see the day when roast beef would be missing from restaurant menus. They can blame Hitler for that condition.

Heddy Lamarr says she will not kiss folks to help sell war bonds. She's right. That's too big a bonus for doing one's duty.

Strange Doings By Japanese

From MONTREAL STAR

WHILE the Russians are holding firm and even counter-attacking along the thousand-mile front from north of Moscow to the Caucasus; while the Americans are taking the offensive in the South Pacific; while the British continue to blast Germany's industrial centres almost at will, strange things are happening on the Chinese front.

Little more than a month ago it looked as if the Japanese would succeed in their drive to capture the Hangchow-Nanchang railway, which is essential to the Chinese if they are to continue to supply their armies in South China from the sea. They had secured control of nearly the whole length of the line, and moreover were attacking the two biggest ports remaining in Chinese hands on the Asiatic seaboard. Since then, however, a remarkable change has come over the spirit of the scene. The Japanese, for some reason which is not yet clear to strategy experts anywhere, are withdrawing from Kianksi province without attempting to make much of a stand against the Chinese armies, have given up control of the line, and the Chinese are now at the walls of Nanchang, the Japanese major base in Kiangsi province.

After a fifteen-day drive China is menacing Japanese headquarters, has recaptured the four hundred miles of railway, has reoccupied Lanchi and Chuhsien, two of the most important air bases in China, from which Japanese cities could easily be bombed, has also recaptured Linchwan, the second largest Japanese base in Kiangsi province, and is still pushing northward.

Tokyo's explanation of this sudden reversal of strategy on Japan's part is that she is merely engaged in shortening her lines and regrouping her forces, and that she still holds all the important strategic districts in Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces from which an air offensive might be started against Japan. The Chinese interpretation of the Japanese withdrawal is that the forces now retreating from Chekiang and Kiangsi are being diverted north to the Manchoukuo border, and south in preparation for some new move, either against India or Australia.

British air forces from India have been bombing Japanese concentrations on the northwest Burmese frontier, and the American Air Force, within the last few days, has been raiding Lashio in Upper Burma, and points on the French railway between Hanoi and the Chinese border at Lakoai, from which Chungking correspondents assume that Japan plans an invasion of Chinese territory in the extreme southwest, that is, Yunnan province. It is obvious, therefore, that whatever move the Japanese make in either direction, the element of surprise has been completely discounted.

We should do well, however, not to draw any hasty conclusions from the change for the better on the Chinese front. While the news is very satisfactory so far as it goes, there is no justification whatever for assuming the Chinese have gained the upper hand definitely, or have even inflicted a major defeat upon the Japanese. Joseph C. Grew, the former American Ambassador at Tokyo, who has just returned to the United States, issued a warning last night against counting upon any easy victory over the Japanese. Their failuure so far to achieve victory over the Chinese had not, he further warned, discouraged the Japanese people. On the other hand, he said, "it has instead served to steel them for still greater sacrifices and to prepare them better for the war of deadly purpose to conquer upon which they have finally embarked." Mr. Grew went on:

"We are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot and will not be broken by economic hardships, a people who individually and collectively will gladly sacrifice their lives for their emperor and their nation, and who can be brought to earth only by physical defeat, by being ejected physically from the areas which they have temporarily conquered or by a progressive attrition of their naval powers and merchant marine which will finally result in cutting off their homeland from all connection with and access to those outlying areas—by complete defeat in battle."

This weighty warning comes from the man who is probably in a better position than anyone else outside Japan to speak with authority, and it is entitled to very serious consideration accordingly.

Beauty

Beauty cannot be defined,
It's not to one thing confined,
Universal, broad and free,
Found on land, found on sea,
It is in the works of men,
It has dropped from Shakespeare's pen,
Soaring with the eagle's flight,
Brooding over fallen might.

A gay laugh, a brave goodbye,
Path of the moon across the sky,
All these have their own beauty,
Noble deed, love of duty.
Little things upon a shelf,
Colored vase and tiny elf,
China pottery and glass fish,
Stand beside a dusty dish.

Crawling path of lazy streams,
Empty shack with broken beams,
Cold beauty of northern snow,
Southern sands where breezes blow,
Oasis 'neath desert sun,
Where shade, rest, and drink are won,
Miracles of light and day,
Dancing sails upon the bay.

Little thinks we daily meet,
Empty hall, a crowded street,
A happy smile, a kind deed,
Chirping of the birds we feed.
For beauty travels not afar,
But seek it now where you are,
If Beauty there you cannot find,
Seek it not, for you are blind.

THE TIMID SOUL

Do or Be Doomed for Hitler

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

MILITARY and political developments from Egypt to Tokyo indicate that Hitler knows a crisis is at hand for him in Russia.

Another Russian winter is only weeks away. And so far as weather portents can be assessed in a world so topsy-turvy with war that even the weather is a military secret, an even worse Russian winter than the last is in prospect. Hitler, in calling upon the Germans for new sacrifices, he warned them of another racking war winter ahead but has sought to brighten the prospect with assurances that victory lies just beyond it.

As this is written there seems small doubt that the Axis master has launched his final effort to smash Russia or render her impotent before that Russian winter is upon him. More than his flair for showmanship dictated the orders that sent Nazi-Fascist forces in Egypt lunging forward again as the fourth year of the war opened. It must be more than mere coincidence that a Tokyo War Cabinet shake-up on that date ousted the negotiator of the flimsy Russo-Japanese non-aggression pact. Hitler appears beckoning his Nipponese accomplice to the victory feast in Russia that he has foretold.

FACE-SAVING FOR TOGO

The Togo resignation as Japanese Foreign Minister looks like the most ominous indication to date that, at Berlin's bidding, Japan is about to strike at Russia. As Japanese Ambassador to Moscow, Togo negotiated the non-aggression pact which paved the way for Pearl Harbor. He was rewarded with the Cabinet portfolio he has now relinquished, probably as a personal face-saving preparation for Japanese violation of the pact.

That Cabinet upset follows a startling Nipponese retreat in China. All in all, Japan seems preparing for an attack on Russia, timed to abet Hitler in his effort to erase Russia as a threat before winter comes or Anglo-American forces in the west are sufficiently rallied and equipped for a full-scale second-front effort.

In view of all this, Stalingrad, the Russian arsenal city on the lower Volga, becomes more than a local Nazi objective. It well may be that Japanese commitments to Hitler to attack Siberia turn upon German success in capturing Stalingrad promptly, cutting Russia off from the oil of the Baku field and the Caspian-Iran-Iraq Persion Gulf supply route.

DESPERATE EFFORT

The new Nazi-Fascist attack on British lines in Egypt links up with that conception of Axis strategy. London military observers picture it as a desperate effort to break through to Alexandria or to Cairo before British and American reinforcements in Egypt attain the strength to stage a smashing counter-offensive.

In striking at the south flank of the British defense line, where it rests on the Qattara depression, the Nazi master of desert warfare, Rommel, is obviously endeavoring to regain freedom of movement. His genius has shown itself in far-ranging and perfectly co-ordinated flanking sweeps by tank fleets. The chance for that is denied him on the narrow front on which he was brought to a stand two months ago seventy miles from Alexandria.

Hope runs high in London that the reorganized British 8th Army not only can hold its ground, but, once Rommel has been h[illegible]d, turn upon him savagely. It seems obviou[illegible] [illegible]wever, that if it does not hold that vital gateway to Alexandria securely, British 9th Army dispositions in Syria, Iran and Iraq must be revised to bolster the Egyptian front. Only from that area could troops and equipment be shifted quickly to meet the threat. That, too, at the expense of whatever preparations are in the making in the Middle East to help Russia hold the Baku oil fields.

Canada Enters War's Fourth Year

By George Finlay, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2 —(CP)—Across historic Prairie trails, the rumble of the modern machines of war—the striking power of a streamlined army—roll today.

This fourth year of war has brought the Armored Riders of the Plains, men from the cities, towns and hamlets. From the farms, the woodlands and the far northern trapline they have come to learn the mechanics of war—the handling of tanks, armored cars, the motorized infantry, with troop carrier trucks and motor drawn field guns.

Old Fort Garry in Winnipeg—only the massive gates stand today—has heard again the tramp of many feet. Too, there is the modern note, the throbbing motors of war. The site of the old fort has been used for a drill ground. Nearby is an ordnance depot, with its huge army trucks, its repair shops and all that it takes to "keep the wheels rolling."

To the camps on the Prairies, many surrounded by fields of grain promising a rich harvest, dairy farms and meadowlands, the men have gone from peacetime jobs. Three years ago many of these men were tractor drivers, handling the big machines on Prairie farms. Others came from stores and offices and mechanics from city and town garages, men trained in the care of pleasure car motors, of trucks and highway transports.

Thousands of the men from the West are overseas today. Many are tankmen, driving the powerful land cruisers of war. They speed army transports across the English countryside, troop carriers and guns to the coasts.

Other thousands are in training in the Prairie camps. They roar over historic highways, the pioneer trails where, less than 60 years ago, lumbering Red River carts, with wheels of wood five feet high and ox-drawn, carried supplies from Fort Garry to the warriors in the Riel rebellion in '85.

Over the trails where cavalrymen once galloped, speed the new warriors in battle-dress of khaki. Over these same trails journeyed the western farm pioneers, to take up their homesteads and to make Canada famous in the world of wheat.

Camp Shilo, in Manitoba, selected as the training centre for Canada's first parachute battalion; Dundurn, the Saskatchewan training centre, and Sarcee Camp in the rolling foothills of Alberta, all have played a part in preparing men for the Armored Riders of the Plains.

These were the "summer time" camps of peacetime. Today they have spread across countless acres, with modern accommodation to house thousands of trainees. From these camps the men of Canada go to war. To the eastern seaboard, moving onward to the shores of Britain, or guarding the Dominion's coastline. Or to the Pacific coast to stand guard against the foe from the setting sun.

To isolated hamlets, the Armored Riders have brought the throb of mighty engines, the machines of war, where townsmen and farm dweller have been shown the forces of mechanical warfare.

The camps were planned in peacetime. They have left untouched the acres of grainlands, but from the wheat fields they have brought the wheels of mechanized divisions.

Laval Trembles

Vichy reports that Pierre Laval, chief of government in Unoccupied France, has taken extraordinary measures against a feared coup d'etat. Uneasy rests the head of France's No. 1 Quisling. The depth of his treason was underlined this week by his welcoming home 1,000 prisoners of war, whom the Nazis exchanged for 3,000 French workers, who will go to the Reich and labor for Hitler.

There are still 1,200,000 French soldiers in Germany subject to exchange for workers on a one-for-three basis. Collaboration with Hitler in this arrangement caps the monument of Laval's disservice to France. That he should live in terror of retribution is natural in the traitor and coward he has proved himself to be in his country's darkest hour.—Detroit Free Press.

Letter To The Editor

ROYAL LINEAGE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The Examiner is not quite correct in "A Lesson in Royal Lineage" (St. Thomas Times-Journal) when it states "there is no Tudor blood in the present royal family."

Any student of British history knows that the Margaret mentioned in the article, who married James IV of Scotland, was Margaret Tudor, eldest daughter of Henry Tudor (Henry VII of England) and a sister of Henry VIII.

Almost 100 years after this marriage, Margaret's great-grandson, James VI of Scotland, became James I of England, the crown having descended as follows:—

(1) James IV of Scotland.
(2) James V of Scotland.
(3) Mary Queen of Scots.
(4) James VI of Scotland, and the the descendents of King James have ruled Britain (except for a short interval when Oliver Cromwell, and his son Richard ruled) until this day.

May they long continue to rule.

Unconsidered Trifles

The very new recruit was strolling along, cigarette in mouth, at peace with the world, when his commanding officer approached.

He seemed a little bewildered for a moment as to the correct procedure, but finally passed by with just the suspicion of a friendly nod.

A little while later he was sent for and the following dialogue ensued:

C.O.: "How long have you been in the army?"
N.R.: "Two days, sir."
C.O.: "Have you been instructed to salute an officer when you meet one?"
N.R.: "Yes, sir."
C.O. (ominously): "Why did you fail to salute me a little while ago?"
N.R. (in an aggrieved tone): "But, sir, I was distinctly told not to salute an officer with a cigarette in my mouth."
C.O.: "! ! ! ! ! ? ?"

Ottawa Tightens Its Hold On College List

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Sept 2—(CP) —If the Federal Government has anything to say about it, and apparently it will, the 1942-43 student crop in Canadian colleges and universities will be a serious-minded lot.

One government agency will be pulling idle students out of college in the fall term and another will be pushing students of good academic standing in.

In the first place the army, through the compulsory recruiting branch of the National War Services Department, stands ready to pluck off any student who fails to pass his examinations and send him off to a military training camp.

Then the selective service branch of the department of labor stands ready to help any worthy student who lacks funds but shows promise of becoming good in engineering or science to go through college and proceed to a degree.

Some tightening up in the regulations governing exemption of students from compulsory military service is expected for the coming term. The same principle which applied last year, namely that physically fit students within the ages for compulsory service will be allowed to continue their courses providing they undergo military training as members of the reserve army, will apply but under stricter enforcement.

Unlikely To Be Called

In general, the position is that students taking courses leading to a degree in arts, science, medicine, dentistry and commerce, will not be called up for military service even though over 20 and thus liable to call.

The exemption, however, is subject to two conditions.

First, if physically fit a student must enlist in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps unit at his university and take training to the satisfaction of the district officer commanding. If there is no C.O.T.C. unit in his university he must enlist in another unit designated by the district officer commanding.

The second condition is that he must pass all examinations and tests in his academic subjects. If he fails to do so he may be called out for military service unless he can satisfy the district officer commanding that his failure was due to reasons beyond his control, such as illness, in which case he may be allowed to continue his course.

Students will not be permitted to go to the United States universities if the courses they wish to pursue are available at Canadian universities.

Demands of the armed forces and war industry have caused a shortage of doctors, dentists, engineers, physicists and chemists. To induce students to enter and continue courses leading to qualification in these professions, inducements are offered.

May Enlist, Finish Course

Medical and dental students may enlist in the medical and dental corps of the army at the start of the third year of their courses. They are then granted leave with pay and may complete the rest of the courses on the $1.30 per day of a private soldier.

In order to take advantage of this scheme they must undertake to join the army medical or dental services on graduation.

For students in science and engineering who are already on their courses but short of money to continue them assistance by way of loans is available. Such assistance is arranged through the university authorities. For new students entering science and engineering another scheme has been prepared and high school principals have been asked to recruit likely material.

From applications received, those whose high standing in high school subjects indicates an aptitude for science or engineering and who cannot afford to go to university on their own will be selected for loans which may run up to $300.

Students accepting these loans bind themselves to place their services at the disposal of "the Dominion of Canada to be directed as is deemed best by the director of National Selective Service in relation to the war effort and in accordance with" training received.

Permit Rush

TORONTO, Sept. 2 —(CP) — Hundreds of persons crowded the Government Unemployment Insurance officers here today to get job permits under the new selective service regulations, which require that all persons must work.

"We will be receiving any time now lists from employers regarding workers leaving their employ. Action will be taken against those who attempted to evade the seven-day limit regulation."

After Dieppe

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP)— Relatives of Windsor's heroes of Dieppe helped to set a recruiting record at the St. Luke Road barracks here during the past week, when 173 men enlisted in six days.

Capt. W. C. Woods, adjutant of the recruiting depot, said the total was the highest since the Essex Scottish Regiment was mobilized in the first weeks of the war.

Top Production

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP)— Influenced by campaigns for top production, a potato vine in the garden of Mrs. Roy Gilder here patriotically grew a crop of tomatoes as a sideline. The vine has produced potatoes and tomatoes all season.

U.S. Not Selling Seized Hun Patents Hint Gov't. Body To Develop Them

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—(AP)— Woodrow Wilson used private industry to break the German patent monopoly in the First Great War. Congress is to be asked for Government ownership to do the same thing in the present war.

The fight which the Kaiser lost has been resumed by Hitler. The stake in the last war was the present American organic chemical industry, then virtually non-existent.

Hitler's stakes are use of patents for part of his aim for domination of the world and for some measure of overlordship of American industry.

America's new alien property custodian, Leo Thomas Crowley, has given out word that contrary to precedent of the last war, the seized patents will not be sold this time.

He has told the Senate Patents Committee that it may be desirable to turn these patents over to a Government-owned and operated corporation. Not only for administration, he suggested, but for Government research to improve the patents.

The Last War Setup

The Chemical Foundation, Inc., the Delaware corporation setup at Woodrow Wilson's direction, won the First Great War patent fight. But it was seven years and eight months after the end of the war before a United States supreme court decision upheld this private concern.

The foundation is still going, administering trade marks and some patents which came to it as a result of supporting research with the German patent fee monies. Crowley has the right to use the foundation, but has indicated he will not. He has, however, the records of German trickery which the foundation turned up, as a guide.

The foundation, by law, makes no profits, pays no salaries to its higher officers, has to license the patents to all Americans on equal terms. It gave the money from the licence fees, $4,750,000, to colleges, universities, and industrial laboratories for chemical research, and for chemical education.

Skipper Dies In H. Kong

VANCOUVER, Sept. 2—(CP) — Col. Robert Williams of Vancouver said yesterday the Canadian Red Cross Society had advised him of the death in Hong Kong Aug. 11 of Col. Walter Dockrill, well-known British Columbia shipping man, who made his headquarters in Japan as Oriental representative of the Canadian Trading Company. He was interned in Hong Kong after Japan entered the war.

SEVEN TEAMS FLIRTING WITH ENTRY IN SENIOR O.R.F.U. SERIES

Strong Navy Team Is Practicing Report From Balmy Beach Today

By Hal Walker.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—That rumbling you are hearing is the Ontario Rugby Football Union shifting its gears into a forward drive to keep football in the sportiv- map for '42.

Along Rue de Rumor speculation is deep, but for Secretary Harold Bailey of the time-honored Ontario Union, the speculation is a thing of great beauty. Annually c fronted of late years with the task of keeping the O.R.F.U. from growing dangerously anemic. Bailey is wondering now whether his outfit will suffer from wartime expansion pains.

Meeting Here Friday.

He won't know, perhaps, before Friday when the O.R.F.U. will hold a meeting here to determine what cooks for this year. The meeting was called last night by President Frank Len ard of Dundas.

Currently the O.R.F.U has every prospect of going postward with a heavy field. As of last night seven teams were flirting with entry blanks, some of them more enamored than the guy next door to them.

It's all pretty much of an indefinite nature but the O.R.F.U. would seem reasonably certain of having four teams in the field anyway.

Beaches' Decision Today.

Balmy Beach will make their decision today, President Ab Box said last night.

Wing Commander Dave Harding, officer commanding the Hagersville Training Centre and a former gridiron great, told the press last night that his station was "interested" in a football team. At the present time Harding and his staff are concerned chiefly with the financial end of fielding a team.

"I might say we haven't gone very deeply into it yet," Harding said. "We don't expect we'll know how we stand for almost a week. We certainly should be able to realize a fair club from here, though."

Persistent questioning failed to nail any one with concrete information on a Hamilton story that an R.C.A.F. entry would be in from Toronto.

Strong Navy Entry.

The navy team of H.M.C.S. York, Sub-Lieutenant Smith said last night, has already been practicing at the nearby Tip Top field. A glance down its list of eligible players reveals a solid threat to any outfit that may happen along in the league. From Argonauts the Tars have Jack Wedley, Steve Levantis, Pat Reid. They have Hughie Cuddie, ex-Balmy Beacher and one of the best running backs in the country; Russ Merrifield, former McGill backfielder; Bob Goldham, the Leaf hockey player and a standout footballer during his high school days, and several others.

Oakwood Indians, assured of strong financial backing, will hold their first workout tonight at 6.30 at Oakwood Stadium. The Indians expect to line up a top flight coach within the next few days and are hopeful they'll have a few ex-Argos a 1 Beachers as well as good high school players to round out a team.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It is win or out for Plazas tonight when they clash with Oshawa Colts at Riverside Park in the second game of their O.A.S.A. intermediate A series. It is a best-of-three affair and Oshawa have the edge by reason of grabbing off the first game. A victory for the Petes tonight will tie up the round and render a third game necessary and Plazas are confident that they can battle back into the running by coming through with the required victory. Oshawa, of course, count on another win and the Colts who encountered little opposition in the first game are decidedly cocky about the outcome of tonight's tussle. They apparently think that all that is needed is to fill the date here, go through the motions and walk home with the round. Plazas have other ideas. They admit that they played bad ball last Saturday but they promise to come up with a different performance in the second tilt and to supply the Colts with plenty of opposition. Tonight's game will get under way at 6 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

Oshawa are counting on the wily pitching of Dean McLaughlin to bring home the bacon. The former horseshoe champion has had a great season with the Colts and has pitched a lot of good ball for them. He has a world of stuff and a style that is quite different from that of Preem Whiteley but Oshawa players and fans predict that he will be quite as effective against Plazas as the smoke-ball artist proved in the first game. That remains to be seen of course. Plazas will start Dave Wilson and the big fellow who pitched two fine games for them in the final series against Royals may have the stuff to give the Oshawa batters a lot of trouble. Both teams will be short a regular from the lineup. Don Crowe will be minus from the battle array of the Plazas while First baseman Bidgood of the Colts who is now in training at Newmarket will be unable to make the trip to Peterborough. Otherwise the clubs will be at full strength for this crucial battle.

Manager Bob Batley's Electrics, beaten in the first game of the playoff series for the Knox Cup declare that they will even up the round in the second game tomorrow night and they are so enthusiastic about it that they have called a practice for tonight to prep themselves for the Thursday night tussle with Brintons. That is the right spirit and it should make the second game a real argument all the way. A victory for the Electrics would make the whole affair all even while a win for Brintons would give the Carpetweavers a big edge. With so much at stake, both outfits are rounding up the strongest lineups they have available and the game promises to be a peppery tussle. Leila Hughes who fanned 13 of the Electrics in the first game will be sent back at them in tomorrow's tilt while Manager Batley will use Mary Larmer, left-handed box artist.

This Will Be A Treat

Peterborough soccer fans and other sport-loving citizens who could not accurately be placed in that column are advised to mark Saturday, October 3 down in their diaries as a significant date in sport history. That is the day on which the crack soccer teams of the Picton and Mount Hope detachments of the Royal Air Force will battle at Riverside Park in aid of the British War Victims' Fund. These two elevens are among the strongest soccer machines that have been gathered together in this country. Both teams have in their lineup a number of first-class British professional players and others not far off that standard and they have been playing brilliant soccer all season, delighting lovers of the game by their clean-cut performance. In calibre the two detachments of the Royal Air Force are about even and they have staged some great battles. The local game will be played at Riverside Park and all the proceeds turned over to the British War Victims' Fund.

High Schools and Collegiates not due to open until late this month and with coaches uncertain as to probable material because of the lack of information as to how far the calls of war industry will cut down the return to school of experienced players, the rugby outlook, as far as the collegiates of this district is concerned is very vague. Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School team which won the Cossa championship in great style last season expects to have some of the stars of that team back in line again this season but there will be some losses, including that of Jim Allen and Billy Cuppy, wingmen of the Cossa cham s, the former now serving in a Canadian tank unit, while Cuppy is in the Navy. The late opening of school will occasion delay getting a line on possible losses and replacements and will also cut down the training season or slow up the opening of the schedule.

Red Eason, former Peterborough junior hockey player leaves for Kingston in a few days to begin training with the R.C.N.V.R. which brings to attention the fact that practically every member of the local junior O.H.A. squads of two and three seasons ago is now on active service. The Colts have contributed to the Navy in addition to Eason, Nels Foster, Dutch Pammett, Jack Mortimer, Julian Wade and Joe Rochetta, while Duce Vitarelli, goalie Jack Morrison, Bob Parnell and Russ Scriver are in the Air Force and Ronnie Horton in the Army. In addition both Jack Mervin who was manager of the juniors two seasons ago and Coach Archie Weir have also enlisted with the Canadian army, the former with the Prince of Wales Rangers and the latter with the C.F.A.

Chasing A Jinx

Brooklyn Dodgers refused to yield any ground yesterday, keeping their margin by a 4 to 2 win over the Pittsburg Pirates. The game was remarkable in one respect in that it marked the second time in his long career that that sterling pitcher Kirby Higbe had been able to win a game from the Pirates. It was the first time in fact that he started a contest against the Corsairs and won out, his only other decision over Pittsburg being in a battle in which he went in as a relief pitcher and the Dodgers pulled the game out of the fire to give him a win. Yesterday however Higbe went the route and won a neat victory holding the Corsairs to five hits. It was his 14th triumph of the season as against nine defeats. Klinger was the losing Pittsburg heaver, Aldon Wilkie finishing the job. Cincinnati Reds won themselves an eleven inning victory over the Phillies, taking the verdict 4 to 3 after two extra frames. Junior Thompson started for the Reds but Shoun and then Beggs had to go in and the latter finally got the nod for the win.

Claude Passeau, ace pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, picked off his 18th victory yesterday, at the expense of the New York Giants, and is now even in the matter of games won with Tex Hughson, leading pitcher of the American loop and with Mort Cooper of the Cards, although Hughson has only been beaten four times as against ten losses for Passeau. The Cubs, aided by Nicholson's 19th homer of the season had to come from behind to overcome the Giants but they won handily, the final count was 10 to 5 and the Cubs were victorious in spite of five errors. Yes Adams was in the game. The New York pitcher rarely misses a day. There was only one game scheduled in the American League and it saw the Washington Senators take a 4 to 3 decision over the Cleveland Indians, with Jim Bagby absorbing the loss and the win going to Carrasquel. Early had a homer for Washington in the seventh.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Westclox's next opponent looks like the Preston Rivulettes....The Preston gals have been awarded the series with Hamilton....They won the first game and played a tie in the second and have now been declared the winners by the provincial executive....Kingston Victorias pulled one of the big surprises of the season Monday when they waltzed into Belleville, drove Johnny Bawden to the showers and swamped the Belleville Army and Navy Vets 13 to 3 in the first game of their provincial playdowns....And to add insult to injury the veteran Belleville hardballer Sonny Green, playing second base for Vics had three hits against his old town team, including a triple with the bases loaded... St. Louis Cards came from behind last night to beat Boston Braves 4 to 3 and hold the Brooklyn lead at 3½ games....Al Javery who had won six games in a row for the Braves came close to nicking off his seventh at the expense of the Cards. Mort Cooper was the St. Louis gunner and it was

Newsom, Cullenbine Get Series Change

Buck Newsom, LEFT, who highlighted Detroit Tigers' pennant drive two years ago, only to fall from grace, gets another chance at World Series loot via Brooklyn Dodgers—always providing Durocher's crew wins the National League flag. The Dodgers bought him from Washington Senators just before the deadline on player deals. At the same time New York Yankees, the American League entry in the series, sought outfield insurance by purchasing Ray Cullenbine, RIGHT, also from the Senators, to fill the hole left by Tommy Henrich, now a U.S. marine.

Pittsburg Pirates Call Up 3 Players From Toronto Maple Leaf Team

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—(AP). — The Pittsburgh Pirates last night announced acquisition of Burgess Whitehead, veteran second baseman; Outfielder Jimmy Russell and Pitcher Harry Shuman from Toronto of the International League. They will join the Pirates after the Toronto Leaf schedule is completed.

Two Bring Cash

Russell and Shuman were obtained in straight cash transactions. Whitehead comes to the Bucs in exchange for a player to be agreed upon later, or cash.

The Pirates said they are planning to obtain "further outstanding material" from Toronto in building up the fifth-place Pittsburgh team for the 1943 season.

Gas House Reunion

The acquiring of Whitehead reunited two of the St. Louis "Gas House Gang" — Whitehead and Frankie Frisch, former pilot of the Cardinals and now Pittsburgh manager.

After the 1935 season, Whitehead was traded by the Cards to the New York Giants. He was sent to the Maple Leafs this year.

Russell, 22, has been hitting .302 for Toronto. He formerly played with McKeesport, Butler, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Youngstown, Mayfield, Springfield, Ill.; St. Joseph, Meridan and Memphis.

Shuman, a 26-year-old righthander, has won 12 and lost 9 with the Leafs. He formerly hurled for Williamsport, York, Richmond, Milford, Albany, Gloversville and Harrisburg.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The two best games of the night were the Downey-Hutchinson game and the Long-Dearborn game. Both games were decided on the last end.

The amusing part of the Downey-Hutchinson game was just how generous "R. F." became when he knew the game was in the bag. The Downey quartette was three up coming home. After the last end was played Hutchinson was one shot sure and a possibility of two. However, when the vices were measuring up the bowls "R. F." chirps in with, "Harold, we can afford to let them have two."

Have you got your mixed rink lined up for Labor Day? This is a wide open affair. Skips may select whom they please. Three 12-end games, 2-1-0 system. Two games in the afternoon and one in the evening. $2.00 per rink. If necessary, at the end of the day's play, 4-end play-off games will be played. Get busy and enter a rink.

Group No. 1 of this supplementary schedule have two postponed games, due to rain. It has been suggested that the skips contact their opponents and arrange for these games while the weather is fine.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Sixers' Conference

Plans are being drawn up to hold a Sixers' conference on Saturday, September 19, out at the Scout grounds. The general rules are that each pack will be responsible for the transportation of their boys, and that every boy attending will bring his own supper. The meet will start with the opening ceremonies at 2.00; selection of Sixes at 2.15; 2.30 games period; 3.00 lectures; 3.30 games; 4.00 lecture; 4.30 games; 4.45 break off; 56.00 supper; .00 ball games; 7.00 assemble for red flower; 7.15 red flower; 8.15 closing.

It is our desire to have every officer possible to take active part in the work of the conference, we would like to know the names of those who will be able to attend and those who know it will not be possible to attend. Copies of program will be sent out early this week. We would ask you, however not to wait, but plan now.

Apple Day

Last week I stated that Apple Day would probably be held on October 10. Since that time official word has been received that the date is October 17. This gives us one more week to get ready. Do not wait until this last week to carry out your plans. Start now.

Cub Leaders' Course

At the request of some of our leaders, a Cub leaders' course has been suggested for the coming fall. This matter will be taken up with the commissioner some time this week. We would, however, like to know how many leaders are prepared to attend such a course of lectures. Information regarding the course has been sent for.

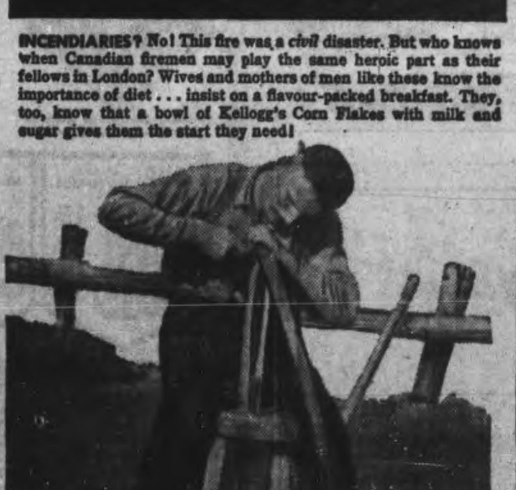
A THOUSANDTH OF AN INCH out and the part's no good! Munitions workers must be fit, stay fit for steady hand and eye. George F. Marchant, Toronto, Leading Hand says: "I need lots of energy on the job and off . . . must have proper meals . . . Kellogg's at breakfast, for instance, gives me lots of zip . . . I vote for the 'Self-Starter' Breakfast!" And, independent research proves, Kellogg's Corn Flakes is Canada's favourite ready-to-eat cereal.

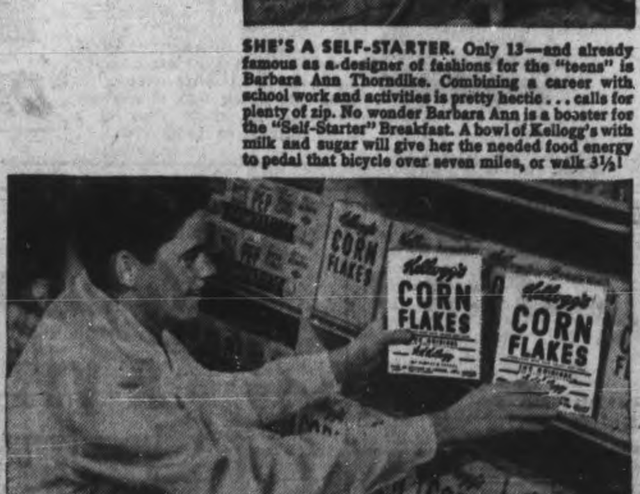
IF YOU THINK IT'S EASY, try it yourself! Like all dancers, Iva Kitchell's grace and ease comes after years of training, hours of practice and strict attention to diet. From Vancouver Island to the Maritimes, active people start the day with a bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes, milk and sugar. Year after year, independent investigators report a great majority of Canadians vote Kellogg's first for flavour.

INCENDIARIES? No! This fire was a civil disaster. But who knows when Canadian firemen may play the same heroic part as their fellows in London? Wives and mothers of men like these know the importance of diet . . . insist on a flavour-packed breakfast. They, too, know that a bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with milk and sugar gives them the start they need!

SHE'S A SELF-STARTER. Only 13—and already famous as a designer of fashions for the "teens" is Barbara Ann Thorndike. Combining a career with school work and activities is pretty hectic . . . calls for plenty of zip. No wonder Barbara Ann is a booster for the "Self-Starter" Breakfast. A bowl of Kellogg's with milk and sugar will give her the needed food energy to pedal that bicycle over seven miles, or walk 3½!



FIXIN' TRACES. Even with no shortage of gasoline or rubber, there'd still be a place for Dobbin on Ervin Keller's Alberta farm. "With a war on," Mr. Keller told us, "we all work doubly hard. I find a big bowlful of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with milk and sugar gives me the start I need." Farmers' wives, too, appreciate the time-saving 30-second breakfast . . . no pots or pans to wash up after. Kellogg's is economical to serve, too.



"FOUR OUT OF FIVE housewives, they tell me," says Jimmy with a smile, "vote Kellogg's Corn Flakes first for flavour. Leafs Go Eleven To Trounce Wings By 3-2

By The Associated Press

Johnny Babich, ailing right hander, has returned to his early-season form and Newark Bears, already favorites to win the International League playoffs, added to their chances of participating in the little world series.

Babich, who hadn't tossed a league game since he had an arm operation early this year, allowed only six hits as the Bruins pounded Syracuse Chiefs, 10-1, in the opening game of a double header. It was Babich's seventh triumph as against no defeats.

Behind the brilliant two-hit pitching of Clayton Lambert the Chiefs came back to take the nightcap, 2-0. Lambert struck out six and walked three.

Montreal Royals dropped four percentage points behind the second-place Jersey Giants as they lost to Buffalo Bisons, 5-3 while the Giants split a twin-bill with Baltimore Orioles.

The Royals trailed 2-1 until the eighth when Pinch-hitter Ed Kobesky smashed his 19th home run of the season with one on. Montreal scored two runs in the ninth but Relief Pitcher Andy Sierra struck out Gene Moore to end the uprising.

A seventh-inning circuit smash by Bob Lemon gave Baltimore a 4-3 victory in the first game of a bargain bill over Jersey City. The Giants came back to win the second game, 6-3.

It took Toronto Maple Leafs 11 innings to defeat the last-place Rochester Red Wings, 4-3. The Wings were behind, 2-1, with one out in the last of the ninth when Chuck Aleno doubled and Roy Pfleger singled to tie it up. Toronto won in the 11th as Lee Handley walked and scored on Stu Hoffer's two-bagger.

Ropes Save East-Sider In Hectic New York Bout

Reiser Holds Rivals Slip Too Batting Laurels

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP). — The only thing that kept Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers from losing the National League batting lead last week was that his rivals weren't hitting either.

In action for only three games before he was shipped to Baltimore for examination of his injured side, Pete failed to get a hit in nine times at bat. As a result his batting average fell off seven points to .328 —just the mark Enos (Country) Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals held for second place a week ago.

Slaughter, however, ended his climb toward the top and finished up with a .325 mark. He connected only eight times in twenty-nine attempts. Other leading "regulars" after Monday's games were Stan Musial, Cardinals, .316; Joe Medwick, Brooklyn, .311; Lou Novikoff, Chicago, .309; Stan Hack, Chicago, .303; Johnny Mize, New York, .299; Bill Nicholson, Chicago, .293; Bob Elliott, Pittsburgh, .293; and Walker Cooper, St. Louis, .292.

Musial, Medwick and Novikoff lost ground, but each advanced a notch when the statisticians ruled out Boston's Ernie Lombardi, who had been running third. Lombardi, with fewer than 250 times at bat, wasn't competing quite on even terms with "regulars," who were charged with anywhere from 377 to 512 at bats.

The only first ten men to improve his average was Hack, who had a .500 average for the week with 11 hits in 22 at bats and climbed three points to .303.

Slaughter and Medwick tied for the runs-batted-in lead with ninety each, two more than Dolph Camilli of Brooklyn, who was tied with Slaughter a week ago. Slaughter also led in total hits with 162, as compared with 151 for Hack, and in triple with 17, and was second in scoring with 85 runs.

Medwick belted a couple of doubles to maintain his second-place tie with Marty Marion of the Cards with thirty-two each. Hack, the leader, hit three for a total of thirty-four.

Mel Ott of New York continued to lead two lists with 98 runs and 25 homers, while Reiser's thirteen stolen bases still were good for first place.

After leading the pitchers for several weeks, Brooklyn's Larry French was charged with three defeats in seven days, and as a result his teammate, Whit Wyatt, took over first place with 16 victories and 4 losses. Second place went to Howard Krist of St. Louis with 11 victories and 3 defeats.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Know the shortest fight on record? ...Don't grab for the record books, we'll tell you...It was the Fritzie Zivic-Jackie Wilson fuss slated for the Garden next week...Well, it was "on" for just five minutes and then permission came through for Red Cochrane to fight on the USO card Sept. 10 so it was called off and Zivic-Cochrane substituted...Marjorie Row, Michigan's No. 1 gal golfer, may switch from Michigan State College to Rollins this year so she can get the benefit of winter play in Florida.

Confusion Corner

When this ad: "Wanted—Golf Club, No. 4 Wood," appeared in the Newport (Vt.) Express, it got results but not the kind that were expected. ...Two days late a farmer phoned that he had four-foot fire wood to sell and should he take it to the Newport Country Club?

Lou Little, Columbia's coach, figures a fairer College vs. Pro Football test than the all-star games would be to wait until November and then send a top college team against the pros...And if the situation were reversed so an all-star cash-and-carry outfit met and organized team he figures the Collegians would win.

Big League Stuff

The Tuscon, Ariz., semi-pro league is willing to back its contribution to the war effort against anything the big league can offer—size considered...The other night the league staged a "Victory Bond Barbecue" combining a big feed with a ball game between starts of the service and civilian teams in the circuit... The admission price was the purchase of one $25 war bond and the affair drew 1,600 people and raised over $110,000 in bond sales..."It's a cinch to put over," writes League-President Roy P. Cardinals Edge Braves 4-3, Brooks Add One

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

There has been no Bobby Feller around this season, threatening the sacrosanct ranks of baseball's 30-game winners, but apparently the major leagues will have their full quota of 20-game pitchers.

Right now Mort Cooper and Rookie Johnny Beazley of St. Louis Cardinals, Claude Passeau of Chicago Cubs, Ted Hughson of Boston Red Sox and Ernie Bonham of New York Yankees seem almost certain to cross the line that is considered the hall mark of a successful pitcher.

Cooper and Passeau accomplished their 18th victories yesterday, Hughson nailed his the day before, and Beazley and Bonham have 17.

Cooper came through last night against Boston Braves with a 4 to 3 triumph that kept the Cardinals within the 3½ game margin established by the Dodgers the day before.

He herded a little lift to beat the Braves and this may have inspired him to crack out a pair of singles, one Oylbtich drove in two of the St. Louis runs. In addition he spaced nine hits, fanned seven and walked none.

Higbe Wins 14th

Brooklyn had placed the issue squarely up to the Redbirds by winning an afternoon tussle from Pittsburg Pirates 4-2 on the five-hit hurling of Kirby Higbe. It was the 14th triumph for the Dodger righthander, who never before had beaten the Pirates as a starting pitcher. In six seasons in the National League he had lost to Pittsburg nine times and won just once in a relief assignment.

The Dodgers made 10 hits off two Pittsburgh hurlers, but had to score their runs one to an inning and three of them involved plays at the plate. The defeat mathematically eliminated the Pirates from the pennant race.

Passeau's 18th victory was by a 10-5 score that snapped a six-game winning streak of the New York Giants. The veteran Chicago pitcher was rapped for 13 hits and his teammates contributed to the confusion with five errors, but Passeau never let the Giants gets out of control.

Cincinnati completed a sweep of its four-game series with the tail-end Phils with a 4-3 verdict achieved in the 11th inning when Frank McCormick singled with the bases loaded. McCormick also had two other hits and drove across the tying run in the ninth.

Washington Senators won the day's only game in the American League in the same fashion as James (Mickey) Vernon singled with the sacks filled in the 10th to nose out Cleveland Indians 4-3. Alex Carrasquel scattered nine hits, but was harassed by three errors and trailed till the seventh when Catcher Jake Early homered with one aboard.

Kirby Higbe, Dodgers—Pitched five-hit ball to beat Pirates.

Frank McCormick, Reds—Singled with bases loaded in 11th for winning run against Phils after knocking home tying run in ninth.

Mort Cooper, Cardinals — Kept nine hits spaced and made two singles himself, one of them driving in two runs, to beat Braves for his 18th triumph.

Bill Nicholson, Cubs—Hit his 19th homer with one on to spark six-run rally that whipped Giants.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(CP).—One of the more notable effects of the Eastern Rugby Football Union's decision to fold may be a boom in university football...University of Manitoba is entered in the Winnipeg City League and Ottawa University is a prospect for an Ottawa City League, if formed...McGill may come back in another way...Since there has been no word of a Montreal District Football League, McGill sportsmen are considering an extended inter-faculty competition with Saturday afternoon games a possibility.

Universities put the clamps on sport early in the war because it was considered undue emphasis on athletics would hamper progress in training important to wartime... The anti-sport factions maintained travelling necessary in intercollegiate sport took the athletes away from classes too often...City leagues defeat that argument, with no travelling necessary and probably less training emphasis than if the university were in competition with outside institutions...Most universities have trained wartime football teams during the last two years despite the shortage of intercollegiate competition, so they won't have any trouble getting back to active duty again.

Incidentally:

Pte. Katsumi Inamato is one of the few Japanese in the Canadian army...He's stationed at Toronto and fights on occasional boxing cards at nearby Ontario centres... Tommy (Hamilton Spectator) Moore says he couldn't break a bubble with his punching, but is a fast, clever infighter.

Oddity:

Leo (Vancouver News-Herald) Nicholson tells this one about a Western International League game between Salem and Spokane: With the score 3-3, Ray Elliott, Salem catcher, tried to score from second on a short single. The throw-in hit him a terrific blow on the head while he was still about 15 feet from home. He took three more steps, collapsed on the plate unconscious with the winning run!

Youngster Of 15 Hailed In Tennis Round

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—There always is something immensely appealing about a youngster competing against grownups, and little Shirley Fry, 15, of Akron, Ohio, already is the sentimental choice to win the women's national tennis championship at Forest Hills. She already has won her way to the quarter-finals.

It is doubtful Shirley will get any further, because her next opponent will be Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, the tournaments's second seeded woman player. Yesterday Shirley defeated Mrs. Madge Vosters of Lansdowne, Pa., 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

It required Shirley to inject some steam into the women's play. Otherwise, the girls continued to win as scheduled into the quarter-finals.

Only two men's singles matches were scheduled today, Frankie Parker meeting William Vogt of Drexel Hill, Pa., in one, and George Richards of Montebelloe, Calif., tackling Ladislav Hecht, the former Czech, in the other.

American Beef Steaks Drop In Quality

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—Juicy beefsteaks grow scarcer. Meat quality has dropped more than quantity.

Steady buying pressure from the army and lease-lend encourages farmers to sell steers quickly. It's no longer profitable to feed cattle well enough and long enough to produce those toothsome roasts and steaks.

Live steers on the Chicago market weigh 25 to 50 pounds less than last year. In July, only 12 per cent. of Chicago's beef made the grade as "choice" of "price." A year ago 35 per cent. of the steers qualified for the top grades; four years ago it was 60 per cent.

Threat of a price ceiling on live hogs may send thousands of lightweight porkers to market as farmers rush to beat the deadline. The "Food Will Win the War" officials in Washington gloom over the possible loss of millions of pounds of potential pork chops.

Big price squeeze now is in milk. Marketing grours complain that the Agriculture Department's floor for milk (legal minimum that can be paid farmers) is so close to the O.P.A.'s ceilings that there's no space left to do business.

The courts will decide. One marketing group brings suit to puncture the ceiling; another will try to enjoin the minimum price order.

Dry Eggs Get Scrambled.

Scrambled eggs from tins is the dehyrators' contribution to feeding United States armies on the march. Field kitchens carry three-pound containers of dried whole eggs, used mostly for scrambling purposes when fresh ones can't be had. A minor portion goes for field baking.

Refrigerator car shortage may be the next big railroad headache, rivalling oil tank car difficulties. Peak movement of perishables, expected this fall, will tax insulated car capacity.

A new O.D.T. order requires maximum loading of refrigerator cars. But because of their specialized use, shippers find it hard to get freight to haul on the trip back.

Chicago imports grain from Buffalo. It seems Buffalo grain elevators are filled with soft red winter wheat, wanted by western millers because of the short crop in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. So they trade soft for hard wheat, now flooding the market.

Norwood Flier

Sgt. Fred Bitten, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bitten, of Norwood, has arrived safely overseas. He attended the Norwood High School, took his initial air training at Camp Borden, studied wireless at Montreal and graduated in gunnery at Mountain View, a few months ago.

Togo's Ousting May Be Sign Of Russian Break

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

NEW YORK, Sept 2.—(AP)—Sigenori Togo, who has resigned as foreign minister of Japan, was known to diplomatic colleagues as the man who managed to avoid a break with Russia in the diplomatic tensions of 1938 and 1939.

That reputation now highlights his unexplained withdrawal from high Japanese diplomacy.

Speculation as to the reason for his leaving the cabinet at a moment when important diplomatic and military decisions seemed to be pending in Tokyo naturally centres on his policies respecting Russia, and his relation to the European Axis.

There may be a significant relationship in the fact that Togo stepped out at a time when Japanese armies in China are making large-scale withdrawals if not outright retreats. The repeated comment of Chungking officials that Japan is preparing for military operations in another quarter might well be recalled.

However, it might be over-simplification to presume that Togo, confronted by a decision of the military to resort to arms against Russia, has resigned in protest against this alternative to his program of diplomatic neutralization of Russia.

Togo, it must be remembered, has been under strong German influence for years. His wife is a German. For a long period, even before Japan's participation in Axis plans, Togo was regarded as Japan's outstanding exponent of Japanese-German collaboration.

He might, however, have objected to some new shift of policy toward Russia purely practical grounds. It is quite possible, therefore, that the change has no direct military connotation; that his resignation represents only a further consolidation of power in the hands of Premier Tojo. For Togo merely was regarded as a weakling of the cabinet rather than a bold exponent of policies disapproved by the military clique.

Keene Girl Takes Top Honors

A.W.-2 Jean Cameron, of Keene, training at No. 6 Manning Depot of the R.C.A.F., received a scroll of honor for the highest standing in the motor transport division. Air Marshal G. O. Small Package Tea Prices Set

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—(CP)—Thomas K. Wade, tea administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, announced today a schedule of "appropriate" prices for small packages of tea—now in demand under coupon rationing—based upon maximum retail prices established by the board last January.

Noting that the January schedule did not "anticipate" the small packages now brought into general use, the announcement set forth the following schedule:

For team with a maximum retail price of 85 cents a pound, the retail price will be 23 cents for a four-ounce package and 12 cents for a two-ounce package.

For tea with a maximum of 90 cents a pound the four-ounce package will be 24 cents; the two-ounce 13 cents.

The announcement said maximum prices for four- and two-ounce packages of qualities not specified in the January schedule will be determined upon application to the administrator, who will also determine prices on tea bags for ultimate sale to consumers.

Blame Engine For Eleven Fires In North

TWEED, Sept. 2 —(ENS) —During the past week of dry weather, railway engines in the Tweed forest districe on the Lindsa yto Haliburton and Howland to Bancroft lines are believed to have been responsible for eleven fires, ranging in size from a few acres to one which reached approximately one hundred and fifty acres.

Hazard conditions in the western half of the district are very high, and caution is being exercised to prevent serious outbreaks at the present time.

Faulty screening on the smokestack is believed to have been responsible for the above fires and passenger train No. 36 from Toronto to Tweed is said to have been the cause of a fire jut outside of the village of Kaladar, which was promptly rounded up before it caused any serious damage.

Bob Wheeler, aged 45, Tweed, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the leg. Mr. Wheeler was at work at the time of the accident, when a heavy log fell on his leg.

A black bear and two cubs were seen in front of the Woollen Mills, Madoc township. The animals are still in Sam Danford's woods and fields and twice have ventured to within the neighborhood of the buildings to drink out of a whey can. A doe and fawn have also been seen pasturing in the Danford fields.

Lowly Apple Pie Gets Nod Of Approval Ration Board Loosens Up With The Sugar

Then there's apple sauce of which nothing has been said lately, probably anticipating a smile or jest. Besides it seems to rate nothing higher but a place in so-called plebian fare.

And some folks frankly prefer apple sauce to anything else in the line of preserves. That is not suggesting apple sauce as a preserve. Even the men around the house know that much about domestic affairs. A lo, could be said about such a combination as apple sauce and hot biscuits or layer cake, or some such association.

Well, all that is just by way of preamble to a report today that the rationing authorities are permitting the issue of one pound of sugar to the six quart basket of apples. They find that the early apple crop is fairly heavy and it lacks export outlet. Besides, apples are excellent food and the orchard men probably need a little help from any quarter.

You can even get extra sugar for apple pies, which need no recommendation. For men folks the apple pie is in a class by itself, that is the A-1 apple pie. And then there is Dutch apple pie, and deep apple pie. In fact any apple pie should be deep. It all sounds like temporary compensation for the prospect these weeks of fewer steaks and roasts than the people of this la[illegible] of plenty usually look in the eye after the dinner gong rings.

Worth The $1

GENEVA Ill., Sept. 2—(AP). — Harry (Slim) Holze, charged with operating a gambling device, testified that Fritz Burkwist, a Kane County supervisor, visited his tavern played a slot machine and lost, then got out a warrant. Holze paid a $100 fine and costs, and then socked Burkwist on the chin. Burkwist got another warrant, charging Holze with disorderly conduct. Holze grinned as he paid that fine—$1.00.

to Britain.

In a brief, personal message of welcome, Gen. Worthington said: "Fellow soldiers, here we are. I told you we would be here when I first joined you six months ago and here we are."

The "here" was represented today by a huge camp where training will continue and where, two weeks ago, support formations of artillery, Army Service Corps and ordnance units for the division arrived.

No Idle Moments

The men had the promise of hard work. Gen. Worthington told them he had passed them on the way "so you wouldn't remain idle long after you arrived."

Dieppe was a live topic around the barracks for, although none of this division's forces took part in that action, all its members were anxious for news of the Canadians' gallant stand there.

Mr. Massey had spoken to the troops about Dieppe on their arrival. "Our pride in your service is greater than it has ever been before," he said. "Dieppe shed a new lustre on the army by the gallantry and skill with which that action was carried out."

Nor did he forget the airmen in the convoy. "Our pride in the R.C.A.F. cannot be measured in words," he told them.

The convoy also carried the Montreal French-Canadian general hospital, the first such French-Canadian unit to come overseas. Two-score nursing sisters in charge of Matron Suzanne Giroux of Montreal were in the unit.

Col. C. P. Gaboury of Montreal was the officer commanding the hospital.

The British Columbia, the South Alberta, the Lake Superior and the Manitoba Armored Car regiments were among the arrivals. Maj. G. L. Letson of Victoria was acting officer commanding the British Columbia regiment with Maj. D. Verchere of Vancouver second in command. Maj. M. H. Wright of Edmonton and Maj. J. E. V. Murrell of Port Arthur, Ont., were second-in-command of the South Alberta and the Lake Superior regiments, respectively.

The convoy also included officers and men from division headquarters, among them Maj. A. M. Dougle of Kingston, Ont., and Capt. Archie Campbell, Divisional Advocate and Maj. Carl Wintermute, field cashier, both of Winnipeg.

There were also a number of headquarters officers aboard, including Maj. R. G. Rudolf of York Mills, Ont., Deputy Acting Adjutant General, and Maj. Ken Tremaine, of Montreal, General Staff Officer 2. Both oficers had served on Corps Headquarters Staff in Britain before in this war.

Heavily Guarded.

The convoy, protected by Allied warships, had such a smooth crossing in weather so warm many of the troops thought they were headed for the Middle East. None of the ships was bothered by submarines.

For some of the new arrivals, reaching camp here to-day was the culmination of many months' hard training. Cpl. M. Hellsten of Vermillon Bay, Ont., member of the Lake Superior Regiment, had been in the army 26 months. But for others it was speedy realization of their ambition to get to battle stations, especially such men as Tpr. A. R. Downey and Tpr. P. Henke of Gull Lake, Sask., who joined the South Alberta Regiment only air months ago.

In other parts of England the R.C.A.F. men and women were getting their bearings in new quarters.

The men were at a reception station where most graduates of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan go to await posting. They were just as anxious for action as the armored-division troops, and most of them expressed a preference for posting with the big bombers.

The women, some of whom were excited they didn't bother going to meals as their ship neared a berth, took in the sights of London today.

"this illegal organization has been preparing for attacks on the armed forces of the Crown and the United States forces stationed in Northern Ireland."

The munitions dump found Sunday was said to contain enough explosives to blow up half of Belfast. A young man, reported to be a prominent member of the I.R.A., was killed in defending the dump. He was identified today as Gerald O'Callaghan, 19, of Belfast. A second cache was found at a neighboring farm.

Some quarters suggested that Germans who have freedom of movement across the border in neutral Eire had helped accumulate the explosives and weapons. Officials said, however, none of the arms was of German origin.

The order to United States soldiers to stay out of Belfast was limited to 48 hours starting last midnight. Guards at army headquarters and at arms and munitions depots were doubled.

Belfast police were kept on almost continous duty. Extra guards were mounted about public buildings.

In front of St. Patrick's Procathedral, hundreds of persons coming from mass attached themselves to the singing and shouting paraders.

Hanging of Williams, a laborer, was the first execution here of an I. R. A. man since the Ulster Government was formed 21 years ago.

His death sentence led to protest meetings in many parts of Northern Ireland and Eire and in England itself. More than 200,000 persons signed a petition asking leniency for Williams and the five others sentenced to death for the slaying of policeman Patrick Muerphy. The sentences of four men were commuted to life terms and that of one to 15 years in prison.

The Government of Eire proclaimed today a day of mourning.

Despite the close police watch over I. R. A. activities, a publication entitled "Republican News" was circulated in Belfast.

It congratulated "soldiers and citizens of the republic for restraint and discipine in the face of unprecedented rovocation."

It declared "the need for passive endurance will soon be past and the future of the nation once again will be placed in the hands of her steadfast sons." There was no elaboration.

reports from the front said.

Lt.-Gen. B. L. Montgomery, new commander of the 8th Army, apparently was holding back his main tank force, which some observers said probably outnumbered that of Rommel. But Allied guns blasted away at the Axis tanks and from the air, British, South African and American fliers hounded them despite the dust and bad weather.

Bombers attacked the Axis airfields and communications in the rear and one bomber force on Monday struck at a concentration of 2,000 motor vehicles and tank carriers.

Some military observers said Rommel was forced to strike now because Allied reinforcements were piling up faster than his own, which were cut down by ceaseless aerial and naval attacks.

But there was little official information on the course of the struggle, notable because it marked the first appearance of United States land forces beside their Allies in Egypt.

Medium bombers of the United States 12th bombardment group and heavy bombers of the 98th bomber group participated in the attacks on the Axis rear positions and supply depots and fighter planes of the 57th fight group were in the thick of the fight over the battlefield, breaking up German dive-bomber formations.

It was announced here that in spite of the scope of air operations Monday not one Allied pilot was lost.

Northern Line Hold Own.

Red Army men, marines and factory hands posted on the steppes northwest of Stalingrad and Soviet task forces harrying the Axis flank within the Don bend were reported to have slain 600 Germans and knocked 15 tanks out of action in defensive engagements.

The Moscow radio said the Russians had regained a Cossack village on the right bank of the Don and were "grinding down" the foe.

The Soviet Information Bureau said no material changes took place on other fronts yesterday, but disclosed a further Russian withdrawal in the western Caucasus south of Krasnodar under the pressure of numerically-superior German detachments.

Perhaps referring to Black Sea fighting correlated with this action, the Information Bureau said Soviet airmen had sunk three Axis patrol launches Monday.

Wipe Out 12 Bridges

"In the Mozdok area our units fighting for a river crossing destroyed 12 pontoon bridges and annihilated more than 200 German officers and men," it was announced.

The river—not official identified—apparently was the Terek, which flows eastward from the Central Caucasus past the rich Grozny oil fields to the Caspian Sea.

A German infantry regiment which counter attacked behind a screen of 40 tanks was reported repulsed on the central front, where Russian shock troops of Gen. Gregory Zhukov have rooted out many invasion fortifications in the Rzhev-Vyazma salient.

"Four hundred dead remained on the field," the communique said. "Five German tanks were destroyed and six damaged."

A Leningrad front guerilla detachment was declared to have raided Finnish communications and slain about 750 soldiers of frontier guard units and punitive expeditions on a march of nearly 450 miles through marshes and forests.

First Of The "Waves" Are Nurses

First arrivals at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., where the "waves"—women's reserve of the United States naval reserve—officers will be trained, were the Scheips sisters, who are pictured here, and very smart too in their uniforms as ensigns in the "waves." At the LEFT is Ensign Edna Marie Scheips, U.S.N.R., who trained at the University of Nebraska, RIGHT, is Ensign Leola Ruth Scheips, who trained at the Henry Ford hospital, Detroit, Michigan. They are trained nurses, and will serve as nurses to the "waves" at the training school.

FINE FOR DRUNKENNESS

Police court proceedings were brief this morning. One man who appeared in court to face a charge of having been drunk on Lansdowne street yesterday and pleaded guilty, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs while a Havelock man who entered a written plea of guilty to a similar charge was fined $15 and $2.50. The difference in his case was that there was a car mixed up in his intoxication. He was a passenger in an automobile that was involved in an accident on Highway 45.

Dance Being Planned To Aid Spitfire Fund

The Labor Day night dance in Brock Street Rink under the auspices of the Peterborough Police Department is the means adopted by Peterborough police to raise a substantial amount for the Dominion Police second Spitfire fund and it promises to achieve the desired objective. Tickets for the event on the holiday night are in demand, members of the department report and it is hoped that Peterborough's contribution to the Spitfire fund will be in line with the local quota for the first police Spitfire.

Now that the original police fighter plane has been lost in enemy action, it is a point of honor as well as a patriotic duty to replace the machine with another Spitfire and a hearty response to the local appeal will go a long way toward completing the required amount as the Dominion fund now stands at over $20,000.

Speeders Caught Chemong Road

Speeding on the Chemong Road is going to be placed in the luxury class from now on, judging from the announcement that Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure has declared war on the drivers who like to step on the gas.

That the warning is not a hollow one was demonstrated in police court this morning when two motorists who entered written pleas of guilty to having driven more than 40 miles an hour contrary to the war-time regulations were each fined the minimum under the section $15 and $2.50 costs. The two unlucky drivers were Earl D. Kidd and J. S. Cummings.

They are only a fore-runner of a crop of drivers who will find themselves victims of a similar levy if fast driving on the highways of the district is not curtailed immediately. The Attorney-General has issued instructions that the regulations must be carried out.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 3

SOME BRILLIANT stroke, attended by excitement or peculiar adventure, may be the astral means of circumventing strange or adverse powers threatening the day with difficulty and danger. Impetuous as well as tempestuous acts may precipitate not only disagreeable situations but lead to personal or violent experiences as well. With the higher forces at the helm, and diversion of turbulent impulses and emotions toward the creative, romantic or social side of the affairs, there might be excellent accomplishment and real joy.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which their individual ingenuity, creative abilities and brilliant intellect may serve to swerve difficult, obnoxious and dangerous situations from doing much lasting harm. Against the fine mental resources there is a tendency to tempestuous, rash, malicious and impetuous words and deeds which might precipitate real trouble and regret.

A child born on this day, while forceful and energetic, with excellent mentality and worthy ambitions, yet may be swept away by tempestuous impulses. It may have social and romantic leanings and could find much joy in life through self-restraints.

Brothers From West Meet In London

Some one once said that if you stand in London's Trafalgar Square long enough you are bound to meet someone you know. Well, the Myers brothers from Saskatchewan, Canada, believe that. It was in Trafalgar Square that Harold encountered brother Alfred by the merest chance. While they were talking they saw another Canadian soldier go by on a bus. They hailed him. It was brother Phil. Arm-in-arm, the three brothers went into a bar to celebrate the reunion. Who do you think joined them at the bar? Yes, the fourth brother, Ed. ABOVE are the brothers after the unusual reunion, LEFT to RIGHT, Harold, Phil, Alf and Ed.

Travel Problem Irks Campbellford Bd. Of Education

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2 — (ENS). — Fearing that their High School teaching staff might be still further depleted as a result of the war members of the Board of Education took steps to forestall the calling up of Ellis Darling when they met in special session in August. This was revealed at the regular meeting last night when it was reported the Board had met and authorized the secretary to request an exemption for Mr. Darling realizing it would be next to impossible to get another qualified teacher for general shop work at this time. In connection with the matter of providing home instruction for an invalided student Chairman F. C. Bonnycastle declared he had taken the matter up with the Rotary Club, but as yet had received no assurance that they planned to take any action in the way of defraying part of the cost. He again outlined the proposal which was to provide a teacher for the pupil at his own home two hours a week. The chairman recalled that the Government would not pay its share of the cost until the training had been completed.

W. Roy Loucks was of the opinion that the matter was one which the Board should not try to turn over to some other organization. "I think it is our duty to look after this pupil without passing the buck," said he. Mr. Loucks felt the Board would have a better return on its investment in this case than in many other types of spending. He suggested the matter be left with the Internal Committee which would endeavor to find out if some member of the Public School staff would not take over the task of providing the necessary teaching. He made a motion to this effect and R. J. Locke was the seconder.

The motion carried, and if the committee can find a teacher willing to do the work the pupil will receive the necessary home teaching.

No member of the Board was prepared to say just what should be done on the question of providing transportation for pupils from the neighboring municipalities who desire to attend the local High School. This question was raised by Principal E. H. Greig who recalled that A. J. Meyers, who in former years operated a bus service between Campbellford and Hastings has sold the bus and was not planning to provide any transportation during the coming term. Mr. Greig told the Board that inquiries made by himself led him to believe there were more pupils than ever planning to attend the local High School if transportation could be arranged.

Members discussed this knotty problem at length, finally turning it over to Chairman of the Bus Committee R. J. Locke, who will in turn take it up with a bus company which is already operating over this route.

Public School Principal C. S. Haig told the Board that about $60 worth of supplies were required for Primary rooms in the Public School and he asked for permission to order them. On motion the purchase was authorized. Members decided to leave several communications regarding income tax deductions, etc., in the hands of the secretary. But a letter from the Public School caretaker asking that his salary be increased was discussed by the entire Board. All agreed that the work was being done very efficiently and felt he was entitled to more than $1200 a year. On motion they authorized an increase of $150, out of which the caretaker would pay for any additional help he required.

Property Chairman Henson said that work on the new teachers' room in the Public School was nearly completed. All that remained was the interior decoration. At the suggestion of the chairman it was decided to paint rather than paper the walls as had been originally proposed, thus making a more permanent job. The Manual Training Room in the Public School is also completed and is now merely awaiting the arrival of the necessary tools. To get these a priorities permit will be required and the secretary was authorized to write requesting this.

Former Deputy Reeve Of Manvers Visits Welsh Town Of Pontypool

Canadian hospitality to a member of the Royal Air Force somewhere in Canada proved a pleasant boon to L.-Bdr. R. J. Payne, one time member of Manvers Township Council, now serving with an anti-aircraft battery overseas.

It seems that Mr. Payne, whose home is at Pontypool, was anxious to see the town of the same name in Wales. While there he was given lodging by a family whose son was training with the R.A.F. in Canada, and the letters the boy had written home telling of the grand treatment he was receiving in Canada, prompted the Welsh family to reciprocate to this Canadian the only one they had ever met.

In a letter to his friend, Karl Monk, a former resident of Bethany and now on the staff at CHEX the soldier says in part:

"I have just returned from a wonderful leave in Pontypool, Wales. I had written to the head of the Council there and he made arrangements for my stay in a fine home. Very few of their citizens ever saw a Canadian, alone one from the town named after theirs. Some of them were not even aware of its existence, but before I left a lot of them knew all the good things I could say about it.

"I met all the nobility and was wined and dined like the Prince of Wales. I met the local M.P., was entertained, and had tea with the Lt.-Colonel of the Home Guard. I was made an honorary member of the Conservative Club, guest at the Rotary dinner, went to a pink tea and whist drive by the lady Rotarians. I also had a half-hour interview with three reporters from Pontypool and also two from neighboring city papers.

"I had to attend their Council meeting and spoke to their 24 members. I attended several dances, too.

"On Sunday I accompanied my hostess down to the river where they had a caravan. We had supper there and I helped a Land Army girl to milk a cow. I was taken up the valleys and over the mountains to see the mines and mining towns.

"Pontypool is several hundred years old, but it has lovely parks, residential and business sections."

Hamilton Store Gives $25 To War Victims

Time marches on, and with it brings many changes in most communities, for even in the space of only a few years, former residents returning for a visit can testify very much to that.

Few people in this thriving industrial city will realize that here in our midst there is one business concern which has been continuously operating for the past one hundred and ten years, going back to its very earliest days, when pioneers from the old world first began to shape what has now become a thriving city of some 30,000 population.

In 1832, Messrs. Nicholls and Hall laid the foundation for one of the largest grocery stores in the city, and successfully conducted it for fifty years, after which T. W. Robinson became the proprietor to be followed by W. H. Hamilton nearly fifty years ago, and it has ever since then been operated under the name of W. H. Hamilton, and the fact that it still stands and is rated not only the oldest business of its kind in the city, but also the oldest of its kind in the Province of Ontario, is a wonderful testimony to the integrity of those who conducted its affairs during the past century and a decade.

Two of those who have been serving in recent times in this store have long since answered the call to arms when this country made the appeal, and one of these has unfortunately paid the supreme sacrifice when Pilot Observer J. D. White was killed on active service in England, while Lieut. Drummond White is serving at a training camp in the Province in charge of a tank unit.

This is the background behind those who have today contributed $25 to help the victims of air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, for the donation was expressly given in the name of the W. H. Hamilton Store, from which, with the foregoing details one can sense a goodly feeling of patriotism.

This is the last week before school re-opens, and following Monday's report with the efforts of three groups of children, today there is concrete evidence that the children are making a strong finish in their work for the fund before they resume their scholastic duties with $1.75 reported from the efforts of Shirley Ainslie, Joan Green, Jean Gordon and Betty McIlwaine, with every reason to believe that others will similarly be heard from in the next few days.

6 Months' Deferment

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 2—(AP). — State Selective Service Headquarters says bashing isn't permissible. Officials said a departing draftee at Great Bend, Kas. reached out the train window and bashed his Draft Board chairman over the head, injuring his hat and his dignity. The youth got his deferment — a six-months jail term.

TILBURY, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP).—Tilbury had a friendly air raid when an estimated 1,000 wild geese flew over the town in V-formation.

Heaviest Crop Of Grain Being Threshed

Older farmers in Renfrew County say that the heaviest crop of grain ever grown on their farms has been threshed this year. Yields of 45 to 50 bushels of barley and 75 to 80 bushels of oats to the acre are quite common. Threshing is about half finished. Frost has damaged potatoes and corn in some localities.

The recurring note in the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is the advancement of harvest work, and the first breath of frost.

Lambton farmers have reaped a big harvest of corn with other grains, and turning their plans to the raising of more hogs. Second-cut alfalfa is yielding 1½ tons to the acre and pastures are knee deep in good grass. Feeder cattle are difficult to procure. A few car-loads of feeder stock were received in the county this week.

Northumberland canneries are working on the tomato pack, and farmers are preparing a considerable acreage for fall wheat. Apples are coloring rapidly in Prince Edward, and picking will be earlier than usual. York potato growers are heeding the warnings of blight and are spraying heavily with Bordeaux.

Frontenac grain returns are indicated by threshing reports at 30 bushels of wheat; oats, 35 to 40 bushels, and barley, 35 bushels to the acre. Dundas farmers are enquiring about the supply of fertilizers. Several fields of Glengarry corn have already been cut and silos filled. Some peas have been threshed and the pulling of flax has begun.

Lanark reports that American buyers are buying all available pure bred cows at "excellent prices." "Many farmers are reporting they have the best crops in years."

"Stock is all in good condition with excellent pasture," says Lennox and Addington. A few little pigs are being offered at $14 to $15 a pair. The ground is very hard for plowing.

Waterloo says there is practically no movement in cattle at present. Irving Eby, of Kitchener, reports that a 13½-acre field yielded 110 bushels of oats to the acre. Yields of 70 to 80 bushels of oats are fairly common.

Big Alberta Crop Late

EDMONTON, Sept. 2 (CP)—Harvesting will not be general in Alberta until later this week, a survey by the provincial department of agriculture indicates. Unsettled weather delayed maturing of crops. Yields high above the average for Alberta were forecast.

15,000 In Windsor Hear Munro Talk Of Essex

WINDSOR, Ont. Sept. 2—(CP)—The story of the gallant part played by Canadians in the Dieppe Commando raid was told here last night by Ross Munro, war correspondent for The Canadian Press, who spoke to 15,000 persons in his first address since arriving in Canada from England Sunday night.

The outdoor meeting in Jackson Park was arranged by the Windsor Daily Star and special guests were relatives of members of the Essex Scottish Regiment, whose officers and men distinguished themselves in the engagement.

Munro devoted most of his speech to members of the regiment. He also paid tribute to other units.

"I want you to remember," he said, "I was behind the boys with the machine guns."

He told of the brave part Windsor men played in the engagement and assured them they could have "nothing but pride for the Essex Scottish." Munro paid special tribute to the gallantry of the officers of the Windsor unit.

In his talk, Mr. Munro paid high tribute to the Allied air umbrella given the fighting forces, with Boston Bombers, Mustangs, Spitfires and Hurricanes helping out in a tough situation during the actual combat and providing a smoke screen for the withdrawal.

During his reference to the attack of the Scottish, Mr. Munro related how the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry was fighting on its right. "These two units merged practically into one battalion and fought like an all-Canadian regiment," he added.

An important outcome of the enforced action of the Luftwaffe. forced action of the Luftwaffe.

"For six months the R.A.F. had gone up and down the Channel trying to bring the German planes out. The Canadian forces were not decoys; they were there for more important reasons, but they did succeed in causing a sad day in Berlin.

"The Germans thought it was the real thing otherwise they would not have brought out their air force like they did and by it certainly got a shellacking," he said.

Thousands Worried

MONTREAL, Sept. 2 (CP)—Officials of the Montreal Unemployment Insurance Commission said today that their offices were "besieged by thousands of workers, some of them absent without leave from their jobs, anxious to find out whether the new labor policy announced yesterday in Ottawa meant 'freezing' them in their present jobs."

Allies Lose 449 Ships, 8 Months

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP).—The Battle of the Atlantic has claimed 449 Allied and neutral merchant ships and the lives of more than 3,000 seamen in eight months, an Associated Press tabulation of announced western Atlantic sinkings disclosed but the number of victims of enemy submarines dropped astonishingly in July and August.

Still missing were at least 1,760 crew members and passengers, most of whom may be considered lost, but 13,810 others were rescued and landed safely at western Atlantic ports and up until to-day only 24 merchantmen had been announced as sunk during August.

Figures showed that June, with 109 announced sinkings, was the most disastrous period in the United Nations' fight against the Axis undersea raiders. Forty-five reported ship losses for July gave the first indication of how the Allies were progressing.

Visiting Editors See Army Life

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 2— (CP Cable —The visiting Canadian editors, studying all phases of the Canadian army's training, watched an artillery reinforcement unit at work Monday.

The group inspected an ordnance workshop and ordnance training and was taken through the unit encampments. The editors dined with Brig. F. R. Phelan of Montreal.

The conducting officers included Brig. J. P. Archambault of Montreal, Col. G. A. Secord of Toronto, Col. A. Hamilton Gault of Montreal, Col. G. H. Basher of Toronto and Col. M. K. Greene of Montreal, and Lt.-Col. H. M. Bailey of Yorkton, Sask., and Lt.-Col. A. B Noble of Toronto.

Early in the day the editors inspected the Canadian army general hospital and were shown over the premises by Col. R. M. Harvey of Midland, Ont.

New Conservative Setup Brewing

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — (CP) — A group of 150 rank and file members of the Conservative Party will seek to bring the party up to date at a meeting on September 5-6 in Port Hope R. K. Finlayson, organizer of the gathering, said here to-day.

Mr. Finlayson, chief secretary to Viscount Bennett when he was the Prime Minister of Canada, said that Lord Bennett, now visiting in the Maritimes, had not been invited to the gathering and added "neither do I think he will attend, not having been invited."

Mr. Finlayson said the restricted attendance figure of 150 had made it impossible to invite Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, National Conservative Leader or other Party chiefs. He said, however, complete harmony exists between the group and Mr. Meighen.

Defining the purpose of the gathering, Mr. Finlayson said: "The crust of old Conservatism has never been broken. New Conservative thought has never been allowed to develop. There is nothing wrong with the Party at all. It was never so vital. But there is too much thinking in terms of 50 and 60 years ago. We want to bring peoples' minds up to date. Has the Conservative Party a pair of eyes to see just what is going on?"

Mr. Finlayson agreed war policy comes first and probably will be paramount in the discusisons but he said "the people want to know what they are fighting for and where they are going to land."

The organizer said no decision had been reached whether the discusions would be open to the public and press.

Ottawa Curbing Army Leave Over Labor Day

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — National Defence Headquarters at Ottawa notified the officers commanding the various military districts throughout Canada that the Labor Day week-end is to be considered the same as any other week-end as far as leaves are concerned for officers and other ranks. As a result no officer or soldier will be given leave extending beyond Sunday night, as is customary unless or extraordinary reasons.

The reason for the action by Ottawa is to lessen the congestion in holiday traffic and on Monday (Labor Day) travel will be confined almost entirely to civilians, although there will be a small number of officers and soldiers returning from furlough.

The instructions that Labor Day week-end would be observed the same as any other week-end superseded instructions sent out earlier that no leaves whatsoever should be granted from Friday to Monday included. This meant that soldiers were "C.B.D." over the final holiday week-end of the summer, but late yesterday orders came through which will enable officers and other ranks to secure their customary week-end leaves, most of them from Saturday noon until Sunday midnight although some will get 48-hour leaves from midnight on Friday.

15 Years Apiece

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 —(AP) — Three men, two of whom were formerly with the German armed forces, were sentenced to 15 years each in prison by Judge Matthew Abruzzo in Brooklyn today for conspiracy to transmit United States defense information to Germany.

They were Richard Ernest Weber, 56, formerly in the German army; Richard Frederick Freundt, 54, formerly in the German navy, and Peter Franz Erich Donay, 33, who once served as a soldier in the United States army.

Plywood Plane In Flight

Made of plastic-bonded plywood, the new Ryan PT-25 military primary trainer is shown in flight. Aluminum alloys and all strategic materials have been eliminated in the plane, with the exception of the engine cowling which represents less than two per cent. of the total weight of the ship. The plane is a full cantilever monoplane with a two-place cockpit. It is believed ideal for the training of aviation cadets.

Steel Shortage Brings New Call

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Munitions Minister Howe to-day urged Canadians to put all possible idle machinery to work to meet a serious shortage of steel and of manpower to process the steel.

In a departmental release, Mr. Howe offered Dominion citizens this notice: "Instead of buying a new machine, a new electric motor or a new farm implement, try to borrow rent or purchase what you need from your neighbor. Instead of letting machinery deteriorate from disuse, dispose of it to someone who can make it serve a useful purpose."

The Munitions Minister said "Canada now is facing so serious a shortage of steel, and of manpower to process the steel, that unless the machinery now idle is put to essential work there may not be enough for essential industries."

Acquit Gunner In Sketch Case

VANCOUVER, Sept. 2 —(CP) — Gunner Ken Davies, Royal Canadian Artillery, was acquitted in police court here yesterday of a charge of having in his possession a sketch of a west coast military area.

Magistrate H. S. Wood reserved for one week his decision in the case of the soldier's wife, Mrs. Kay Davies, who faces the same charge, laid jointly against the couple under the Defence of Canada Regulations.

Mr. Davies said that her brother, also a soldier, had drawn the sketch which a military policeman said he found in a trunk during a search of Mrs. Davies' home.

She said he drew the sketch in order to show her where a certain dance hall was situated.

When told by City Prosecutor Gordon Scott that the dance hall did not appear in the drawing, Mrs. Davies said she knew where it was from other buildings shown in the sketch.

She was then asked to point out the location of the dance hall, but placed two A's at different places on the drawing.

Police said that when firse questioned about possession of the sketch, Mrs. Davies told them she had picked it up.

Civil Aviation Geared To War Purposes

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

EDMONTON Sept. 2 — (CP). — War has taken over the romance of commercial aviation and this husky infant of Canada's industrial life now is being used almost entirely directly or indirectly in the war effort.

Civil aviation probably has converted itself into a military medium more than any other industry operating before hostilities broke out in 1939. Ninety per cent of the industry is devoted to war work and it is difficult to get freight or passenger space without a priority.

Most of the existing commercial services have been merged into one large organization. This has resulted in airlines being able to do more than twice the work they did in 1939 with slightly less personnel and approximately the same amount of equipment.

Search for new mining fields and the development of discovery areas expanded the industry in Canada until this country led the world in air freight — 20,000,000 pounds in 1939. Mining traffic has declined somewhat since 1939, but this has been more than offset by the increase in military freight traffic.

Planes for War.

The chief obstacles to expansion now are the difficulty of procuring suitable commercial aircraft especially freighter, that can carry big loads, together with scarcity of experienced personnel. The industry would like to buy bigger and better planes, but none are available. Every plane that could be put into service has been reconditioned. A new plane is allotted to civil aviation only on rare occasions when the priority board decides the move is vital to the war effort.

In conversion to a wartime basis, the commercial aviation industry provided the framework without which the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan might not have risen to the success anticipated for it. The industry's fields, its personnel, and the flying clubs were merged into the training scheme.

Twenty elementary flying training schools and nine air observer schools are being operated by civilians. A large part of the aircraft and engine overhaul work required by the Royal Canadian Air Force is done in Government plants managed by private industry and the Trans-Canada Airlines instrument repair and testing bureau at Winnipeg is doing a large amount of work for the R.C.A.F.

Pilots for War.

In addition commercial aviation has sent hundreds of pilots, aeronautical engineers and mechanics into the R.C.A.F., the Royal Air Force, and the Ferry Command, where their resourcefulness and experience under extreme weather conditions prove invaluable.

The commercial aviation industry made rapid progress between the inauguration of the first regular airmail, passenger and freight service in the Dominion June 1, 1924, between Haileybury, Ont. and Rouyn, Que. Now it has taken the war in its stride, having developed from a scattering of independent lines into a "big business," going "all out" for the war effort.

Bread Too Heavy

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 2—(AP)—Sam Weinstein, baker, blames the war for his $25 fine for selling loaves of bread that were too large. State law prescribes 16-ounce loaves; one of Weinstein's weighed 19¼ ounces. He said his baking pans were too large—and he can't get priorities to buy smaller ones.

Merchantman Sunk

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—(AP)—The United States navy announced today that a medium sized British merchant vessel had been torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine early in August in the Atlantic several hundred miles off the northern coast of South America. Survivors have landed at a United States East Coast port.

U.S. Takes Over Six Solomons

This picture is the first to be released by the U.S. navy in Washington, D.C., on the successful United States attack on the Solomon Islands. It shows an air view of fire-swept Tanamboga Island after attacking American carrier-based air forces had hit and departed. Japanese gun emplacements and anti-aircraft batteries were hard hit. Gavutu Island, UPPER LEFT, was another point attacked and taken over by United States Marines, supported by Pacific fleet forces.

Salvage Drive Arranged For Emily District

OMEMEE, Sept. 2 —(ENS) —A meeting was held in Coronation Hall, Omemee, on Friday evening, August 28, under the auspices of the Soldiers Aid Society of Omemee and district in connection with the salvage drive in the counties of Victoria and Haliburton.

This district includes Emily Township and Omemee village. The meeting had been planned by Dr. G. N. Earle and Mrs. Earle, Mrs. Earle being president of the local society, which is the only organization in the community operating under the War Charities Act, and, as such, is the only organization which could handle the salvage.

Dr. and Mrs. Earle had previously contacted the secretaries of all the rural schools in the district, the garage men, and others, in preparation for the meeting.

Representatives were present from all the rural schools in South and East Emily, including Rev. V. G. McFadden of Downeyville. Reeve J. A. Bent presided, and after a few opening remarks called on Dr. Earle to address the meeting.

The doctor gave a very interesting and comprehensive outline of the situation and a list of the materials asked for by the salvage commission.

Arrangements were then made to have the secretary of each school section canvass his particular section, the articles most in request being rubber, metal, rags and bones. Bottles are not called for as yet, sheet meta, such as old roofing or car bodies are also not asked for as yet, but they may be wanted later.

The only paper wanted at the present time is corrugated paper boxes.

A truck will call at each farm or home beginning September 21 and the salvage will be shipped by rail to Toronto.

It was made particularly clear that the salvage will be shipped directly from the shipper (in this case the local society) to the salvage commission in Toronto, and no middleman will have anything to do in the matter, and no rake-offs will be allowed.

There was a request made for local men to accompany the trucker in each locality, and a sufficient number volunteered their services.

Dr. Earle announced that arrangements had been made for a lady speaker to address the school children in the district on September 9, 10 and 11 to stimulate interest.

The following gentlemen agreed to be responsible for the canvass in their own locality:

S.S. No. 1, J. J. Williams, village, D. Weir, rural; No. 4, Albert Carroll; No 5, Victor Bulbeck; No 6, Vince Perdue; No. 7, Herman Franks; No. 9, J. J. Knight and Norman Fee; No. 10, Walter Magee; No. 11, T. A. McConnell; No. 12, Burt Morrisey; No. 13, O. M. Sherin; No. 15, Earl Herlihey.

It is particularly requested that the metal be left in a convenient form for loading, at or near the buildings, that no cloth or leather shall be attached to rubber, that all rags shall be clean and that bones shall be placed in bags.

Down To Business

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (CP). —Intensification of reserve army training during the coming fall and winter was described as "certain" today by Maj.-Gen. B. W. Browne, Director-General of the Canadian Reserve Army. "The Reserve Army training program will become more and more closely allied to training as it is done in the active army," Gen. Browne said. "We don't waste time lining up in threes. There are a lot of businessmen in the army. They see a job and want to see it finished and they won't be bothered marching around a parade square. They want to learn something."

Jap Drome Takes Heavy Bombing

CHUNGKING, Sept. 2—(AP) — United States planes attacked the Japanese airdrome at Myitkyina in Northern Burma yesterday for the second day in succession, a communique from Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Objectives of the bombers, which had a fighter escort, included Japanese barracks, a warehouse area along a railway and the railway terminal.

"Two large fires and at least three small ones were left burning along the railway in the main storage area," the communique said.

"Direct hits were scored on the Japanese barracks and several fires were started in that area."

All the planes returned safely.

Two Moderators May Be Named

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 2 —(CP) — It was learned here Monday that when the General Council of the United Church of Canada meets in annual session at Belleville, Ont., starting September 9, it may elect two moderators instead of the usual one who is chosen for a two-year period.

The council meets only once every two years and it has been suggested a two-year term is too heavy and that two moderators, one for each one-year term between council meetings, should be chosen.

Present Moderator is Rt. Rev. Aubrey S. Tuttle, president of St. Stephen's College Edmonton.

Other offices to be filled this year are that of treasurer and secretary of Christian Education. The treasurer, Rev. Dr. Robert Laird of Torono died in office and Rev. Frank Langford, also of Toronto, also died whilein office as secretary of Christian Education.

Big Salvage Job

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 2—(AP). —Dismantling of the $6,400,000 Tacoma Narrows Bridge which collapsed two years ago will begin this week. Charles Andrew, Washington State toll bridge authority engineer said dismantling will cost $300,000, but will save materials valued at $450,000. The bridge was the third longest suspension span in the world.

Power Sees R.C.A.F. Station In England

Air Minister C. G. Power is visiting Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons in Britain. ABOVE he is pictured discussing the job of an army co-operation squadron with Squadron Leader R. F. Begg of Vancouver, the commanding officer of the squadron. The Air Minister, with Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of the air staff, R.C.A.F., spent a considerable time with the squadron watching all aspects of its operations. Their interest was heightened by the fact that squadrons of this type played a large part in the operations at Dieppe

Successful Camp Council Held at "Inglestane" By Ontario CGIT Groups

Twenty-three Ontario communities were represented at the provincial Canadian Girls in Training Camp Council, held this year at "Inglestane" the Y.W.C.A. camp at Stoney Lake. The 55 girls who attended the camp were officially appointed to represent their communities at the council. They came from Peterborough, Kirkland Lake, Swastika, London, Sarnia, Ottawa, Port Colborne, Barrie, Kitchener, Galt, Fergus, Hamilton, Brantford, Oshawa, Watford, Belleville, Weston, Bowmanville, Clifford and Toronto. The girls were aged from 15 to 18 years.

This is the 15th camp to be held by the C.G.I.T., and the first to be held at "Inglestane." Everyone enjoyed the camp and the surroundings very much and particularly liked being on the island away from the mainland. During their free time the campers enjoyed all the usual recreations, swimming, hiking, evening camp-fires and boating. On one especially memorable day cottagers on neighboring islands and the mainland took them sailing in dinghies and this they enjoyed very much.

The curriculum included two and a half hours of Bible Study each morning, in which the history of the Church through the ages was stressed. At the end of these study periods the campers presented a pageant based on the history of the Church. Miss Harriet Christie, travelling secretary for the Ontario Girls' Work Board, said that the girls showed particular interest in this part of their work. Rev. Mr. Little of Victoria College, University of Toronto, who is taking services on Stoney Lake during August, took the church services at the camp.

Four interest groups were held and the girls decided for themselves which they would attend. The subjects discussed in these groups were Career Planning, supervised by Miss Helen Anthony; Christian Marriage, supervised by Mrs. T. L. Tucker; Pre-Leadership Training, supervised by Miss Dorothy Cunningham and Miss Margaret Hayes; and "How Wide is My World," a study of what is happening to the church in the world of today, supervised by Miss Chico Negora.

A unique feature of this camp council is the Council Hour held every day, at which the whole C.G.I.T. movement is studied and discussed, and suggestion for the coming year put forward.

A beautiful and interesting ceremony took place on the last evening of the camp, when all the campers took part in antiphonal singing. Half of the girls went some distance from the island in the boats and half remained on shore, the groups alternately singing verses of the hymns. After the singing the entire camp went to the lovely chapel in the woods, where five girls and two leaders spoke of what in the camp had impressed them most.

When the ceremony was over the girls gathered round the camp-fire and presented skits about the councillors, after which the councillors returned the compliment. Everyone enjoyed toasted marshmallows, and regretted that the camp was over.

Miss Christie said that one of the difficulties of girls' work at the present time is that girls leave school so much sooner to go to work and that it is harder to interest them in clubs and group work. However there were several girls at the camp who were employed in war work who were spending their holidays at the camp. Working in shifts also makes it difficult for girls to attend meetings regularly.

The leaders present at the camp were Miss H. Christie of Toronto, Miss Helen Anthony of Hamilton, Miss Dorothy Cunningham and Miss Dorothy Elliott of Toronto, Mrs. T. L. Tucker of Huntsville, Mrs. T. B. Bennett of Port Hope, Miss Margaret Hayes of Sarnia and Miss Chico Negora of Toronto, travelling secretary of the Presbyterian W.M.S. Miss Jean Johnson of Peterborough was there to look after the boats; Miss Louise Hanna of Toronto was swimming instructress and Miss Isabel Johnston of Ottawa was camp nurse.

The offering taken at the church service is to be sent to Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's Fund for orphaned Chinese children.

Wouldn't Swap Life Outdoors For City's Best

By MARGARET ECKER.

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 2—(CP).—A slim, 14-year-old cowgirl, Donna Johnstone, is making history in the Canadian Rockies, as one of Canada's first women guides.

The hardy, weather-leathered tribe of men who guide tourists, miners, explorers over the high passes of the Rocky Mountains have always till now kept women intruders from their ranks. But the war forced them to admit Donna and she's done a good job that they're looking around for more girls born in saddle leather.

Donna's a veteran who can ride anything, almost, in horse flesh. Her ranching father, Lawrie Johnston, at their home in the Ghost River area near Cochrane, Alta., put her on a horse before she could walk. He was an expert rider when she had to do an Indian rope trick to get into the saddle and she's helped her father when he guided hunting and camping parties up the Ghost River into the Rockies.

Passes And People.

Donna broke into big time this summer. She was one of the guides when the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies in four days rode between 60 and 70 miles from Castle Mountain, around Storm Mountain, over Gibbon Pass and over Whistling Pass, through the spectacular Pharoah Peaks to Egypt Lake, then across Simpson Pass to Larix Lake and down Sunshine Valley to Banff.

There were 60 riders in the party with three overnight camps to establish, but Donna did her share of the work along with such veterans of the trail as Claude Brewster, outfitter, Ed Ogan, well-known Canmore horseman and a Stoney Indian chief, Johnny Bearspaw. Donna's father was head guide on the ride and she took most of the responsibility for his two dozen horses on her own slim shoulders. Every morning she had the horses saddled, ready for riding. Along the trail she kept a sharp eye for riders in difficulties in rough country, for saddle cinches come loose.

At night she unsaddled her own horses and helped take the 125 horses of the pack train, as well as saddle horses, out to night pasture.

Outdoors Best.

Life on the trail is just about all Donna is interested in, at present. She likes sleeping in teepees and she wouldn't swop her blue denim trousers and tartan shirt for all the smart clothes in New York. Once in a while her mother coaxes her into a dress—but that's no party as far as Donna is concerned—even if she does already show signs of brunette beauty.

But Donna's no dunce. She never gone to school a day in her life, she's got all her education from correspondence courses, under the supervision of her mother, a former school teacher. But when she wrote her examinations, she was far ahead of her age. Art supervisers sent highly favorable reports on her horse sketches. But at present Donna is more interested in being a guide than an artist.

Mr., Mrs. J. Dixon Honored By Congregation

On the eve of the departure of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dixon from Omemee, where Mr. Dixon has served as police officer for the past two years, a meeting of the congregation of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Omemee, was held at which the departing members were presented with an Aladdin lamp, in appreciation of their years of service to the church and to the community.

Mrs. Dixon has for several years been an enthusiastic worker in church activities, being particularly interested in the work of the W. M. S. and the Ladies' Aid, and the address presented to her said in part, "You have nobly and loyally assisted us in our Women's Missionary Society and our Ladies' Aid enterprise, and have been keenly alive to all the concerns of our congregation and its spirit and aims.'

Mr. Dixon has been police officer of Omemee for the past two years, and has also been a popular and enthusiastic church worker. He has decided to leave the village and to take up farming some distance away. Their departure will be a great loss to the congregation. The address ended with the words: "We pray that you may be abundantly blest in the service and sacrifice you may there make. May the Divine Giver grant you long life and His favor."

WOMEN BLAME MOTHERS FOR MATRIMONIAL WOES
They Also Complain Because They Here Not Told How Men Change

A woman says: "We mothers are blamed for not preparing our daughters for marriage, and I grant you it does seem a crime to inflict on a poor unsuspicious man, who labors under the delusion that all women are born domestic, a wife who can't make a cup of coffee, who can't darn a sock without making it lumpy and who know no more about running a budget than she does about flying an airplane.

"Often our daughters, when they are bandaging their burns from cook stoves they don't know how to manage, and weeping over flat cakes and leathery pies, and listening to the things that their husbands say about their biscuits, reproach us for not having taught them how to cook and sew and buy butchers' meat."

"'You knew we would get married,' wail our Mamies and Sadies, 'and would need to know how to run a house, so why didn't you teach us how to do it, instead of letting us waste so much time and money on trying to acquire flummery accomplishments? For who nowadays wants to listen to an amateur commit mayhem on a piano when you can turn on the radio and hear good music? And what's the good of being a toe dancer when we spend our nights walking the baby with the colic?

"'And for Heaven's sake, why didn't you give us the lowdown on husbands and make us wise to the fact that husbands and sweethearts are different breeds of animals, with different characteristics? The marriage ceremony does something that changes them from lambs into roaring lions, and it is a shame and a disgrace—it is actually heartless—for a mother to let a poor little innocent baby girl walk into one of their cages without knowing how to protect herself.

More Reproaches

"'You couldn't have been married to Father for twenty-five years without finding out a lot about husbands and how to manage 'em and make 'em eat out of your hand, so why didn't you pass your experience along to us and give us some points that would have kept us from having run-ins with our husbands, and saved us from bedewing our pillows with tears many a night when our Toms, Dicks and Harrys ended an argument by slamming the door behind them and going downtown to play poker with the boys?

"I have to listen to these reproaches about not having prepared them for marriage by my own daughters. So has every other mother whose girls are married. And what their husbands think of us in having reared girls who do not know the first principles of home-making, I tremble to think. But, in reality, the blame rests on the girls, themselves, not us. Our perfect alibi is our daughters.

"In the past there may have been girls who were mother's little helpers. Possibly there are a few of the species still extant, though when I look back on my own life I don't recall that I had an ungovernable passion for washing dishes and doing chores around the house, nor am I personally acquainted now with any girl who would rather read the Cook Book than a sixth best seller.

"But, be that as it may, most of us mothers do try to teach our daughters a few of the elementary principles of home-making before they tackle marriage which is the most complicated job on earth, but it can't be done. They won't take it. They laugh us to scorn when we tell them that whatever else a woman needs to know in life she always needs to know how to cook and sew and run a budget. They won't listen when we warn them and they will save themselves a lot of grief and maybe losing their husbands if they prepare themselves to be good wives after marriage. And after we have worn ourselves out in vain to fit them for their jobs, we throw up our hands and quit.

They Won't Listen

"And it is the same way in trying to teach our daughters something about the fine art of getting along with their husbands. I could give my girls a lot of valuable pointers on how to stroke a husband's fur the right way, and how to walk high, wide and handsome around his peculiarities, and how to keep him thinking that they are the ONLY ones, but do you think they will lend an ear to my words of wisdom? Far from it.

"For, you see, every young girl not only believes that she knows it all and is the last word in sophistication, but she looks upon her mother as a doddering dodo who doesn't know what she is talking about. Maybe those old fashioned ideas were good in Mother's day, but they are the bunk now. She doesn't know that the fundamental truths of life never change.

"So there we poor maligned mothers are. Pity us all!"

Has Your Sailor Got Your Color For Stockings?

By FRANK LOWE

HALIFAX, Sept. 2—(CP).—Sailors and silk stockings don't mix, or so you might think, but folks every matelot (sailor or seaman) in the Royal Canadian Navy could probably give his sister pointers on texture, size and color.

In fact, sailors headed for the Old Country have bought so many pairs of silken hose, or their wartime substitutes, they have practically kept the industry going. And not only silk stockings make the crossing, all manners of ladies' dainty silk underwear, face powders and other make-up necessities can also be found among their belongings.

It is a well-known fact—according to the girls who should know—that sailors are great present givers. And to see the boys denuding a shop in search of fluffy feminine trifles is proof of this. Lingerie stores are often visited in ports of call.

Stockings, silk or nylon or their first cousins, head the list. The sailor doesn't take any old thing that is handed him either. He has sizes, colors and all the details down pat, if not from letters from his beloved, at least from personal observation.

He Knows The Terms.

When it comes to intimate lingerie items, no clerk can give him the run-around. Those words uplift, control and what-not, usually enticing mysteries to the average male, are just so much duck soup to him.

Sometimes they are a trifle indefinite about size of undies—they even have the lingo down pat—but that never stops a resourceful tar. If worst comes to worst he hauls the protesting salesgirl from behind the counter, gives her a critical once over and says, "Yeah, she's about your size but a little bigger around the hips."

They are especially careful in the choice of face powders and lipsticks. They want certain shades, textures and scents, and won't take any second best. After all, they say, "we're the guys that gotta wear the junk in the end."

Tell By Blushes.

In fact, it is possible to tell how long a sailor has been in the navy by his shopping habits. If he hums and haws, blushes a bit and hasn't any definite idea about what he wants, then he is probably fresh from the cornfields and just recovering from a fall from his hammock.

Chaps like these sometimes pull pathetic blunders in their hunt for milady's gee gaws, buying as presents monstrosities of apple green or brilliant red. But they soon learn, or else pick a color blind girl.

A.Y.P.A. Notes

The Anglican Young People's Associations of the city met last Sunday for their annual conference, held at Ava Lodge. The main event of the conference, and open discussion, took place after luncheon. The findings of the discussion were as follows: that a program be planned in which all the associations could share. This program would be placed before the Anglican clergy at a meeting to be held during the next two weeks, where it will receive constructive criticism.

In the evening a church service was held with Nels Hewitt reading the prayers and responses. Bill Lott read the scripture for the day, and Ken Gibson addressed the members for ten minutes. After supper a vote of thanks was moved to those who had helped to make the conference a success.

Farmer Shoots Wife, Friend Afraid Of Japs

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 2.—(AP) —Sheriff Sam M. Owens reported yesterday that Selmer Wichterman, 44, Melrude, Minn., farmer, shot his wife and her woman friend to death on a country road near here last night and then committed suicide after declaring that "the Japs are going to get me."

The slain women were Mrs. Marie Wichterman, 44, and Mrs. Charlotte Johnson, 46, Duluth, a visitor at the Wichterman farm. Mrs. Elizabeth Lowry and her baby, also visitors, escaped, Owen said, by fleeing into the near-by brush as Wichterman shouted: "I guess I'll let you live and suffer."

Owens said the shooting occurred as Wichterman overtook the women with his automobile as they attempted to run away from the farm on foot after an argument. As the women appeared in the glare of his car's headlights, the sheriff said, Wichterman opened fire.

Nelson To Ration Fuel Oil Cut Gas Again

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War production Board yesterday confirmed reports that a decision had been made to ration fuel oil in the United States and indicated an announcemet would be made later this week. The fuel oil rationing may be imposed upon some Mid-western States, Nelson said, as well as the East.

Meanwhile a committee set up by the Petroleum Industry War Council to study oil trends and recommend action raised the prospect that gasoline consumption in the East might have to be curtailed even further by reducing the unit value of the ration coupons, which now are good for four gallons.

Nelson said several details of the fuel oil rationing remain to be worked out, including the question of which States should be included in the ration area. The purpose of extending the rationing to the Midwest would be to make additional railroad tank cars available to supply the East.

President Roosevelt, commenting on the situation at his press conference, mentioned twenty-five per cent as the likely amount of curtailment in some localities, which he did not specify.

From the sources in the agencies working on the matter, who declined to be quoted by name, it was learned a basic ration was contemplated which would permit heating homes to an average temperature of around sixty-eight degrees, with supplemental rations to be issued on the basis of need. These sources also reported that it was planned to induce householders to convert their heating equipment from oil to coal by withholding supplemental rations from those who fail to do so where possible.

In connection with the Eastern gasoline situation, the petroleum industry committee reported that Eastern gasoline consumption averaged 511,000 barrels daily from July 22 to Aug. 22 while the expectation was that only 435,000 barrels daily could be supplied for the next seven months.

Silent Scot, D.F.M. Winner, Thrilled By Cable From His Home Town Mayor

LONDON, Sept. 2. — Flight-Sgt. Thomas Oswald McIlquham, the silent Scot from Carleton Place, Ont., whose coolness and marksmanship from his seat in the rear turret of a giant Halifax bomber brought down one of Germany's deadliest fighters a Focke-Wulf 190 during the 1,000 bomber raid on Cologne last May, and who a month later damaged a Me. 109 so severely that it was probably destroyed, does not often smile. But when he does, his face lights up with revealing sincerity.

It was in this manner that he told of receiving the news that he had been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

"It shook me," was his brief comment. Then he pulled a cablegram from his pocket and the slow smile spread happily over his face. It was obvious that the receipt of that cable marked the proudest moment of his life.

He's Third Generation.

It was from the mayor and municipality of Carleton Place, congratulating him on the honor he had brought to his native town. The McIlquham's have lived there for three generations.

"Mac," as this Canadian-Scottish rear-gunner is inevitably known to every one on his station is tough as well as dour. Two days before he went on the "op' which brought him the "probable"—that was on a Bremen show—he was struck on the head by a piece of flak. He didn't know at the time that his head had been hit. It felt as if someone had thumped me on the back," he said afterwards.

His helmet was ripped clear across by the razor-edge of the shell fragment and the padding was pulled out. First indication he had of this was when the headgear came apart. Mac has the three-inch piece of flak and is keeping it carefully.

The Halifax in which McIlquham was flying to Cologne was attacked twice while passing over Holland en route to the target. Mac saw it when it was 11,000 yards to port, and warned his skipper, who immediately took evasive action. Mac waited until the fighter an F.W. 190, reached 350 yards. Then he opened fire.

The fighter broke off to starboard and then came in again to the attack, this time from dead astern. When he reached 350 yards again—he was firing as he came in —Mac gave him another burst. He appeared to stall and spin as bullets struck him from the four Brownings.

THEY KNOW WHAT'S HAPPENING —THEY'VE BEEN UP THERE

"We Fooled Him."

Shortly after this encounter, which gave McIlquham claim to an aircraft damaged, a second attack occurred again by a F.W. 190, which was observed to be following at about 800 yards. At 600 he opened fire with cannon and machine guns. "He wouldn't come in and fight, and that made me mad," Mac related afterwards, "but we fooled him by flying on a straight course for a while after making a number of evasive turns. He took a chance and came in. When I got him in my sights at 360 yards, I gave him a burst. His nose went up and he stalled at 150 yards, caught fire and crashed, exploding as he hit the ground."

About the fight with the ME. 109 Mac says:

"The enemy aircraft was an ME. 109 carrying no lights and accompanied by other fighters. It was spotted 800 yards off the beam and immediately turned in to attack. Losing height on the turn, it started to climb and attack at the same time. As he closed in, I gave him a burst at 325 yards. I gave him a second burst as we turned sharply to port It broke off with a red glow in his engine and black smoke pouring out behind. Out of control, he fell 10,000 feet, disappearing into the clouds. The pilot had not bailed out when I saw the kite last."

Forced to Rest.

It was not until some days later that Mac began to gett headaches resulting from the blow on the head by the flak two nights earlier. Now he is undergoing enforced rest until the effects of his delayed concusion have disappeared. He's not enjoying the rest. "I hate hanging around when the rest of the chaps are going on ops," he says morosely.

Mac is a great chap to have in the rear turret of a Halifax or anywhere else, according to the rest of his crew. The English wireless operator in his aircraft says:

Pals Expected It.

"With Mac there we are well covered. Nobody could be quicker in calling the turns to the pilot when they are being followed by a fighter. You couldn't want to have anybody quicker on the trigger than he is when he gets them in his sights. We were all expecting him to get a 'gong' after the Cologne show, and we were all damned glad about it."

The C.O. of the squadron was the pilot of Mac's kite on the last encounter. His comment on the conduct of his Canadian "tail-end Charlie" was brief and to the point: "A bloody good gunner. Damned keen and knows his stuff. Can't say more than that, can I?"

All 11,963,000 Ration Books Now Out

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—(CP).—Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials expressed belief yesterday that all ration books to be used by Canadians on and after Sept. 7 are either delivered or in the mail, with a total of 11,963,000 sent out.

The books cover purchases of sugar, tea and coffee, with spare coupons to be used only if additional commodities are placed under cupon rationing control.

Reports coming in from local offices throughout the country said that distribution was being carried out speedily through the postoffice.

The only Canadians not likely to have their ration books by Sept. 6 are those changing addresses or whose names for some other reason were placed in an abeyance file to have their cards delivered later.

Canadians are being asked to make a note of the serial number of their books and keep them in a safe place. The serial number will be important should the original book be lost or destroyed and a replacement required.

The books must not be used before Sept. 7 as the temporary retion cards issued July 1 are still valid.

Tea and coffee ration coupons have been removed from the books of children under 12 years and such coupons for children reaching 12 years in the next six months will not be provided immediately. The book now being used is good for six months and these children will receive their tea and coffee coupons with the next issue.

Officials said changes in address, changes in name and births and deaths should be reported to the nearest rationing officer without delay. Coupons must not be detached except in the presence of the storekeeper from whom the ration products are being bought.

The local rationing officer should be consulted if any person entitled to a ration book has not received it by Sept. 7.

New Moonshine

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 2— (AP).—Sugar rationing didn't slow up the moonshiners. State and Federal agents found a still in Leon County using a mash of watermelon juice and post-oak grapes.

Dunked At Dieppe

Soldiers who took part in the British combined operation against Dieppe, France, are shown being hauled from the water of Dieppe harbor after their assault craft had been sunk by enemy fire. A British destroyer is the rescue craft.

Labor Scarcity Cuts Fall Wheat

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — (CP) — Harvesting of grain crops throughout Western Ontario was nearly complete in most counties last week the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

Many districts reported decreases in sowing of fall grain due to dry weather and lack of labor.

Southern Ontario grain crops yielded well this season and harvesting operations were nearly completed. Labor shortages in most districts resulted in decreased acreage of fall wheat and insufficient aid for peach harvesting. Excellent hay crops were reported.

Many farmers completed harvesting and threshing of spring grain in Central Ontario. Canning factories opened during last week to receive tomato crops.

Large acreages of grain remained unthreshed in Eastern Ontario. Frosts damaged garden crops in most counties but the corn yield showed promise.

Northern Ontario pasture lands improved after abundant rains last week but frost damaged potato fields throughout the area. Wet weather retarded harvesting operations although a few grain fields had been cut previously.

32 From 2 Ships

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept 2—(CP)—Thirty-two survivors of two ships torpedoed in widely separate sectors of the Atlantic have been landed here.

No details of the actions that sent the vessels to the bottom were available, but the men apparently were not in lifeboats for any length of time as all were healthy and in high spirits.

The group included Maltese, Portuguese, Dutch and Norwegian seamen.

Many Cities Solve Transit Ills

OTTAWA Sept. 2 — (CP). — Transit Controller George Gray made public last night an eight-point program which he said had been accepted "in whole or in part" by most large municipalities in a move to help solve the "increasingly critical" transit problem.

Warning that full impact of restrictions on private automobile use would be felt during the autumn months, Mr. Gray suggested that schools in all large cities should begin the day either earlier or later than the present schedule.

In an open letter to municipal authorities, local transit operators and the public, in which he predicted that supply of new street cars and busses will be "virtually dried up" by the year-end, the controller suggested:

1. Staggered hours and change in school opening hours.
2. Improved street traffic regulations.
3. Reduction in number of street car and bus stops.
4. Fullest use of car lines and minimum use of bus equipment.
5. Extension of facilities to war industries or armed forces establishments only.
6. Improved efficiency and two shifts, if possible, in repair shops.
7. "Judicious" parking of bus equipment between rush hours instead of returning to main storage points.
8. Appointment of local transit committees.

"The time is appropriate to draw attention to the critical nature of the transportation emergency which will develop during the next few months," Mr. Gray wrote. "Loading on urban transit facilities declines seasonally during the summer months, and this factor has modified the effect of gasoline rationing and the tire shortage.

"The full impact of th restrictions on private car use will register in the fall, when people return to their homes from holiday resorts, when schools re-open, and when inclement weather forces people to use street cars and busses."

Shares Go Up

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept 2 —(CP Cable)—Share prices on the Stock Exchange today reached the highest level of the year on the strength of Allied victories in the Pacific and the continued improvement of the London market.

For several months trading has been within fixed upper and lower limits, varied at intervals on official decree. Today new ceiling prices were allowed and certain shares, especially high-grade industrials jumped at a bound from the old to the new top price.

Murder In Havana

HAVANA, Sept. 2 (AP)— Ramiro Llovet, assistant personnel chief of the Cuban Ministry of Labor, was shot and killed and Personnel Chief Carlos Cantera was wounded today in a burst of gunfire in the ministry.

Authorities said they were seeking a policeman assigned to the ministry and that Llovet had attempted to patch up a personal quarrel between Cantera and the officer.

Nazi Sub Takes Sunken Ship's Skipper

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—A new wrinkle in the submarine war in the Western Atlantic became apparent yesterday when another merchant ship captain—at least the fifth by unofficial count — was disclosed a prisoner aboard the German submarine that sank his vessel.

The captain, Frederick Tate of West Hartlepool, England, commanded a medium-sized British merchant ship which was sunk early in August off the northern coast of South America. His ship was the 452nd in The Associated Press count of United Nations and neutral ship sinkings in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

Survivors said the German submarine approached one of the lifeboats. The commander invited the skipper to step aboard "for a moment," and then told him: "You are going on a voyage to Germany."

The capturing of United Nations ship captains, which apparently began in the last few months, has not become a general practice, for many more skippers have returned with their crews than have been taken aboard U-boats. But reports indicated that some German submarines, perhaps when preparing to return to their European base, have taken with them the captain of a torpedoed ship.

Their purpose, observers surmised, was to embarrass the growing United Nations merchant marine by a possible shortage of skilled officers.

Mess Room Chafter From Britain

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept 1. — (CP).—PO. J. E. Loree of Guelph, Ont., has destroyed an Axis aircraft and is $18 wealthier as the result of a shipboard bet made while two Australians and two other Canadians were travelling to the Middle East.

There was such an argument as to which of the five would be the first to get an enemy machine that they drew up a contract, eah promising to pay one pound to the winner. Then they went off to different squadrons.

Loree settled the argument within a few days, during a mass attack on two neighboring landing fields. Flying a fighter-bomber, Loree dived after a Junkers 88 and sent the bomber crashing in flames.

Sgt. Pilot Mart Naylor of Vancouver starred in a track meet for R.C.A.F. personnel in the Midlands the day after he spent a harrowing 20 minutes bobbing around in the North Sea.

A mishap to his aircraft gave Naylor no time to float his dinghy when the machine hit the water and he was forced to rely on his mae west until rescuers picked him up together wtih his operator.

After a night in hospital, Naylor flew back to his night fighter squadron and contributed 13 points to their winning total. He placed third in the individual honors race, winning the hop, step and jump and broad jump, and taking second in the 100 yard dash.

A teammate, Flt. Lt. E. D. McMillan of Chatham, Ont., came from a victory in the sky to win valuable points for his team. He placed second in the three-mile race after losing a close decision for third in the mile. McMillan destroyed a DO217 a couple of days before the meet.

Army co-operation squadrons of the R.C.A.F. are being equipped with the new Mustang fighter-reconnaissance plane, an American aircraft now in service with the R.A.F.

Trial performances tickled the Canadian pilots who feel they have the machine they need for big operational jobs with the army. The squadrons have been on manoeuvres several times with their new planes, co-operating with Canadian infantry and armored formations.

The Mustang in outward appearance resembles the ME109E but has a more graceful body. It has a wing span of 37 feet three inches and is 31 feet three inches long. Powered by an 1,150-horsepower liquid-cooled engine, it carries machine guns in wings and fuselage.

A Fighter Command station in Kent with its satellite airdromes has become the first in Britain to reach a score of 900 enemy aircraft destroyed since the start of the war.

An Englishman, an Australian and a New Zealander were responsible for topping the 90 mark and in doing so created a thorny problem for the station intelligence officer. Each shot down a Focke-Wulf 190 at approximtaely the same time, so it probably never will be known which of the three got No. 900.

Rubber Men Offer To Try 8-Hour Day

AKRON, O., Sept. 2—The leader of C.I.O.'s United Rubber Workers promised last night the union would agree to a daily schedule of "eight hours or longer when the manpower commission finds that a shortage of employees does actually exist."

This was part of a speed-production program outlined by Sherman Dalrymple, the Union's international president. It came a day after President William O'Neil of the General Tire and Rubber Co. termed Akron the "worst labor spot in the country" and declared tire production is less than it was before Pearl Harbor."

The six-hour day, disliked by management, and the piece-work system, equally disliked by labor, are among sources of friction in management-labor relations at Akron's big rubber companies.

$4,547,350 Lunch

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2—(AP). —Philadelphia business men spent $4,547,350 to take Hedy Lamarr to lunch. The price of admission to a luncheon which the brunette screen star attended was a pledge to buy $5,000 or more in war bonds. The "take" was announced by the Treasury Department.

Escapes From Eire

CALGARY, Sept. 2—(CP)—Winner of the D.F.C. for piloting a crippled flying boat over the Atlantic last summer, Flt.-Lt. Grant Fleming, Calgary, has escaped from internment in Eire, said a cable received here yesterday by his cousin, Jack Fraser. Fleming was interned last winter when his bomber crashed.

lowed to swim. The swimming artivities were under the guidance of Patrol Leaders L. Groombridge and G. Best. Some of the boys showed such excellent form that Akela suggested that they try for their swimmers' badge. P.O.R. was secured and the following Cubs came through in fine style: Carl Sergeant, Douglas May, Stuart Wigg, Douglas Robertson, George Hall, Billy Cummings and Terry Common.

We are sorry to say that Douglas May is leaving the pack to take up residence in Toronto, but we are sending his name to headquarters with the hope that he will find his place in another pack there. We were also glad to welcome Terry Common from Montreal, who is taking up residence here in Peterborough. Terry was in the Cubs in Montreal and has stated his desire to join St. John's. Terry is a First Star Cub.

Following the swim, the boys played relay games on the lawn of Akela's home and finished the evening with soft drinks and biscuits.

The Troop: Patrol Leader L. Groombridge was successful in passing his Pathfinders' badge this week. On Saturday afternoon he left for Toronto. Leaving Peterborough shortly after noon, our worthy P.L. got a lift as far as Bewdley, then cycled from that point, arriving in Toronto about 7.15 p.m. We are wondering why he does not wear a cyclist's badge.

his 18th win of the year.... Toronto Leafs stayed in the running for a playoff berth by nosing out the Rochester Red Wings last night 3 to 2 in eleven innings.... Incidentally second baseman Whitehead, outfielder Jim Russell and pitcher Harry Schuman of the Leafs have been acquired by the Pittsburg Pirates.... Ted Williams is figured as a shoo-in for his second American League batting crown in succession, as well as to lead the runs-batted-in, runs-scored and home-run departments. St. Louis Cards have recalled outfielder Ervin Dusak of the Rochester Red Wings.... They need his power for the stretch drive.

Writing Letters Is Easy With Rules

"Still Writing That Letter?"

A letter needn't take such hours! If you put off writing to friends—perhaps losing them—because letters are such a hard task, follow a little plan in your writing.

FIRST—A LOT OF "YOU." write: "What are you doing . . . Everyone asks about you."

And strike that warm flattering note right at the beginning, not starting with "I guess it's time to write you," but with "At last a chance to write you!"

SECOND—A LITTLE "ME." For, of course, friends want to hear about you. Tell about the fun you've had—partying, fixing up the living-room or teaching Fido a new trick.

THIRD—A DASH OF THEY." Is there something to tell about mutual friends? There's sure to be—and there you are at the end of the sheet before you know it, writing "When will we see you again? Fondly yours—"

Knowing the simple rules you can write all sorts of letters with ease. Our 32-page booklet has 24 model letters—friendly, business and social—including invitations, thank-you notes, job applications. Gives pointers on vocabulary, letter etiquette.

For your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU MUST TRUST HIM

ANY EARLY bid by a tricky opponent may be a psychic. But, after enough strength has been shown by him on his play to early tricks to prove he had a pretty fair amount of strength, you can usually trust him then to hold any outstanding card or cards which might be necessary to have made his original bid thoroughly sound. Counting on him for that holding can sometimes be the guide which enables you to make an otherwise difficult contract.

North: ♠ J 8 7 6 5 ♥ None ♦ 8 5 4 3 ♣ 9 7 6 5

West: ♠ A K Q 4 2 ♥ K 9 8 6 ♦ J 7 2 ♣ K

South: ♠ 3 ♥ A J 7 5 2 ♦ Q 6 ♣ Q J 10 4 2

Pass	6♠	Pass	6 NT

South's opener was the club Q to the singleton K, and East saw at once that he would have to guess both red suits correctly, as the heart A was a sure loser. Depending on South for what his bid indicated, he led to the heart Q, the A taking. The club 10 came back, to the A, whereupon East finessed the heart 10 and 9, then scored the heart K.

When three top spades then brought discards of the club 2 and 4 from South, East counted up. Knowing South to have the club J from his leads of the Q and 10, he held originally five clubs. He also had shown he had five hearts originally and a singleton spade. Consequently he had two diamonds for his remaining cards. Further reflection indicated that, unless his opening bid was shaded very badly, he needed the diamond Q for it.

So, playing South for a doubleton Q, East dropped it with the diamond A and K, and took the last two tricks with his 10 and 9.

Blue Nile Not Blue At All Omemee Flier Writes Home

OMEMEE, Sept. 2. —(ENS) — Its a far call from the burning sands of Northern Africa to the comparatively cool Kawartha Lakes district, and this week a letter from one of the Peterborough district airmen serving in the Middle East reaches Omemee. The flier is Flight-Sergeant F. J. Weir, Royal Air Force at present serving in Egypt, and the letter which follows was sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Weir of Omemee.

In civilian life, Sgt. Weir was a school teacher at No. 9 Ops and at Eldorado. He enlisted in the R. C. A. F. in September 1940 and was trained at Eglinton and Malton. He obtained his observer's wings at Jarvis and completed his training at Rivers, Manitoba. He went overseas in August 1941 and was sent to Egypt in June 1942. Three other brothers are also on active service as follows: Sgt. Harold Weir, Equipment Depot, Toronto; Gnr. Burt Weir, 45th Battery Overseas; and A. C. 1 Arthur Weir, Mount Joli, Quebec.

Following is the letter:

Heat Is Stifling.

F/Sgt. F. J. Weir, R 72088
R.A.F., HQ., Middle East, Egypt

I have just sent an Airgraph to you. Hope it arrived O. K. We are all fine, getting a sun tan and trying to keep cool. It is lovely at night and mornings until noon or so. However, in the afternoon we just lie and swelter. Your body just feels as if you were in a Turkish bath and you perspire all over, even though you are lying in the shade and the breeze. We surely appreciate the evenings, short as they are. There is no twilight here—the sun goes down and it is night. We have been to the cinema quite a lot. All the pictures are years old but it does help to put in the time. The big reason we go to the pictures is to see the girls. We have seen only two white girls since we arrived. There is one on the camp who is manager of the laundry. I think she is Spanish or French. She isn't exactly white but I don't think there is much Egyptian blood in her. The other white women was the Pardre's wife. You can imagine just how nice it made us feel for her to say "Good Afternoon" to us.

We have been trying to learn to speak Arabic but so far have just been able to master two words—Saheeda, meaning Good Morning and Enshai meaning Go Away in slang. However, it is fairly easy to make oneself understood to the "Wogs' here. The Wogs are our Egyptian servants. Most of them speak very good English. We had quite a talk yesterday with Ahmed, our tent boy. He told us he was 13 and intended to get married in another 2 or 3 months to a girl 10 or 11 years old. That is quite common out here. One of the Wog lads at one of the other tents who is only 14 has been married for over a year. Some of them are very lacking in facial expression but the ones we have in the mess seem to be fairly intelligent. There is one chap in the mess, and I have yet to see a more diabolical grin on any ones face. It is positively evil, but at the same time, he is quite a decent chap. He has only one good eye, and the other one roves around and quite often comes to rest on some point of the ceiling, although he may be looking right at you with the other one. He will do almost anything for you. We always ask him to get us hot water for coffee. Being an R. A. F. mess, tea is served 3 times a day, so we Canadians bought a can of coffee and have our own. Ahmed cleans our shoes, fills our water jugs and water bottles, airs our bedding, sprinkles the dust on the floor, tidies up the tent generally and makes our beds. I think I'll bring him back to Canada when I come.

Nile Is Muddy.

You have heard the Nile spoken of as the Blue Nile, I really don't know why it is so named, because I've seen no part of it as blue. It is muddy. The Delta itself is very interesting. You see all kinds and shapes and sizes of farms. I thing that most of them are vineyards and date palm groves but you also see big fields of sugar-cane. Have been swimming and find the water very salty and buoyant. It is very easy to float. I can quite well understand wh the Pyramids are still standing when I see some of the other buildings and how they are built. Incidentally, I've seen the pyramids both from the ground and theair and it was a big thrill.

Please don't send us any parcels as we get everything we need here. Breakfast this morning consisted of porridge, sausange, toast, marmalade and coffee. We can buy nearly anything we want but we have to be very careful about eating fruit bought from the natives. Before it can be eaten it has to be thoroughly washed and disinfected as nearly all the natives have various diseases, which can be passed on very aasily. The natives certainly aren't very particular about being clean or keeping shops or streets clean. They lie down to sleep on the sidewalks or sit in groups in front of the shops. You can smell them even when passing through town in a truck.

With Anzacs.

There are 6 of us in our tent, 4 Canadians and 2 New Zealand boys. We have some real arguments over our countries. The New Zealand boys have a slight advantage over us in that they have seen parts of Canada at its worst (Jan)., whereas we haven't seen New Zealand yet. We are hoping to go to Palestine for some leave soon. We have heard some very good reports on the country and people. It would be lovely to go to Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth and Jordon.

Well, it's about time for the mail to be collected so will have to quit. Hope your weather has been a little cooler than here and that you are getting more rain than we have as we haven't had any. I'll be so glad to see the next rain storm. I'll probably sleep in it.

Well, Cheerio, for now and keep smiling. This old war won't last forever and then we will all be home again.

Lots of love to all.

Fred.

Munro Becomes Essex Scottish

TORONTO, Sept. 2—(CP) —Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent who reported the commando raid on Dieppe less than a fortnight ago, today is an honorary life member of the Essex Scottish, one of the regiments in the main attack—and he has an Essex Glengarry to prove it.

Monday night, in publicly thanking Munro for address he had just made at Windsor to 15,000 relatives and friends of the Essex Scottish Overseas, Col. Alan C. Prince announced the honor conferred on the 28-year-old newspaperman. His son Lieut. Jack Prince, was one of the Essex raiders mentioned in Munro's address.

After the meeting and before Munro took the night train to Toronto, Col. Prince personally thanked him for coming to speak to the Scottish relatives, then removed his Glengarry and presented it to Munro. Munro, overwhelmed grinned and stammered: "Gosh, Colonel, thanks—I've always wanted to be a member of the Essex Scottish—now I am."

Munro, who went to Dieppe with the Royal Regiment of Toronto, speaks tonight over all-Toronto-station radio hook-up about the part of the Royals in the operation.

8 Cabinet Ministers, 12 Generals Have 28 Children In The Army

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 — (CP) — Sons of many of the men who direct Canada's war effort from the top deck are carrying on in humbler positions in the uniformed services and some have already lost their lives. They range in rank from private to major.

Eight Cabinet ministers have a total of eleven children in the active forces. Twelve Army generals have a total of 17 sons on active service, and of these three have been reported dead or missing. Three of the Air Marshals and Air Vice-Marshals have a son each in the fighting forces.

Air Minister Power is the only minister so far to suffer keen anxiety over a child. One of his two fighting sons, Lieut. Frank Power, fought at Hong Kong with the Quebec Royal Rifles and apparently was taken prisoner.

In a letter received by his mother during the week-end, he said he was wounded and had now recovered from his injuries which were not serious The letter said he was "now well in a Japanese prison camp."

The other son PO. W. Pendleton Power, is overseas as a pilot with the R.C.A.F.

Justice Minister St. Laurent has a son, Lieut. Renault St. Laurent, in the Navy, and a daughter Capt. Madeleine St. Laurent, in the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Another son, Jean Paul, is in the Reserve Army.

Another minister with two fighting sons is Revenue Minister Gibson a soldier himself and a graduate of Royal Military College. Desmond H Gibson went through R. M.C. like his father and now is a captain in the British Army. A younger Gibson son, Colin D., is busy qualifying for a commission in the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry at the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville, Ontario.

Father Pins On Wings

John Edwin Gardiner, son of Agriculture Minister Gardiner, flew a Spitfire with the R.C.A.F. overseas. When he received his wings at a western flying school, his father pinned them on his chest.

Munition Minister Howe's oldest son, William, is a midshipman with the Royal Canadian Navy, attached to the Royal Navy, and survived the sinking of the cruiser Dorsetshire in the Indian Ocean last December.

Postmaster General Mulock, who fought in Siberia in the first Great War, has a boy just starting in the Air Force, AC2 William Mulock.

Defence Minister Ralston who commanded a battalion in France in the last war has his only son in the Army, Lieut. Stuart Ralston, who is overseas with a heavy anti-aircraft battery.

Humphrey Mitchell, Jr., son of the Minsiter of Labor, chose the Army for his service, although his father was a sailor and fought at the Dardanelles. Young Humphrey is a lieutenant in the artillery and stationed at Petawawa camp.

Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian forces overseas, had three sons in uniform but one, Sqdn. Ldr. Ian McNaughton, has been reported missing on active service overseas. Flt. Lt. Andrew McNaughton is with the R.C.AF and the third, Maj Edward McNaughon is in the Army

Maj-Gen. J. H. Roberts, who led the Canadians at Dieppe last week, also has three sons in the forces, all soldiers and all artillerymen like their father. Capt. William H. Roberts and Lieut. W. Roberts are overseas with artillery regiments and Bdr. L. G. Roberts is in Canada yet but probably will be overseas with the rest of the family.

Maj.-Gen. J. D. Young, master general of the ordnance, has two sons overseas with artillery units, Maj. J. D. Young and Capt. W. H. Young.

Maj.-Gen. Basil Price, commander of a division overseas, has lost a son, Sqdn. Ldr. Basil B. Price who was killed while serving with the R.C.A.F. in July. A daughter, Marjorie, served in a woman's auxiliary unit of the British Army for a time. She is married.

Maj.-Gen. D. O. Alexander, inspector general for Central Canada, has also lost a son in action. Flt. Lt. J. O. Alexander was killed overseas with the R.C.A.F.

William Avery Bishop, Jr., followed the path marked out by his famous father, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., director of air force recruiting, by becoming a pilot. He is a pilot officer and his father pinned the wings on his chest.

BRITISH GUNS, AIR BLITZ FLING ROMMEL ON HEELS

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 3 (AP)—Cautious probing by Marshal Erwin Rommel's African corps has encountered a fury of air attack, artillery fire and harassment by mobile forces, and today, four days after the British authorities expected an Axis offensive, the showdown battle for the Nile had failed to develop.

British ground troops in strong points and slit trenches along the 40-mile El Alamein line had not yet come into action with the enemy. Only screening mobile forces were reported thrusting and attacking the German armored columns which had filtered eight miles into the minefields of the Ruweisat-Himeimat sector on the south.

Whether Rommel was puzzled by the British tactics, was playing a game of his own, or was made hesitant by the storm of artillery fire and the thunderous aerial bombing of his armored and supply columns which greeted his first move, observers could not say.

Today's communique said Rommel's Axis army was subjected yesterday to a record-breaking bombing.

(In London, a British source said Rommel's failure to strike in full force after concentrating a great weight of armored equipment for a general offensive might mean he had been surprised by the violent artillery and air bombardment which met his first thrusts.)

15 Nazis Blasted Down

Considerable activity also was reported on the part of the Axis air force, resulting in numerous dogfights in which, the communique said, six German dive-bombers and nine fighters were shot down.

The Italian high command said today patrol activity was intense all along the Egyptian front yesterday and boosted its claim of British vehicles destroyed in Tuesday's engagements for 30 to "51 tanks and 20 armored cars."

"During lively air combats, 21 British aircraft were shot down by Italian and German fighters," the high command said. "Three others crashed from anti-aircraft fire. Fixe of our aircraft failed to return from operations of the last two days."

AA Battery Saves Stalingrad

Holds Breach Against 50 Tanks

Fight Till Shells Gone Capture Mortar And Keep On Fighting

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Sept. 3 — (AP). — The German assault against Stalingrad from the north-west stood checked at the approaches to the Volga city to-day, but to the south-west the Red Army again recoiled before the massed tanks which drove a menacing wedge into the most stubbornly-defended positions.

Both the noon communique and field dispatches announced a further retreat in this vital sector, while 400 miles to the south-west a similar retreat was made by the Soviet forces defending the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk.

A dramatic battle was reported northwest of Stalingrad where a Russian anti-aircraft battery levelled its guns against 50 German tanks charging into the approaches to the city and stopped them until reinforcements arrived.

The newspaper Izvestia said German planes dive-bombed the northwestern approach to Stalingrad after which tanks appeared suddenly and rushed toward a Russian anti-aircraft battery.

Swinging their guns to horizontal, the anti-aircraftmen halted the tanks, but two companies of German infantry trailing the machines closed in about the battery.

Until nightfall the Russian gunners fought, wrecking 17 of the tanks. The battery exhausted its supply of shells, but the crews captured a mortar and shells from the enemy and held on to their position through a night illuminated by rockets. They effectively blocked a German supply route and in the morning were relieved by tank and troop reinforcements.

Red Star said 200 tanks, several infantry divisions and large aerial and artillery formations had been assembled south of Stalingrad and Soviet troops were forced back in several sectors under a mass assault.

Battle Rages Day and Night

Guns flamed through the night on the Stalingrad front and north of Novorosisk, a provisional Red naval base on the Black Sea, the mid-day communique announced. Bitterly, the Russians fought to hold against intensified assaults.

Defensive feats were emphasized by the communique.

Pall Of Smoke, Flame Hides District As Bombers Leave

LONDON, Sept. 3 — (CP Cable) —Canadian crews in a strong bomber force which struck at Karlsruhe during the night reported on their return from the important German transport centre that extensive fires were burning in the city, raided in clear weather and bright moonlight.

"The whole town was ripping," said Sgt.-Pilot Bill Duncan of Midland, Ont., captain of a Halifax. "It was really blazing. We went in over the target, circled around, bombed and came out. A lot of fires were going and as we left the fires were joining in one big glow. We could see them from 100 miles on the way home."

Duncan has four fellow Canadians in his crew, Sgt. Peter Kucheryk, Toronto, midupper gunner; Sgt. Jim Pocock, London, Ont. flight engineer; Sgt. Francis Leo Cunningham North Battleford, Sask., rear-gunner and Sgt. Alec Land of Portage la Prairie, Man., bomb-aimer. The raid was their second operation

Taming Fast

LONDON, Sept. 3—(CP)—The few German raiders who came over Britain to usher in the fourth year of war found a hot reception—entirely too hot for the four-man crew of one bomber winged off the coast, who surrendered meekly to a 'teen-age lad. A second bomber in the same six-plane formation was knocked down even before it got over land. The crew of the downed bomber set it afire and gave up to the boy who gave his prisoners tea, then handed them over to home guards.

Aussies Rest Up As Bombers Work On Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 3—(CP)—Allied planes bombed and strafed Japanese troops in the Kokoda area four times yesterday while Allied ground forces rested and a Japanese destroyer and airdromes at both Lae and Buka were the targets of other aerial raids, a communique said today.

Milne Bay operations at the south-eastern tip of New Guinea were summarized with a declaration the Australians "continued to round up isolated enemy detachments in the jungle."

Both the guerilla-type fighting about the Salamaua sector and heavier clashes at Kokoda, 60 miles northeast of the advanced Allied base at Port Moresby, were broken off as the weary troops took a breathing spell.

Land-based bombers ranged over the Pacific by night to Buka, a Japanese naval and air base at the northern tip of the Solomons, and smashed at its airdrome runway and installations. No interception was noted.

"Five tons of bombs fell in the target area," the communique said. "An enemy destroyer was attacked with unknown results."

Fast United State medium bombers—B-26's known as Marauders—made the raid upon Lae, a familiar target on the northeastern coast of New Guinea, and the communique said there was no interception. Airdrome installations were reported effectively attacked.

Fighter and light bombers climbed over the Owen Stanley mountains and then droped sharply to strike with machine guns, cannon and explosives at Japanese lines and communications.

A spokesman said he had no explanation for the recent lack of Japanese aerial activity.

A compilation of communique figures, however, shows that the Allies destroyed 80 Japanese fighters, nine bombers and two dive-bombers against a loss of only five Allied fighters and four bombers in August.

Allied planes have gone aloft daily without a break since Aug. 5 to bomb or strafe the Japanese somewhere in the South Pacific.

Berlin Cancels Manacle Order

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 3—(AP).—The German high command cancelled today an order for the manacling of British prisoners taken at Dieppe after the B.B.C. broadcast a denial that the hands of Germans captured during the attack on the French port had been tied.

The German order had been issued as a result of what was said to be a British order seized at Dieppe, directing that German prisoners be tied to prevent destruction of their papers.

The German high command announcement:

"A statement made on September 2 and announced by Reuters reads as follows:

"'The German offical war communique stated that during the action against Dieppe the British had issued orders to the effect that German prisoners' hands should be tied to prevent the Germans from destroying their papers.

"'Investigations are being made whether such an order was issued. It is emphatically denied that the hands of German prisoners were tied and if a similar order exists it will at once be cancelled.'

"By the force of this declaration the German high command cancelled measures to be adopted against British prisoners of war on September 2, 1942. The wording of this British declaration will be made known to British prisoners of war."

Axis Offers World Only Death

Cause Of The Allies Youth, Says F.D.R. In World Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP). — President Roosevelt told young people of all the world that German Nazis, Italian Fascists and Japanese militarists have nothing to offer but death, while "the cause of the United Nations is the cause of youth itself."

His words were broadcast internationally and were directed to young men and women in the United Nations and in Axis nations and Axis-dominated lands as well. But Mr Roosevelt remarked he fully expected the Axis to jam the airwaves to drown out his message.

The President's immediate audience was the International Student Assembly, gathered in Washington.

The cause of the United Nations, Mr. Roosevelt declared, is "the hope of the new generation—and the generations that are to come—hope for a new life that can be lived in freedom, and justice, and decency." He added:

"This fact is becoming clearer every day to the young people of Europe, where the Nazis are trying to create youth organizations built on the Nazi pattern...It is a pattern devised by Hitler and imposed upon youth by a form of mental forcible feeding—a diet of false facts, distortions, and prohibitions—all backed up by the guns of the Gestapo."

Any who wonder what the decent youth of Europe think of this, he said, have but to consider the brave young men in occupied countries who prefer firing squads to life-long "slavery and degradation under Hitler."

No Letting Down.

Throughout the world, men in the United States fighting forces were listening to their commander-in-chief. Much of the address was directed specifically to them and he gave assurance that "we here at home are supremely conscious of our obligations to you," now and in the future, and "we will not let you down."

The United Nations, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, have the technical means physical resources, courage, vision and will required to build and sustain the kind of world order which alone, he said, can justify youth's sacrifices now.

"But we must keep at it—we must never relax, never falter, never fear—and we must keep at it together," he said.

"We must maintain the offensive against evil in all its forms. We

CAIRO, Sept. 3—(AP). — "I just want to say I'm damned glad to see you, God bless you and give 'em hell," Wendell Willkie told United States troops today after looking over their big army workshops and repair facilities near here. Speaking informally to the soldiers, Willkie told them the primary purpose of his stop-over in Egypt en route to Chungking and Moscow was to try to focus more attention at home on the Mediterranean front, where a break-through would greatly prolong the war.

Only One Missing As Ship Sinks In Lake Superior

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3 (AP)—The American Sea and Aire Co. freighter Steelvendor foundered about 15 miles east of Manitou Island in Lake Superior today but at least 24 of the 25 crew members were saved by nearby vessels, Cleveland district Coast Guard headquarters said.

The all-steel vessel, used to carry steel, was 250 feet long and was constructed in 1923.

An SOS was flashed about 1:30 a.m., EDT, today, and the Steelvendor foundered about 30 minutes later. The cause, the Coast Guard said, has not been determined.

After the crew took to lifeboats, 22 members were rescued by the Charles M. Schwab, owned by Pickands, Mather and Co. of Cleveland, while two others were saved by the William G. Clyde, owned by the Pittsburg Steamship Co.

American Steel and Wire said the only man missing was John Seecon, an oiler from Chicago, and that he might be accounted for later.

The Steelvendor was a 1,695-gross ton vessel with a capacity of 3,000 tons. Her beam was 42 feet, nine inches.

Sharp List Causes Disaster

En route from Duluth, Minn., to Waukegan, Ill., with a cargo of about 3,000 tons of steel billets, the Diesel-powered vessel "met a heavy sea at 1:15 a.m. today, EDT, which caused a severe list and subsequent flooding," the U.S. Steel Corp. subsidiary announced.

"Ship was abandoned about 3:45 a.m. and shortly thereafter sank."

The Steelvendor, launched 19 years ago, was under the command of Capt. G. L. Kane of Buffalo. Her owners said of the 23 crew members and two Coast Guardsmen aboard, all were saved except John N. Sicken, an oiler from Chicago "who abandoned ship early." Sicken "was

Making Progress In Steel Case

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell said early this afternoon that negotiations with the United Steel Workers of America on wages disputes at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sydney, N.S., and Hamilton were "progressing."

Following a half-hour conference with A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Congress, Mr. Mitchell said he expected a meeting planned for this afternoon would conclude the series of conferences.

The possibility that a Royal Commission might investigate Canada's steel industry heightened interest in the conferences arising from a strike threat of 8,000 workers at Sault Ste. Marie and Sydney plants.

U-Boats Take Worst Beating In July, August—Toll To Soar

Packs Back Now Raiding Former Haunts To Be Hit Hard—Devices One Jump Ahead

LONDON, Sept. 3—(CP).—July and August of this year were the most successful months of the entire war in the numbers of Axis submarines destroyed, A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told a war anniversary luncheon today.

"This is encouraging, but we wish to do better still," Mr. Alexander said, adding that in addition to those destroyed a large number have been put out of action

"If the U-boats found their attack upon our forces dangerous last year, I think they will find it doubly dangerous now," he said. "New methods have been developed and new devices are in action."

"German U-boats now have turned their offensive back to their usual haunts, where the Royal Navy and, I may add, the Royal Canadian Navy, have fought them with vigor and gallantry", he added.

Allies One Jump Up.

Replying to what he said was criticism that "we are slow in adjusting our anti-U-boat methods to meet changes in their tactics," Mr. Alexander declared:

"It is the other way round. When changes in German tactics occur it is because our new methods and devices forced them on the U-boats."

The Admiralty chief said that the German battleship Tirpitz had remained in Norwegian waters since last January, accompanied at times by the battleships Admiral Scheer and Luetzow and the cruiser Admiral Hipper.

The Nazi battleship Scharnhorst, damaged at Brest and in the dash of the German fleet through the channel, has been repaired and is expected to return to service shortly atfer being 16 months out of action, Mr. Alexander said.

He called the United States east coast and the Caribbean a "happy hunting ground" for submarines "until our American comrades were able to mount convoy escorts in these regions.

"Since then," Mr. Alexander went on, "the situation over there has substantially improved and we are glad to have been able to render some assistance in this direction."

Gneisenau Stripped Down.

The battleship Gneisenau now lies dismantled at the Baltic port of Gydnia and the cruiser Prinz Eugen is completing repairs at a German port. These two vessels were with the Scharnhorst in the Nazi channel dash from Brest.

Of the task of convoying supplies to Russia trrough the Arctic, Mr. Alexander said:

"It probably was at its worst at mid-summer before the ice had receded northward and the convoys were forced to proceed in continuous daylight.

"With recession of the ice and some periods of darkness, the difficulties will tend to decrease a little but the problem remains fundamentally the same and the dangers are great.

Premier's Plane 60 Mi. Off Front

LONDON, Sept. 3 — (CP). — The aircraft carrying Prime Minister Winston Churchill on his recent trip to Russia at times flew within 60 miles of the Russo-German front lines, John Affleck 27, London, a senior light engineer on the trip said to-day.

Affleck said the big four-motor Liberator bomber carrying Mr. Churchill and other statesmen literally flew under the nose of the German luftwaffe. "Our ship would have made a real prize for the Germans if they had known about us" he said. "Fortunately, we didn't sight a single enemy craft during the entire trip."

He described the Prime Minister as an "amiable interesting man," who chatted pleasantly with the crew.

"There was a grand reception for Churchill when he reached Moscow" he related. "A band played the anthems of Great Britain, the United States, and Russia, and there were high Russian officials on hand."

Bomber Whistle For The "Drink"

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.(CP).—PO. J. B. Higham, D.F.C., of Assiniboia, Sask., who flew with his bomber crew from a Saarbruecken bombing raid to Canada and landed at Rockliffe air field early to-day was just a bit weary of questions about his whistle when the reporters freed him.

The whistle attached to the collar of his uniform blouse, shone brightly against the Royal Canadian Air Force blue.

Higham explained it first when he answered questions as he stood beside Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power.

"If we are forced down in the channel when it is dark or there is fog, then we blow the whistle to guide rescuers to us," he saaid.

As he moved from the field to a temporary dining room and then to another room where the reporters met him as a group, Higham continued to meet inquiries about the whistle.

By the time the interrogation was over, he had it down to:

"If you fall in the drink you blow it."

Cool Army To Prove Boon In Settling Post War Bloodlust Of Militaristic Nations

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The happy topic of hanging Herr Hitler was discussed in this column Tuesday and I intended to pursue it yesterday, but Rommel's make-or-break offensive intervened and it seemed best to deal with that because, after all, we must defeat the Fuehrer and then catch him before we can hang him.

Tuesday's article dealt with the Allied determination to destroy militarism utterly in Japan and Germany. This program would mean stripping these countries of every vestige of armament and the means of making arms. Nippon and the Reich likely would have to be policed by Allied military for many years. All the militaristic leaders would have to be liquidated by death or imprisonment.

In connection with "liquidation," Home Secretary Herbert Morrison yesterday declared in a speech in Britain that "the United Nations would accept no peace offer from Hitler unless it took the form of a promise, with guarantees of performance, of a collective suicide pact by the whole German leadership." I suspect the Minister was in part 'spoofing," although there's no reason to doubt he meant Hitler and his captains must be removed from the picture.

Are we to undertake it in hatred and bent on revenge? Or having handed out just punishment, are we to deal with it from the viewpoint of the golden rule? It's important that we make up our minds in advance.

I raise this issue because the cultivation of hatred is being advocated in some circles. The idea is not only to defeat and punish the enemy, but smash hell out of 'em for all time. In order to make this spirit effective, those who belong to this school of thought advocate the deliberate creation of hatred in the hearts of our soldiers, that is, the "savaging" of our young troops. That, of course, would pave the way for post-war savagery in our effort to change the world.

Anyway, with all these things done the Allies must then undertake the elimination of militaristic tendencies among the defeated people by a long and difficult process of education. Our success in this epochal experiment in remodelling the world will depend largely on the attitude in which we approach it.

Dr. A. H. Martin, of the Institute of Industrial Psychology, Sydney, Australia, has called the turn on this proposition. He says soldiers into whom blood-lust and hatred are in-

All Typewritten And Even Have Beefers Column

LONDON, Sept. 3—(CP) — Wall newspapers are meeting with growing success in British army camps and more than 30 such publications written by soldiers for soldiers and about soldiers are in operation.

Editorial staffs come from the rank and officer staffs. Some men were newspapermen in civil life. Others were professional men of various categories.

Published independent of official control and usually poted weekly, the papers are stout sheets the size of an average kitchen table-top. All the news matter, dealing almost exclusively with camp life, is typewritten. Cartoons and pictures are usually originals clipped from daily newspapers to suit the topic.

Many of these papers have provided room for a "beefers" column where rankers can scribble their grouses without breaking disciplinary rules and at the same time bring complaints to the attention of the commanding officers.

"The wall newspapers are stimulating and bring to light first-class talent in unexpected quarters," said one "editor." "We get down to real camp life. We interview new arrivals in camp and even manage to bag a senior officer now and then."

These papers have the unofficial blessing of army educhtional authorities and cost less than 50 cents each a week to produce.

France Begins To Wonder

Hopes of Winning Peace Fade as Laval Bets on Hun

VICHY, Sept. 3 — (AP). — The third anniversary of her entrance into a war which she lost in less than 10 months finds France wondering whether she will lose the peace as well.

In September, 1939, France bet on victory with the aid of Britain.

To-day Pierre Laval, as chief of the Vichy Government is openly betting on a German victory and the help which this conquered nation might obtain from a victorious Reich.

Bit by bit since the Armistice signed in Compiegne Forest in June, 1940, Vichy has severed her ties with the enemies of Hitler until the American nations and China are the only ones with which she even maintains diplomatic relations — except for conquered Greece.

Even relations with the Americas are under a severe strain at the moment because of Axis allegations that the United States has designs on Dakar and that Brazil has her eyes on French Guiana.

France meanwhile, is paying Germany $300,000,000 francs (about $6,900,000) a day for the maintenance of German forces now occupying three-fifths of her homeland. Most of her troops who were captured during the war still are prisoners in Germany.

RAF BOMBERS STRIKE ROMMEL'S LINES RECORD-BREAKING BLOWS

War Pinching Argentine Very Lightly

According to a report by J. A. Strong, Canadian Commercial Attache at Buenos Aires, Argentina, as of July 15, "there is still comparatively little outward evidence of the effects of the war in Argentina, apart form the developing shortages of certain raw materials."

The effect of these shortages is still scarcely reflected in the availability of essential consumer manufactured goods, but non-agricultural wholesale prices have risen sharply. Industrial employment is at an all-time high.

"Argentina," says the report, "is experiencing one of the most severe winters on record, and the fuel problem is consequently to the fore. Gasoline and fuel oil are being rationed. There has been little rain for several months, and this, combined with unusually severe frosts, has affected the condition of the winter pastures. It has been rather difficult to plow for wheat. Live cattle prices continue at very high levels. On the other hand, the unsaleable grain surpluses represent as serious a problem as ever. Corn is being used for fuel, and there has been an increasing consumption of feedstuffs due to the condition of the pastures. Corn is very cheap, but cattle are bringing unusually high prices."

The value of Argentinian exports during the first half of 1942 was 81.4 per cent. higher than for the corresponding period of 1941.

Woman Is Guilty Of Theft Of Rings

Mrs. Stella Krevoho was allowed to go on suspended sentence for two years by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after she had pleaded guilty to the theft of a wedding ring and a diamond ring from Mrs. Sadie Smith.

The woman said that she had been drinking at the time the offence was committed. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., agreed to the suspended sentence, conditions of which required the accused to make restitution of $2.85 she had obtained from a local shoemaker by using the rings as security and also $11.70 as costs of the court.

Mrs. Dorothy Maguire, police matron, testified that Mrs. Krevoho had admitted stealing the two rings from a box in a bedroom in the home of Mrs. Smith during a visit. She had taken the rings to a shoemaker who repaired her shoes and loaned her $2.50, keeping the rings as security.

The rings had been recovered, Mrs. Maguire stated.

Lay $500 Fines On Tire Dealers

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—Magistrate Frederick Gullen yesterday imposed fines of $400 on Earl Holmes and $100 on his son, Leonard, plus costs of trial, court and witnesses on charges of violating provisions of the Department of Munitions and Supply Act in the sale of an inner tube. Senator Salter Hayden, defense counsel, said the convictions will be appealed.

Earl Holmes, head of the Uptown Battery and Tire Service, was convicted of selling an inner tube in February to A. W. Mitchell of Pickering, and on two charges of aiding and abetting in the sale. His son was found guilty on one charge of aiding and abetting. Two other charges of aiding and abetting against Holmes and his son were dismissed.

"The tube was sold without the permit required by the Department of Munitions and Supply Act," Magistrate Gullen ruled in a written judgment. "As owner, in control of the business, Earl Holmes was responsible for the sale."

Crown Counsel J. Singer urged that "an exemplary penalty" be imposed as a deterrent to others and pointed out that the maximum fine was $500 and a jail term up to three months.

Senator Hayden said Holmes already had suffered heavily financially, having lost from $2,500 to $2,800 in business since his place was padlocked. "Holmes retained his staff until the ban was lifted and that cost him plenty," he added.

stilled in training are likely to suffer from intellectual blackout. He approves the recent order by British army commanders that the use of strong language in attempts to produce blood-lust and hate during battle-training must be stopped.

There's no doubt of the danger of trying to savage troops. Hatred is one of the most unbalancing of primitive emotions. The soldier who is obsessed with it is the one likely to be killed, and the commander likewise afflicted would be unsuited for leadership.

I've seen a mighty lot of killing in war, and my experience is that with rare exceptions a soldier has a rather impersonal feeling in carrying out his job. He dispatches his man as he would a dangerous animal which is threatening him.

Now of course a soldier must be taught to kill, though he should be schooled to work coolly. He must understand that war lowers the value of human life. He must be drilled in every trick of killing, and be made tough in the face of death. But once he has it fixed in his mind that war means killing and perhaps being killed, he doesn't need hated to steel his arm.

As regards hatred, Dr. Martin says "we can well stimulate higher mental processes which will help us win the war." If that is true, then it strikes me the stimulation of cool and collected thought, rather than the hysteria due to unbridled hatred, will help us win the peace. It will help us help the other fellows get rid of the militaristic spirit which has been torturing the world. And right now is the time to begin to cultivate that idea.

Canucks Raid Saarbruecken, In Canada Inside 24 Hours

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Sept. 3—(CP).—Five young veterans of the air war are in Canada today, direct from the skies over Germany.

They flew over the fire-lighted German city of Saarbruecken and the electric-lighted cities of Eastern Canada within the space of 24 hours. They left the grim rattle of German anti-aircraft guns behind them and flew to a welcome from the Prime Minister of Canada and a rousing cheer from a crowd of Air Force officers, newspaper reporters and photogaphers.

The five modern musketeers of Canada constitute the crew of one of the Wellington bombers which blitzed Saarbruecken as Cologne and Rostock were blitzed before. They are one of the crack crews in the famous Canadian Moose squadron, rated one of the most effective of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. squadrons now scourging Hitler's Reich.

The men are Pilot Officer John B. Higham of Assiniboia, Sask., and Sergeants Arthur Loach of Islington, Ont.; Donald (Four-Gun) Morrison of Sherbrooke, Que.; Sigurd (Siggy) Lee of Kildonan, Man., and Karl Sveinson of Elfros, Sask.

Individually and collectively a milder group of young Canadians could be found nowhere but as a crew they have unloaded some 150,000 pounds of high explosive and incendiary bombs on Germany. They were in the Cologne raid and in every big operation since then.

For a Spot Of Leave.

Now they have earned a spell of leave and tour of duty in Canada instructing other airmen who will follow the paths they have marked out to the battle areas of the second Great War.

The opportunity of flying back to Canada from a raid on Germany was given to them, as Flt.-Lt. E. B. (Tim) Reid of Toronto put it, in order to bring the war a little closer to the minds of the Canadian people. Reid, a public relations officer, accompanied the men on their flight back to Canada.

Here is a log of 29 hours of flying out of the 30 hours which ended at 12.10 a.m. today when they landed at nearby Rockcliffe airport:

outstripped production in the first three years of the last war," he told his audience, "while at the same time the very heavy naval losses in all categories of ships was practically made good in each category and in one or two cases exceeded."

Discussing the Mediterranean situation, Mr. Alexander said that "neyer once has the Italian battle fleet dared to proceed west of Sardinia, or since the battle of Matapan in March, 1941, to the east of that cape in Greece although on paper the strength of the Italian fleet should give them sea superiority through the Mediterranean."

Duce's Fleet Hard Hit

He said that of the seven eight-inch gun cruisers with which Mussolini started the war, two or possibly three remained and that only seven were left from Italy's original dozen six-inch cruisers.

The Italians also have suffered heavy submarine losses and probably now have in service little more than half the number they had at the war's start.

Mr. Alexander said that in spite of naval losses in the Far East "we now have been able to build up a pqwerful fleet in the Indian Ocean.

"It was aircraft from carriers of this fleet," he said, "which co-operated successfully in the capture of Diego Suarez (Madagascar) last May and units of the fleet covered the landing."

In 35 operations, he said, 815 planes have been flown from aircraft carriers to the island fortress of Malta in the Mediterranean in slightly more than a year.

To date the Admiralty has announced loss of 423 warships, among which were three battleships, two battle cruisers, five aircraft carriers, 24 cruisers, 85 destroyers, 39 submarines, and 14 armed merchant cruisers as well as other small but valuable craft such as trawlers and corvettes.

Mr. Alexander's statement recalled publication in July of an unofficial report that 4485 warships then were on duty with the navy which were not in service at the outbreak of the war and that, with the allowance for sinkings, at least 500 warships of all sorts must have been delivered by shipyards in about 30 months.

He said the United States forces were conducting themselves in a manner worthy of the country's highest, proudest traditions and that none of the early pioneers showed greater fortitude or determinaation. The men who fought in 1918, 1863 and 1776, he said, showed no greater gallantry or selfless devotion to duty and country. Furthermore, he said, American men realize why they are fighting.

"You know," he said, "that the road which has led you to the Solomon Islands, or to the Red Sea, or to the coast of France, is in fact an extension of main street, and that when you fight, anywhere along that road, you are fighting in the defence of your own homes, your own free schools, your own churches, your own ideals."

All Britons Stop 15 Mins. To Pray

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(CP).—Britain's war industries were silenced for 15 minutes to-day as workers and soldiers, clerks and statesmen joined in prayer for victory on the third anniversary of Britain's declaration of war.

Services were held in churches and in chapels of the armed services. The BBC breadcast a prayer and sacred music.

Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, Archbishop of Westminster, requested during services at Westminster Cathedral, a special prayer for Pope Piu XII who, he said, was "maligned and misrepresented by malice or ignorance on this side and that."

Clement Attlee, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, said the opening of the fourth year of the war "finds free people united, resolute, eager and better prepared to meet enemy at sea, on land and in the air."

"We must expect further difficulties,' Mr. Attlee saaid, "but we can be certain that, however long the way, the issue is sure."

The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial typical of British comment, said: "The long fight for survival is ending; the fight for victory must soon begin."

Gas Racketeer Given 30 Days

STRATFORD, Ont. Sept. 3 — A jail term of 30 days, and a fine of $200, and costs on each of two charges under the Gasoline Rationing Regulations were imposed upon George Harron, Stratford, yesterday by Magistrate J. A. Making after Harron pleaded guilty. The court ordered an additional two months jail term if the fine was not paid.

Harron pleaded not guilty to a third charge, obstructing a police officer, and hearing was adjourned until September 10.

Gasoline ration coupons were submitted by the Crown as evidence and W. Shaw, service station operator testified that these coupons, for which Harron obtained gasoline during May, June and July, were for Category B, Category D and commercial vehicles. The court was told that Harron's Category D ration book had been replaced with an A Category book some time ago.

Harron testified that since his ration book was suspended and seized by Stratford police on July 15 he had obtained gasoline with loose coupons which had been placed in his car unsolicited by persons unknown.

British Units Slash Axis From 2 Sides

Axis 1st Day Gains Fail To Pierce Any Of Defence Line

CAIRO, Sept. 3 — (AP).—Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis army moving forward for a showdown in the Battle of Egypt, was subjected to a record-breaking bombardment yesterday by R.A.F. and American planes supporting counter-attacking ground troops, British Headquarters announced to-day.

Never before since the start of the North African campaign, a communique said, have so many bombing sorties been carried out in the course of a day.

From dawn uptil after dark Allied bombers shuttled over the battle area, unloading high explosives on Rommel's communications and troop concentrations in an effort to break up his preparations for an all-out assault on the El Alamein defence line.

At the same time enemy armored forces which had sifted through the minefields in the Ruweisat-Himeimat sector on the extreme southern flank of the line were attacked from the east and south-east by mobile British forces.

Many Axis vehicles were destroyed, Headquarters declared.

No Important Gains.

Assurance that the Axis forces had not achieved any important gains since they made their first offensive gesture on Sunday was given by Lt.-General B. L. Montgomery, commander of the British 8th Army, who said last night at his field Headquarters.

"In no place and in no part of the 8th Army area have the enemy penetrated our organized defence area."

Gen. Montgomery's report on the situation, however, made it clear that thus far the battle—on which the fate of Egypt may hinge—is still in its opening phase and that the main bodies of the opposing armies had not yet met.

From the disposition of Rommel's armored strength, concentrated mainly between the tip of the Qattara depression and El Ruweisat Ridge 12 miles north, it appeared he might attempt to turn the Bri-

Another Grateful Man Praises Syntona Highly

Says It Ended Rheumatic Pains in Joints, Muscles and Back, Appetite Improved; No More Stomach Distress and He Feels Better in Every Way.

Aids in Assimilation of Food and Elimination of Excess Acids and Waste Matter.

"It's a real pleasure for me to tell you what Syntona has done for me. All my friends remark how much better I am looking and it sure feels great to be rid of those rheumatic pains," said Mr. George Walters, Strathroy, Ont., recently.

"Before I started taking Syntona a few weeks ago, I had pains all through my muscles and joints. I was subject to backache, headaches, and dizzy spells; I slept poorly and felt tired out. Everything I ate seemed to disagree with me. Food just soured in my stomach, causing gas, bloating and heartburn.

"Now I am relieved of all those aches and pains; I don't get those gassy pains in my stomach like I used to. I get a good night's sleep, and I don't tire so easily. I am free of those splitting headaches and dizzy spells, too. I will surely know what to take next time I get feeling rundown."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to treat the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related in their functions that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should nourish the body only ferments in the stomach and poisonous waste matter remains in the system.

If you, who read this, suffer like Mr. Walters did, get yourself a treatment of Syntona to-day, and see how it will help you, too. Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.

Power Shortage To Hit Lighting

GALT, Ont., Sept. 3 — (CP). — "The most important problem today is the impending power shortage facing Southern Ontario," declared Hydro Commissioner J. Albert Smith speaking to the annual convention of District No. 6 of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association held here. The district comprises 34 municipalities in Western Ontario.

H. O. Hawke of Galt was re-elected president and F. H. May of St. Mary's as vice-president. Directors elected were F. E. Welker, St. Jacobs, George Eiffert, Tavistock, and H. Kress, Waterloo.

Commissioner Smith addressed the convention in the absence of Dr. Thomas Hogg, chairman of the H.E.P.C., who, Mr. Smith said, "has just returned from an arduous trip to Western Canada and is leaving immediately for the East on urgent war work."

Predicting imminent regulations on the use of Hydro power Mr. Smith said an announcement from the Dominion Power Controller was expected shortly, to become effective toward the end of the month. Initially, he said, it is expected restrictions will be applied to ornamental lighting, show window and showcase lighting as well as lighting for decorative purposes. In addition there will be restrictions on outdoor field lighting, including that for amusement and sports, on operation of air heaters or electric grates in stores and office buildings and also a limited curtailment of street lighting.

Commissioner Smith said the area to be affected by the regulations would include the whole of Southern Ontario from Windsor to the Quebec boundary and as far north as the Georgian Bay district.

The Old Remedy For Children

Few people, especially children, escape an attack of summer complaint during the hot weather.

Summer complaint begins with a profuse diarrhœa very often accompanied by vomiting and purging. The matter excreted from the stomach has a bilious appearance, and that from the bowels watery, whitish, ill-smelling, or even odorless.

When the children show any sign of looseness of the bowels the mother should administer a few doses of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry so as to bring quick relief.

This medicine has been on the market for the past 94 years. Refuse substitutes. They may be dangerous.

Get "Dr. Fowler's" and feel safe.

Where Will Japan Move Next?

Foreign Minister Togo has disappeared from one of the key posts in the Tokyo Government, and his resignation leaves the militarists completely in control. His resignation comes at a time when news from China claims that Japanese armies are being moved to strike against Russia in Siberia. No doubt the Germans are urging this attack, but things have not been going so well lately for the Japs, for they have received hard knocks in the Solomons and New Guinea.

Togo was the man who negotiated the pact with Russia, and his sudden retirement is seen as a pretty safe bet, that the Japs are attempting to save face and plan soon to move against Russia.

However, there is still India and her great wealth, and sooner or later unless the war lords of Japan suffer, some severe setbacks they will attack. The present information is that the Japs are fortifying their defences along the Indo-China border and this appears to be a defensive attitude which is logical if they are concentrating for the northern attack.

Making Better War Equipment

After the attack on Dieppe General McNaughton was asked by Canadian newspapermen in England how the design of Canadian war weapons compared with those of the Germans. His reply was: "We are not satisfied, and I hope we never will be."

That remark trails in the air the question how we can make better instruments of war. Ask the average man how we should go about making new and better weapons, and he could suggest nothing more than the vague generalities that were hurled at the present government in the first months of the war by members of parliament whose knowledge of such matters was perhaps no more exact than that of the man in the street.

Make heavy trucks for motor transport! That is comparatively easy. We did that long ago. Canadian trucks, thousands of them produced in an Oshawa factory, poured across the sea in the first phase of the war. They were rolling on the fringe of the African desert when we had hopes that we were about to push the Huns back to Algiers.

Make electric motors! Many a Peterborough man has a fairly accurate idea of how to go about that highly important undertaking, given engineering skill, expert draftsmanship and experienced tradesmen through the stages of moulding or welding, winding armatures and all the rest. That is a highly specialized job, and in Peterborough we know something about it.

Over at Johnson Motors they have their own technic. Canadian Raybestos have men who are experts under their own roof. But, when new ideas have to be reduced to working form and mechanical perfection, there is first the stage of experiment, scientific enquiry, the co-ordination of different but associative skills. These Canadian industries that are affiliates of parent companies in the United States do not need to set up highly expensive research departments. They would be only a duplication of the laboratories which serve the plants on both sides of the border.

And so it is obvious that our facilities of production are far greater than our accommodation for the inventing of new ways, their trial and testing and all the rest of that approach to actual output. We haven't the engineer skill in this country that represents anything like a fair proportion to our total number of employees and capital invested. General Electric, Westinghouse, Quaker Oats, Johns Manville, all these American companies in normal times have active research departments. We have not. There may be a few exceptions here and there, and we know the universities have their technical departments, but the general fact is that the experimenting for the things we do in our factories, for the making of the machines we in turn use, is largely confined to the parent companies.

Then, we are suddenly faced with the specialized industry of making munitions, and men who no more about it than the rest of us call upon the nation to start pouring out the machines of war. The United States has marvellous resources of research, news is already emerging about the new war products they are already bringing out. On the other hand, Canadian industry has done a grand job of production, but from Bren gun designs, tank designs, field gun designs supplied by others. This does not mean we have invented nothing, but our score in that column is small beside the vast total of our actual output.

Fighting On Twelve Fronts

While war news in the past few weeks has been bad for the United Nations and people are demanding a second front it might be well just at this time as we enter the fourth year of war to review Britain's activities. British armies, according to British Information Services, have fought on twelve fronts; the British Navy has never ceased to fight on the Seven Seas; and the R.A.F. has been engaged in daily battles, minor and major, in the air in every quarter of the globe, including Russia.

This has only been possible, according to Lord Croft, the British War Office's Joint Parliamentary Secretary, because Britain has been able to produce more munitions and more ships than any country of its size in all recorded history.

From the day the British troops entered Belgium, British armies have not ceased for a single week to fight. A list of British victories on some of these fronts would include: the reconquest of British Somaliland; the destruction of the Italian forces in Ethiopia; the occupation of the whole of Syria; and the quelling of an Axis-inspired rebellion in Iraq, thus frustrating German ambitions toward the vitally important Middle-Eastern oil fields.

In all these victories vast territories have been taken from Axis domination or menace; and huge armies have been overthrown by numerically inferior British forces.

If that had not happened the British in Egypt and Libya would have had to meet not only the onslaught of Rommel's forces, but also the powerful Axis armies from East Africa, and possibly attack from Syria and Iraq. The British have also supported Iran and joined hands with Russia, while Madagascar has been safeguarded from the Japanese.

In Ethiopia British forces which at no time exceeded 20,000 infantry and never more than sixty-eight field guns, covered 1,500 miles in ninety-four days, destroying an army of 170,000, of which 96,000 were infantry with 400 guns.

But the greatest triumph was that of Wavell's army of 30,000 who, in two months in Libya, accounted for 250,000 Italians in an advance of 400 miles.

Another colossal front has had to be built up, stretching from the Western desert to the Caspian, thence along the whole northern frontier and the whole of the east coast of India.

But this is not the whole story of British commitments. Other important places have had to be heavily armed and sustained: Gibraltar, Malta, the West Coast of Africa, the Faroes, Iceland. In the last two are now strong forces from the United States.

The epic of Malta is known to all the world. Last April more than 600 aircraft, mostly German, came in endless waves to subdue this island fortress. At one time the defence was reduced to a dozen fighters. Since then hundreds of aircraft have reinforced Malta, including those delivered by the U.S. aircraft carrier Wasp.

According to Lord Croft, the Axis casualties were at least 500,000, and this greatly exceeds the total British military casualties on all fronts. The number of Axis prisoners in British hands is in excess of British prisoners captured.

This has meant a heavy demand on shipping. Millions of tons were needed to transport men and supplies and here are some of the figures: 950,000 men, 4,500 tanks, 6,000 aircraft, nearly 5,000 pieces of artillery, 50,000 machine guns and more than 100,000 mechanical vehicles. While these convoys were on the High Sea the British Navy had to protect them, at first alone, and then with the help of the United States fleet. There were also convoys of food and raw material for the British Isles.

Mrs. Roosevelt was recently asked, what the British army was doing? and her reply was, "They are fighting all over the world."

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is not reported whether or not the two British pilots who had to make a forced landing in a nudist camp are suffering from shell shock.

The state is now going to put everybody to work. That is in striking contrast to the conditions of a few years ago when hundreds of thousands of Canadians couldn't buy a job.

LONDON, Sept. 3 —(CP)—London representatives of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania enjoy a position unprecedented in the history of British diplomacy. In fact, even the foregn office is unable to explain the exact status of these delegates from states now part of the Soviet Union.

Names of the three ministers—August Torma of Estonia, Charles Zarine of Latvia and Bonius Balutis of Lithuania—appeared last February in the official foreign office list of accredited foreign representatives.

But the Russian embassy objected and publication of the list was suspended—paper economy was the reason given at the time. The most recent official publication omits the Baltic ministers in the main list.

Their names appear, however, on the back page as representatives no longer included in the main category of accredited representatives to this country but still "personally" accorded diplomatic privileges and accredited as diplomats.

They are not entitled to send out a diplomatic pouch and have no other national privileges, but are allowed individual concessions enjoyed by the diplomatic representatives of other countries. They are not subject to taxation, are immune from arrest and continue to receive gasoline allowances for their diplomatic cars.

Stoker Walter James Edwards, the House of Commons first "lower deck" member, puts higher pay for the services at the top of his parliamentary platform.

"Service men who give their liberty for the defence of their country should be paid at least five shillings (about $1.13) a day," said Edwards in an interview after his election by acclamation as Labor member for Whitechapel.

"Admirals and commanders in the Commons have never been on the lower deck. They don't know what it's like. I do."

Descriptive gem from Irene Ward in the Commons: "The treasury bench are like closed oysters when they get together to try to whitewash themselves."....Thelma Cazalet, East Islington member, is to be known in future as Mrs. Cazalet Kier, explaining "I think it's easier to have one name; having had two for three years I know how complicated it can be." First member to be married in the Commons' crypt, she is wife of Lt.-Cmdr. David Kier, a political journalist in peacetime.

Noel Baker, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of war transport, says he can't state the number of towels stolen from trains during the last year. But present losses average about 28,000 a year.

Rupert de la Bere, M.P. for Evesham, is noted for the originality and assiduity with which he pursues any campaign he tackles. Right now he's gunning for the battalions of public relations officers in the government. His figure shows they number 3,614 at a cost of £1,165,080 a year.

G. M. Garro-Jones, Labor member for parliament for North Aberdeen, has joined the government as parliamentary secretary to the ministry of production, a new office created to relieve Oliver Lyttleton of some of his onerous work as minister.

Claims that Garro-Jones is the first Welshman ever to sit at Westminster for a Scottish seat, have been refuted. Lanark's representative in 1894, the late Lord St. Davids, came from Wales.

The Conservative party has resumed the practice of publishing speakers notes for use throughout the country. This was abandoned some time ago in deference to the view that party politics were out of place in wartime.

The summer parliamentary recess was anything but a holiday for cabinet members. Sir Stafford Cripps was on the job from early morning until dusk, Anthony Eden was just as busy and Herbert Morrison and Sir John Anderson had little more than a week-end to themselves.

Britain's Sacrifice in India

A favorite theme of Axis propaganda just now is that Britain is retarding for its own ends the industrial development of India. These facts, given by a friend who is an expert on the subject, should be of interest. In conceding fiscal autonomy to India in 1921 Great Britain made the greatest economic renunication ever initiated by an Imperial Power in the interests of a politically dependent country. Fiscal autonomy meant that, in practice, India was given power to impose protective tariffs in the interests of Indian industry, irrespective of their effect on imports from Great Britain as well as from competing countries outside the Empire.

The most conspicuous but by no means the only readjustment thus effected was the virtual elimination of the exports of Lancashire cotton piece goods to India, which in the course of little more than two decades were reduced from 3,000,000,000 yards per annum to 300,000,000 yards. If, in the period succeeding the last war, Lancashire became known as a "depressed area" the reason was that virtually the whole of the mill production formerly allocated to India was transferred to mills in India, under Indian control and financed by Indian capital.

In varying degrees similar experiences befell other British industries exporting to the Indian market. A series of high-level tariffs were imposed by the Government of India, with the full concurrence of the Indian legislature, with the result that one import trade after another was reduced to insignificant proportions, and British exports declined pro rata. Indian industries, financed mainly by Indian investors, expanded their production and sales as imports declined. —Sussex Daily News (Brighton).

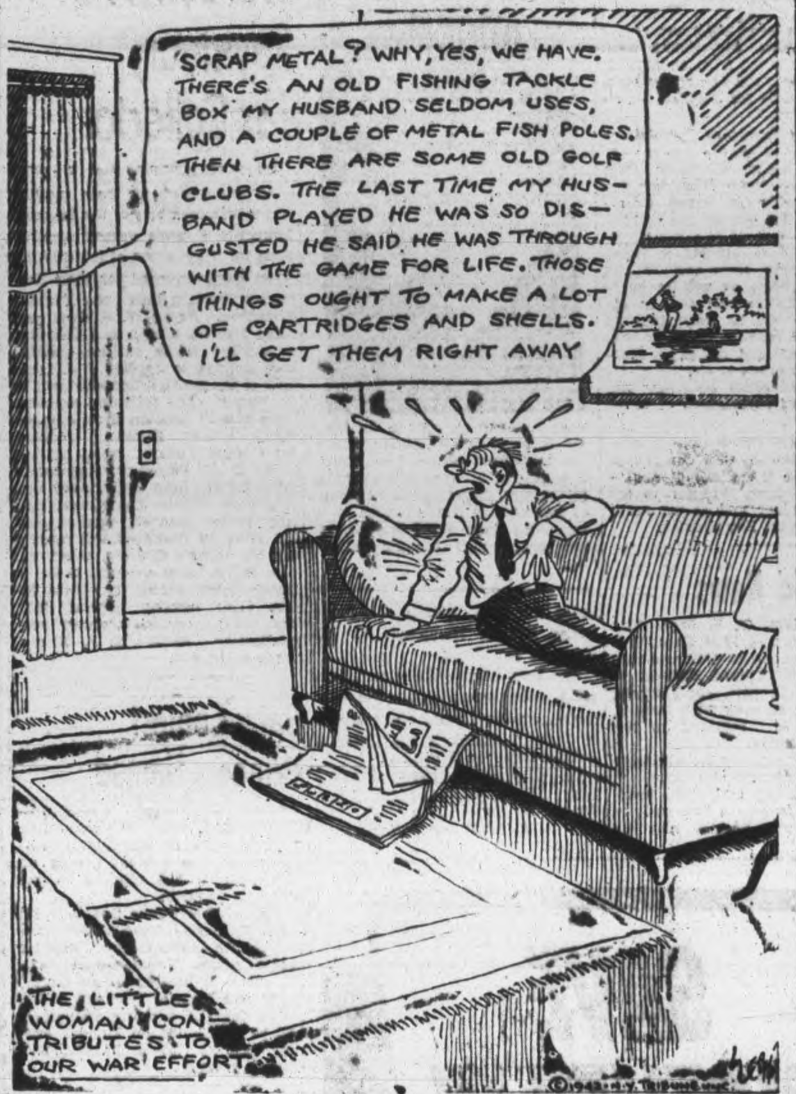
LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT



Time Against Hitler's Hordes

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

REPORTS from the two most crucial battles of the moment — in Egypt and Russia — do not yet furnish a clear enough pattern to warrant extremes of optimism or pessimism. In both cases, however, time is running in favor of Russian and British defenders.

The siege of Stalingrad is now seven days old. In that time there is every evidence that the Nazi High Command has hurled the full weight of German and allied reserves into the attack, expecting a quick kill: but the attackers have been held or thrown back northwest of the city and reduced to an inching forward progress on the more critical southwest sector.

A Berlin claim that the Volga had been reached by an armored spearhead north of the city appears to be premature. It is only to the south that any immediate danger of a break through the far-flung outer defenses seems great. And the terrain in that sector, where Berlin claims to have dented Russian defenses to within a dozen miles of the outskirts of the city itself, becomes even more susceptible of defense with every additional foot of advance.

THRUST CONTAINED

The time loss in the synchronised Nazi attack on British forces in Egypt, now stiffened with American air and tank units, is even more obvious. General Rommel lashed out three days ago in his attempt to free his armored divisions from the handicap of a narrow and restricted front. If he had gained any further ground since the first lunge carried his tanks a reported eight miles into British minefield defenses laid to impede rather than to halt him, there has been no word of it from any source.

By every indication the thrust to turn the British left flank where it rests on the Qattara depression has been contained. Informed London comment suggests that the Nazi desert warfare specialist may have been forced already to alter his plan of action and attempt the risky business of crossing the sub-sea-level narrows of the depression southward to gain freedom of movement for his tanks.

That is within the range of possibility. It is less than twenty miles from the northern to the southern rim of the great salt marsh sink at the indicated point of the main Nazi attack. That narrow strip would be harder and slower going for Rommel's mechanized forces, however, than any ground they have yet crossed in Libya or Egypt.

READY FOR MOVE

According to reports from London, British defense dispositions have been made in expectation of such an attempt. German tank and truck columns seeking to slog across its soft going would be prime slow-motion targets both for air bombers and long-range guns.

And somewhere the main strength of British tank power is still withheld from action. Cairo advices indicate it is not only more powerful numerically than Rommel's available panzer units, but now heavily rearmed with American-made land battleships.

It seems obvious that the new British commander in Egypt, General Alexander, is hoping for a chance to turn the tables on his foe. He has been noted as an ardent disciple of the strategy of attack, of attack even when the engagement is essentially a defensive one, as in this case, with the Alexandria prize within hearing of enemy gun rumbles.

The chance for a shift from that defensive mission to one of offense must come if Rommel is held pinned within the narrow corridor of desert between the sea and the Qattara Depression. It has always had trap possibilities since his eastward drive was stemmed two months ago on the El Alamein-depression line.

Canada Enters War's Fourth Year

By Maurice Desjardins, Canadian Press Staff Writer

VALCARTIER, Que., Sept. 3—(CP).—The young French-Canadian habitant of Quebec has traded his pitchfork for a bayonet and swoops over hills and dales in a valentine tank instead of a tractor

In military training camps from coast to coast and commando schools overseas, Jean Baptiste awaits the signal for a fight that will surely come when he can "fix dat fellow Hitler and fix him good."

"No better fighter anywhere," was the tribute paid recently by Defence Minister Ralston to the French-Canadian soldier. Descendants of a long line of fighting settlers, the habitant farmers and woodsmen have adapted themselves to army life in a remarkable way.

Hundreds have joined the Royal Canadian Air Force, and you'll find many a bearded tar on corvettes of the Royal Canadian Navy who was born and raised in picturesque fishing villages of the Gaspe coast.

The intense love of the habitant for the soil of Quebec sometimes finds him reluctant to leave the plow and don khaki. A French-Canadian recruiting officer, in explaining this situation, put it this way:

"You see, love of soil is a religion with young habitants and conscription has been a burning political issue since birth. In rural areas the educational background is lacking for an appreciation of some of our national problems.

"This, however, has nothing to do with fear of combat or even lack of patriotism. It is just a mental attitude that has been built up for generations and cannot be pulled down overnight. When the habitant does enter the army, he goes all out and his performance, past and present, shows no trace of physical incompetency or moral fear."

No task is too hard, no route march too strenuous for these rugged sons of the soil, made husky and strong by long hours of toil in fields and bush. With their teeth clamped over a corncob pipe filled with fragrant 'tabac canayen,' they grin their way through the back-checking chores of modern warfare with a zest that impresses their city-bred comrades.

Thousands of well-drilled French-Canadian troops now are overseas, with regiments including the Royal Vingt-Deuxieme (22nd), Le Fusiliers Mont-Royal, le Regiment de la Chaudiere, le Regiment de Maisonneuve, and they have pledged to add battle honors to their regimental flags. French-Canadians have fought at Hong Kong and Dieppe.

For leadership they look up to an imposing group of "Canadians" like Maj.-Gen. L. R. Lafleche, Maj.-Gen. T. L. Trembley, Maj.-Gen. P. E. Leclerc, Brig.-Gen. E. deB. Panet, Brig. Georges P. Vanier, Air Commodore Albert de Niverville and Rear-Admiral V. Brodeur.

Letter To The Editor

TWO DICTA

Letter in the Manchester Guardian.

—Sir,—Wide publicity has been given to the remarkable dictum of the President of th Board of Education that a person with a good Latin education can be expected to "take the internal combustion engine in his stride." At least equal publicity should be given to that of Sir John Russell in his recent Messel Lecture, that some of our troubles of today will continue "until one of them (the universities) takes a firm stand and refuses to give an honors degree to an arts student who knows nothing about science or to a science student who lacks a decent knowledge of English and of another language."—Yours, etc.,

CARGO-CARRYING PLANES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I see by the news columns that "there are 128,000,000 bushels of wheat in store at the Lakehead elevators, including the temporary annexbinnage at Fort William-Port Arthur."

I think that the folks who deplore the prospective "record crop" in the West of Canada in 1942 are either short-sighted or the inevitable problems of moving or housing the "30 million tons of all grains" on the prairies this year are so close to their eyes that they can't see the starving millions in Europe, nor the needs of our valiant Ally (Russia) as the brutal aggressor moves east—even though that "movement" is paved with Nazi dead!

The other day, for example, the newspapers carried a feature story from Washington, indicating the possibilities of 5,000 cargo-planes as troop carriers, and concluding that "such a fleet could ferry across some 500,000 troops to Britain within a single day...."

It is an alluring thought—if we had the 5,000 cargo-planes But the fact that North Americans are even thinking in such terms is, in itself, constructive — and appropriately destructive to the peace of mind of the sadistic leaders momentarily in charge of the Axis peoples?

This farmer, however, likes to think of that carrying capacity in terms of the vital bread-grain. It may come as something of a shock to urban readers to learn that if the United Nations decided to deliver, say, 100 million bushels of Canadian wheat at Moscow—none too much, Mr. Editor, if we bear in mind the loss to Russia of "the golden Ukraine" and now the Don Valley and part of the Caucasus—it would take the fleet of 5,000 super cargo planes just three months, provided they could land on Russian air fields with their cereal freight (preferably from United Kingdom bins) every morning!

It could be done and it may be done; but meanwhile the Canadian people should lift and house the precious crops, in the sure knowledge that myriad lives are in this "harvest" balance?

SHORTAGE OF MEAT?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—If you will kindly permit me a small space in your valuable paper to say that I think that your reporter has been allowed to make a very serious mistake by his report on the meat situation in Monday's paper.

In the first place it is not a fair report as the three shops mentioned do not supply all of Peterborough. In the second place it does not serve any good purpose to make the people jittery in reporting shortages of food supplies.

A Bible Message For Today

Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes...My soul cleaveth unto the dust; quicken thou me according to thy word.—Ps. cxix, 12, 25.

And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me....And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully; and he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits? And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.—Luke xii, 15-21.

Sixty-eight Vessels Launched In U.S. In August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3— (AP)— United States shipyards delivered 68 new cargo vessels and large tankers in August, the Maritime Commission announced yesterday, giving the total as 753,600 deadweight tons. August production fell below July when 71 ships, totalling 790,300 deadweight tons were delivered.

West Coast yards went back into first place for the country by delivering 31 ships. Atlantic Coast, yards which led last month, delivered 24 ships, and Gulf Coast yards turned out 12. One ore carrier was completed on the Great Lakes.

The California Shipbuilding Corporation, Wilmington, Calif., delivered 11 ships, the largest single producer for the month, and completed its original contract for 55 Liberty ships almost seven months ahead of schedule. The company now is working on another contract for 109 ships.

Average time for the August deliveries for all shipyards constructing Liberty ships was 83.3 days from keel-laying to delivery, compared with 108.4 days in July.

Ships delivered in August included 57 Liberty ships of 10,500 deadweight tons, four large tankers, three C-2 standard design cargo vessels, two freighters for Great Britain, one large combination passenger-cargo ship and one large Great Lakes ore carrier.

The Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation of Portland, a Henry J. Kaiser Company, which holds the record for speedy ship construction, delivered nine vessels in August with an average of 50.2 days from keel-laying to delivery.

Sub Gives Tip-Off That Waters Mined Off Baltimore

LISBON, Sept. 3— (AP)— The Portuguese sloop Pedronunes rescued 44 survivors from two lifeboats of the British freighter Clan McClyster sunk by an Axis submarine 40 miles north of Ponta Pargo, the Azores, and searched Wednesday for a third lifeboat carrying 16.

The torpedo explosion killed the ship's captain and radio operator.

The crew of the Portuguese freighter San Miguel said on arrival yesterday from the United States that a German submarine stopped them outside Baltimore July 19 and warned those waters were "strongly mined."

The U-boat captain said he had sunk four ships, including the Greek steamer Leonidas M. and told Capt. Antonio Dionisio where he could pick up the survivors. Capt. Dionisio said he picked up 29 survivors of the Greek ship and landed them in Baltimore.

Beard Lover

London, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP)

KELSO CHAPMAN of Galt, who walked into No. 1 District depot at Wolseley barracks today and signed up as an active service volunteer, served notice he would stage a one-man fight to retain a brisk black beard he was sporting.

He had fostered and cherished the beard for many years, he told military officials. "I know the army regulations allow soldiers to wear only a moustache, but surely there must be some place in the army for a man with a full beard," he said. He declared he would go "all out" to the highest officials in the army, if necessary to retain the beard.

North's Schools To Open Earlier

TORONTO, Sept. 3. — Secondary schools in Northern Ontario will be permitted to open on September 8— the same date on which elementary schools will be opened all through Ontario, Education Minister Duncan McArthur announced yesterday

"It has been found," said Dr. McArthur, "that such agricultural operations as are conducted in this area will be completed by that time."

He stressed that secondary schools in Old Ontario will not be opened until September 22. The late date was set some time ago to enable students to work in harvest projects

Dr. McArthur said the dividing line between Northern Ontario and Old Ontario, generally accepted for administration purposes, is that formed by the French River, Lake Nipissing and the Mattawa River.

In a late report on the work of the Ontario Farm Service Force, Alex. Maclaren, director, said the early fruit harvest was fairly well in hand, largely through the efforts of students mobilized into the force.

At the same time, he suggested that the main hope for apple picking rested in the co-operation of the secondary schools. Provision has been made, he said, whereby secondary schools may close for short periods during apple-picking time to permit students to work in the orchards.

Canadian Coal Output Climbs

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 —(CP) —Canadian mines produced 1,474,462 tons of coal in July, compared with 1,214,319 in the same month last year and with the July average for the past five years of 1,110,226, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

During the seven months ended July the cumulative production totalled 10,939,326 ton, compared with 9,676,067 in the corresponding period of 1941.

Coke production during July amounted to 275,000 ton, compared with 270,000 in the previous month and 259,000 in the same month a year ago.

The total for the seven months ended July this year was 1,910,000 tons, compared with 1,794,000 in the corresponding period of 1941.

New Post

The war services minister in the federal cabinet, Hon. Joseph Thorson, is being mentioned as almost certain choice for the presidency of the Exchequer Court of Canada, vacated by the death of Mr. Justice A. K. McLean. The war services department has been greatly reduced by the transfer of the bureau of public information to the wartime information board, and by transfer of the compulsory military service call-up, to the labor department.

King To Consider Cut In Liquor

TORONTO, Sept. 3. — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a letter to the Canadian Temperance Federation, promised definite consideration of suggestions by that body that the Government appeal to Canadian citizens to curtail use of alcoholic liquors for the duration of the war it was announced to-day.

Rev. A. J. Irwin, secretary of the Federation, wrote to the Prime Minister supporting a proposal that emerged in parliamentary debate on liquor question urging civilians to curtail alcoholic use.

In his letter Prime Minister King expressed the view that "far greater and more lasting results will be achieved by persuasion than by coercion," and took occasion to express his "personal commendation" of the efforts of the Federation in the direction of temperance education.

Malta's Top Ace Has Sixteen Huns To His Credit

Written for The Canadian Press
By HUGH BURNS

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 3.—(CP) —Canada's newest fighter ace, lanky, flaxen-haired Sgt. George Frederick Beurling, D.F.M. and Bar, of Verdun, Que., is a quiet youngster with a pleasant manner and engaging smile whose appearance belies his deadliness in the air.

The 20-year-old pilot, a born flier who builds model aircraft in his spare time, has his own theory about blasting Axis machines out of the blue skies of the Mediterranean and it is a sound one.

"The trick in fighting," he explained, "is to go straight and always remember there's sure to be another getting on your tail. Jerry in crafty and cunning, always lurking in the sun trying to catch you unawares."

Beurling, whose record is 18 enemy aircraft destroyed, holds the individual fighter pilot record for Malta. He has shot down 16 aircraft over this strategic island in the three months he has been here. He destroyed four Axis machines in one day and received an immediate award of the D.F.M. He was given a bar to the medal after his 16th Malta victory.

Besides his confirmed victories, he has a third of a share in another, two probables and six damaged. He was shot up four times and was forced to crash-land once.

Flew At 14

Buerling was born with flying in his blood. He first flew when he was 14 and before joining the Royal Air Force two years ago worked in an aircraft factory. He spent all the money he made on training and tuition flights. In his off time, when he's not building model planes or making up for lost sleep, he is bathing in the warm waters of the Mediterranean.

Pressed for his recollections of the day he shot down four enemy planes July 27, this diffident youth explained it was all such a mix-up that distinguishing details was difficult.

"It all took place in a matter of 1¾ hours," he recalled. "There were two waves of enemy bombers coming in groups of nine each and about 40 fighters. Our lot numbered seven. We slapped into them and there was a general mixup—pressing the button the instant a Jerry appeared in the sights, then swerving away in case there was another on our tail.

"I touched down once but it was hard going all the time."

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

There was plenty of excitement at the local ball orchard last night when Plazas pulled off a 9 to 7 win over Oshawa Colts to tie the O.A.S.A. intermediate playdown series into a knot. Both outfits took turns in leading; in fact the Peterborough club had to come from behind twice before they took the lead in the sixth and held it for the rest of the doings. The result was a big surprise to Soup Campbell and his Colts. After their decisive win in Oshawa Saturday the Motor City aggregation had last night's game already in the bag. With Dean McLaughlin on the mound they could see nothing but two straight wins. However McLaughlin did not display the mastery over the Plaza hitters that Preem Whiteley was in the Saturday game and as a matter of fact the Colt heaver found himself outpitched by Dave Wilson. The Peterborough box artist came through with a fine performance, in spite of shaky support, refused to lose control and was steady when Oshawa had men in scoring position. Of twelve hits chalked against him at least four were scratchy and four more were made in an innings in which the side should have been retired before the blows were delivered.

* * * * * *

Oshawa did a lot of crabbing over several decisions by Base Umpire Harold Dormer, and one of them in particular was a bad break against them. But Soup Campbell and his pals will probably forget to mention that they got none the worst of a decision from the same umpire in the second inning on a ball fielded by Art Heal. Little who was called safe on the play eventually scored the Colts' first run. And from the side it looked as if Hall could just as easily have been called out as safe at the plate on his misjudged home run in the fifth. It was a scrappy ball game and kept the crowd in a roar most of the way as the lead changed hands four different times before Plazas finally set up a winning margin and held it throughout the later stages of the argument. Wilson was the man of the hour for Plazas with Joe Blewett getting a share of the glory for his long home run, Jim Ellis for a couple of smart fielding plays, Eddie Starr for camping out under six foul flies, taking several on the run and Art Heal for the fine catch with which he wound up the ball game.

The third game to decide the Plaza-Oshawa round has been ordered to be played in Port Hope on Labor Day afternoon at 4 o'clock. This was the ruling of Convener Dave Leether last night after the clubs had failed to come to any agreement as to the locale for the rubber fixture. Plazas offered the Colts $50 to play the third game in Peterborough Saturday and also agreed to pay for two outside umpires. Oshawa turned down that bid and refused to give the Plazas any guarantee for making the trip to Oshawa. Finally the Colts agreed to toss a coin to see where the game would be played but Plazas bucked at that. Then the Port Hope setting was ordered.

Electrics Need Win

Electrics are faced with the task tonight of taking a fall out of Brintons or finding themselves two games down in the final series for the intermediate girls' championship and the Knox Cup. And two games is a big margin when the series is only a four-of-seven affair. It is up to the C.G.E. girls, therefore, to put up a supreme effort tonight to tie up the series by grabbing off the second game. Brintons who won handily Monday night figure on making it two straight and opening up a big lead. They will send Leila Hughes to the hilltop again and are counting on her to keep the Electric batters under control as she did in the opening game. Electrics are relying on Mary Larmer, pointing out that the Carpetmakers didn't do much with her left-handed offerings Monday night. The two teams should stage quite a battle when they clash at the Bowl tonight. It will get under way at 6.30 o'clock sharp.

Westclox girls, champions of the local league and conquerors of the Toronto representatives will meet Preston Rivulettes here on Monday, Labor Day afternoon at 3 o'clock at Riverside Park in the first game of the series with the Western Ontario winners. The second game will be played in Preston a week from Saturday. While little is known about the Preston team it is a cinch that they will have a strong outfit for they were good enough to win the honors in their own loop and then triumph over the Hamilton girls, defeating them in one game and playing a tie with them in the second, to win the round on the decision of the provincial executive. The announcement that there will be a game here on Labor Day afternoon will be welcome to Peterborough fans. It will be the only sporting event of the holiday week-end and will undoubtedly attract the biggest crowd of the summer. Westclox bid for the Ontario honors has local people pulling hard for them and the fans will be out in droves.

Cards Slip Back

New York Giants did quite nicely by their neighbors, the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday for they went out and licked the St. Louis Cards 8 to 2 while the Bums were nosing out Cincinnati Reds 3 to 2 in eleven innings and Brooklyn as a result increased their lead to 4½ games. Carpenter, who had not won a game for the Giants since July 3 turned in a fine card to beat St. Louis while the New Yorkers drove Max Lanier out of the game and hammered three other Card twirlers hard. Brooklyn had quite a job subduing the Reds and Manager Durocher had to call on five of his best pitchers to turn the trick, including Whit Wyatt who made his first appearance of the year in a relief role. Meanwhile in the American League New York and Boston both cleaned up double-headers. The Yanks took two from St. Louis, winning the first 3 to 2 in the tenth on Charlie Keller's home run and the second 6 to 0 when Hank Borowy pitched a one-hitter. The Red Sox defeated Detroit twice, 3 to 2 and 4 to 2, on good pitching by Charlie Wagner and Joe Dobson and hard hitting by Ted Williams who drove in four runs.

Here is how George Soup Campbell viewed the Plazas in their showing at Oshawa last Saturday as gleaned from the Oshawa sport column: "It's a long way from being over yet, of course, but we'll bet the softball fans in Peterborough were mighty puzzled on Saturday evening when they heard that their pets had been forced to absorb a 13-1 pasting up in Oshawa, at the hands of the Colts. The Liftlock City Plazas are far from being that bad. They didn't even look that bad, in a game where every "break" seemed to go to the Oshawa team while the visitors could do little, if anything right. However, you still cannot take it away from the classy Colts—they made Peterborough look very ordinary. "Preem" Whiteley showed the Plazas something in the way of speed. The hurler's fast one was zipping by them all afternoon and it was easy to see that the Plazas hadn't met that kind of pitching in their own league. They looked dangerous at the plate, guys like Heal, Kingdon, Crowe, Ellis, Sero and the Starr brothers, but they couldn't do much with that speedball. They gathered only five hits for one lone run, the only inning they got more than one safe hit. No, the Plazas certainly had trouble with Whiteley's pitching on Saturday and when "Da Preem" gets hot—he really sizzles and he was plenty hot on Saturday afternoon. Tom Parsons couldn't bridle the Colts. In the field, the Plazas looked like a good team. They didn't play in the game of course with that same cocky show of confidence which they displayed in their pre-game "warm-up" but they looked like a good ball team, with a steady infield and sound outfield department."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Battle for playoff positions in the International League is one of the hottest on record....Frank Hoerst of the Phillies held Pittsburg Pirates to two hits and still lost 5 to 2. Pirates got four runs in the eighth without a hit when Hoerst lost control....The Plazas were driving the ball back hard at McLaughlin last night. Sero nearly knocked the Colt pitcher over with a drive that was deflected over to Dalton who threw the batter out. Eddie Starr had more luck later on

Colts Beaten 9-7 As Locals Play Great Game

Plazas, coming from behind twice, evened up the O.A.S.A. Intermediate A playdown series with Oshawa at Riverside Park last night by defeating Colts, 9 to 7, in an exciting game. The biggest crowd of the year saw the hockey squad sew up the round in a battle in which both clubs took turns in leading.

Peterborough hero of the night was Dave Wilson, who went the route on the hilltop for the Plazas and really pitched himself a ball game. Wilson was steady and effective, allowing only one base on balls, and while Oshawa are credited with twelve hits off the big fellow's offerings, three or four of them were scratchy and at least four were made after the side should have been out. In addition to his good twirling, Wilson had three hits in four trips to the plate and was responsible for driving in four runs.

Dean McLaughlin was the Oshawa selection. He lived up to his reputation so far as having plenty of stuff was concerned, but Plazas did not find him much of a puzzle, certainly nothing as tough as Preem Whiteley proved in the first game. They got to him for ten hits, including a long homer by Joe Blewett and a triple by Art Heal.

Oshawa players did plenty of squawking over several decisions by Base Umpire Harold Dormer, particularly the call on Wilson in the second inning on which the Plazas scored two runs. Oshawa thought that Jubenville's throw had beat Wilson to the bag, and they were running in off the field when they discovered that the batter had been called safe. Plazas got none the worst of that decision, but the other plays that caused kicks from the visitors were close.

Oshawa threatened in the first when after two were out Trewin and Nelson were safe on errors by Nick Sero. Wilson, however, fanned the dangerous Jubenville to get out of trouble.

Sero singled with two out in the Plazas' half, but Blewett's long fly to right was taken by Trewin.

Colts Score First

The Colts broke into the score column in the second. With one out Little beat out a roller to Heal. V. McLaughlin grounded out to Wilson, Little going to second. Dean McLaughlin doubled just over Sero's head, scoring Little. Hall flied to Blewett.

Plazas came back with two in their half. With one away, Web Starr singled to right. Eddie Starr was called out on strikes, but Curley Scriver singled to left, sending Starr to third and taking second on the throw to the difficult corner. Wilson bounced a roller to Jubenville and was called safe at first, Starr and Scriver scoring on the play. Oshawa players kicked long and lustily over the decision. Heal rolled to Jubenville to wind up the inning.

Oshawa got a cheap run in the first of the third to tie the score. Dalton drew a walk and was sacrificed to second by Trewin. Nelson flied to Blewett, Dalton going to third after the catch. With Jubenville up, Dalton scored on a wild pitch over the screen after which Jubenville was retired on a nice catch of his long foul fly by Ellis.

Plazas went ahead again in the last of the fourth. Ellis started with a walk, and when Web Starr bunted McGee threw the ball to second and everybody was safe. Eddie Starr flied to centre. The runners moved up on a passed ball and Ellis scored on Scriver's fly to right. Wilson beat out a bunt and Webb Starr ran home on the play. Heal popped to Hall.

Oshawa's Big Inning

It was Oshawa's turn for a big inning in the fifth. Hall got a break when Scriver misjudged his easy fly to left, and it went over his head for a soft homer. The play at the plate was close. Dalton was safe on Sero's low throw to first. Trewin popped to Eddie Starr, but Nelson singled to right, sending Dalton to third. Jubenville got a lucky hit when Heal and Kingdon both went after his fly to short right, and it went for a hit, Dalton scoring. McGee bunted safely, Nelson counting. Little's fly to short left was taken nicely by Sero, but V. McLaughlin singled through the box, scoring Jubenville. D. McLaughlin fouled to Eddie Starr.

The Petes came back in the sixth to go in front again. Ellis started it by bouncing a single off Hall. W. Starr and E. Starr both flied to centre, but Scriver drew a pass and Wilson beat out a roller to short, Ellis scoring. Heal tripled down the right field foul line, scoring Scriver and Wilson. Kingdon flied to Trewin.

Blewett put the Plazas further out in front in the seventh when he came up with one out and drove a long homer over McLaughlin's head in deep centre field to make the score 9 to 6.

Wilson blanked the invaders in the sixth, seventh and eighth, but they got a single marker in the final frame. After Trewin had fanned Nelson tripled to left centre and scored on Jubenville's hit past second. McGee forced Jubenville on a nice play by Jim Ellis, and when Whiteley went in to hit for Little, Heal ran out into centre field and made a fine grab of the pinch-hitter's short, high fly to end the ball game. The box score:

Twin Bill Nets Relief $60,591

DETROIT, Sept. 3 — (AP) — A cheque for $60,591 is on its way today to Washington headquarters of United States Army Emergency Relief from the Detroit Baseball Company.

The money was from the doubleheader played by the Tigers and the St. Louis Browns at Briggs Stadium Aug. 23 from which total receipts, less federal taxes, were to go to the relief organization.

Owner Walter O. Briggs of the Tigers said receipts totalled $61,474 with $5,590 going to federal amusement taxes. The final contribution was increased by donations.

Indians Pick Up 3 Righthanders

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3 — (AP) — Cleveland Indians last night announced the purchase of three right-handed pitchers, including Bryan Stephens of the Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Club, leading flinger of the Three-I League with 20 victories and only four losses.

Stephens, then with the Beaumont Club, was one of 90-odd members of the Detroit Tigers' "chain gang" declared free agents by Baseball Commissioner Landis a couple of years ago. The Tribe said he was acquired from Cedar Rapids under the clubs' working agreement giving Cleveland the right to buy a player of its selection.

The Indians' newest hurler is six feet four inches tall, and reports to the club later this month with the other two pitchers purchased today, who have been the property of Cleveland's Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) farm. They are Allie Reynolds, 24, married and the father of three children, whose record is 18 and 5 with 189 strikeouts, and Paul Calvert, 24, who has won 17 and dropped 7.

All three purchases were straight cash deals, the Indians said.

"HOLIDAYS!" snorted Hank

"Holidays are necessary — if you can git them — even in war-time," said Mr. Picobac. "Napoleon found that out. He tried to do away with holidays! But it didn't work. Production dropped."

"I guess my production is about due for a drop, then," observed Hank, in town for a new pair of overalls. "Holidays! I never git any".

"Hank," said Mr. Picobac kindly, "listen to me. If you can't take holidays, you can always take a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke. A pipe of Picobac is a rest in itself. You should be thankful you live in a country which can produce such a blessing as this sunny, southern Ontario Burley".

Kampouris Slugs Royals 11-6 Win Over Bisons

(By The Associated Press)

Alex Kampouris, Montreal Royals' second baseman who led the International League in home runs in 1940 while playing with Newark Bears, displayed some of his old form last night as the Royals defeated Buffalo Bisons, 11-6, to go into a second-place tie with the Jersey City Giants.

Kampouris led a 14-hit attack against six Bison tossers with two homers and a double, driving in four tallies. Montreal jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first two innings, but Buffalo scored three times in the fourth and appeared to make a game of it.

"Kampy" then provided the Royals with a lead they never relinquished when he unloaded his first four-bagger of the evening in the fifth with two on. His second came in the seventh with the sacks empty.

Cliff Dapper and Tom Tatum also hit home runs for Montreal. Les McCrabb, who relieved Chuck Kehn in the fourth, gained credit for the triumph.

Tommy Byrne of the pennant-winning Bears allowed only five hits as he outpitched Tom Delacruz and Charles (Red) Barret to hang up a 1-0 victory over Syracuse. It was Byrne's 17th conquest of the season against four losses.

Jersey City Giants and Baltimore Orioles split a doubleheader at Oriole Park with the Birds copping the first 7-6 and the Giants the nightcap 13-4.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Rochester Red Wings had an off day.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, famous British racing driver, set a new world's speed record at Wendover, Utah, seven years ago today. Piloting his powerful racer over the hard salt course, Sir Malcom hit 301.13 miles an hour—becoming the first man to pass the 300-mile-an-hour mark on land.

Talbert Meets Segura Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. — (AP). — The end of the national tennis championships was faintly in sight today as the five-barrelled event moved into its second week and a hesitant start was made toward playing quarter-final matches both in men's and women's singles.

Although the attendance had not been disappointing, everything considered—there were an estimated 6,000 in the stadium last Sunday — there were unmistakeable indications that this might be the last championship until after the war.

The U.S.L.T.A. officials, themselves, say otherwise:

That they will put on a championship every autumn as long as they can buy tennis balls, but their voices do not carry great conviction.

Today's feature match—the first to bring together two men considered championship possibilities—saw Pancho Segura, the highly-publicized Ecuadorean, facing a real baptism of fire from Billy Talbert of Cincinnati, who beat him the last time they clashed at Southampton. Neither player had lost a set in reaching the quarter-finals, and they promised to put on a battle for the books.

Frankie Parker of Hollywood met Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, the national clay court champion, in the other men's engagement, with Frankie a firm favorite on the basis of his brilliant play in preliminary rounds.

Georgians Shade Bengals 12 to 11

FERGUS, Sept. 3—Tonight was homecoming night for Fergus lacrosse stars when Owen Sound Georgians transferred their scheduled senior tilt with Hamilton to the local arena. Playing with the Georgians in their 12-11 victory march over the Bengals were Rusty White, J. P. Bergin, Yorky Jordan and Len Wilkes, former Thistle men.

On the opposing line was Lorne Campbell, also a former Fergusite, while the losing squad was piloted by Fat Young, another former member of the Scots crew.

It was a nip and tuck affair all the way as first the Bengals were out in front and then the Sounders. At the first rest the Ambitious City was leading 3-2 with the Georgians reversing things in the next to hold sway with a 7-6 score at the half-way mark. They increased their margin to 12-7 in the third round with the Tigers assuming command in the final session to blank the Northerners 4-0.

Helping Washington Smother Army Gridders 26 to 7

Washington's powerful Redskins, seasoned professional gridders, had too much sheer weight and passing ability for the western army's all-star footballers when they clashed before a crowd of 65,000 people at Los Angeles, and the Redskins came out on top of a 26-7 score. Here is Dick Todd, speedy Washington backfielder, rambling on an 18-yard jaunt for a touchdown in the second quarter. Jimmy Nelson (16) and Oliver Eakin 11), of the Army, couldn't get close enough to haul down the Redskin ball-toter.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Two questions receiving rapidly increasing attention from Canadian sportsmen are these:

1. Should sport continue in wartime, and if so, under what jurisdiction?

2. Is sport doing enough financially for the war effort?

Before we become enmeshed in the obliquities of the situation, this bureau places is answers on record as follows:

1. Yes, under Government control.
2. Most strenuously no.

Every sports columnist from Vancouver to Halifax has written at least one piece on these questions. Numerous fine suggestions have been ignored. Some potential money-making (for charity) sports enterprises have been conked on the head by petty politics or jealousy. Most writers and fans, even members of the vast public-at-large who don't know the difference between a nose-bet and a nosegay, agree that sport should continue, but in close relation to the war effort.

Well, sport continues. It continues as an extremely poor and unwashed relative of the war effort, despite valiant attempts of many sportsmen to improve the situation.

Almost ever province has an organization trying to relate sport to wartime. In Vancouver, a fight drew $12,000 for Merchant Navy relief. Manitoba's Athletic Patriotic Association has done an excellent job since the first weeks of war. The Sports Service League of Toronto is an outstanding example of what can be done with good staff work.

But who has there been to put the finger on the National Hockey League for a few benefit games—league games, not exhibitions? No one who was there to iron out the argument when the Sports Service League wanted to bring Winnipeg east for a war charity football game? No one. Back to the N.H.L. for a moment: Compare its part in the war effort to that played by major league baseball. But keep your comparisons to yourself. There may be ladies present.

Racing's cash contribution to the war effort has been large, even exclusive of its huge taxes. Racing and professional baseball probably couldn't do better under Government control than they have voluntarily. Football and professional hockey are the main offenders.

So perhaps we should have someone with federal authority to corelate sport's war effort, pep it up, make the dribble into a river. If something isn't done, and fast, sport will lose ground steadily in its battle for a place in the lives of Canadians at war.

Sport Shots From Britain

By ALAN RANDALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 3 — (CP). — It is only fitting for a man who has been around Lord's for so many years—63—as James (Jimmy) Cannon that he should have a chance to be in complete charge of world cricket headquarters. Twice this year he's had that chance because the regular secretary, Sir Pelham Warner, has been ill.

Cannon and H. D. G. (Shrimp) Leveson Gower are the only survivors who have worked with the last four secretaries. This means something because just one of the four, Sir Francis Lacey, was secretary for 28 years.

It was lawn tennis and not cricket which first brought Cannon to Lord's. He started as ball boy for the string of tennis courts which fringed the cricket field. Now he is 75 a smallish man, cheery, rubicund but still active. He's seen every test match, University or Eton-Harrow match at Lord's in the last 60 years with the exception of 1939 when he was ill.

Jimmy holds Dr. W. G. Grace, the old-time cricketer who is to British sport what Babe Ruth is to baseball, was the greatest of them all. He's full of stories about W.G. who died in 1915, and says if later batsmen like Jack Hobbs and Don Bradman had had to bat on such poor wickets as old W.G. they would never have done as well as they did.

"The 'old man' didn't bat on a billiard table, I can tell you," says Cannon.

Professional foot racing is having a revival in Britain with interest so keen promoters are planning weekly handicaps in various parts of the country.

A big meeting at Stoke-on-Trent attracted competitors from London, Newcastle, Scotland and Wales and was won by Lou Baum, a Londoner who, at 4 feet 11 inches, is said to be the smallest professional runner in these islands. He ticked of 100 yards (less 15 yards handicap) in sufficiently good time to win the event despite his 38 years.

Until now the Royal Air Force has put forward only amateur boxers on its various ring teams. Now rules have been relaxed and the R.A.F. like the Army and the Navy, will use professionals when the opposing services use them....A letter from Spr. E. H. Berry, a prisoner of war in Germany, says "even here the Briton is still a boxing fan." With equipment provided by the Red Cross the prisoner-boxers not only are getting plenty of practice, but are organizing their own tourneys. He enclosed a picture of a camp boxing match. One of the ringsters in this camp is Signalman Clancy who won the boxing championship of Britain's Northern Army Command in 1938-1939.

Keep Durocher Stewing For 12 Innings

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Brooklyn Dodgers now have a 4½ game lead in their National League pennant prancing so who's nervous?

Well, Mr. Leo Ernest Durocher, the Dodgers' peerless pilot, appears to be—for one.

What he has been doing with his pitchers in recent days scarcely can be described without a map and a seeing-eye dog, but it may be worth a try.

Yesterday Durocher called five of his best pitchers to curb the futile Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in 12 innings. From start to finish his field included Curt Davis, Hugh Casey, Kirby Higbe, Les Webber and Whitlow Wyatt.

Davis started the game and working on one day's rest, was knocked out in the fifth. Casey took competent charge till removed for a pinchhitter in the ninth. Then Higbe, who had pitched the full nine innings to beat the Pirates Tuesday, was sent to the mound. He walked the first batter and immediately was flagged out in favor of Webber. The rookie gave one hit in the 10th and then Durocher, taking no chances, called in Wyatt for his first relief chore of the year.

The Dodger ace finished strongly and gained his 17th victory when a walk, a sacrifice and a single by Arky Vaughan scored a run for Brooklyn in the 12th.

The defeat was charged to plucky Bucky Walters, who himself made three hits, batted in one Red run and scored the other.

Giants Whip Cards 8-2.

The triumph added another game to Brooklyn's slender margin, because New York Giants slugged out an 8-2 win over St. Louis Cardinals. Babe Young doubled with the bases loaded for three runs in the third and the Giants tallied two more in the fourth to rout Max Lanier.

Boston Braves beat Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings after Lon Warneke had held them scoreless for seven frames and the Pirate stopped the Phils 5-2 by scoring four runs without a hit in the eighth inning of their night game.

At New York the Yankees swept a double-header from St. Louis Brown 3-2 on Charley Keller's 25th homer in the 10th inning and 6-0 on Hank Borowy's masterful one-hit hurling. The huge mid-week crowd of 27,000 thought it was a no-hitter, not knowing that Harlond Clift's bounder off Joe Gordon's glove in the first inning had been scored as a single instead of an error. When the totals were posted on the score board the fans, already milling jubilantly on the field, booed.

Cleveland Indians rose into a virtual tie with the Browns for third place in the American League by overwhelming Philadelphia Athletics 12-3. The Tribe scored eight runs in the first inning and Connie Mack left his pitcher in—but swapped catchers.

Boston Red Sox kept pace with the Yanks by taking a double bill from Detroit Tigers 3-2 and 4-2. Charley Wagner pitched five-hit ball in the first game, which was decided by Ted Williams' 28th homer in the eighth inning. Williams also doubled three runs across in the second game to win that — boosting his runs batted in total to 121 and giving the Sox the 22nd victory in their last 26 games.

Chicago White Sox whipped Washington Senators 8-2 and 7-6, making 17 hits in the first game and 12 in the second. Washington contributed six errors to Chicago's cause in the opener and Lou Bevil, a rookie fresh from Chattanooga, gave the Sox four runs before he was removed in the first inning of the nightcap.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP).—Fun with a gun: J. F. McConkey, who works in a Wichita, Kas., airplane factory, comes up with a new version of trapshooting that has made a big hit out that way...He calls it "Jap-shooting."...Instead of the conventional clay pigeon being tossed from a trap, a guy with a bow shoots a target consisting of a dummy with unmistakeable features rolled up in a parachute...As the Jap glides toward the ground, the marksman with a shotgun gets his crack at it. ...The Notre Dame football ticket office reports receiving an order from the Solomon Islands—merely a marine who wanted to make sure his parents and his girl would see some games.

Here's one reason baseball scouts go nuts: Cincinnati Reds recently received a letter from a Kentucky village telling of the feats of a local 16-year-old who was hitting .832 and had belted 30 homers in 14 games... A scout was dispatched immediately. ...A day or so later he came back with a red face to report that the hero's team averaged eight years in age and the opposition nine.

George Stirnweiss, the Newark Bears speed king, is the sixth base stealing champion to work for George Weiss, boss of the Yankee farmhands. Gene Martin did the trick twice for the old New Haven Eastern League club; at Rochester Burney Griffin won the title and at Baltimore it was Dennis Sothern. Stirny will be Newark's third champ, following Johnny Neun and Ernie Koy.

The son also rises.

When Norman Wendling, Lexington, Mich., golf pro, entered the recent Michigan open he decided his 14-year-old son, Jack, was getting good enough to be taken along for the experience of playing in a tournament...Jack didn't do so badly, considering he was the youngest player...He turned in an 82 for the first round....Wendling, Senior, had an 84.

Harohito, Togo's Deputy, Resigns

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Sept. 3 — (AP). — The resignation of Deputy Foreign Minister Harohito Nishi was announced yesterday a day after his chief, Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo, went out of office and Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo assumed the portfolio.

Nishi's successor is Teruichi Yamamoto, chief of the Foreign Office's East Asia Bureau.

Domei said Togo's successor would be appointed simultaneously with a director for the newly-created "Greater East Asia Ministry." It added the appointment is expected soon because "Premier Tojo's holding of the portfolios of War and Foreign Affairs would make it difficult for him to carry out adequately his manifold wartime duties."

A spokesman for the Government Information Bureau issued this statement yesterday:

"I can definitely state the resignation of Foreign Minister Togo was due to purely personal reasons and did not have anything to do with the establishment of the new ministry or with any change in Japatn's foreign policy."

Steel Mills Slow Up Pending Parley

By the Canadian Press.

Union representatives will confer again with Dominion labor officials at Ottawa and toegther will attempt to solve the problems created by wage disputes in the steel mills at Sault Ste. Marie Ont., and Sydney, N.S.

Labor Minister Mitchell and the union representatives held a meeting on Tuesday and agreed that it would be necessary to hold a second meeting. A joint statement after the 55-minute conference said that "proposals looking to a solution of the matters at issue were discussed and it was obvious that time was needed to explore the implications of these proposals."

The statement was issued shortly before it became known that the Federal Government had filed a writ in Toronto seeking an injunction to prevent workers in the Algoma steel plant at Sault Ste. Marie from striking.

Despite the writ, more than 2,000 workers at the Sault plant were idle in the 24-hour period ending at 11 o'clock last night. No steel has been produced in the plant since Monday night. The giant blast furnaces and open hearth were closed while the huge blooming mill and billet mills were also silent.

The situation was said to have been due to the fact that the plant banked its blast furnaces and made other preparations for halting operations at the scheduled 11 p.m. strike deadline set for Monday night and delayed when the union leaders agreed to attend the Ottawa conference.

Complete shutdown is foreseen unless an early solution is found at the Ottawa conference.

At Hull, Que., all except two or three workers at the Hull Iron and Steel Industries returned to work on Tuesday. The 140 employees who walked out on Monday in protest against the dismissal of three of their fellow-workers were reported to be returning to work on the understanding of a wage increase, but details were not immediately available.

Desert Training For Tanks Of Uncle Sam's Army

Uncle Sam is now training his forces in the art of desert warfare in real surroundings in California. Here we see a tank detachment coming up from a ditch in manoeuvres now going on. The way the tanks take the holes and traps laid for them it seems as though nothing can stop the steel monsters.

Canucks Raid

12:10 a.m. (E.D.T.), Thursday — Landed at the capital of Canada.

On their return from Germany the fliers flew 150 miles to an R.A.F. ferry command station and boarded a plane for Canada. They made one stop in Newfoundland.

Today, then men go to Toronto, Friday they will go to Montreal, then to Winnipeg and other Western cities in a round of public appearances in Canada. After that they will get their leave.

Escape Unhit Over Target

The crew had no trouble over Saarbruecken, they said. They encountered the usual amount of "Flak," but were not hit.

"There were some fighters up but we were not attacked," said Higham, the pilot and skipper of the crew.

The flames from the fires started during the raid could be seen for 40 or 50 miles and the smoke rose to a height of 3,000 or 4,000 feet.

They declined to say what their targets were or at what height they flew. Those are official secrets. Their casual remarks about the raid probably sprung from the fact it was old stuff to them. As a crew they have been in 23 raids and individually on many more. Morrison has 36 operations to his credit and Higham has 31.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power, who also made a trans-Atlantic trip from Britain by air this week, waited for two hours at the air station to welcome the crew. So did several score headquarters officers, newspaper reporters and photographers.

A rousing cheer went up as the big ferry plane came to a stop and the men stepped out.

The Youth of Canada

Formalities were brief. Maj. Power stepped up and said:

"Mr. King, I have the honor to present to you five men who bombed Saarbruecken last night. They are representative of the youth of Canada and a credit and a glory to our nation."

The Prime Minister then made a short speech of welcome, telling the men of the pride with which the Canadian people viewed the courage and devotion of the Canadian fliers overseas.

The fliers all were clad in the blue battle dress worn by airmen overseas. Higham had the ribbon of the Distinguished Flying Cross, awarded for bringing a crippled bomber home on one motor and making a perfect belly landing. He said Lee should have had the decoration because as navigator, Lee made it possible for them to get home.

"We passed by two or three spots where we would have been cold turkey if it had not been for Siggy's navigating," he said.

Higham is a slim, fair-haired youth of 22, who joined the R.C.A.F. from technical school. Although brought up on the farm, he looks forward to some loafing during his leave rather than helping with the harvest.

Lee, 29, the oldest of the group, is dark and chunky. He managed a chain grocery store in Winnipeg before he joined up and wears a Koala bear on his chest as a good luck charm.

Sveinson, 24, is a husky blond fellow with bushy curly hair. He worked at grain elevators and garages at Elfros.

Front Gunner 19

Loach, the front-gunner and bomb aimer, is a native of Guelph. He is dark and handsome and looks even younger than his 19 years.

He was the only one who met a friend in the welcoming delegation at the airport. The friend was Gordon Sinclair, reporter for the Toronto Star. Loach was a caddy on the Islington golf course and carried Gordon's clubs in pre-war days.

Morrison has a round face and a cheery smile for all his "four-guns" nickname. He shoots the four guns from the tail of the bomber and has a Nazi fighter plane to his credit.

He said coming back from a raid the German got on their tail over the North Sea.

"He fired first and I fired a second after, but he missed," he added. "I just pressed the triggers and kept them pressed until he caught fire and dropped into the sea."

Loach has one enemy plane damaged to his credit and Morrison has a probable.

The lads were distinctly on their guand against letting out information which might be of value to the enemy as Maj. Power found out.

"What squadron are you from?" he asked one of them.

"I am not allowed to tell you, sir," was the reply.

"Oh, it's all right. I am the Minister for Air" said Mr. Power.

"Oh yes, you inspected us last week," the airman recalled.

Casualties are not overly heavy on bombing raids, said Flt. Lt. Reid. Unless there is a combination of unfortunate conditions they are usually light.

He said the Moose Squadron went through five big raids without a loss. It is named after Wing Cmdr. John (Moose) Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., who commanded it and who has since been reported missing.

Advance Axis elements already have moved forward several miles in this sector, filtering cautiously through minefields in an easterly and then northerly direction without encountering the main defence forces.

During this movement across desert terrain over which Prime Minister Churchill walked only three weeks ago on a visit to the front there was some fighting between tanks.

Hun Losses Run High

Latest report indicated German losses were considerably heavier than the British.

United States air forces headquarters said American heavy bombers had been active over the Mediterranean, intercepting an Axis convoy and scoring a direct hit on one merchant ship and near misses against others.

Other heavy bombers attacked the enemy base at Candia, Crete, where it was believed they scored hits on four service vessels and perhaps a fifth.

Considerable enemy air activity also was reported yesterday over the front and there were innumerable air battles as Allied fighters challenged the Axis planes.

R.A.F. fighters broke up one formation of 40 German dive-bombers escorted by 30 Messerschmitts, shooting down five dive-bombers and two Messerschmitts. The dive-bombers jettisoned their bombs.

as a crew and it was also Duncan's second as a captain.

Heavy flak was reported by some crews and one Halifax was hit in several places. Two pieces of shrapnel punctured the tire of the starboard landing wheel, but Flt.-Sgt. Charles W. Palmer of Dundalk, Ont., the skipper brought down the aircraft safely. He kept it under perfect control as it pivoted on the crippled wheel after touching down.

Eight Fail to Return.

Eight bombers were lost in the raid, which was the seventh of the war on Karlsruhe and its big railway shops. The city last was bombed on September 17, 1941.

This morning air raid sirens wailed along the Strait of Dover, but German aircraft did not appear. A short time earlier formations of Spitfires had swept homeward from the direction of Calais and Dunkirk.

Karlsruhe, a city of 155,000 population, stands on an elevated plain five miles east of the river and 65 miles southeast of Saarbruecken, coal and iron production point which was blasted Tuesday night by more than 200 R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. bombers in a raid officially termed "an outstanding success"

Observers on the English southeast coast said explosions and vivid flashes developed across Dover Strait around midnight and German searchlights could be seen probing the skies.

The attack against French continued about 30 minutes after outward-bound planes had sped across the coast.

Another R.A.F. raid on the same area started before 4 a.m., and continued 20 minutes.

Two German bombers were shot down in raids shortly before midnight last night upon areas in east and northeastern England, authorities said the raiders caused only slight damage and there were no reports of casualties.

A Berlin broadcast said military objectives in the industrial Midlands were the targets.

It claimed German bombers hit a military base on the Isle of Wight, in the English Channel before Portsmouth, by daylight yesterday and carried out reconnaissance flights over Britain and "protection duties over the Channel."

is already in the air.

The midnight communique announced another in a series of withdrawals by Red Army forces posted southwest of Stalingrad, threatened for a week under the weight of a German attack paced by 150 tanks.

"Our troops defending this line disabled and destroyed by artillery fire about 30 enemy tanks," the communique said. "However, a group of German tanks succeeded in penetrating our lines. After stubborn fighting, our troops in this sector retreated to a new defensive line."

(Berlin broadcasts asserted Stalingrad now was within range of German big guns from the south, implying that shelling soon would contribute to the havoc already wrought within the Volga River industrial centre by Hitler's bombers.)

Repeated counter attacks helped preserve Soviet positions northwest of Stalingrad, the communique said. One Russian force destroyed eight Nazi tanks, 12 ammunition trucks and seven anti-tank guns and wiped out about a company of Germans.

The battle of Novorossisk developed after prolonged skirmishing at sea and in therugged Krasnodar area of the western Caucausus.

Sill on the Defence.

'West of Krasnodar our troops fought defensive engagements with the enemy, "a communique said. "In fighting for one populated place Red men destroyed a German tank, two armoured cars and 13 trucks and annihiliated more than 200 German officers and men."

A German group was reported surrounded and facing death or capture in a mountan pass south of Krasnodar.

The German High Command claims both coastal Anapa, 30 miles northwest of Novorossisk, and Krymskaya, 20 miles northeast of the naval base).

Defenders of the Central Caucasus sunk three speedboats and eight pontoons with loads of invasion troops at river crossings in the Mozdok area.

Two battalions of tank-supported infantry attacked Russian positions on the west bank of the Upper Don south of Voronezh, but they were repulsed with losses in both personnel and material, the communique said.

872 Now Listed As Dieppe Victims

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 — (CP). — In the 20th Canadian (Active) Army casualty list issued since the Battle of Dieppe on August 19, the National Defence Department to-day reported one soldier was killed in action, seven wounded and three dangerously ill.

The man reported killed was Pte. E. A. Goode of Port Credit, Ont., Maj. Robert Thompson of Winnipeg was among the wounded.

The three men listed as dangerously ill were not Dieppe casualties. But it was stated the other eight casualties all resulted from the big-scale combined operations attack on that port in German-occupied France.

Yesterday's list brings the total number of casualties so far reported and attributed to the Canadian attack on Dieppe two weeks ago to 872 of whom 169 are dead, 561 are wounded, 13 not diagnosed, one in hospital, six suffering from exposure, one with a superficial injury, and 121 missing.

The count is subject to a margin of error because of the possibility of repetition of names from previous lists.

The total number of men reported dead and missing by the Canadian Army since the start of the war now stands at 1,060.

Drunk Driving Case Has Odd Angle

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., today after the evidence and argument had been heard in a charge against Carl Mattucci of having been intoxicated while having charge or control of an automobile.

Sergt. W. E. Wigg and Constable Gordon K. Hardy testified that they had found Mattucci slumped down in a drunken condition in the front seat of an automobile parked on King Street in the early hours of the morning.

To W. J. Arthur Fair who defended Mattucci, Sgt. Wigg said that he did not know who owned the car in which he had found the accused and Constable Hardy said that while Mattucci's head and shoulders were behind the wheel the accused was sitting toward the middle of the seat.

Guido Mattucci, father of the accused, called by the defence said that the car involved in the case was owned by him and that on the night in question he had loaned it to Kenneth Johnston, Carl Mattucci accompanying the latter. The reason for letting Johnston have the car was that his son had no driver's permit.

Johnston testified that he had driven Carl Mattucci and the latter's cousin around town and out to Chemong and that later he had parked the car on King street and gone to get something to eat, leaving the two in the car asleep. When he came back, he said, the car was gone.

"Who was in charge and control of the car that night?" asked Mr. Fair.

"I was" replied the witness.

In his argument defence counsel, quoting a number of authorities, declared that the evidence showed that the person who was in control of the automobile was Johnston, and not Mattucci.

Declaring that he wanted a chance to look over the cases quoted, Magistrate Langley said that he would reserve judgment until September 11.

FRANCIS WHIBBS

The funeral of Francis Whibbs, who died suddenly on Saturday, was held from the residence of his niece, Mrs. Victor Kennedy, to St. Joseph's Church, Douro, where a large gathering of friends and relatives were present to assist at the requiem mass celebrated by Rev. J. J. McCarthy. Father McCarthy delivered a very appropriate address to those present and extended his sympathy to his only surviving brother, George Whibbs.

Numerous spiritual tokens were presented and many people from the city called at the home over the week-end to pay tribute to one who possessed the faculty of endearing himself to those whom he had the pleasure of meeting.

Interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Rev J. J. McCarthy conducting the services at the graveside.

Pallbearers were John Turpey, Michael Whibbs, John J. Allen, Michael Sheehan, Jerry Dwyer and John B. Condon.

Lindsay Fair Is Big One This Year

Tom Brown, president of Peterborough's defunct exhibition, sacrificed to military use as a training centre for soldiers, isn't saying much about the Lindsay Fair these days, but you know what he is thinking.

There's B. L. McLean and his associates up the line sitting pretty with the surest thing that ever came their way, prospects of a huge attendance and a bulging bank account. The folks of four or five counties have no place else to go, even if the going is somewhat restricted by the gasoline rationing.

The Lindsay crowd has just to smile and push back the fences as far as they'll go; nothing to worry about unless it might be the weather. They won't know what to do with all their cash by the end of fair week. That's what Tom Brown used to dream about, and while he's glad that Lindsay is getting such a break away back in the silence of his thoughts there is probably a stray bit of envy, and even the Lindsay folks wouldn't blame him for that. It is too human a sentiment. Something every one can understand, and Lindsay hasn't any shining record of magnanimity. That isn't pointed at their fair board, a group of men who have worked diligently and with ambition to get ahead.

Recent rumors intimate that Mr. McLean is looking for surplus parking space out in Mariposa and Ops.

Watches Tobruk Gets Its Worst Pasting

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

AN R.A.F. BASE, Egypt, Sept. 3.—(BUP).—I paid a return visit to Tobruk Tuesday night—in an R.A.F. American-built Liberator bomber—and saw the Axis-held Libyan town take its worst pasting of the war.

You may have seen the bright lights of Broadway or Piccadilly during peacetime. Tobruk was lit up like those streets as anti-aircraft shells came screaming up at us and we released our bombloads on the city which I first entered when the Australians captured it eighteen months ago.

Our party consisted of a swarm of Consolidated American-built B-24's—the British call them Liberators—and British Halifax bombers. It was the biggest raid on Tobruk since Axis forces occupied the city in June.

Bombs were dropped on shipping in the harbor and on the docks, in an effort to stem the flow of arms, tanks and gasoline to German Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies.

It was the first occasion on which newspaper correspondents in this war theatre were allowed to make an operational flight in a Liberator.

I couldn't have chosen a more spectacular raid to go on.

As our bomber came in to attack, I could see the harbor burning, with flames licking along the docks and smoke curling up into the thick clouds over the target. Terrific bursts of light, like banked fires in coal pits, erupted as fresh loads of bombs were dumped on the cauldron.

The bombers ahead of us had just made their attack as we followed them in.

Anti-aircraft fire ripped, crackled and sparkled as German gunners posted around the town got down to work.

Our bombers shied away as the heavy guns sent their load of death up at us. The shells burst near us with black, sinister puffs.

They came so close that the long-choking smell of burning powder was wafted into the cabin of our plane.

I stood beside layers of bombs which our bombardier was waiting to unleash from our four-motored giant.

We went around the target twice as silver and blood-red tracer bullets climbed lazily into the sky toward us. One heavy anti-aircraft gun had our measure.

"Good gunner, that man," remarked the pilot as he pulled the ship up out of the rising shower of death.

Fires Around Harbor.

Fires were blazing on both sides of the harbor as we got ready to add our bombs to the flaming mess.

We rode on, crossing the ghostly yellow coastline over the velvet Mediterranean. Then the plane's nose went down. The four mighty engines screamed.

We straightened out. The ship gave a slight movement.

"One, two, three, four...." The bombs went winging down. I lost count of them.

One after another they plummeted into the night.

There was a pause of a few seconds.

Then a great red gash seemed to open in the earth. A great cloud of smoke showed black against the lamb's-fleece clouds. Then tongues of new flame spurted through the twisting volcano.

"Good work, skipper," came the Irish voice of the air gunner I knew only as Paddy.

Our bombs dropped, we stood off from the target and watched the rest of the party go in.

By that time the anti-aircraft fire had slackened. We guessed that the German gunners were dead around their guns.

A vivid flash from a stick of bombs lit up the harbor strewn with the old and new wrecks of more than fifty ships. Smoke drifted over a gutted Nazi tanker.

The task accomplished, our party turned away leaving a bright red glare lighting up the area.

To-day, Tobruk still is smarting and burning as the air war goes on night and day on a scale hitherto not seen in the desert campaigns. It will get heavier as the full weight of American and British planes is turned on the enemy.

Our plane swung home and touched perfectly. The communique will say that "all planes returned." I can certify the truth of that.

Permits Sought By 350 To Get Jobs

Upwards of 350 men and women jammed the Unemployment Insurance offices in the Barrie Building from Tuesday morning on seeking to register under the new manpower mobilization scheme which controls the flow of labor, and makes it imperative for a person seeking work to obtain a permit to do so, or else take a job in a war industry should one be available.

Jobless men and women found the new system effective as every man except six who applied for permits since Tuesday morning have been channelled into occupations, 90 per cent. of which are on direct war work.

A survey reveals that very few people quit their jobs on Monday, in order that they might switch to one with more pay, or one more suitable to their ability or tastes. Now anyone on any job cannot quit work without giving seven days notice, nor can any employer discharge an employee without giving the same seven days notice. This plan enables the Unemployment Insurance officials a chance to know in advance just what men and women are available seven days hence for work that might be waiting at that time, as the employer must notify the local office at once of any payroll changes.

Offered $34 A Week

The local office routine is disposing of the many applicants in near record time, and with very few exceptions the men and women along with employers are giving top-notch cooperation. One man of military age, came into the office this morning with a chip on his shoulder, and wanted to know what right the Government had to interfere with his way of living. He had been offered a job paying $34.00 a week at a war industry, but claimed he could not live on such a meagre salary. Final disposition of his case is pending.

On the whole however job seekers liked the system, in that it relieved them to a great extent of the tiresome task of parading from one factory to another seeking work. On the other hand they had the privilege should no jobs be immediately available of seeking work anywhere, on the strength of a permit issued to them.

This permit is issued in triplicate at the office. One copy is retained at the office, and the employee is given the other two. If he is hired, the employer fills out the bottom half of the original, a white slip, and returns this to the regional office. The employer retains the yellow slip.

In the event of a lay-off, the employer mails the slips in advance to the regional office, and in this way, many employees will find jobs waiting for them at the regional office as soon as they report having been laid off.

During the month of August the Peterborough office, placed 344 females and 687 males, and had a carry-over of 45 women, mostly school girls, and 17 men, mostly elderly chaps, capable only of doing light work.

Must Have Permit

Up to midnight Monday, workers could go out after their own jobs merely by being registered and having their employers send in information on their new employment within three days. The new regulation provides that no worker can seek a position without a permit and no employer may hire him without a permit being shown by the worker, and the employer having a permit as well.

This was the reason for the flood of applicants seeking permits to get work. The permits are good for two weeks and at the end of that time, the worker must either have a steady job, or report back at the Commission's offices and get a renewal or take a position offered him by a selective service officer. During this time as well the commission will be busy trying to find a position for the worker. The men at the office Thursday morning stated they had no trouble getting permits, and they were agreeably surprised at the friendly atmosphere that existed in the office, where men and women alike seemed genuinely interested in the welfare of every applicant.

Going to War Industry

William Mellis, regional officer said today that the demand is running neck and neck with the supply at the present time, and he added that 90 per cent. of the men and women were being channelled into war industries, which is exactly the condition that is desired. Men with special qualifications find a job waiting for them in one of the local factories, and it looks very much as if the new system would do much to alleviate certain unemployment conditions which have been in existence.

Lt. Rogers Loses Leader In Dieppe Raid

By ROSS MUNRO

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Lieut. R. B. McRae of Toronto, listed as missing with the Navy at Dieppe, was the senior officer of the Royal Canadian Navy on the raid.

In an R-boat, it was his task to lead the flotilla carrying the Fusiliers Mont-Royal into the main beach in front of Dieppe. He also had to help disabled craft.

Commanding another R-craft in same flotilla were three other Canadian naval officers—Sub. Lieut. A. A. Wedd of Toronto, Sub. Lieut. J. Fauls of London, Ont, and Sub. Lieut. Dave Rogers of Peterborough, Ont.

During the heat of the action at the landing, the other officers lost contact with Lieut. McRae but they said in London afterwards that they were certain he made the beach, landed his French-Canadian troops and withdrew to sea.

They did not see him, however, when the raid fleet concentrated a mile or so offshore in mid-morning, waiting about for the re-embarkation force.

For the past eight months, Lieut. McRae has been training with all-Canadian combined operation flotillas at British bases. The Dieppe raid was the first time members of these flotillas were in action.

Two Men Jailed Assault Counts

"You will have to learn that you cannot take the law in your hands," warned Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning as he sentenced Charles Bishton to seven days in jail and his brother Clarence Bishton to five days' imprisonment after the two had pleaded guilty to assaulting John Dolinak on Perry Street last night.

Dolinak in giving evidence said that there had been some trouble in a beverage room with the two accused earlier in the evening and that when he drove to his home on Perry Street later the two Bishtons were waiting for him and assaulted him before he could get out of his car. Dolinak said that the shiner he was sporting and the scratches on the other side of his face had been caused by the accused.

The witness denied that he had accused the Bishtons of stealing tires and gasoline from him.

Mrs. Anne Daly, sister of the two Bishtons, said that her sister in the presence of Dolinak had accused the brothers of stealing.

Declaring that it was not the case for a fine, Magistrate Langley imposed short jail sentences, as a warning, he said, to people that they could not take the law into their own hands. On the statement of Detective-Sgt. Meagher that Charles Bishton had been in trouble over bicycles, Magistrate Langley made the sentence two days longer in his case.

500-Mile Trip By Bicycle Grand Vacation

The busman's holiday is an optional choice, but for the photographer on vacation there is no escaping his occupational and artistic interests for the simple reason that his eyes pave the way for his camera.

Elliott Law, Galt photographer, and his son Bill, have just completed a bicycle tour of eastern Ontario through scenery of constant appeal capture by camera. They travelled by train to Havelock, having checked their bicycles as baggage, avoiding the familiar type of countryside through the more populous area of central Ontario. Then they set out down No. 7 highway to Ottawa, turned up to Pembroke, past Golden Lake to Algonquin Park; on to Dorset, south through Haliburton through its highways to Lindsay and across to Lakefield.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Roy, the Laws, father and son, spent several days at Chemong Park, and wound up five hundred miles of cycling at Peterborough. They enjoyed this outing so much that Mr. Law said he had already decided to come back to this part of the province next summer.

Fire Damages East City Home

A fire of unknown origin which is puzzling fire department officials did damage estimated at more than $1,000 to a 2½ storey brick dwelling at 581 Rogers street on Wednesday afternoon.

The fire started in a frame shed at the rear of the house and when it was discovered by Mrs. William Dolan, the tenant, the shed was a raging mass of fire, and the flames were licking the cornice of the house proper. Mr. Dolan, a barber, his wife, and his daughter were at home when the fire started and the first inkling of danger came when they heard the flames roaring.

By the time the fire department had arrived, the flames had broken through the cornice into the attic, and through the back door of the house into a rear stairway. The shed was doomed, but firemen checked the flames inside the house and in the attic.

Smoke damage was general throughout the house, and the flames licked up quite a bit of clothing and some furniture. The interior will have to be decorated throughout, and considerable repair work will have to be done in the upper part of the house.

Albert Tivey, Stanley Ave. owner of the house was working in a garden at the rear, and he thought he heard two explosions, but this is attributed to the noise which the flames and smoke made as they burst through the structure. Chief Gimblett made a complete investigation along with William Dolan, and was unable to determine the cause, although it is possible that spontaneous combustion developed from the intense heat, in some part of the shed.

The blaze attracted a huge mob of spectators as it started shortly after three o'clock, just when many people were sitting around enjoying the Wednesday afternoon half holiday.

The dwelling is insured but there is no insurance on the contents. Damage to the building is estimated at $600 and to the contents at slightly over $500.

Dumping Ground Is Sought By City Council

Use of North Monaghan's dumping grounds as a substitute for the convenient river front disposal site was suggested at the meeting of the property committee of the city council Wednesday afternoon.

Some members of the council have been advocating that some other place be obtained, and that the dump at the foot of Simcoe street be closed. Several of the members might be disposed to go further, and discontinue this service of providing an accommodation for the disposal of refuse materials that is not acceptable at the public incinerator. The Fire Marshall has also advised the council that the fires on the present site are a menace to property on both sides of the river, and especially to the Peterborough Canoe Company.

North Monaghan has a dump that is fairly convenient to the city, and it was suggested that their council might be willing to consider terms by which the city could share in the use of the township ground. Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Swanston and Dutton were appointed to interview the rural neighbors.

Sale of a lot owned by the city on the west side of Park street, north of Weller street to Tobias Fredenburg for $400 was recommend; also a lot on Woodbine avenue between Armour Road and Erskine avenue to John Meyette for $80; and another lot at the corner of Benson avenue and Benson street to Harold Scott for $175.

Ray Harding has not yet completed the house he undertook to build on property bought from the city. The time limit for finishing the building was extended to the end of the year.

The ramp from the new incinerator may enclose storage space if an idea suggested takes form. The ramp will be built up with earth, probably 18 to 20 feet, and it was felt that instead of a solid earth fill a section of the mound could be fixed up for the storage of equipment at the city yard. City Engineer Parsons was asked for a report on the suggestion.

Consideration will also be given to a conveyor accommodation by which cans that have passed through the fire can be removed out to the yard instead of being shovelled into wheelbarrows and pushed out. The committee will enquire at the same time into the possibility of getting some device to crush tin cans.

Sum Of Money Is Presented Priest

Appreciation of the work of Rev. James Greenan, curate at St. Peter's Cathedral, who has been transferred to Bracebridge parish, was expressed last night on the eve of his departure by a committee representing the parishioners. Because of the death of Bishop O'Connor it was a quiet and brief farewell, but the congregation desired to let the young priest know that their good wishes went with him. His interest especially in the altar boys and the Sodality, and his parish visits were particularly mentioned. The members of the committee were Senator Duffus, J. P. Legros, Thomas Ryan and P. J. Scollard. They presented Father Greenan with a sum of money.

George St. Group Does Good Work For War Victims

For the second time in three days, the very good work that school children have been doing on behalf of air raid victims in Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund is the predominating topic of the daily report on behalf of the fund, for most of the receipts are the result of their work.

Ever since the holidays began from school duties, their work has been outstanding, and with the close of the holiday season only a few days distant, it gives promise of continuing right up to the time when once more they resume their school duties.

A group of five girls, two of whom are visitors in the city, Lillian Ball, Laura Petersiel, and Florence Hanwell, with Doreen Dawson of Lindsay and Merna Whitehead of Winnipeg had a stand at 490 George street where they sold a variety of articles, and raised the nice sum of $11.11 for the fund.

A short while ago, this column reported a lone effort by Beverly Patterson of 124 Parkmount Road, Toronto, who is staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harrison of 733 George street in which she had made $5 by making and selling pot-holders at 10 cents each, and following this has done the job all over again and made another $5.50 for the fund, which is much to her credit, and very typical of this young girl's personality, for in spite of the serious handicap of infantile paralysis at the age of two years, followed by many operations with loss of time from school, she has at the age of twelve years completed her public school work, and starts high school this coming school term.

The Primary Sunday School class, Bridgenorth United Church, which is composed of the very young folk up to about seven years of age have many times appeared in this column for the fund per their teacher, Mrs. W. J. Robinson, and once more they are represented with a donation of $2. The box in the Examiner Office has in a very short space accumulated $1.15 which also appears in today's list.

Donates Sign

Those who have been in close proximity to the Examiner office in the last few days, could hardly fail to notice the beautiful large display sign in the windows, which tell of the city and district having to date sent £10,100 to help the fund along, being the fourth occasion in which their art has been utilized on behalf of the work to help the sufferers from air warfare over Britain.

Mess Room Chatter From Britain

By FOSTER BARCLAY

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 3.—(CP).—No one knows better than P.O. George (Red) Finch of Birtle, Man., that ignorance is bliss. He learned that the day the Canadians attacked Dieppe.

Returning to his base in a Tiger Moth aircraft early in the morning, the genial red-thatched Manitoban lost his way in the mist. Next thing he knew he was over the English Channel heading for France.

He soon got his bearings and reversed his course, but if he hadn't turned when he did he would have landed right in the middle of the opening phases of the great air fighting over the French coast.

"I sure would like to have been there," Red grinned—"but not in my Tiger Moth, no thanks."

Canadian army-co-operation pilots didn't have much time to admire the scenery in their dawn to dusk flights over the Dieppe area, but most of them caught a glimpse of the big show going on beneath them.

Flt.-Lt. Jack Amos of Prince Albert, Sask., who was over twice during the day, saw little more than French peasants plowing their fields when he made his first flight soon after dawn, but when he returned in the afternoon smoke was rising over the town of Dieppe and the sound of gunfire was audible above the roar of his motors.

A split head and a black eye were painful souvenirs Flt.-Lt. Freddy Clarke of Calgary brought back from Dieppe. The tall Westerner who comes originally from the Barbadoes, was shot down over the channel and knocked unconscious when he hit the sea.

What happened after that he doesn't know, but he woke up aboard a destroyer and reported into his army co-operation squadron early next morning. Several hours later he had been given up for lost.

They sent Clarke off to hospital right away, but he was back at the squadron a few hours later.

Another pilot who went to hospital was F.O. R. C. MacQuoid of St. Andrews, N.B.

His plane was badly shot up by Flak, and when he prepared to land he startled the ground staff by announcing :"Here I come. Get ready. No landing gear. No flaps. No nuthin'."

He came in one wheel and skidded along until his Mustang nosed into the ground, the propellor churning up chunks of earth. Then he calmly switched on his radio again and called out: "OK. Here I am. Come and get me."

Garrison Cheers As Convoy Reaches Malta

The battle-scarred bastions of Malta harbor were crowded with watchers that never saw a more welcome sight than the big convoy that recently fought its way through with supplies although under constant attack by Axis bombers. Here's a view of the scene as a ship of the convoy went through. In FOREGROUND are members of the garrison of the most-bombed community in the world. The Ack-Ack guns at LOWER RIGHT are on an escort vessel of the convoy.

1,000 Canadians Are Still Unlisted At Hong Kong

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP)—The Department of National Defence has made public the names of 507 of the Canadian officers and men held by the Japanese as prisoners of war since the bitter battle of Hong Kong ended in surrender last Christmas Day.

The names, reported in a list issued by National Defence headquarters were those of men from whom letters were received last week aboard the diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm. The list, which did not give home towns or names of next-of-kin, included the names of two auxiliary service officers.

Thus, more than 1,000 of the Canadian force are yet to be reported upon but National Defence officials emphasized last week, in announcing receipt of the Gripsholm letters, that the mail had undergone heavy Japanese censorship and it was likely many letters had been rejected. They warned relatives who failed to receive mail aboard the Gripsholm not to take that as an indication that their men were among the dead and missing.

At the same time, officials indicated an official report on the Canadians who took part in the Hong Kong battle was expected shortly. As yet, the Japanese have released no roll of prisoners held, although the Canadian Government has made repeated attempts to obtain such a list through the International Red Cross and the Swiss Government, the protecting power for Canadian and British interests.

Last night's list contained the names of 28 officers and 226 other ranks of Royal Rifles of Canada, 23 officers and 209 other ranks of the Winnipeg Grenadiers, four officers and 15 other ranks from the Hong Kong force headquarters and two auxiliary men.

The officers included Lt.-Col. William G. Howe, officer commanding the Royal Rifles; Lieut. Francis G. Power, son of Air Minister Power and member of the Royal Rifles, and Lieut. R. W. Queen-Hughes of the Grenadiers, son-in-law of Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg.

This shipment included 16 quilts, 5 turtle-neck sweaters, 5 sleeveless sweaters, 10 turtle-neck tuck-ins, 30 pair mitts and 30 pair socks.

There was an attendance of 29 members and visitors at the regular meeting on Monday afternoon. The vice-president, Mrs. Annie Anderson presiding.

Anderson was appointed to interview the members of St. Johns Anglican W.A. to see if they would be willing to change their day of meeting in order that the Red Cross could meet Tuesday.

Miss Bessie Curtis, a member of the Welland High School staff was the guest speaker of the afternoon. Her topic was "Wartime Prices and Trade Contral," its general effect and how it works. She explained the importance of keeping securely the serial number on our ration books, for if it became lost or destroyed, no new one would be issued without this serial number. The blank card at the back of the book should be filled in and returned to Ottawa, after the book has been finished. The slogan of this new organization is "eat it up, wear it out, make it do." The nearest office in this district is located at 159 Hunter Street, Peterborough. Mr. Lancaster urged everyone to take all their rubber salvage to the Post Office before September 8. Next Sunday has been set apart by the King as a National Day of Prayer, and citizens are asked to observe it as such. The treasurer reported the bank balance of $218.21.

On a motion by Mrs. R. McCutcheon and Mrs. F. McKay, the Belmont Institute are to have all the quilt batts they require, through the local branch.

September Call For Over 20,000

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP).—Between 20,000 and 25,000 Canadians will receive their call-up notices during September, officials of the National Selective Service and the Department of National War Services said Tuesday.

Calls for compulsory military service in District "C," including Ottawa and Kingston, may be somewhat smaller this month because of serious depletion of manpower in the area, the officials said. However, many Ottawans between the ages of 20 and 40 have received notices to report for medical examination within the next three days.

Requisitions for the October call-up are in the hands of officials but there is no indication of the number to be called during that month.

Claim Hotel Had 29,840 Tea Bags

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 3.—(CP). —Judgment was reserved yesterday by Magistrate S. Atkinson here in a charge of tea hoarding against the Empire Hotels Ltd.

The charge against the hotel company followed a check-up on June 9 by an official of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, when 29,840 tea bags were found in the hotel store rooms.

The Crown produced figures supplied by the hotel showing 1,340 bags had been used since the first of the year. The hotel manager claimed this was a discrepancy and that 5,900 bags had been used. Crown counsel said that even at the revised figure the hotel had enough tea for three years and for nine years at the original figure.

Friends Charivari Young Honeymooners

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 3. —(ENS).—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mitchell who returned from a two weeks' honeymoon spent in various parts of Ontario and Quebec on Sunday, lost no time in getting around to charivari them. The party took place on Monday evening when an estimated hundred from Campbellford and Seymour made a beaten path to their door. The gathering began to arrive about ten o'clock in the evening and according to the groom the procession was nearly half a mile long. Fortunately, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were not caught completely by surprise since a plenteous supply of refreshments was provided during the course of the evening which was spent in dancing and a most enjoyable social time.

He Came To Life

LONDON, Sept. 3 —(CP)— The Daily Mirror Wednesday printed a story that Canadian soldier who was tossed into the sea as dead by two companions while returning from Dieppe now is in a British hospital recovering from the wounds he received in the raid.

His companions explained, the story said, that they threw the 'body' overboard when their small boat was in danger of being swamped. The sea revived the injured Canadian, however, and he remained afloat until picked up by a rescue ship.

The soldier's name was not reported.

Pudding For Rommel

This style of New Zealand cookery—the pudding bomb—is said to be much more potent than the Molotov cocktail for rendering German tanks hors de combat. The "pudding" has already been used with good effect in the Egyptian desert. Thrown at a tank, the explosive pudding sticks to the side of the vehicle until it goes off. That's all, save it will be useful against Rommel in his current drive against Egypt.

Gibraltar Practising

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), Sept. 3.—(AP)—DNB, German news and propaganda agency, claimed in a dispatch yesterday from Algeciras, Spain, that British forces are conducting large-scale landing manoeuvres at Gibraltar with the land garrison and naval and air forces engaged. It said one bomber engaged in the operations crashed and exploded.

(There has been no report of any such manoeuvres, which might be designed to test the defences of the Rock.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 3—(CP)—A majority of retail hardware dealers in Ottawa have decided to close their stores at one p.m. Saturday the year round, it was announced Wednesday.

Fur Makes A New Beret

It's the forward tilt of this king fox beret... the fur in beige and brown tones ...which marks it as fashionable 1943. Warm, too. The matching muff is of barrel shape.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A BIT on the Gargantua side for a full coat, perhaps, but still one of the most flattering furs there is, king fox enters autumn becomingly in this beret and muff ensemble.

Brown and beige tones in this fluffy, long-haired fur... a combination which flatters practically all complexions, and which blends beautifully with all wool colors and many other furs. Your Alaska sealskin coat, for instance, will be set off beautifully with this king fox pretty.

Fur hats the season to come will show beret shapes as the newest style; the Russian cap with tall, cuff brim is another fur hat silhouette you can expect.

This Week's Wartime Recipe

By MARY MOORE

Dear Mary Moore:

I have been making this honey cake for years—not to save sugar but because we like it, and I think the children should be given cake after they have had a fruit dessert, if they are not satisfied.

"I have used many of the other wartime recipes you print and think they are a fine feature.—Mary McAdams.

Plain Honey Cake

One and one-quqarter cups honey, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup melted shortening, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder (1 teaspoon caraway seeds or half cups nuts may be added if needed.) Cream the honey, sugar, shortening and eggs together very well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and seeds or nuts if used. Combine mixtures and mix until smooth. Pour into buttered and floured baking pans and bake in moderately hot oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes."

Thanks again, Mrs. McAdams for this second contribution to this space. Although the honey yield this year is only about half of our average annual crop, there will be plenty for us all to try this delicious cake. I thought it was very good with hot applesauce.

THE STARS SAY ....

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, September 4

This is a day of conflicting or mixed influences according to the astrologers. While there may be outstanding or surprising events, perhaps with the public interests at stake, or concerning sudden change, travel or new adventures, yet the whole situation may be beset with danger from intrigue, subtle and undercover tactics or entanglements. Imposition, misconstructions, treachery and fraud may rise to the surface, but at the same time there may be unforseen or surprising help. Be careful and alert in travel, writings and social contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may run into a year of confusing and contradictory circumstances, demanding their utmost vigilance, circumspection and clear thinking as well as sagacious tactics. With care there should be worthwhile or surprising accomplishment, which might attract public approval or support. But be alert to duplicity, fraud, misconception of motives or writings. Travel cautiously and be prepared for craft or intrigue in romantic relations.

A child born on this day should be exceptional in some directions which might attract public or community support. But it may require early training and discipline as to integrity, honor and sound principles.

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief Consumer Section,
Department of Agriculture

Corn, probably the most popular of all our Canadian vegetables is now at the peak of its succulent goodness.

The Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture reports that the crop this year is generally good throughout the country.

The season for corn is short at best so make the most of it by serving this family favorite often, in a variety of ways.

Corn cooked in a mixture of equal parts milk and water has a new deliciousness and of course the liquor will be saved and used for soup, sauce or gravy so that the practice is not as extravagant as it may, at first, appear.

Where recipes call for corn cut from the cob, remember that two medium sized ears will yield 1 cup of corn.

Corn Fritters

1¾ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
¾ cup milk
1 cup corn
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon fat (melted)
1 teaspoon onion juice (optional)

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Mix corn, egg, milk and fat, add to dry ingredients and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, deep lard 350-365 degrees F and fry 2-5 minutes turning once. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve in combination with other vegetables to form a vegetable plate, or alone with syrup or a tart jelly.

Corn Pudding

2 cups milk
2 cups cooked fresh corn
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs, well-beaten

Add milk, corn, butter, sugar and seasonings to eggs. Turn into a greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F for about 45 minutes or until pudding is set. ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ½ cup grated cheese, ½ cup minced ham or ¼ cup chopped mushrooms may be added for variety.

Corn Relish

6 ears corn
1 head cabbage, finely chopped
2 large onions, finely chopped
1 green pepper
1 sweet red pepper
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon mustard
3 cups white vinegar
¾ teaspoon turmeric
3 tablespoons flour

Cut the corn from the cob and place it in a preserving kettle with the remaining vegetables, finely chopped. Pour 1½ cups of vinegar over the vegetables. Mix the sugar, salt, mustard, tumeric and flour with the remaining 1½ cups vinegar. Combine the two mixtures. Bring to the boiling point and let simmer 45 minutes. Fill hot sterile jars and seal.

Approximate yield—5-6 pints.

N.B. If cider vinegar is used it is best in the proportion of 3 parts vinegar to one part water.

Scalloped Corn and Tomatoes

1½ cups cooked corn
1½ cups stewed tomatoes
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup buttered crumbs

Alternate layers of corn and tomatoes in greased casserole; season with butter, salt and pepper. Cover with crumbs and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) until crumbs are browned.

Serves 6.

Coones—Chatten

YOUNG'S POINT, Sept. 3—(ENS). — The marriage of one of Young's Point popular young couples was quietly solemnized in St. George's Church, Peterborough, on Saturday, when Margaret Elsie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chatten of Omemee, became the bride of Private Freddie Elliott Coones of Camp Borden, son of Mr. W. J. and the late Mrs. Coones of Peterborough. Rev. E. C Moore, rural dean, officiating and Edgar Moore playing the wedding music.

Private Maxwell Coones was his brother's best man.

After a reception at the home of the bride's parents at Omemee, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon trip.

This Is Everybody's War

(By MOLLY BROWN).

This is beginning of a new year. No. I haven't got my dates mixed. September is the time of year when everyone comes back from their holidays strengthened and refreshed after two or three months holiday, just rarin' to go.

It is the time when organizations that have lain dormant since June spring suddenly to life and hustle about planning activities and trying to build up their membership.

It is the time when ideas, that have been cooking slowly in idle brains, are brought forth, sometimes half-baked, to the light of day. Everything starts at once, and the first flame of autumn leaves will probably see the world of societies and clubs in full swing.

And, of course, war work will start again. It never really stopped. The Red Cross Sewing rooms have been open all summer and the wool room most of the summer. Several organizations have met regularly in the summer months to continue their war work. And the salvage workers, lured by a $50 prize, have continued gallantly through the heat of a summer.

But now the work will start in earnest. A lot of people will rush joyously in where angels fear to tread, taking high offices in this club and that society; promising to do this job for one organization and contribute money to that fund. And they will use up all that beautiful stored up strength and energy before Christmas is upon us.

It shouldn't be necessary to remind intelligent people that one job done well is worth several half done; that there are plenty of people to do the work and no need for a few to do it all; and that somewhere there is a definite job for every individual, which he or she can do better than anyone else.

Neither should it be necessary to remind women that care of their home and families should be their first consideration. Husbands, sons and daughters who work long hours on war work have a right to find happy comfortable homes and good meals after work. And children who are still at school need more attention from their meals than is given with three meals a day.

The important thing is to find out what you can do best and do it. Many soldiers from the Training Centre live too far away to go home on a week-end leave but would be glad to sleep out of camp. Perhaps you have an extra bed at your house. If you haven't an extra bed, perhaps you could invite some soldiers to your home for Sunday tea or dinner. Believe me, he'd appreciate it.

But perhaps you aren't the gracious hostess type, or haven't the facilities for entertaining. Maybe you'll find that your job is sewing at the Red Cross rooms at the Library. Of if you can't sew, or have ties to keep you at home, probably your neighbour, who is handy with the needle, would be glad to have you mind her children while she goes.

If you're artistic, some organization or other is probably dying for some really striking and artistic posters to advertise some special fund or activity. Just ask them and see. Or perhaps you're a showman at heart, and entertainment for the troops is languishing for want of your magic touch.

What's your war job? Find it and do it and Good Luck to you!

Preparing Fruit Desserts Without Use of Sugar

By MARY MOORE

A friend of mine with her brood of three, and I, with my brood of two are sharing a cottage at the Lake, and the experiment I am trying using syrup in place of sugar have the most welcome receptions anyone could hope for, from these five lusty youngsters.

When I was working on the tapioca pudding suddenly I heard a whoop from behind. "Fish Eyes! Fish Eyes! Betty,— we're having Fish Eyes for Dessert!" And from Betty: "Oh, Mum Emem's making Fish Eyes Pudding!"

I'm a pushover for that kind of encouragement. I'd work in the kitchen all day and even miss my cherished daily swim and sun bath if I thought I'd get results that echo to the next cottage.

Many of you have noticed that dates, gelatine, figs, bananas, nuts (other than peanuts) and many other common but imported foods have been studiously avoided in my recipes in the past year or so.

Tapioca is also imported, but grocery wholesalers tell me there is a plentiful supply still on hand and since the combination of tapioca and white corn syrup is a "natural" I am yielding to temptation and printing the peach Tapioca recipe I've worked out. You can use up what tapioca you have on hand and what you can buy while it lasts. It's a good dessert,—nutritious economical and "tasty" too.

Peach Tapioca (without sugar)

One-half cup pearl tapioca, 2 cups cold water, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup white (or golden) corn syrup, ½ to 1 cup sliced peaches, ½ cup whole milk (or ¼ cup evaporated milk and ¼ cup water), 1 egg —yolk and white beaten separately, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Soak the tapioca overnight in the cold water. In the morning add enough water to bring the total up to 2 cups and add the salt and cook over double boiler until tapioca is clear throughout—about 1½ hours. All all ingredient except egg white, and cook for 5 minutes, then remove from heat and let cool a little while you are heating the white. Fold in the white, and pour into bowl for serving and chill. This pudding may be served hot with hard sauce in the winter.

Creamy Hard Sauce:

Half cup each butter, icing sugar and golden corn syrup, ¼ cup whole milk or cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream the butter and sugar well together add the corn syrup and cream well, then add the cream or milk, very slowly to prevent curdling. Add vanilla and chill until hard before serving.

Cantaloupe Parfait.

(If you have friends who have been places and one thing I think this will be a new one to them—it is quite unusual, and might almost be called exotic).

Two-thirds cup white corn syrup, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups mashed and drained ripe cantaloupe pulp, 3 egg yolks well beaten, ½ pint whipping cream, few grains salt, 2 tablespons lemon juice, a few shavings of lemon rind if desired. Heat together the corn syrup and the butter, and when well blended pour slowly over the well beaten yolks, and cook over hot water until well mixed and thick. Add the mashed and drained cantaloupe pulp, cook for 2 more minutes, and cool. Beat cream until stiff, and fold into the egg mixture with the salt, lemon juice and vanilla. Freeze in tray of mechanical refrigerator without stirring, or pour into mould, cover tightly and pack in ice and salt and let stand for 4 hours. If egg mixture thickens too much when cooking add 2 tablespoons boiling water or the lemon juice and stir well.

Apricot Cobbler

Two and one-half cups sliced apricots (or peaches), 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, ½ cup corn syrup, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, dash of nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter (baking powder biscuit dough): 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup milk.

Slice the apricots into buttered shallow baking dish and add the tapioca to them and let stand 15 minutes. Pour over the corn syrup, salt and spices. Mix well. Dot top with butter. To make the dough sift the flour, baking powder, and salt together. Run the shortening in with the finger tips, and add enough milk slowly to make a soft dough. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness, prick and arrange over top of apricot mixture. Bake at 400 to 425 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until well browned. Other fruits that are "best" with this treatment are blackberries, cherries and rhubarb. If you can beg, borrow or steal any, Devonshire cream makes this one of those desserts that only superior beings deserve.

Honeycomb Pudding

(Using Molasses)

One cup each molasses, corn syrup, and flour, ½ cup each evaporated milk and shortening, ⅓ teaspoon soda, 4 eggs, well beaten, 2 cups sliced tart apples (1 cup raisins or dates may be used when and if available in place of apples). Mix the molasses and syrup, and sift in the flour which has been sifted with the soda. Warm the milk just enough to make the shortening soft and stir them together, then stir them into the mixture, and beat 3 minutes. Add the beaten eggs, and pour into greased pudding dish. Arrange the apples on top, and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon brown sugar (if you can spare it) and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes (or pudding may be steamed for 1½ hours, when apples must be sliced very thin.) This is good served with thin cream or unsweetened soft custard sauce.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have been a reader of your page for quite some time now and have found many new and helpful ideas, especially now that sugar is rationed.

I was wondering if you could help me in my problems as we are not allowed sugar for pickles and pickling time is here. I was wondering what amount of saccharin one would use to equal one cup of sugar.

As a girl I have eaten saccharin-made pickles and always enjoyed them, but have no way of getting the recipe.

I am enclosing my favorite recipe for sweet pickles and would you be so kind as to answer this as soon as possible as I will be doing my pickles within the next week or ten days. Also let me know the amount of saccharin that equals one cup so I could use it in other pickles. I know saccharin is so much sweeter than sugar but have no way of telling just how much. Thanking you for your kind assistance.—Mrs. W. H. Baker.

Sweet Pickles.

(Contributed by Mrs. W. H. Baker).

Take small pickles and put in brine overnight. In the morning drain off brine, and pour boiling water over the pickles, drain and pack in jars tight. Put 1 teaspoon pickling spice to each jar, then make a syrup of 1 quart white vinegar and 3 cups white sugar and pour very hot in jars and cool at once.

Saccharin Pickles.

ANSWER: One gallon vinegar, 1 cup salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup ground mustard, 2 teaspoons saccharin. If all ingredients are in perfect condition these pickles will keep without sealing or heating, but they are not toughened if only heated till the color changes and then covered with the boiling liquid and cooled. If the heating is preferred it is best to stir in the saccharin just before pouring the liquid over the pickles.

I have not tried the above recipe. I had tried to find out the amount of pickles needed, but presume enough small cucumbers would be used to be submerged in the above ingredients. As for the saccharin referred to in the recipe it is pure saccharin and must not be touched to the tongue or it will burn.

Pure saccharin (1 grain) is so strong it will burn the tongue so commercially it is usually adulterated so that one small tablet (¼ grain) is the equivalent of about 1 teaspoon sugar.

Pure saccharin is equal to sweetness to sugar as follows: 1 part saccharin is equal to 450 parts sugar. It is cheaper and does not furnish the basis for mould growth that sugar does and for that reason is recommended even if sugar were not rationed.

There are 48 teaspoons in a cup so you would use 12 ¼-grain saccharin tablets when 1 cup of sugar is called for.

QUESTION: I know the women in our club would be thankful if you would print some recipes for pickles that do not call for much sugar or none at all. We were talking it over and think corn syrup could surely be used in chili sauce and some of those pickles that are sweet and many that have vinegar rather strongly. Please write an article about this if you possibly can. I have depended on the cookery page for so many years, but have never written before. Thanking you, Miriam, Mother of Six.

ANSWER: Such a pretty pen name. It is our intention to print an article on making pickles without sugar within the next two or three weeks, certainly during the pickling season. For good measure I am giving you Piccalilli as a starter.

One peck green tomatoes, 5 pounds cabbage, 6 sweet red or green peppers, 4 medium-sized onions, 1 cup salt, 3 pints vinegar, 1 and 1-3 cups corn syrup, ½ pound mustard, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 1 tablespoon ground horseradish. Chop and mix tomatoes, cabbage, sweet peppers, and onion with salt and let stand 12 hours. Mix vinegar, corn syrup, mustard seed, celery seed and horseradish. Bring to boiling point. Add vegetables and heat through. Pack into hot sterile jars and cool immediately.

We are glad to receive suggestions for article topics and shall be hoping to hear from you again.

For the Dressier Suit

Made of calfskin which takes such a neat polish and which resists barking, these shoes feature natural color hand stitching for toe-bow trim, and have a slim but sturdy walking heel.

ACCESSORIES make the perfect costume perfect . . . it's the et ceteras which show off the best one has to wear. Now that the daytime costume must serve for practical as well as dressy occasions, accessories are more important than ever. With them one signals the world that work is over for this suit or that frock, for the time being, and that it's time to relax.

A shoe which gives a break to shank's mare in these times of gasoline restriction and yet looks slim and delicate is a really important accessory today. Here is such a shoe style, stylish as good design can make it, perfectly comfortable for walking besides.

DOROTHY DIX

HUSBAND, 50, PAYS PRICE FOR LEADING DOUBLE LIFE

Now He Wonders Whether His Family Will Love Him As They Used To.

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a married man and have been living a double life. I didn't see any harm in it, but I didn't let my wife know. Now I am paying the price as my wife has found out. I have not only lost her love but have lost the love and respect of my three children to whom I am devoted.

As to the girl I was having an affair with when it was found out, I hate her like poison now. Yet at the time I thought I was deeply in love with her. I guess a man of 50 loses his head when a young girl fusses over him and he takes her word for everything.

But I don't see why my wife takes this so hard. When a young girl flatters a man much older than she is, it makes him feel good and takes years off his age. It gives him more pep and makes him work harder for the family. It doesn't mean a thing to him beyond that, or keep him from loving his wife.

What I want to ask you is: Do you think my wife and children will ever love me again the way they used to?—A Broken-Hearted Dad.

ANSWER: No, never. If your wife is a sensible woman and listens to her head instead of her outraged heart, she will technically forgive you, as the phrase goes, and go on with the marriage, but everything that made it fine and beautiful for her will be gone out of it. She will do her duty by you instead of doing things joyously for you because she loved you and wanted to make you happy.

Destroyed Children's Faith.

Your children will always be fond of you because no doubt you are a kind and indulgent father, but they will never be proud of you or brag about you again.

You see you've smashed their ideal of you. You have destroyed their faith in you. They don't see you any more as knight in shining golden armor. You are just a weak, silly old man who has let a little gold-digger gyp you. There is not much to admire in that sort of a picture of Papa, is there?

The strangest thing about men is how easily they are befooled by mere girl babies whose arts and artifices are so crude and transparent that you wouldn't think they would deceive even a moron. Yet astute middle-aged business men, like yourself, who have had thirty or forty years of experience in dealing with people, and sizing them up, who couldn't be hoodwinked in a trade or sold a gold brick by another man, fall for a line of hooey that is as old as humanity itself when it is handed them by girls young enough to be their granddaughters.

Paunchy old millionaires believe Golden Locks when she tells them that they look like mere boys and dance better than any of the gigolos. Close-fisted old misers believe that it is just artless childishness that makes Girlikins ask "pretty please" for mink coats and diamond bracelets. And all the elderly philanderers deceive themselves into thinking that nobody will ever find out about their little affairs and nobody will ever tell their wives. It is the limit of human credulity.

It is a high price that you have to pay for your little fling, Mister, but when you try to figure out why your wife takes your infidelity so hard just ask yourself how you would like it if she were treating you the way you have been treating her. That will give your answer.

A BLONDE SPEAKS UP.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Why is it that it seems to be the general impression that blondes are gold-diggers, husband-stealers and home-wreckers? In movies, novels, plays, the Other Woman is always a blonde and never a brunette. I ask this because I am a blonde and the color of my hair seems to make my life very difficult.

I was brought up very strict and leaned over backward trying to be good and virtuous. Nevertheless, my golden locks are a hoodoo. I can't speak to a married man without somebody telling his wife that he was seen talking to a blonde, and she hits the ceiling. It is even harder for a blonde to get a job than it is for a girl with dark hair. Some day when my parents are gone I am going to dye my hair and then perhaps I can not only be good, but people will think I am good.

A BLONDE.

ANSWER: Doesn't this letter show how true it is that one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives? Now we women who are brunettes are envying the blondes and those of us who have mouse-colored hair or drab brown hair spending money to have it peroxided while all the time the poor blondes are being misjudged and scandalized and being kept out of good positions just because of their golden locks.

Of course nobody is silly enough to think that the color of a girl's hair is any indication of her character. The reason that the sirens and the vamps and fascinators are so generally described as blondes is because golden hair has always been the most admired hair in the world, and the blonde has been the preferred type of beauty. Lilith was supposed to have been a blonde. Cleopatra is always described as a blonde, though she probably wasn't, being an Egyptian, and so down through history and fiction and poetry we have given our most admired heroines golden hair.

So you see you are in good company, even if wives do look down their noses at you and keep an eye on you when their husbands are around.

ARE BACHELORS HEREDITARY?

Dear Dorothy Dix: If there such a thing as a hereditary bachelor? I know a large family of boys, all of marriageable age and financially able to marry who are single. They will give you a rush for a while and you will think they are about to propose and then they will drop you. They say they fall desperately in love with girl, and then suddenly they get over it. It is like a high fever that burns itself out and nothing is left. What do you think about this?

PUZZLED GIRL.

ANSWER: I never heard of an aversion to marriage being a hereditary complaint, but possible it is something that is catching. At any rate, we see many families in which there are several bachelors or old maids, as the case may be, while the members of other families marry almost as soon as they get out of the cradle.

Whether this is because the boys and girls in a family have a prejudice against marriage after having had an unhappy home life and seen their father and mother fighting together like cats and dogs or whether their home life has been made so pleasant that they do not wish to leave the family circle, no

URIAH PAYNE.

WARSAW, Sept. 3 — (ENS). — In the passing of Uriah Payne, Warsaw lost one of its oldest and best loved residents. Although in poor health for some time, Mr. Payne was only confined to his bed about three weeks when death came on Saturday evening.

Born in Dummer 81 years ago, he spent his entire life here, farming as a young man. He moved to Warsaw about 20 years ago.

A true friend and Christian he will long be mourned and will always be remembered for his many kind deeds.

A member of the United Church, he was one of the two remaining trustees of the first Official Board, having served over 50 years as a trustee. He was made an elder in 1930, but resigned three years later owing to ill-health, but served as an honorary elder until his death.

The funeral in the United Church was largely attended and with the many beautiful floral offerings bespoke the respect in which he was held. The services at the church and at St. Mark's Cemetery where burial was made, were conducted by Rev. E. D. Snelgrove and Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, a former pastor.

Mr. Payne is survived by his sorrowing widow (Ella Elliott) and two sons, Gordon W. Payne and Allen U. Payne, both of Warsaw and three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The pall-bearers were Kenneth Payne, Harold Payne, James Hawthorne, Clayton Jory J. A. Crowe, and Edward Bell.

The flower-bearers were Gerald Crowe Archie Crowe, Hilliard Darling, Milton Drain, Ernest Garbutt, and James Tucker.

Many out-of-town friends were present from Toronto, Kingston, Peterborough Norwood, Havelock, Trent River, and Lakefield.

JAMES SPEERS

LIFFORD LINE, Sept. 3—(ENS). —James Speers a highly respected, life-long citizen of Manvers Township, passed peacefully away at his home at Franklin on Sunday evening. He was in his seventy-eighth year.

His wife, whose maiden name was Charlotte Hickson, of Reaboro, predeceased him eight years ago.

The late Mr. Speers farmed at Franklin where he also was the village blacksmith. Of later years he also did blacksmith work at Lifford, succeeding Mr. Norton Mills, former owner of the Lifford shop. He enjoyed good health and was able to assist with farm work until he suffered a severe stroke three weeks ago from which he never recovered.

His remains were brought to the home of his son-in-law, Gervin Mulligan, at Lifford. Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. Harding of the Fleetwood United Church, brought a touching message of comfort to the bereaved friends and read two favorite hymns, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Jesus Savior Pilot Me."

Many very beautiful flowers surrounded the basket and were carried by grandsons and other young friends.

Left to mourn the loss of a father are three daughters, Mrs. Gervin Mulligan (Jean), Mrs. Walter Neals (Reta) and Mrs. Douglass Deyell (Gladys) of North Bay; also three sons, Murray of Franklin, Kenneth of Buffalo and Gordon of Toronto.

The pallbearers were his three sons, Murray, Kenneth and Gordon Speers, and three sons-in-law, Gervin Mulligan, Walter Neals and Douglass Deyell.

The long funeral cortege proceeded to St. Mary's Cemetery for interment in the family plot. Rev. Mason, rector Manvers parish, conducted the committal service at the graveside.

Cutting Calories Cuts Your Weight

Low-Calory Foods Needed

Heart-breaking when all your efforts to get slim fail!

But they needn't fail—they can't fail—if your slimming is done scientifically.

Cutting your lunches to "drug-store bites" isn't scientific, but cutting your calories is!

A "bite" consisting of a bowl of potato soup (300 calories), a date and cream cheese sandwich (290) and coffee with sugar and cream (110) is as fattening as a full-course meal.

Yet on more courses you could be reducing—losing two pounds a week—if you knew your calories! A bowl of beef broth (55), a tomato sandwich (125(, a piece of ginger-bread (100) and tea with lemon (no calories) makes a really slimming lunch.

Of course you want to be sure of your foods. Sipping a daily chocolate malted (750), for instance, would put a pound BACK each week. But your calory chart tells food enemies and friends; following it, you'll soon be slim!

Our 32-page booklet tells how to reduce quickly and safely, has calory chart, 42 tasty low-calory menus. Also gives 3-day liquid diet to start reducing.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "The New Way to a Youthful Figure."

Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

LENGTH VS. STRENGTH

REPEATED bids of the same suit by your partner show greater length in the suit. But at the same time each additional bid of it, except a jump, indicates the probability of less honor strength in the hand. For the more distributional strength a player has, the less honor power he requires. Consequently, when he rebids the same suit a couple of times, thereby disclosing at least six-card length, you had better be wary about raising him unless you can furnish enough honor strength to make up for his probable weakness in top cards.

North: ♠ Q J 10 7 4 3 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A 6 5 4 ♣ 8

West: ♠ K 2 ♥ A J 9 ♦ K J 10 3 ♣ J 10 9

South never should have tried that last bid of 4-Spades, unless he had eaten more than his usual number of eggs at breakfast and felt both strong and lucky, or unless he thought he could count on his opponents to help him out. He explained that, when he heard North bid spades for the third time, he knew the suit was at least six cards and so his own two would constitute safe support. That was true, but the third spade bid also indicated that length of the suit was the main excuse for making the first free bid.

After East led the diamond Q, which West covered with the K, North saw a long chance to make his contract, and tried it. Taking the first trick with the diamond A, he then scored three top clubs, discarding the diamond 4 and 5, then led the club 7, which by now was the highest out. West was tempted to ruff with his K, but thought better of it. Had he done so, North could have discarded the diamond 6, and would have made his contract, losing only two more tricks, to the spade A and heart A.

West did not fall for the ruse, however. He ruffed instead with the spade 2. North over-ruffed, but then was set pronto. When he led the heart 3 to the K, West put on the A, scored his diamond J and spade K, and the spade A still remained out as the setting trick.

Red Cross Unit Plans Big Drive

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 3. — (ENS). — The Campbellford and Seymour branch of the Red Cross is planning to hold a tag day on September 30, coinciding with the final day of the Campbellford Fall Fair. This announcement was made following the regular meeting of the branch here on Tuesday afternoon when it was decided to request Council for permission to hold this annual drive. The newest quota laid down for the local branch includes a program of making comfort bags for sailors. The secretary pointed out that this was an opportunity to work for the Navy and Merchant Marine. The Ontario division hopes that all branches will start now to make and fill these bags since they will bring cheer and comfort at Christmas time to these courageous men, who through sleet and cold cheerfully accept their responsibility of protecting us. Twelve thousand bags are to be made by the Red Cross branches of Ontario, and they will be distributed in co-operation with the Navy League of Canada so that there will be no over-lapping.

The local organization is undertaking to pack at least 25 of these bags, and more if finances permit: Each will contain comb, soap, hard candy, razor and blades, pipe tobacco, chewing gum, envelopes, paper, pencil, book (story), game or cards, socks, handkerchief, towels, wash cloth, tooth brush housewife, tooth powder, shaving stick. In order to provide much of the content for these bags the Red Cross will make an appeal to all local societies, churches, service clubs, and also the Junior Red Cross for help. These bags are to be in the warehouse by October 15, and anyone wishing to contribute towards this worthy effort was urged to contact Miss Stella Keir. The society wishes to thank all those who so kindly contributed the articles for the draw held recently, and also all who purchased tickets.

On Tuesday next the meeting will be entirely devoted to sewing, and an effort will be made to wind up the civilian units.

Swank Bathtub Types To Vanish

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Canadian householders who have their hearts set on acquiring a swank, built-in bathtub will just have to tuck their aspirations on the shelf for the duration, for bothtub styles have been frozen to two sizes.

Under an order announced today by E. J. Laidlaw, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board's administrator of heating, plumbing and air conditioning equipment and supplies November 1 is the deadline for manufacture of the built-in tubs.

Along with restrictions announced last April which eliminated 24 sizes and shapes of tubs, the new restrictions will cut production 20 per cent., saving more than 8,000 tons of metal Mr. Laidlaw said. After November 1 no manufacturer may make bathtubs except with permission of the administrator, who will also determine the number of tubs to be made by each producer.

Canadians will still be able to buy the equally serviceable rolled-rim staple pattern tub, sizes four and a half and five feet long.

HERE I WAS ON "OLD FAITHFUL"

by WALLACE REYBURN

Wallace Reyburn, war correspondent for the Montreal Standard, spent six and a half hours ashore with Canadian troops at Dieppe. The Regiment he went in with was the first to land and last to leave. Today's war correspondents aren't satisfied to write their despatches from behind lines. They get right in there with the fighting men and share their hazards. Reyburn, who was injured by shrapnel, had to swim out with men to the landing-craft under a barrage of fire which the Germans were concentrating on the shore line. The first barge he clambered onto sank. He swam to another only to find when he got into it that it was overloaded. A ship eventually took them off and out to a destroyer lying a mile or so off shore.

London, Eng. (By Cable)—It was one o'clock in the morning and I'd just come back from Dieppe!

You've heard people describe to you "the most wonderful drive I ever had in my life". Maybe it was across Rockies or through Grand Canyon or just along Lakeshore Boulevard with a gale pounding huge waves up on to the roadway. But now I know definitely what is the most wonderful drive I ever had. There wasn't any beautiful scenery on this trip. It was through grimy docks of a South of England port!

My swim out from the beach with the Canadians had left me clad only in a pair of underpants, army boots and blanket which the ship's steward had wrapped round me. The press liason officer met me at the gangplank as I came off and said "I've got a room for you at the hotel, the car's ready". We climbed into the press car and joined a huge convoy of army trucks taking Canadian troops out to their billets. I remember stretching back in my seat, lighting up a cigarette and feeling a surge of relief at being back on solid ground again.

I'd ridden in this Chev. many times before on interminable jaunts among troops in England, collecting material for articles on their training that led up to their grand showing at Dieppe.

Out there on the beaches and in the streets of Dieppe there had been moments when you wondered whether you would ever come through it alive and be back among old familiar things again.

But here I was on "Old Faithful" as we call her, once more, and was I glad to be there!

This personal despatch from Wallace Reyburn inspires General Motors to pay its humble tribute to the fighting men of the Dominion who gave their utmost at Dieppe! Such service as theirs cannot be emulated except in the very battle-smoke. But they were, and must be, supported, and General Motors of Canada—proud that the war equipment from its factories is to be found on every fighting front—pledges itself to produce that equipment to the last resource of its men and machines.

25 VON BOCK DIVISIONS SHAKING STALINGRAD

MOSCOW, Sept. 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock beat against Stalingrad with 25 divisions today in an effort to capitalize on wedges driven systematically into its defences, but Red Army men were reported to have counter-attacked with a violence that regained some ground northwest of the city.

Germans striking back from the southwest again succeeded in making a slight advance at enormous cost, the mid-day bulletin reported.

Tass spoke of fighting upon "the immediate approaches to the town" and said "the Hitlerites' tank columns decimated in previous engagements have been considerably replenished."

The battles "have no precedent in their violence," the military newspaper Red Star said. It reported pilots from Egypt had joined the enemy's air squadrons, while ground troops from France were among the 25 Axis divisions assigned from a 1,000,000-man army for the assault upon Stalingrad, commercial heart of the Volga basin and a gateway to the Caspian.

Red Army men fighting within the Don bend around Kletskaya, harassing the Axis detachments moving eastward across the Cossack steppes, occupied another village and repulsed several counter-attacks, the communique announced.

Gain Height Over Naval Base.

The Germans gained a strategic height in the battle for Novorossisk, Soviet naval base on the Black sea more than 400 miles south-west of Stalingrad, by weight of superior numbers, it was announced.

Elsewhere in that sector, however, the Russians were reported to have withstood several attacks and destroyed six tanks and wiped out more than 150 Germans.

"In the Mozdok area (of the Central Caucasus) our troops fought and wiped out an enemy group which had crossed a water line," the communique said. (The Terek river flows past Mozdok and the Grozny oil fields in its way to the Caspian sea.)

The Germans were pictured as attacking south-western defences of Stalingrad ceaselessly with large forces in a narrow sector, tanks seeking to open paths for infantrymen.

"At a cost of enmorous losses the Hitlerites succeeded in making a slight advance," the communique said. "In other sectors the enemy attacks were repulsed with heavy losses."

Soviet riflemen supported by tanks were declared to have broken into enemy positions above the city.

'In a fierce engagement the Red Army men wiped out two companies of Hitlerites, destroyed four tanks and nine anti-tank guns and captured five mortars and eight machine guns," the communique reported.

New Attack Goes Through

Once repulsed yesterday, Nazi shock troops struck back two hours later across a battlefield strewn with tank wreckage and the bodies of about 400 German dead to force the Russians from strongly -held positions northwest of Stalingrad.

The Soviet information bureau announced the withdrawal at midnight and said Russians guarding southwestern approaches of the Volga river industrial centre were engaged also with enemy tanks and infantry "which had broken through into our defence zone." This was within an area of a half-a-dozen retreats.

Nazi combat teams also gained ground northwest of the Soviet naval station at Novorossisk, on the Black Sea south of Kerch Strait, in

RAF Almost Unopposed No Stukas For Day, Montgomery All Set

CAIRO, Sept. 4 —(AP)— British forces maintained strong pressure on Axis mechanized units in the Himeimat-Ruweisat sector yesterday and the enemy withdrew slightly westward during the day, British headquarters announced today.

British and United States warplanes subjected the withdrawing Axis forces to a terrific bombardment, exceeding the record they had established the previous day, a communique said.

No Allied bombers were lost despite the scope of these operations, the bulletin added. Allied aircraft, however, were credited with shooting down six enemy planes.

There was comparatively little enemy air activity over the battlefront, not a German dive-bomber appearing over the lines. Observers recalled that dispatches from the front have told of heavy German dive-bomber losses in the past few days.

While the Axis withdrawal in the Ruweist-Hemeimat sector appeared to have relieved the situation temporarily, military observers warned against too much optimism, pointing out that the battle still is in its preliminary phases and that both sides are merely jockeying for position.

Rommel, they said, has not yet suffered crippling losses to his armored strength and there is no indication that he is trying to avoid a showdown.

Enough for 16-day Push

On the other hand, these sources said, the Axis chieftain has brought up to the battle line vast supplies for an offensive—including sufficient gasoline to feed his mechaniz-

LONDON, Sept. 4—(CP).—Germany has announced Hitler's appointment of Gen. Spain's Workers Cheer Suner's Firing

MADRID, Sept. 4— (AP).—The dropping of Ramon Serrano Suner, outspoken champion of totalitarian ways and brother-in-law of Gen. Franco, as Spain's foreign minister "neither produces nor could produce international policy," the Falange the least variation in internal or party newspaper Arriba said to-day.

Arriba described as merely a "changing of the guard" Franco's replacement yesterday of Serrano Suner and two other important cabinet members, the war and interior ministers, and Franco's assumption of full personal control of the Falange, Spain's only political party, of which Serrano Suner had been the active head.

The news was greeted with real joy by Spaniards on city streets and toiling on farms. Their only information regarding the sweeping governmental shakeup was included in the Arriba editorial, which was reproduced in dozens of provincial party newspapers.

Serrano Suner was succeeded at the foreign ministy by Count Francisco, Gomez Jordana, soldier-statesman who formerly held the post. Gen. Carlos Asensio Cabanillas was made war minister in place of Gen. Jose Varela, and Blas Perez succeeded Col. Valentin Galarza as interior minister.

"In our Fatherland, neither today nor in the past nor the future can we talk of changes in the ogevrnment," Arriba said. "For in the present regime the government is one and the same—the real and literal government of El Caudillo of Spain, the generalissimo of the armies and the national chief of the Falange.

Nothing Changed.

"Nothing seems more absurd than to imagine for a moment that the army and the Falange—fundamental pillars sustaining policy—change nor have changed ever by that which always is called 'the changing of the guard.'

Tokyo Claims Captives Are Well Fed

Says Special Relief Is Unnecessary; Afraid Of Spies

TOKYO (from Japanese broadcasts), Sept. 4.—(AP)—Domei asserted today the government refused the United States Red Cross permission for a chartered neutral ship to bring supplies to American war prisoners because "Japan could not permit free and uninhibited American collection of information in areas of war operation as such a voyage would render possible."

"The Japanese government never has refused to permit such relief measures," the news agecy said, "but has refused passage of neutral ships in strategic waters as a natural measure necessitated in the conduct of the war."

Domei asserted that the Tokyo government had advised the American Red Cross, through the International Red Cross organization at Geneva, that Japan "is giving American war prisoners and internees fair treatment in accord with the principle of international law. Hence the government does not recognize any special need for additional comfort and relief."

The news agency added that the government had no objection to American use of a second diplomatic exchange ship for sending supplies to prisoners and that negotiations to this end were expected to materialize soon.

Relief Ship Ready

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—With every foot of space packed with supplies for American prisoners in the Orient, the neutral relief ship Kanangoora remained at anchor today in a west coast port.

Pacific area headquarters of the Red Cross had no official comment on Tokyo broadcasts that Japan had refused passage of the Red Cross ship into Oriental waters.

Eire Guerillas Attack Northern Police

BELFAST, Sept. 4 —(AP) —Explosion of a time bomb outside a police barracks at Randalstown, in Northern Ireland, and a sharp gun battle between police and Irish Republican guerillas at the Northern Ireland-Erie border heightened tension today in this Northern Ireland capital.

No casualities were reported from the gun battle and the attackers escaped. Authorities expressed belief the guerillas fled back into Erie after firing on police barracks at Bellach, County Fermanagh. Telephone lines in the vicinity had been cut prior to the attack.

During the night police pressed their roundup of suspected political agitators which by morning had resulted in 90 arrests.

Members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army were blamed for the Randalstown blast which injured two police officers and apparentl ywas in protest against the hanging of Thomas Williams, youthful I. R. A. follower, last Tuesday for the slaying of a constable.

Along the Erie border, guards searched all vehicles and compelled travellers to produce identification cards.

United States troops, for whom Belfast had been declared out of bounds Wednesday and Thursday, appeared on the streets here last night without incident.

Many are expected in town Saturday and Sunday for entertainment to be given by a group of American stage and screen performers.

EXTRA!

NEW YORK—(AP).—Two women, a 41-year-old aviatrix and a maid, were killed and nine persons injured today in an explosion in the fashionable Buchanan apartments on the East Side in midtown New York. The blast was heard for 10 blocks. The dead women were Mrs. David Cameron Oswald, a registered private airplane pilot, in whose sixth-floor apartment the blast occurred, and a maid, Margaret Burke, 36.

626 Injured; Missing Much Higher

More May Be Dead When Missing Lists Completed

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—(CP).—Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, Adjutant-General, announced to-day that the total number of Canadian soldiers known to have been killed in the Dieppe combined operations raid was 170.

Gen. Letson's statement, issued through the public relations department at National Defence Headquarters, said 626 men were reported as wounded.

He also said "much larger numbers" were listed as missing and that some of these would be presumed to have been killed or wounded.

The Adjutant-General's announcement said that all next-of-kin of those known to have been killed in action, died of wounds or to be wounded, and those missing as a result of the large-scale attack on the German-occupied French port Aug. 19 have been notified by National Defence Headquarters.

As soon as further information was available to Defence Headquarters, it would be given next-of-kin immediately.

Names of the missing will not be published until later, Gen. Letson said. This was in accordance with agreed censorship practice observed by all the United Nations.

Purpose of not making public the names of missing men is to give those who may be at large in German-occupied territory the utmost chance of escaping.

10 to 20 Bomber Squadrons For All-Canadian-U.K. Setup

Another 20 In Fighter Group To Come Later As Britain Favors Enlarging Command

OTTAWA, Sept. 4—(CP).—Air Minister Power announced at a press conference today that a Canadian bomber group of from 10 to 20 squadrons would be formed in the United Kingdom by the end of the present year.

Maj. Power said formation of a Canadian fighter group would come later with the prospect a total of about 40 Canadian squadrons would eventually be operating in the United Kingdom in co-operation with the Royal Air Force.

Development of the Canadian squadrons was being undertaken with the full support and approval of the British authorities, said the Air Minister, who returned from the United Kingdom this week "more convinced than ever that air power is vital in winning this war."

Maj. Power said that Air Vice Marshal G. E. Brooks, R.C.A.F., had gone to the United Kingdom and now was "sitting in" with bomber command leaders and gathering full information on operations which would be of use when the Canadian bomber group was organized

When the bomber group is in operation it will receive its "target for tonight from the bomber command, and it may fly as an individual group or as part of a combined air force, depending on the particular requirements of the raid.

Maj. Power revealed that a full R.C.A.F. fighter squadron has been in the Middle East for some months, along with many other Canadians serving with Royal Air Force units.

Training Plan Keeps Some Home

Discusing the development of Canadian squadrons overseas, Maj. Power said that if Canada had not undertaken the British Commonwealth Air Training plan for the instruction of airmen from other Empire countries as well as Canada, there would have been from 28 to 30 Canadian squadrons in the United Kingdom fully manned by this Dominion.

Senior Canadian officers had to be kept at home to maintain the training plan although tens of thousands of air crew had been trained in Canada and sent overseas.

The actual Canadian contribution has therefore been far heavier than if between 25 and 30 actual Canadqian squadrons had been sent to the United Kindom.

Canada's contribution to the air training plan should not mean that it had less Canadian squadrons in the United Kingdom than would have been possible had it not undertaken the training plan. Such squadrons now were being built up in the United Kingdom, and Maj. Power said that "40 Canadian squadrons, composed of both bombers and fighters, was something to shoot at in the way of objective."

At present about 25 R.C.A.F. squadrons are in the United Kingdom, either organized or in operation, in addition to the thousands

New Cairo Office To Keep Tab Canuck Doings

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP)—A Canadian liaison office in the Near East is being organized by the Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters in Britain, Air Minister Power announced today. It probably will be located at Cairo.

With around 2,000 Canadian airmen now in the Middle East, many of whom have been there for about a year, the need for an adequate liaison was impressed upon the minister during his recent visit to the United Kingdom, he told reporters at a press conference.

Canada has received almost no credit for the splendid work its airmen were doing in the desert battles and in the defence of Malta, the minister said. They were in the air daily and had been operating there long before any United States fliers reached Egypt and yet the dispatches usually couple the R.A.F. and United States air fighters and fail to mention the participation of a Canadian squadron.

An even more pressing need for a Canadian liaison in Egypt was the difficulty of keeping track of the Canadian airmen in that war theatre. The minister cited one in-

U.S. Press Takes Steel Scrap Job

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Representatives of United States newspaper publishers accepted the assignment today to undertake a gigantic scrap salvage campaign, spurred by a statement from War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson that "we're not doing a very good job of winning this war."

Nelson's appeal for the campaign, voiced at a meeting of 200 publishers and editors, was backed by the declaration of R. W. Wolcott, President of Lukens Steel Company, that "there are only two weeks' supply of steel scrap in the country in the hands of steel mills."

Ottawa Order—Bickell Thinks Enough On Hand

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP)—Manufacture of Ontario motor vehicle plates for 1943 has been ordered stopped by the federal steel controller in the interests of conserving steel for war industry, J. P. Bickell, Ontario registrar of motor vehicles disclosed today. As a consequence, with 400,000 plates of steel already manufactured at Guelph Reformatory, any needed balance will have a plate made of some other material.

Only one plate per vehicle is being manufactured, and Mr. Bickell expressed the view that probably only 400,000 vehicles will operate because of general conditions arising from the rubber shortage and gasoline restrictions. This year, however, the department issued 625,000 sets of plates.

C. F. Neelands, deputy provincial secretary, said a scheme has already been devised to manufacture the balance from tin, salvaged from large tins used at Guelph Reformatory. He said Dr. J. D. Heslip, the superintendent, recently experimented with tin from two quart tins, salvaging some two tons which salvage organizations declined to use. Dr. Heslip had the tin pressed through the vehicle market machines, and it came out in good condition, comparing favorably with the lighter steel plate. Motor markers which will go on sale Dec. 1 are of black background with yellow lettering, the reverse of this year's plates.

Fall Allied Gain May Swing Franco

Spain Warms Up—Suner's Ouster Possible Step To Axis Split And 2nd Front

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Analyst

If one were asked to pick the most important international development of the past 24 hours I think it would have to be Gen. Franco's removal of his brother-in-law, strongly pro-Nazi Ramon Serrano Suner, not only from the office of foreign minister but from the presidency of the Falange, which is Spain's sole political party.

There is much that needs clarification in this greatly complicated situation, but we can at least say that Franco's action must cause heart-burnings in Berlin and is a matter of satisfaction to the United Nations.

I think we may put it this way: By eliminating a powerful pro-Nazi influence from his cabinet and leadership of his party, Gen. Franco has—whatever his underlying purpose—strengthened the neutrality of his country. From the Allied standpoint that is a gratifying sign of independence in the face of powerful Hitlerian efforts to make Spain a hewer of wood and a drawer of water for the Axis.

As the Allied powers look this situation over speculative, it strikes me that there must pass through their minds the hope—perhaps vague, but still there — that if this autumn's fighting should swing strongly in favor of the United Nations, Franco might lean in their direction. Should Hitler be held in Russia, and his henchman Rommel be defeated in Africa, the Allied camp would have a most attractive appearance.

What a Godsend it would be for the Allies if Franco should join them and thereby make Spain the continental gateway for that second front! However, that's merely a fanciful exclamation on my part—a bit of wishful thinking. Still, queer things have happened in this war and probably will again.

Meantime the battle of the Caucasus on which so much depends continues to provide Herr Hitler with considerable satisfaction. The Red position at Stalingrad has further deteriorated and the defence is in a precarious position.

The Nazis also have made progress in their drive against the Russian naval port of Novorossisk. That is an engagement of great importance to the Russians, for Hitler's hope is that he can take this base and then sweep on down the Black Sea coast, thereby depriving the Red navy of all ports and making him master of this vast and strategic water.

Huns Welcome Any Troops

Quisling Raises 2,700 In Deal—Needed In Russia

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 4 —(AP).—Reports of German efforts to raise troops in occupied Norway, Alsace-Lorraine and Estonia indicated today that Hitler is starting the fourth year of war by scouring Europe for manpower with no source too small to be tapped.

A Berlin ditpatch to the Neue Zuricher Seitung said the Nazi civil administration in Alsace-Lorraine had extended compulsory military service to that part of Lorraine belonging to Germany before 1918 where they previously could serve only on a voluntary basis. In Estonia, the Nazi administrator announced Hitler "has given his permission" for establishment of an Estonian legion. Volunteers once signed must serve for the duration.

In Norway, where a call for volunteers was said to have had virtually no response, Quislingites of military age were reported being mobilized for action against Soviet Russia. A Stockholm report to the Basler National Zeitung said this was believed to have been the price demanded by Hitler for permission to Vidkun Quisling to set up a Nazi-pattern state in Norway by replacing the 1814 constitution with one on National Socialist lines.

Members of the Norwegian Nazi party affected by the reported Quisling mobilization order were said to number only 2,700 men between the ages of 18 and 45. Norwegian sources here commented that "the fact Hitler bothers to make a deal for so few men is proof that every available man now is needed for the war in Russia."

SERRANO SUNER, AXIS' BEST FRIEND FIRED BY FRANCO IN SPAIN

Franco Fires Axis' Best Friend As Suner Shelved

By DWIGHT L. PITKIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

British and United States diplomacy apparently won an important victory in Spain Thursday night that might well shorten the war.

Gen. Francisco Franco in dismissing his ambitious, power loving brother-in-law, Ramon Serrano Suner, from government and state party leadership thereby shoved aside a man who has been Hitler's and Mussolini's best friend in Spain.

Have the Nazis been balked in Spain? If so, will Hitler, as Napoleon did, eventually make a new battleground out of Spain? That would mean a second front. And it was a second front in Spain, while Napoleon was bogged down in Russia, that helped bring about Napoleon's ultimate defeat.

"The greatest governmental shake-up since the Spanish war"—as it was described in a news dispatch through the Madrid censorship—put into Franco's key cabinet posts men

Monaghan Road Traffic Lights

The placing of "stop and go" lights at the corner of Monaghan road and Chamberlain streets will be proposed to the Council of North Monaghan on a fifty-fifty of the cost basis. And the cost is estimated at about $500, Ald. Cotton informed the Board of Works Thursday night, including their erection.

"A lot of people living in the township use those streets," Mayor Hamilton commented, and Alderman Dutton, chairman, said that during short periods each day Monaghan road is one of the busiest thoroughfares in the city.

"If the township will come in with us," said Alderman Bradburn, "we could agree to reimburse them for their part of the cost when the war is over and the need of lights at that corner has passed. We could then set them up somewhere else."

The board felt so favorably to the project that they gave Alderman Dutton power to act, that is to interview the township fathers, and if they are agreeable to proceed with the buying and erecting of the lights.

At present the city is paying $16 a month for the service of Constable Bruce Menzies of the township as traffic officer at Monaghan road and Chamberlain streets during the noon hour. Safety of school children was the principal motive in that arrangement with the Township Council, and avoidance of traffic tangles was another consideration.

Youths Of 18-19?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Chairman Robert Reynolds of the senate military affairs committee said today he will ask the United States War Department for a formal recommendation "as to the necessity" of drafting youths of 18 and 19 into the armed forces. He told reporters he would be guided "by the decisions of our military leaders" in his consideration of a proposal.

Ottawa On Drive To Conquer Beef Problem

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—(CP)—The government was embarked today on a radical new policy designed to conquer the most unruly factor the price ceiling has faced since over-all controls were imposed last December—the problem of controlling beef cattle supplies and prices.

In a surprise move, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board last night named the subsidiary Wartime Food Corporation as sole exporter of beef cattle in Canada with authority to buy cattle in the domestic market where necessary to bolster Dominion prices.

Only recently, food administration officials predicted that the beef shortage was being solved, but how serious the problem now is regarded could be seen in the board statement that "an acute beef shortage now exists across the whole country."

"...For some time packers have been required to give priority to military requirements, yet notwithstanding this action military requirements have not been met," it added.

Thus the situation had been carefully reviewed and a "complete change of policy" decided upon. The new system makes provision for seasonal price adjustments and this, coupled with guaranteed action by the food corporation, to support the domestic market, promoted the optimistic view in official quarters that cattle feeders could carry on their feeder stock until spring in the normal way, recovering feeding and operating costs.

Now Near the Low Mark

Beef cattle prices now are approaching their seasonal low: A decrease of one-half cent a pound in the wholesale price will go into effect Sept. 14 and this ceiling will continue until Nov. 31, when regulated season increases will be permitted.

The new policy is considered likely to remove any incentive to hold back cattle at one period and press sales at another, the board said. But it does not necessarily mean that beef supplies, scarce in almost every Canadian centre, will be restored immediately.

"Unless a miracle happens, two furnaces are going down over the week-end in Chicago," Lukens, chairman of the American Industries' salvage committee, told the group. "San Francisco is in bad shape, Pittsburgh and Youngstown are in horrible shape."

Walter M. Dear, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and publisher of the Jersey Journal at Jersey City, N.J., got a unanimous show of hands when he asked permission to name a committee to initiate a plan modelled after the "Nebraska plan." This was a three-week campaign conducted by the Omaha World-Herald, which netted 104 pounds of scrap for every man, woman and child in Nebraska.

Nelson told the newspapermen that many of the new war plants were chewing up material and producing armament at a greater rate than had been thought possible.

"We must get them the material," he asserted, "and one sure way is to bring out the scrap."

stance when a Canadian pilot was missing. His relatives had no word of him since the first of the year and were beseeching the minister to inquire about it. Only recently had R.C.A.F. headquarters been able to find out that the flier had been missing since Jan. 3 when he started on a flight to Malta.

Mail going to Canadians in the Middle East has been delayed and many episodes have developed which make it necessary that a liaison office be set up, Maj. Power explained. British authorities have been most co-operative in the matter and R.C.A.F. headquarters in Britain have already started organizing the office. The date it will be opened will depend on the time it takes to get the officers appointed to the post transported to Cairo.

of Canadians operating with the R.A.F.. The Canadian squadrons are not as yet completely Canadian as United Kingdom ground crew personnel are usually required, but the intention is to build up the Canadian personnel in every branch of squadron activity.

The principle of identification of Canadian squadrons was fully accepted more than two years ago, Maj. Power said. It was agreed that the Dominion had the right to as many Canadian squadrons overseas as she would have had in the event of the training plan being undertaken by some other country.

Credit For Real Fighters.

"Sometimes I am asked, 'Why do we need Canadian squadrons'?" said Maj. Power.

"In the first place no country needs to develop national sentiment more than Canada. Surely there was nothing but pride in the fact that the five boys who flew home to Canada this week direct from a raid on Saarbrucken came from a Canadian bomber squadron instead of from an Empire or Allied squadron.

"Secondly, there is to be a finish to this war some time when people will sit around and discuss what was done. When that time comes there will be credit given for fighting and not for training. Canada should be able to say that its airmen were in Canadian units as well as with Empire forces. All the nations will have their own problems to deal with after the war and Canada will have her own position to uphold.

"I might put it this way:

"1. First there is a spiritual reason for the establishment of Canadian squadrons, and that is the development of the Canadian nation.

"2. There is also a material reason. After the war we must not be looked on only as a nation that trained men and did not participate in the actual fighting. In the last war Canada won her status because her troops fought as Canadians in Europe."

Not An Independent Group

Maj. Power said he did not want an independent Canadian air force operating in the United Kingdom. That would create too many problems in the form of the additional services required Canadians were there to co-operate with the United Kingdom and other Allied forces.

"I do want to get a bomber group organized with our own senior officers and men. Because our senior men have had to stay in Canada to develop the air training plan we have been sending over tens of thousands of junior fighting men. Now we must begin to take senior men from the training scheme — which is operating steadily on schedule—for overseas service.

"We could not do that before because of the needs of the training plan which meant they were needed here."

Air Marshal Brookes would take charge of the Canadian bomber squadrons now in the United Kingdom and was receiving the technical training required from the British bomber command.

"When the group is formed we will have a distinctive Canadian group under the tactical command of the British bomber command," said Major Power. "The bomber group comes first, and after that we plan for a fighter group.

and carefully watched things.

"We already have long experience with and copious information on their repeated plots and manouevres which are nothing new and inadmissible.

"But our internal policy follows its unmistakable line, and our foreign policy is sealed with blood and reaffirmed in silent heroism."

The last quotation seemed to indicate a Falangist determination to continue the ties with Nazism and Fascism developed through German and Italian participation on Franco's side in the Spanish civil war.

Shock To Berlin.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 4 — (AP)—German newspapers expressed surprise today at the discharge of Ramon Serrano Suner as Spain's Foreign Minister.

A Berlin dispatch to the Swiss newspaper Basler National Zeitung said the Nazi press found the Madrid Governmental shakeup surprising "because Serrano Suner only recently returned from an important trip to Rome where he had long conversations with Mussolini and the King as well as a long visit with Pope Pius XII, which at that time was supposed to be a prelude to a discussion of the (Spanish) Monarchist movement."

Scandinavian newspapers laid the dismissal of Serrano Suner, who leaned toward totalitarian philosophy, to determination of Gen. Francisco Franco to maintain Spain's neutrality.

The Svenska Dagbladet of Stockholm said it was known for some time that "tension was increasing between Franco and the Flanagists (the Fascist political movement headed by Serrano Suner) and it is believed Franco insisted on maintaining the status quo."

The Stockholm Tidningen expressed the opinion Serrano Suner would not "entirely disappear from the political arena, although it is known that the Falangists are very unpopular with the Spanish army and its officers."

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, Sept. 4 —(CP) — The dressed poultry market would appear to be in better position, the Dominion Depart ment of Agriculture reports.

There is an improved local demand for fowl and chickens and a fair demand for broilers. Receipts of heavy chickens while not so plentiful are enough to take care of improved inquiry. Arrivals of fowl are plentiful but there is no surplus as the canners are absorbing any over supply that is not taken into retail channels. Broilers supplies are light but slightly more than demand requires, any surplus being packed for storage. Frozen turkeys are in better demand locally, one chain store featuring this kind of poultry (drawn) with the independent stores (butchers) buying more turkeys. While the out-of-town movement is only fair two cars of turkeys have been exported to the United States, consisting of 385 boxes weighing 35,046 lbs.

Quotations remain unchanged, dealers are quoting producers and country shippers for dressed poultry.

The victim was Louis Gessner of Sandusky. Coast guardmen said he was cleaning out fires when, apparently, a steam line broke.

The Sandsucker was off Marblehead in Lake Erie at the time of the explosion. It was the second accident on the Great Lakes in two days. Yesterday the freighter Steelvendor sank in Lake Superior, but 24 of the 25 men aboard were rescued.

New Sorties Sink Five Ships Wreck 8 Planes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP) — United States forces steadily strengthened their grip on the Solomon Isands today as the battle of the Southwest Pacific brought destruction of five Japanese ships, eight airplanes and quantities of invasion supplies.

Indications that constant Allied battering was sapping enemy strength came in communiques from Allied headquarters in Australia and from the United States navy department at Washington which told of lack of Japanese Aircraft resistance in New Guinea and of only "periodic attacks" by small detachments of invaders in the Solomons.

United States submarines sank five enemy ships including a light cruiser, and damaged three more. The newest sinkings reported by the navy yesterday boosted the total of Japanese ships sunk or damaged by undersea craft to 99 since December 7, 1941.

Absence of Nipponese attempts at interception were noted by Allied medium and attack bombers in a foray against enemy installations at Salamaua, Japanese New Guinea base, where numerous fires were started.

Fuel Dumps Go Up.

In the Upper Solomons, two enemy seaplanes were damaged by the Allied bombers at Faisi, fuel dumps were destroyed at Buka and at Kieta Japanese installations were blasted with "unknown results."

In the New Guinea, an Allied headquarters communique told of further bombing and strafing of Japanese communication lines in the Kokoda section, 60 miles east of the Allied base at Port Moresby, and of guerilla fighting about Milne Bay where Allied ground troops were mopping up the survivors of a trapped band of invaders.

In the southeastern Solomons, the marines bolstered positions won from the Japanese a month ago, the navy said, but small enemy detachments which succeeded in landing there were "being sought out and engaged."

Land-based aircraft, operating from the Guadalcanal base, inflicted several hits on ships engaged in landing operations, the navy added, but extent of damage was unknown.

Japanese aircraft operations, which the navy termed "periodic," included a raid by 18 bombers accompanied by fighters on the American Guadalcanal installations. Three enemy bombers and five

Tories Hoping To Formulate New Policies

PORT HOPE, Ont., Sept. 4.—(CP).—Final arrangements have been made for the Conservative "lay" conference which will take place here this week-end, it was announced to-day. The session will open with a banquet this evening, and the conference will conclude Monday. About 150 persons from all provinces in the Dominion are expected to attend.

Arrangements for the conference were made by R. Finlayson of Winnipeg, secretary to Viscount Bennett when the latter was Canadian Prime Minister; Donald M. Fleming, Capt. F. H. Reid and Miss Elsie Gregory, all of Toronto.

Spokesmen for the conference emphasized that no cleavage within the Federal Conservative Party was implied in the project. At round table conferences the present political situation is to be discussed freely and informally, and it is hoped policies will crystallize in the course of these conferences.

Mr. Fleming said the Port Hope gathering was not in conflict with the conference which others of the party have proposed should be held in the west.

To-morrow the gathering will divide into groups or round tables for discussion of particular problems, while on Sunday there will be services in the Trinity College School chapel.

On Monday there will be a general session for discussion of reports and recommendations coming from the round tables. It is hoped that it will then be possible to present suggestions for a constructive, up-to-date program for coping with wartime and post war problems.

Express Thanks For Ditty Bags

PORT HOPE Sept. 4—(ENS).—Letters of appreciation arrive daily from the members of the H.M.C.S. Port Hope in appreciation of their ditty bags, the following is one received by Miss Myrtle Long, teacher of Grade 1, Public School:

Dear Miss Long and Pupils:

I wish to express my heartfelt appreciation for the thoughtfulness of yourself and your pupils giving me such a well equipped ditty bag. Would you be so kind as to personally convey my very many thanks to all your pupils for their extreme kindness. From talking over the wonderful time we spent in Port Hope I found out that you were talking to some of the boys that afternoon. I was terribly sorry to know that I had not been able to thank you, but as I received mine among the last group I missed the opportunity of becoming acquainted with you in real life instead of by correspondence, as I would have liked very much.

We had a wonderful trip for the rest of the journey; every day was one of sunshine except one which was fog. So all in all we really enjoyed ourselves the whole way down. We are having a slight stop over for the time being, but as you know we don't know for how long or where we are off to next. Your holiday is practically over, too, so back to school you will be going. I hope that your new pupils will be tractable and studious and cause you very little trouble so that the oncoming school term will be very pleasant.

As it is growing late now, I will close for now hoping to hear from you soon.—I remain, sincerely,

HALIFAX, Sept. 4.—(CP)—Juvenile delinquency in Halifax has shown a marked increase in the last year or two, Rev. Britain Calmly Confident Of Fourth Year

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(CP Cable.)—Britain viewed with calm confidence to-day the opening of the fourth year of war and looked optimistically to a new period of offensive after three years in which reverses outnumbered victories.

Dominions Secretary Clement Attlee in an anniversary statement spoke for the nation when he said "we must expect further difficulties but we can be certain that, however long the way, the issue is sure."

"Day by day and week by week the United Nations add to their strength in armed forces and in munitions of war," he declared. "Their efforts have not yet reached their peak. Our tenemies long ago passed theirs and have suffered losses."

Confidence that, while the way is difficult, this fourth year will see the beginning of a victory offensive was the keynote of many London and provincial morning newspaper editorials.

Prime Minister Churchill, Mrs. Churchill and all members of the cabinet attended services at Westminster Abbey.

Fight For Victory Near.

Typical of the newspaper comment was that of the Times, which said:

"Everywhere the forces in action are moving at last towards a balance. Of the forces in reserve, an overwhelming preponderance is with the United Nations.... The long fight for survival is ending. The fight for victory must soon begin."

Commented the Daily Telegraph: "Whatever the dangers of the time and whatever doubtful days lie ahead the Union (of United Nations) must be decisive in the end."

Said the Mirror, "We shall do well to look into the future with full confidence, backed by renewed determination....we wish that the next phase of the war may mark the long-expected transition from defensive to offensive preparations."

The News Chronicle said, "two years ago we were within an ace of distaster. Now we stand on the threshold of events which we hope and believe will bring final victory within our grasp."

The Herald's editorial reported "the nation enters upon this fourth year not merely with spirit unimpaired but keener and more adventurous than at the outset."

The Glasgow Herald commented: "What is needed now is surely a growth of clear thinking and planning of the kind that can clear the decks both of meaningless rivalries between British services and of lack of understanding between the Allied powers....we must hope to see the setting up early this fourth year of war of machinery for continual military consultation between the United Nations and for the co-ordination of Britain's own strategic planning under a joint general staff."

A comparison between the atmosphere of world politics in 1917 and 1942 was drawn by the Manchester Guardian which said "after the war thetask of rebuilding Europe will be more formidable....fortunately the leading powers are all experienced in political creation and behind them is a passionate desire for a more just world."

War industries were silenced for 15 minutes as workers, soldiers, clerks and statemen joined in a nation-wide prayer for victory which marked the anniversary.

A Visit To Pontypool

L.-Bdr. Jack Payne, a former deputy reeve of Manvers township, who resigned from the council to go on active service, in a letter to an old friend in this city tells of a visit to Pontypool in Wales.

Jack, who was one of the youngest members of the council of the United Counties, was a general favorite of all, and we feel sure that the impression he would make upon those whom he came in contact with would be nothing but the best.

Hailing from Pontypool he decided to visit the other Pontypool (although we must acknowledge we never knew there was such a town until we heard from Jack). While there he seems to have made a big hit. He was given lodging by a family whose son was training in the R.A.F. in Canada, and apparently this son had spoken highly of treatment he was receiving from the Canadians, so there was nothing too good for this Canadian visiting in Wales.

Here is what he did in the few days there: met all the nobility and was wined and dined like the Prince of Wales; met the local M.P.; entertained and had tea with the Lieutenant-Colonel of the Home Guard; made an honorary member of the Conservative club; guest at the Rotary dinner; went to a pink tea and whist drive by lady Rotarians; had half-hour interview with the reporters; attended the council meeting and spoke to the 24 members; attended several dances; helped a Land Army girl milk a cow; and saw the mines and neighboring towns.

We Canadians have often prided ourselves in the way we entertain the boys from England and New Zealand who are here training but we wonder if we can touch the entertainment given to L.-Bdr. Jack Payne of Manvers township.

Women Of The R.C.A.F.

Among the Canadians who arrived in Great Britain this week was the first detachment from the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, and one of these women was Cpl. Myrtle E. Boreham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Boreham, Donegal Street, Peterborough. Miss Boreham before enlisting was a stenographer in a local law office, but she also took a deep interest in the Women's Service Corps, where she got much of her early training. On going active Miss Boreham was stationed at Dunnville; but on account of her exceptional qualifications she was chosen as one of the stenographers to attend the United Nations Air Conference held this summer in Ottawa.

Members of the R.C.A.F. Women's Division discharge many duties in connection with the Air Force and these include all forms of clerical work, cooking, the lighter side of servicing aircraft, driving cars for transport purposes, and radio work.

The whole idea in forming this organization was to relieve men in as many posts as it was humanely possible for women to occupy.

In Britain the W.A.A.F. have already distinguished themselves by their devotion to duty; indeed some of them have made the supreme sacrifice.

Canadians are proud of the women who have joined the Air Force and we feel certain that this first contingent to arrive in Britain and the others which will follow will play their parts just as nobly as their sisters in the R.A.F.

This Is An Urgent Appeal

The "critical condition" in the steel industry of which the Utilities Commission was advised from Ottawa this week is accented in the statement of F. B. Kilbourn, steel controller, that scrap metal is urgently needed to supply the mills and the munitions industries of this country through the winter and spring.

The Commission intended to project the Bethune Street water main, part of which was laid this summer, 1,800 feet northerly from Park Hill Road. Their application for the necessary 18-inch iron pipe was answered with a rather anxious note that the work would have to be deferred until next spring. That leaves the Commission uneasy about the maintaining of Peterborough's water pressure next summer when steadily increasing demand is likely to be felt as more houses are built and their taps connected with the water mains.

Mr. Kilbourn says it is "harder to pick up scrap metal during the winter months, and it is essential that the remaining period of warm weather be used to the utmost to get every pound of scrap to the yards of steel plants so there will be sufficient to see us through the five long winter months." That is an appeal to everybody in this country and an immediate challenge to every person wondering what he or she can do to help win the war. It is a call for an autumn salvage campaign, and every week that passes without action will be valuable time lost.

There is nothing vague or indefinite about Mr. Kilbourn's sheer statement of necessity. Salvage of iron becomes a highly important war work, and everybody can engage in it. Only when each citizen has gathered up all the available scrap metal can he feel content that he has done his part, that he has not shirked in doing something which so far may have seemed to most people as secondary or optional.

The steel controller says it is imperative, and local leadership, both urban and rural, should be impelled to assume a prompt leadership in every locality to rake up every piece of scrap metal that lies at hand. An Otonabee group has an obsolete tractor that is only taking up space on one man's farm. That is an example of the materials which are probably being passed over while the steel authorities are becoming alarmed about their future supplies.

Meals Without Meat

Housewives will probably have to make a virtue of necessity and declare for their separate homes at least one meatless day a week for the indefinite period this autumn during which few cattle are likely to reach the market. There is no blinking the fact that the supply of cattle which supply our steaks and roasts and stews, not omitting the "hamburgers," is presently only a trickle with the prospect of only intermittent relief until the farmers decide to sell the stock that is now feeding in the fields and growing.

Those stores which retail beef that bears the government's stamped certificate of inspection and fitness as food will have to depend on the meat distributed through the abattoirs, and that quantity in recent weeks has declined to the stage described in news reports as an all time low.

In that situation as it affects the individual home, common sense suggests substitutes. Eggs are plentiful, and quite a quantity of poultry is available during the week, and especially on the week-end produce market. Good housekeepers have an ingenuity all their own in meeting emergencies, and this wartime emergency is going to make a sharper demand on their skill and resourcefulness.

For their information it seems that the Federal Government has limited to 51,000 cattle the volume of export to the United States in each quarter of the year, every three months. In the latest quarter only 17,000 cattle crossed the border from Canada. The government had to buy, against United States competition, and theres' a rub to remember, 34,000 head on a price basis of something like 2½ cents a pound above the ceiling price.

Incidentally, the Canadian producer and consumer might as well realize that they have to pay a share of that total excess cost of such quantities of meat as the 34,000 head of cattle which had to be kept at home for our own needs in that last quota quarter. A large part of that demand is sent to Canadian men in uniform. Farmers are now holding back cattle for their next crack at Uncle Sam's lush money beginning in the last quarter of the year on October 1. That seems to be the situation, and there is not much for the consumer to gain by worrying about what may happen in October.

We have a September meat problem on our hands, and the housewives will have to meet it as best they can. It is up to the rest of the family to accept the meatless day, and put up with such trifling exactions and deprivations until the farmers begin selling their plump cattle later on this fall. We might as well face it cheerfully and good humor, and, as a last suggestion, don't include veal in your beef substitutes. Don't encourage present marketing of salves. Let them grow up and put on some weight.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Anyway you do not need a permit from anybody to buy War Savings Certificates.

Ernest Bevin says that the workers will play a big victory role. But not of course by organizing strikes in war plants.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

I HAVE been visiting the Toronto cattle market quite occasionally for some years, and during the past few months have been watching the operation of the price ceilings with respect to the sale of cattle and am bound to say that the results do not seem to please anybody. There is no doubt that the action taken with respect to the fixing of prices has worked well to keep down some commodity prices which would have skyrocketed to several times their value if left in the hands of speculators. The cattle trade is a bit different to many commodities which can be stored or hoarded until the price is forced up. Mature cattle for beef have to be raised from calves and need at least two years to make beef fit for the rations of soldiers. The farmers who breed cattle with a view to marketing them either as feeders for other farmers or as beef for the abbatoir must plan ahead. These men have been in the business for years and know exactly what limits are on markets for Canadian cattle. They know our market is largely governed by that of the United States, and have been keeping that in mind. They would have no objection to a fixed price based upon current values, in Canada and the United States, for beef as a very necessary food, but the War Prices Board began by fixing prices for beef so low that they could not get beef to supply the army. This Board finally got its price up to 19¼c per lb. for dressed beef and even then the Board found it necessary to pay a bonus to bring the price up to 22c and in some cases to 23c.

We then had broken clear through the ceiling and the Board should have seen the lions in the path and allowed the beef trade as between Canada and the United States to settle down to the regular trade. This was not done, however, and the cattle purchased at high prices by the Board were counted in the quota of live cattle to the United States until the quota was filled on the 18th of August and no further live cattle can be shipped to the U.S. On Monday Aug. 24 farmers shipped in a few fat cattle to find that the War Prices and Trade Board was not now buying and fat steers went begging at 10c while stockers and feeders were looking for 10¼ and 10½. The cattle feeder now is fearful that the War Purchasing Board will leave him in the lurch again if he feeds cattle.

We are now told that the price ceiling after Sept. 14 will be 15¾c. This is a much lower price than we have had for a good many months and will be discouraging and disastrous to the cattle feeding farmers. What this Board wants is the advice of some man who understands the "cattle trade." Nothing but years of experience in the methods of the whole cattle business will suffice for this. Knowing a good beast or something about cattle is not enough. Canada is facing a calamitous condition with respect to the production of beef even for our own soldiers. Something sensible must be done about it.

The British farmer is suffering from too much straw. Farming as he does in many sections, with soil maintenance based upon straw trodden into manure in the cattle courts, it is doubtful if farmers in England or Scotland ever thought to be faced with an overabundance of straw. So much grass land has been ploughed that white crops (as they call grain crops) have become so large that even the demands of paper making have failed to keep pace with the supply.

There is a call now to agricultural research to produce some plan by which straw can be returned to the land as a useful fertilizer. Without some treatment straw is not a useful fertilizer and cannot be easily ploughed in. A scheme has been devised for reducing straw to quite a good feeding pulp by the use of caustic soda, and a considerable amount of straw is used in this way but the supply of straw is ahead of all the different demands for it.

The honey crop in Ontario would indicate that our supply of bees is not as large as it was. When be pollenized by insects, particularly bees, it might be interesting to see if the crops of seed from alfalfa and clover fields will be as good a crop as usual this year. Many farmers in England who grow clover seed keep a small apiary in which the bees do double duty in producing honey for sale and at the same time pollenize the clover blossoms for a more gruerous crop of seed.

There has been a good deal of speculation in all livstock countries as to what happened to the pigs in Denmark and the dairy cattle in the Islands of Jersey and Guernsey since the German occupation began. The most natural thing to happen in Denmark was that Danish bacon should be produced to the full capacity of that country to feed the German soldiers, and as Denmark had always been a substantial exporter of bacon another market would be required when exports to Britain were cut off. There has been some news to the effect that Germany was paying for Danish bacon in greatly depreciated currency, which is doubtless true. The first figures to be published giving the numbers of Danish pigs were recently issued from Rome in the March issue of the International Review of Agriculture. It must be some thirty-five or forty years ago that the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome was established by the agricultural countries of the world, chiefly for the purpose of gathering and publishing agricultural statistics. Canada has been a member of this institute.

The figures given out show a pig population in Denmark of 1,468,000 at the beginning of this year as against 1,968,000 one year ago. The number of pigs slaughtered in the export slaughterhouses of Denmark presumably for German consumption during the past year were 2,203,4400, as against 3,405,358 in the previous year which would figure out at a trifle over one third of a reduction. This would be mostly accounted for by the scarcity of feeding stuffs as Denmark has always imported large quantities of pig feed. The report shows a reduction in the number of sows for breeding from 196,000 to 141,000.

There has been no news yet published about what has happened to the dairy cattle in the Channel islands. It is doubtful if much can be learned about the Jersey and Guernsey cattle as long as Germany is in control because these are British possessions.

Harvesting is getting pretty well cleaned up and a good deal of stook threshing has been done. The fruit growers are having more than their share of work getting the crop picked, and the apple orchards are yet to tackle.

Stalingrad the Critical Spot

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

SOME Axis tank columns in Egypt have given ground, for the time being at least, to Allied defenders, and an unexplained Japanese regrouping of forces has brought a lull on the China and Pacific fronts. Russia thus remains the darkest spot on the United Nations war horizon.

The situation in the critical Stalingrad area was somewhat obscure as these words were written. A Nazi report via Vichy that the German wedge from the southwest had been driven another five miles to within seven miles of the city would represent a critical penetration of Russian lines if true. The Vichy propaganda unit of the Goebbels machine has never been a trustworthy news source, however.

About seven miles west and southwest of Stalingrad stands a series of small hills which mark the highest points in a barrier and rocky eminence that forms the dividing line between the Volga and Don watersheds at that point. They furnish Russian defenders with strong outposts covering the approaches to the city from both directions.

If they have been taken or bypassed by Nazi columns, Stalingrad's situation is very critical. No other strong natural barriers between the enemy and the inner defense lines are discernible on the maps.

As for the Pacific, General MacArthur's Headquarters notes a mysterious failure of Japanese interceptor planes to challenge American-Australian bomber attacks. Coupled with the continuing Japanese withdrawal in Southern China, this indicates the Japanese enemy is preparing for a blow at Russia. If his objective were Australia's outposts and supply lines, constant air raids and observation flights would be an essential preliminary.

Pending the crisis at Stalingrad and disclosure of Japanese purposes, however, London advices as to war progress in the Atlantic was highly encouraging. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, revealed that July and August were not only periods of lessening Axis submarine inroads on Atlantic shipping, but set new high marks for U-boat sinkings for the war. He implied, also, that submarines put out of action, presumably by British bombing of bases or U-boat building plants, so increased the Nazi ship casualty list that the undersea blockade was shifting from the Western Atlantic to "more usual haunts."

That would mean against British sea bottlenecks like the entrances to the Irish Sea. It is through those passages that American troop convoys have thus far passed unscathed to build up and supply the expeditionary force in Northern Ireland. Alexander expressed complete confidence, however, that British and American dispositions in those vital zones could cope effectively with any U-boat reconcentration that might develop.

If it is true that the German submarine attack is shifting eastward again for closer range operations, the explanation must be lack of enough U-boats to maintain the long distance assault effectively. It would be a German admission of failure to keep this country on the defensive. It would also reflect increasing Nazi apprehension about a major Anglo-American second-front attack.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (CP)—The first high-ranking columnist to plump for a fourth term for President Roosevelt is Westbrook Pegler who writes a syndicated column for the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers.

Pegler, who has never been an ardent Roosevelt supporter but, on the contrary, a violent opponent of New Deal labor laws, writes:

"....Mr. Roosevelt is just so much bigger and tougher than any other man in the United States at this writing that he has no rival, and in the rest of the world his is the only name that represents the United States....But if this war is going on in 1944, as it probably will be, a change of administration would be such a risky thing that it might be better to keep him, with all his faults, but with his great strength, too, and trust to the future and the wisdom of the people for the restoration of the old American liberties later on. At the present moment, there is no man in sight who would be an acceptable risk as successor to the presidency in the thick of war."

There were nearly 1,000,000 Axis nationals in the United States when war was declared last December—934,100 to be exact. It is a cheering note to report that it has been necessary for only 6,369 to be picked up as dangerous to national safety and of those arrested a mere 3,269 are now behind barbed wire. It is a tribute to the general policy of leniency proclaimed by Attorney General Francis Biddle that today the aliens situation is regarded as well under control.

James H. R. Cromwell, former American Minister to Canada and a millionaire several times over, has been paid a "substantial sum" by the "New Masses" for all costs relating to his $1,000,000 libel suit against the left-wing magazine for naming him a member of what it called "Washington's Cliveden set." The case was settled out of court with a public apology.

Washington's diplomatic corps has been thrown into dismay and alarm by a ruling of the United States treasury ending the ancient rights of diplomats to escape payment of excise taxes on liquor and tobacco imported from their own countries in bond. The state department is being bombarded with protests but the treasury is standing firm. It's a cinch there will be fewer cocktail parties along Ambassadors' Row this winter and in the homes of second and third secretaries.

The ordnance department of the U.S. Army is hot on the trail of plastics to take the place of essential metals. It already has developed plastic buttons, combs, safety razors, canteens and beds....As a result of the good neighbor policy of President Roosevelt, the American people are flocking to universities, colleges and night schools to study Spanish and Portuguese. The biggest group is composed of men and women who look forward to close business relations with Latin America after the war....

The bureau of printing and engraving in Washington turns out 46,000,000 stamps a day in 70 varieties and for $1 it produces 140 paper bills....If you make less than $1,470 a year, don't move to Washington. The labor department has figured out it costs that much for a single person to live here. The rub is that some government employees are paid only $1,260 and they live here.

Raymond Clapper, Scripps-Howard columnist, commenting on charges brought against Henry J. Kaiser, West coast shipbuilder who is turning out cargo vessels faster than any men in history, charges that he went into the black market for steel writes: "Give us a dozen such scofflaws around this town and it might shorten this war and save thousands of lives. One thing is certain, they won't win this war with court cases that put our industrial kaisers in straitjackets." Clapper blames the war production board for permitting a steel black market to exist.

Reports from Georgia indicate that Gene Talmadge, the man with the red suspenders who shook up the state's university system because he said racial equality was being taught, is having a tough time in his campaign for re-election as governor....President Roosevelt may make a cross-country trip late this fall to inspect war establishments and pep up the people....The Solomon Islands were named because an early rumor spread around that gold from the islands adorned Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem. The Jap didn't find it, either.

A Bible Message For Today

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.—Matt. ix, 35-38.

Then he called his twelve disciples together and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick....

And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.—Luke ix, 1, 2, 6.

Letter To The Editor

MUST THE JEWS SUFFER FOR EVER?

Sir,—Must France become another "Musa Dagh" for the Jews? Are we too busy with our own petty affairs to overlook the anguished cries of mothers and fathers, who are being torn away from their poor helpless children, even babes in arms? Parents who are being banished to God knows where, for no other reason than that of being born Jewish. What a world!

Have your readers who read the item in your newspaper, August 26th, under the heading "Papal Appeal Made For Jews" simply shrugged their shoulders and said, "C'est la guerre."

We are all God's children: each one of us form a pattern which is very necessary to the world as a whole. Truly, as the recent eclipse has shown, the world is filled with blood. It must be the tears of the Lord crying out in pain at man's inhumanity to man. Those German beasts shall be held to account for all this, never fear! They most certainly are not storing up a heaven for themselves in the world to come, or in this world. They shall be hated and hurt as they are doing to others daily. Pharaoh tried it many years ago, and where is Egypt today?

I appeal to every right-thinking Catholic and Protestant, who has an ounce of charity within himself, to write to his Priest or Minister, asking them to intercede on behalf of these helpless people caught in a malestrom not of their own making. Truly the Jews have much to forgive and little to regret.

JAS. N. BELLIN.

Honor Them

Look for a small silver badge in the lapels of men, some in nondescript clothing. The badge with a crown on top carries the letters "M.N." It stands for the Merchant Navy, and those lads you see wearing it are in port after being torpedoed or running cargoes through submarine-haunted seas and dodging dive bombers.—Vancouver Sun.

Clothing Costly

A comparison between two of the coupon requirements in Eire and in Great Britain show that in the former country 40 coupons are needed for a suit of clothes as against 26 in Great Britain; and for a shirt, 13 coupons as compared with eight in Great Britain. Hats, caps, and footwear are not rationed so far, nor is second-hand clothing.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

From Saar Ruins To Ottawa Unprecedented

By DENT HODGSON

OTTAWA, Sept. 4— (CP) —The five-man crew of a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber who brought fresh to Canadians at home today the first-hand story of what the R.C.A.F. is doing in Germany set a new precedent in military public relations.

Less than 24 hours after they loosed their bombs on Saarbruecken, the fliers stepped onto the runways at Rockcliffe Air Station and told their story to Prime Minister MacKenzie King, Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power. Weary from 29 hours of almost continuous flying, they gave it gladly to some 40 newspapermen and photographers who flashed the story across the Dominion.

It was a triumph for genial "Joe" Clark, director of public relations for army and air, who hovered in the background throughout the proceedings, satisfying himself that all was running smoothly.

The entire "show" was whipped up by the R.C.A.F. publicity men within 12 feverish hours. Kept on edge by reports that bad weather might force postponement of the arrival, they brought to the capital out-of-town newspapermen and photographers and paved the way for the interview.

Stayed To Photograph.

The men flew straight to the target, dumped their bombs and stayed to photograph the damage.

They flew to Britain, switched to a ferry plane and then on to Ottawa to bring Canadians their own versions of the work of the R.C.A.F.

The 24-hour trip, designed to bring the fliers of the R.C.A.F. closer to their friends and relatives in Canada, was without precedent in military history.

Floods of questions met them when they landed and later while they refreshed themselves with coffee and sandwiches.

Patient to the last, they entered a room overflowing with newsmen on benches lined up for the press conference. Sitting down in a row, they faced the reporters, answering questions that came out with the rapidity of ack-ack fire. They answered all questions except when the press liaison officer attending advised reporters that information asked was of military importance.

While the press conference went on, high air force officials listened from the door and windows, eager to catch further news.

This grilling was just a sample of what will happen to the lads for the next 10 days as they travel across the Dominion, carrying their story direct to all sections of Canada.

They agree to a man that they would "rather face a bombing expedition any day," but seemed fairly cheerful at the prospect.

See Great Coups Looming In East

CANBERRA, Sept. 4 (CP)—The Pacific war theatre is gradually being assessed at a higher degree of importance than many authorities were at first disposed to admit, H. V. Evatt, Australian Minister for external affairs, told the House of Representatives today in a review of the international situation.

Largely as a result of the battles of the Coral Sea, Midway and the Solomons, Dr. Evatt declared, the realization at last is growing the United Nations may be presented with great opportunities to strike telling blows in this theatre.

He paid special tribute to Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of United States naval operations, with whom he talked in Washington.

"While the immediate credit has gone in the main to others, the planning and determination of Admiral King have been largely responsible for the blows against the enemy in the Coral Sea and Midway," he asserted.

"There has not yet been adequate appreciation of the boldness and ingenuity of the northern thrust of the United States and Australian forces over a great distance toward the Solomon Islands."

The United States fleet has made a remarkable recovery from the setback at Pearl Harbor, which not a few believed had put the United States navy out of the Pacific war for at least 18 months, Dr. Evatt said. Events, he declared, have proved otherwise.

He said the total number of combat planes received in this theatre since March was very substantial and "far beyond our wildest hopes in the black days of February."

He added, however, that it is impossible to rest satisfied with the present position of the United Nations.

Rev. Wm. Allan Died Hero's Death

TORONTO, Sept. 4— Rev. William Allan of Toronto, lost when the Athenia was torpedoed the day war broke out, died a hero's death. He drowned trying to rescue a child. This was told today by William B. Gregory of Inverness, Scotland, youthful able seaman who was aboard the liner when she was torpedoed on August 28, 1939.

"I was in the lookout of the ship when the torpedo struck," Gregory said. "We had been assigned to lifeboat, mine being No. 15 on the starboard side. As soon as the torpedo hit, I slid down the forestay from the crow's nest and ran up to the boat deck. At each end of the lifeboat were bridle slings to stop it from swinging against the side of the ship. The two men lowering the boat apparently forgot to clear the slings and it started to swing badly, spilling the passengers and crew into the water.

Caught In Suction.

"There was a little blonde child in the boat, a little girl about nine or 10 years old. She was thrown into the water, with Mr. Allan falling near her. He grabbed her and tried to keep afloat until other boats, which were some distance away, could reach them. Before they could, however, they both sank. I wasn't far away but there was nothing I could do to help htme. I think he could have managed if it hadn't been for the suction when the ship sank.

"I was picked up by an Irish coaster, homeward bound, and taken to Galway. Then they shipped me home.

I had talked to Mr. Allan several times or board the ship after we left Glasgow. He told men he had a son, Arnold, in Toronto. His other son, Andrew, was on board the ship. He was saved.

I saw him get into the lifeboat and he was near me when it started to swing, throwing us both out. It was just getting dusk when the torpedo struck.

Bursts Into Flames.

Two weeks after I got ashore, I shipped again on a British tanker. We went from Glasgow to Aruba in the Dutch West Indies. With 20,000 tons of benzine aboard, we started back to a port in Britain. Between Cape Verde and Cape St. Vincent, two Portuguese-owned islands off the African coast, I was on midnight watch. Another A. B. named Donald McKenzie from Stornaway relieved me at the wheel. I went down to the gallery and put some coal on the fire and water in the kettles for the next watch. I heard an explosion and when I went out on deck, all the after-end of the ship was in flames. I couldn't get aft to call the watch below, so to save myself, I jumped over the weather side. Had I jumped over the lee side I would have been scalded to death or roasted alive.

When the ship went down, all the convoy was lit up for miles and a Portuguese fishing boat which was in the vicinity, picked us up and took us ashore at Lisbon.

After I was sent home, I knew I couldn't give up the sea, so I signed on another British ship. We went from Glasgow to Gibraltar with a cargo of coal for the admiralty. We also had 1,000 tons of mail for British prisoners of war. All the bags were marked with a Red Cross and prisoners de guerre via Geneva" written on them. After we had discharged the coal we proceeded to Huelva in Spain. There we loaded iron ore. We got as far home as the North sea, going 7½ knots with a very slow convoy as we were near mine fields off the coast of England. The escorting vessels suddenly slowed down and to avoid bumping the stern of the ship ahead the man at the wheel put the helm hard over to starboard. As the ship was veering round on her course, she struck a loose, floating mine. Iron ore is very heavy cargo and the ship sank in 7½ minutes. She was split in two.

Wife Killed In Blitz.

When the crew jumped in the water, their bodies were covered with dust from the iron ore cargo. We were picked up by a minesweeper that had been escorting us through the mine field. I proceeded home to Clydebank but that night while waiting for thetrain, my wife had been killed in the blitz and I have only a three-year-old boy left.

I missed my last ship in Halifax and so I joined a Nova Scotia regiment. I spent a year overseas with them as dispatch rider and while taking up dispatches to Canadian headquarters in London I collided with staff car and was injured about the head. I was in hospital for five months and then dischared as medically unfit."

108 Calls Are Made By Friendship Group

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 4 — (ENS) — The Community Friendship secretary, Mrs. C. W. Turner, made most of the 108 calls reported made during the past month it was revealed at the regular meeting of St. John's W. M. S. held Tuesday afternoon. Twenty-one members and one visitor attended the meeting which was in charge of the President, Mrs. E. C. Roberts. Assisting with the devotional period were Mrs. H Free and Mrs. A. D. Bennett while the last two chapters of the study book read by Mrs. George Hammond and Mrs. W. F. Scott provided an interesting part of the program. The chapters dealt with missionary work done in China during the past few years. In anticipation of the October meeting the president handed out topics to several of the ladies who will prepare three minute talks using these as their basis. This it is expected will form a background for some healthy discussion at the meeting. Mrs. Charles Howey rendered a vocal solo "When You Come Home" during the program which was announced by Mrs. A. J. Armour.

Aussies Scare Japs With Beer Bottles

By KATHERINE PINKHAM

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4—(AP) —A bombing raid on Tulgai during which happy-go-lucky Australian fliers tossed out beer bottles for the fun of scaring the Japs with their screaming whistles was described today by Lieutenant-Commander George Huff, first navy man to arrive on the mainland from the Solomons since their American occupation.

The 37-year-old San Franciscan in describing an operation, which occurred some time prior to the marine occupation, praised the Australian fighting spirit.

"They are a great bunch of aviators," he said in an interview. They're absolutey happy-go-lucky. They act all the time a sif they are happy as kids to get a chance to go to war. Our men are a lot more serious.

They had been bombing Tulgai. for quite a while, off and on, before we got there. They called it 'weekending' to come over to our base and take off from there to drop bombs on Tulagi. When we went with them to drop a few, our boys were ready to come home when their job was done. It was first action for most of them.

"But those Australians had brought along a couple of cases of empty beer bottles and stayed on for half an hour longer tossing out the bottles. They whistle all the day down; it scares hell out of those below."

Huff has had his share of excitement in this war. His plane was shot away from him by a Jap Zero plane in Honolulu as he was trying to get into the air Dec. 7; he dodged bullets and had to dive into Pearl Harbor to escape shrapnel from a salvo of bombs; and he has lunched with cannibals in the South Sea Islands who remembered eating "long pig" (white man).

Young Canucks Stand Army Tests

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Sept.— (CP) —Canadian manhood is coming through its wartime merical tests with satisfactory results, Surgeon-Capt. Archibald McCallum, medical director-general for the Royal Canadian Navy, said today in an interview with The Canadian Press.

The most searching medical examination ever applied to a large group of men in Canada shows the nation's health to be sound. Rejections of applicants for enlistment on grounds of unfitness are not high and rejections are not evidence of poor health.

"Because a man is unfit for a particular job doesn't mean he is unhealthy," said Capt. McCallum. "He may be color-blind and so unfit to be a signalman but still sound in wind and limb. He may have defective eyesight and live to be 100."

Since the beginning of the war 11.8 per cent of the men who applied for enlistment in the navy were turned down on their medical examination. The fact that 25.9 per cent of those turned down had defective vision and 10.5 per cent had ear conditions indicates, said Captain McCallum that bad health was not very common among the men who tried to get into the navy.

Varicose veins and flat feet are other causes of rejection which have little, if anything, to do with a man's basic health.

"It is a well-known fact that boys are several inches taller on the average than they were a generation ago," said Dr. McCallum. "That indicates better health. It is the result of what the medical profession have been hammering at for the last 25 years, getting poisons out of the body by removing abcessed teeth and bad tonsils in childhood, eating more fruits and vegetables."

The size of the young men today, coupled with the results of service medical examinations, bespeak a vigorous generation.

Deacon Heading For 5 Years In Baffin Land

Destined to spend the next five years of his life in lonely Baffin's Land, the Rev. Tom Daulby is preparing in Toronto to leave on the next stage of his journey, it was revealed today by the Church of England Missionary Society. A recent graduate of the Bible Churchmen's Missionary Society and Theological College, Bristol, he reached Canada shortly before his ordination as deacon of the Church of England by Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic. He will join Canon J. H. Turner at Pangnirtung, it was revealed.

"I'm anxious to get started on the next leg of my journey," stated Mr. Daulby today.

No desire for adventure prompted this journey, but "the wish to do service to God and the church. I do not expect ever to be lonely," he said. "When no human companionship is available, I shall feel the nearness of God much more."

Mr. Daulby will be thoroughly trained in handling an Eskimo kayak and in mushing a dog team and sled before going on his own into the wilderness. Neither married nor engaged, he believes the northland is not an ideal place to take a wife. He is taking some warm clothing with him but expects to get the balance—moccasins, parka and mittens—from the Eskimos.

Although the problem of shaving in sub-zero weather is not an easy one, Mr. Daulby does not plan to grow a beard. "It is not good policy" he said. "Ice particles form from the moisture of one's breath." This advice was given him by Canon Turner in England two years ago.

Nazis Shaping Big Bombers For Raids On UK

By LOUIS V. HUNTER.

LONDON, Sept. 4—(CP) — The recent destruction over Britain of a four-engine Heinkel 177 has inspired the belief in aviation circles that the Germans are preparing to bolster the weight of their air offensive against this country.

So far the Germans have reserved their bigger types of aircraft for long-range work. The Focke-Wulf Kuriers, for instance, have been engaged mostly on duties over the Atlantic. Their load-carrying qualities have been applied rather to give them duration, so they might search for ships and attack them or pass news of them to submarines, than to the delivery of heavy individual attacks.

The destruction of the Heinkel, which was shot down by a Canadian night fighter pilot, Wing Commander Max Aitken of Montreal, may mean that the Germans have decided to risk their heavier types over Great Britain for the sake of increasing the weight of the attack they can launch night by night with the limited number of aircraft available for duty in the west.

Wastful Instrument.

It may mean that they have been impressed by the success of the British four-motor bombers and are experimenting with their own heavy types in the hope that they may prove satisfactory against the British night defenses.

In the present stage of the enemy's night offensive, the big bomber would seem to be a wasteful instrument, in the view of the authoritative aviation magazine, Aeroplane. Concentrated bomber raids are not possible with the small fleet spared from the Russian conflict for operations against Great Britain. The purpose of the German Air Force lately has been to spread a few bombers over a large area and so to create an illusion of greater activity.

If the big bomber is to be made to give value in this scheme, it would have to visit several localities each night, leaving part of its load in each.

Experience has shown that danger increases with the time which a raider must spend over enemy territory. The detection machinery can usually keep track of a bomber all the time it is flying near observer posts and radio-location centres and can give batteries and fighters sound information about its position and course.

Invites Trouble.

The raider which dashes in, drops its bombs and makes promptly for its base again, cuts the chances of interception to a minimum. The big bomber, with an itinerary like that of a railway train, is inviting close attention and will be lucky if it avoids trouble.

Whatever may be the value of the four-motor bomber to Germany in the present circumstances of the air war in the west, there is evidence of the German intention at some time to answer heavy bombs with heavy bombs.

That was to be expected. The Germans would have thought poorly of a leader who allowed Britain to use something more "colossal" than the airmen of the Reich. What its value will be in the face of the improved night defences has yet to be seen. In its original form the HE-177 was little better able to defend itself than was the Kurier.

Unless it can put up a good fight it will stand a poor chance over Great Britain—and so far there are certainly far fewer HE-177's than there are big bombers in the R.A.F.

Canadian Evens Ducking Bags Focke-Wulf

By LOUIS V. HUNTER.

LONDON, Sept. 4— (CP Cable) — Two Canadian Spitfire pilots destroyed a pair of Focke-Wulf 190's which approached the south coast of England Wednesday morning and then helped in the rescue of one Nazi airman who bailed out into the sea after being wounded in a short fight.

They were PO. Don Morrison, D.F.M., Toronto, and Flt.-Sgt. R. D. Reesor, Pouce Coupe, B.C.

The Canadians were patrolling at 24,000 feet when they spotted the Focke-Wulfs approaching Shoreham. Each selected one as his target and Reesor sent his victim spinning downward in slick rolls, out of control. The pilot jumped at 15,000 feet.

The machine Morrison attacked caught fire

Reesor, describing the destruction of his adversary, said the plane remained in the air for about four minutes after the pilot jumped. It finally plunged into the sea.

"I saw the pilot inflate his dinghy but he was too badly wounded to get into it, so I circled him until he was rescued by a naval launch which was found by my companion and guided to the scene," Reesor said.

Morrison's victory evened an old score for the young Toronto collegian who was brought down into the Channel during the Canadian-led Dieppe attack by falling wreckage from a Focke-Wulf which he destroyed during the great accompanying air battle.

"I gave it all my cannon and machine-gun fire," Morrison said in discussing yesterday's triumph, "and when I last saw the Nazi plane it was on fire and as full of holes as a sieve.

"I flew alongside it and saw the pilot slumped over the stick, obviously dead. The Focke-Wulf was so badly damaged it was a miracle it flew at all. When it disappeared from sight it was crossing at the French coast at 2,000 feet, still burning and losing height."

His companions regard Morrison as one of the pluckiest fighter pilots in the R.C.A.F. He has destroyed several enemy aircraft, and while aboard a rescue craft in the Channel during the Dieppe raid he dived overboard twice to rescue wounded members of the crew of a second rescue vessel, attacked and set afire by enemy fighters.

Lead Cards In Drive To Overhaul Brooklyn

Just like last year, this quartet of Cardinals are planning a hectic road for the Brooklyn Dodgers as the teams race for the National League pennant. The Cards whittled Brooklyn's once-imposing lead by a great stretch drive of their own and will probably be heckling Durocher and Co. down to the last game. Con Smythe Teaching Fighting First, Sports Rapped

TORONTO, Sept. 4—"Our armed forces," declared Major Conn Smythe of the 30th Battery here yesterday afternoon, "are playing in a straight war league these days. It isn't soccer, football, softball or hockey league playoff campaigning. And it's about time some of our husky young athletes, switching from civilian life to active service, got rid of the idea they were merely jumping from one uniform into another, without losing their sport stride."

It's Serious Business

Major Smythe, in Toronto on furlough from his important defense station position, thus gave answer to a question on the emphasis of sports as part of the training program for Canada's fighting men.

"There's no more sport-minded person in the country than I am," the former managing director of Toronto Leafs and Maple Leaf Gardens continued, "but when a boy joins the air force, the army or the navy it's to prepare himself for serious business. Athletics as recreation are okay as part of that training program, but I'm strongly opposed to any emphasis on competition between member of teams from the armed forces and civilians. I'll subscribe heartily to camp and inter-camp competition which doesn't interfere with regular armed force training.

"We had team competitions within the ranks and with civilian units in the last war. But they were secondary to military training, and in many instances, soldier-athletes were whisked off overseas in the midst of league or playoff schedules. Most of the competition was arranged for off-duty periods. And without much travelling."

Let Civilians Carry On

It is Major Smythe's idea that there is plenty of room for a continued sports program for civilians in time of war.

"Let the civilians who do not come under immediate military requirements carry on as usual, the Major added: "But I say, let our military men stick to their knitting. And their knitting, if anybody needs to know, is winning this war. And we can't win it by sending military sports teams barnstorming the country for competition with civilian organizations."

"What about the boys overseas now?" he asked. "What must they be thinking when they get newspapers from home and read that the armed forces back here are training to join them as reinforcements by playing in softball, football and soccer leagues with civilians? Why should our boys back home continue their star roles as athletes in army life in times like these?

Cites Example

Major Smythe recalled a striking example of the difficulties arising from outside competition for army units.

"We developed a good basketball team," he said, "last winter at our Petawawa Camp. In carrying out the schedule, the team had several special leaves from camp.

"Came a day when one of the batterymen applied to me for a week-end leave. I found he didn't have one coming at that particular moment.

"'All right, sir,' this private said, 'but it hardly seems fair that I should be refused a week-end permit to see my wife and family when the basketball team can get away to take part in athletics.'

"I told him he was absolutely right about it," the Major said, "and I made up my mind then and there, that there had to be a stop to this free-wheeling business for our Battery athletes. And I'll tell you that, despite the fact we've got one of the greatest collections of athletes of any unit in the armed forces, the boys are learning to be fighters and not athletic headliners."

It was as Conn Smythe, the once human dynamo of the Canadian sport world, that he talked athletics in general and their relationship to these grim times. He arrived hatless for our luncheon date, sporting the familiar grey civilian clothes so well known around Toronto when he was patrolling the lawn at Woodbine.

We talked about horse racing and Ontario's latest crop of 2-year-olds; of Sir Marlboro, Shoeless Joe and Second Helping.

"A fellow dared me yesterday," said Conn, "to prove that professional hockey had contributed its share of manpower in this war. I told him there must be 60 or 70 boys in uniform right now.

"But that didn't suit him at all. He wanted to know how many were really in there fighting. I named Joe Lamb, Stew Adams and Teddy Graham, all overseas. He only grunted and pointed out all three had been out of the hockey picture for years. I was stumped. He had me. Best I could do was point out that there were plenty pointing the right direction now. And I'm still hoping the National Hockey League has reason to be proud of its contributions, even at this late date."

Watercraft Eliminates Brintons

There was plenty of excitement and thrills at the Woollens Field Thursday evening when the City Industrial League started its playdowns. The Brinton Carpets lost to the fast Watercrafts squad by a score of 21 to 15.

The game was a fast affair, both squads playing heads up ball. The Rugmakers started on the score sheet with three runs before the Boatmakers found themselves and began to click.

Corbett on the mound for the Brinton pitched good ball but the Watercrafts took him for plenty of bingles. His teammates faltered in the pinches.

The Watercrafts slab artist, Killingbeck twirled good steady ball and was never in danger, getting top support from his teammates.

'Skeets' Thompson, peppery shortstop for the Paddlers, made some sensational catches while the garden men, Boyd, Shine and Boyd, did a great job of handling the Brintons long drive. Red Hunter turned in a perfect card at the initial sack.

Umpires Rose and Stenner handled the game well. Teams:

Brintons: Downers, lf; Goheen, cf; Leether, 1b; Corbett, ss; C. Corbett, p; Kingdon, rf; White, 3b; Dorrell, 2b; Lord, c.

Watercrafts: Walker, 3b; Shine, cf; H. Boyd, rf; Paul, c; Hunter, 1b; Thompson, ss; K. Boyd, lf; Killingbeck, p; McNeely, 2b.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

It will be men's rinks to-night. Draw from the board at 7.30 o'clock.

It was quite cool last night, and to those of us who were standing around watching the play got quite a chilling.

Our boys are back from the Globe doubles and we're wondering, after taking everything into consideration, if it's worth while going all the way up to Toronto and then back home again, all for the chance of playing one fifteen-end game of doubles?

The novice competition will get under way at 7 o'clock this evening, but this will in no way effect the men's rink tournament. There will be lots of room for all.

C. Giroux's rink just about pulled the game out of the fire in the last end. Down on the scoreboard for about half of the game, they finally crept up until they were only one down coming home. The shot bowl was measured by the vices, then the two skips and finally an umprise was called and the Gimblett boys got the verdict. Is that close enough?

The mixed tournament on Monday commences at 1.45 p.m. There are lots of bowlers who would like to play if they were only asked by the older and more experienced players. Get up a rink and get in on the fun; it's the last holiday of the season.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Westclox girls' softball team has earned a warm spot in the hearts of local fans this season and it should be reflected in a record crowd at Riverside Park on Monday afternoon when they will clash with Preston Rivulettes in the first game of their provincial playdown series with the Western Ontario winners. Westclox started off this season minus some of the stars of other campaign and with the available crop of pitchers apparently cornered by the Big Bens' old rivals, the C.G.E. girls. On top of that Ab Delahaye, veteran manager and coach of the Westclox who had piloted them for years was stricken seriously ill before the season opened. The outlook was black at that time and became worse when the Clockmakers dropped their first three games. But Pat Hayden who took over the coaching job began to get the Westclockers into winning ways and they have been winning most of the time ever since, showing constant improvement, with the result that in the playoffs for the local league championship they defeated Generals four games to one and then went on to trim York Ladies, Toronto champions, in two straight tilts.

* * * * * *

Now they are set to battle the Western Ontario representatives for the provincial honors and Peterborough will be with them in their fight for the Ontario title. They will probably find the Preston team tough opposition. They seem to grow formidable girl athletes in that section of the province and in hockey especially Preston gals have been top of the heap for the years. But the Big Bens who have been playing smart ball are confident that they will not fall down in the big test that awaits them. The Labor Day game will be played at Riverside Park and will get under way at 3 o'clock. Marg Watson who has done the bulk of the pitching all season will be on the mound for the Peterborough girls with Isobel Bullock doing the catching. With no other sporting event scheduled locally that day the Westclox-Preston game should pack them in at Riverside Park. In fact if the crowd isn't the largest that has been seen in the park since the palmy days when Peterborough ball teams were live contenders for provincial honors you can accuse us of some very bad guessing.

Brintons and Electrics staged one of their best games of the season last night, with Brintons drawing away in the later stages to win their second straight decision over the C.G.E. outfit and open up a two-game lead in the best four-of-seven series for the intermediate girls' title and the Knox Cup. It was a real pitchers' battle between Leila Hughes for Brintons and Mary Larmer for the losers, each allowing only six hits. So far as the pitchers were concerned there would not have been much scoring. While errors were not plentiful, they were all costly and as a result only two of the ten runs scored were earned, Brintons' last two counters of the game. All the rest including the two markers yielded by Leila Hughes were the result of defensive slips or were scored after the side should have been retired. The two pitchers have pitched in every game played by their clubs this season and both have improved steadily. Leila Hughes for example has struck out 26 batters in her last two games and she has been fogging them through in fine style.

Newsom Comes Through

Brooklyn's purchase of the veteran Buck Newsom from the Washington Senators justified itself yesterday when the battling Bobo who has worn a lot of uniforms in his day and pitched a lot of good baseball stepped out there on the mound against the Cincinnati Reds, stacked up against Johnny VanderMeer, and turned in a masterpiece, holding the Reds to four hits and shutting them out. Newsom had to be good for VanderMeer held the hard-hitting Dodgers to five safe blows. However the Bums managed to shove over two runs and that was one more than they needed for the win. Newsom's feat was a big help to the Dodgers for those battling St. Louis Cards were doing a little whitewashing themselves yesterday, blanking the New York Giants 7 to 0, in spite of the fact that they were facing the grand old campaigner Carl Hubbell. The St. Louis hero was Howard Pollet, a sensation last year and this season only a pitcher. Yesterday he looked like the Pollet of the last part of the 1941 campaign as he held the Giants to four hits.

In the American League those Boston Red Sox whose blazing play in the last month has featured the junior loop kept up their winning pace by a 2 to 0 win over the Detroit Tigers. It was the 23rd Boston win in their last 27 starts and was made possible by a four-hit pitching performance by Wilburn Butland, the 6.5 foot right-hander from Louisville who was a bull-pen thrower in the early part of the season but has blossomed out into a consistent winner. Hal Newhouser tossed in a five-hitter himself but allowed two Boston runs and that was ample for victory with Butland refusing to yield a counter. Washington Senators had a field day with a double win over the Chicago White Sox. The opened was a close fit, the Senators winning by 3 to 2, but with Scarborough, a rookie pitching turning in a five-hitter in the nightcap the Senators won by 14 to 0. Thornton Lee was the starting Chicago hurler.

There is plenty of action ahead for the club that emerges victorious from the Oshawa-Plaza clash for the schedule calls for the winner to meet the Eastern Ontario representatives, probably Kingston Vics, in a best two-of-three series that must be decided in time to allow the winning club to play the Toronto intermediate A champs in Toronto on Wednesday, September 16 with the return game on the grounds of the Eastern representatives on Saturday, September 19. Lipsons and Anacondas are the two clubs in the running for the T.A.S.A. title and they clash in the first game of the final series tonight. The Southern Ontario final series between the club that wins the Toronto series and the winner of Guelph or Sarnia is billed for September 26 and October 3. Then the Southern Ontario champs will be expected to playoff in the All-Ontario finals with the winner of the North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury clash on October 10 and 12, both games on the grounds of the southern champions.

A Good Cricket Offering

The Picton R.A.F. cricketers will make their third appearance of the season at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon, playing against a combined Peterborough-Oshawa eleven. The Air Force men have a strong team this season, all from the British Isles and have proved in their earlier appearances, much too good for the local club. To provide the Britishers with better competition tomorrow's match has been arranged and it should furnish some interesting cricket. Oshawa will send along five players including E. Sargent and M. Craig who were the main factors in Oshawa's easy win over Peterborough several weeks ago. The Peterborough-Whitaker contingent will probably be Frank Dyer, J. Wild, G. Colbran, G. Langhorne, T. Williams and Art Pagett. The match will start at 2.30 o'clock and it is expected that many interested in the game will be on hand not only to see some good cricket but to recognize the grand work of the Royal Air Force.

Walls Soup Campbell of Oshawa in his sport column: "We thought Jesse James was dead—but Oh MY! Oshawa Colts took the low end of a 9-7 score in Peterborough Wednesday as Plazas tied up the series. Actually, an umpire named Dormer accounted for 8 of Peterborough's 9 runs and the only good counter they got was a mammoth home-run wallop by Blewett, their reliable centre-fielder. Jim Ellis played brilliantly at 1st base and the rest of the Peterborough team was just ordinary, with the exception of the peppery Eddie Starr, capable receiver. Those three players, plus Dave Wilson's steady pitching and Umpire Dormer's decision beat the Colts. It was so bad that Peterborough fans were laughing. After the game several of them came down to the Oshawa bench and expressed their opinion that the Colts had been "robbed." The only way Oshawa could get a Peterborough player out was on a strikeout or a fly ball. There were eleven balls hit to the infield, Norm McGee got three of them himself at 1st base and nobody could take them away but only three of the re-

Leila Hughes Duplicates 1st Performance

Brintons went two up in the playoff series for the Knox Cup last night when they defeated Electric girls for the second time in a row, taking the verdict 8 to 2. The third game in the series is billed for next Tuesday night.

Leila Hughes, who muffled the Electric attack in the first game with a thirteen-strike out performance, duplicated the feat last night by whiffing a baker's dozen of the C.G.E. batters. She did not give a base on balls and allowed the losers only six hits in the eight innings played four of the blows coming in the last two frames, after Brintons had forged well in front.

Mary Larmer on the hilltop for Electrics turned in a great card, too, holding Brintons to six hits, but fielding slips by her team mates proved decidedly costly, giving the winners the majority of their runs.

Over most of the distance it was one of the best played games the two teams have staged this season, with some nice fielding on both sides. Each club pulled off a double play and Shirley Milburn at second for the losers and Marg Batley at first for Brintons featured with some classy defensive work.

The batting star of the night was M. McIlwaine, centre fielder for Electrics, who banged out three clean hits in four trips to the plate, getting half her team's total.

Electrics got the only run scored in te hfirst three innings, scoring in the first of the third when Grace Barnes singled to centre, ran to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third when M. Barnes grounded to first, and scored on a fumble by Nellie Smith on Mary Larmer's tap to second.

Brintons went ahead with two unearned runs in the fourth. With one out Doris Walker got Brintons' first hit. Leila Hughes rolled to Mary Larmer, but Nellie Smith walked, Maxine Hunter threw high to first on Doreen Smith's roller to third, and Doris Walker scored. H. English rolled to Ethel Barnes who threw home too late to get Nellie Smith. Irene Stewart forced H. English at second.

Brintons added four in the fifth on three errors, a base on balls, a double by Marg Batley, and H. English's single to left, and they came back with a pair in the sixth on singles by M. Barrie, Agnes Weir and Leila Hughes, and a wild pitch.

Electrics threatened in the seventh when M. McIlwaine and Ruby Milburn led off with singles, but Leila Hughes struck out the next three batters. The losers, however, succeeded in pushing over their last run in the eighth. With two out, S. Milburn singled, M. Hunter was safe on a fumble, and M. McIlwaine hammered out her third hit in a row to send the run in.

Leo Durocher, the ebullient manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, welcomes his newest pitcher, Louis "Buck" Newsom, bought from Washington Senators, as the irrepressible Buck reports to the Brooklyn team. This pair should be good for plenty of verbiage. Newsom won victory No. 1 on Thursday.

Continent's Ducks Getting Break Hunters Shy On Time, Gas and Tires

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 —(AP)—In northern woodlands the wild ducks are breaking up housekeeping with the healthiest prospect in years of reaching Miami or wherever they're planning to spend the winter.

This fall a greater number of birds will wing over a lesser number of hunters equipped with enough ammunition but not enough time, tires or gasoline. The ducks can thank the war for this break.

The Isaak Walton League estimates well over 100,000,000 birds will lam it south the next few months. This would be 30,000,000 more than last season and three times as many as in 1935. Good weather and water conditions for breeding are responsible for the big flocks.

Though figures are unavailable, the league guesses that 500,000 hunters are using Uncle Sam's guns this season to blast at another kind of fowl. Of these probably 50,000 are duck hunters.

Then there are untold thousands who won't have time to leave their defense work benches to spend a few days in the marshes. Those who find time probably won't have tires or gasoline to take them to their favorite blinds.

Coast The Safe Spot

The smarter ducks—the ones that hunters swear went to high school—will lay out a route along our coasts. There, wartime regulations prevent civilians from going out in any kind of boat with a firearm.

Last year 1,400,000 duck stamps were issued to hunters. The Izaak Walton League figures the 1942 total may not exceed 1,000,000.

Guns and ammunition are not a problem, according to a leading sporting goods house. While sporting shotguns are not being manufactured, there are stocks on hand for initiates into the army of hunters who already have their guns.

There are enough shells in stock to supply this season's crop of hunters and some of next year's. Hunting doesn't clash with patriotism since shotgun powder is different from that used in military arms. Priority demands on brass and copper are the cause for a curb in production.

Con topped the riders at the recent Saratoga meeting, booting home 33 winners, his most recent win being on Devil's Thumb in the Hopeful stakes.

Quebec's Rugby Hopes Bright

MONTREAL, Sept. 4 —(CP) — Prospects that the Quebec Rugby Football Union will sponsor a large senior group for the first season in five years this Fall appeared good last night after the first meeting of the season.

Officials said it seemed probable that eight or nine teams might apply for entrance into a senior group, which would operate in addition to the junior group which operated last year.

Teams seen as possible entries were Royals, Navy Army, Huntingdon Training Centre R. C. A. F. Montreal headquarters, R. C. A. F. Manning Depot, Lachine, R. C. A. F. No. 1 Wireless School, Canadian Vickers and Montreal Football Club.

Twin Thumpings Blackout Playoff Hopes

By The Associated Press

The pennant-winning Newark Bears are the only ones enjoying the scramble being waged among five clubs to determine who will join the Bears in the International League playoffs.

Montreal Royals just about assured themselves a berth and at the same time left little hope for Toronto Maple Leafs last night as they defeated the Leafs twice 3-1 and 2-1.

Although Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe tossed a three-hitter in the first game, the Royals had to score two unearned runs to make him the victor. Toronto's only tally came on a circuit clout by Frank Colman in the second inning.

Successive home runs by Jack Graham and Les Burge in the fourth inning of the night cap gave the Royals the contest. Al Sherer held the Leafs to six hits and lost his shutout on a Burge error.

Baltimore Orioles advanced into a fourth-place tie with Syracuse Chiefs as they defeated Jersey City Giants, 5-4 and 3-2.

George Staller broke a 2-2 tie with a three-run four-master in the opener's sixth inning and the Orioles survived a last-inning uprising by the Giants.

Newark Bears suffered a heavy loss as they bowed to Syracuse Chiefs 4-1. More important than the defeat was the accident suffered by Third Baseman Joe Abreu.

Abreu, who off the field has built up quite a reputation as a magician, was unable to get out of the way of a pitch ball thrown by Ewell Blackwell in the eighth inning. He suffered a cut and concussion but was reported in no immediate danger.

Rochester Red Wings and Buffalo Bisons were idle.

Frankie Parker Beats Greenberg

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 —(AP) — Not at his best because of a sprained tendon in his racket wrist, Ted Schroeder, Jr., of Glendale, Cal., probably was in some slight danger of meeting defeat in his quarter-final match against Alejo Russel of Argentina in the United States Tennis championships today.

It could be close. Ted, the top seeded player in the tournament has not been too impressive up to this point. He was carried to four strenuous sets by unseeded James Evert of Chicago in their match three days ago.

In his last two matches Russell played a lot of brilliant tennis to defeat Bob Falkenburg and Sidney Wood, jr., former Winbledon champion.

The Schroeder-Russel match held most of the day's interest. The two women's matches were not calculated to have the fans standing in line overnight. Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, the favorite, figured to beat Mary Arnold of Los Angeles rather handily, and the other tilt brought together two New York hopefuls Helen Bernard and Mrs. Helen Pedersen Rihbany.

Frankie Parker still looked like the man to beat. He was a smooth machine, sailing along under perfect control and with plenty of power to spare, as he ran down Seymour Greenberg, clay court champion, yesterday, 6-0, 6-0, 6-4.

Pancho Segura of Ecuador was anything but impressive in his win over Billy Talbert of Cincinnati by 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Sport Shots From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 4 (CP)—A jockey changed his whip to the other hand and the King lost a promising racehorse.

It happened at Newmarket in the Wickhambrook Stakes when the smart two-year-old filly Garter Stitch swerved and impaled herself on the railings after Jockey T. Lowrey lifted the whip to change hands. Lowrey was flung high in the air and suffered a fractured collarbone.

The irony of the incident was that the whip that frightened Garter Stitch never would have struck her because the King's jockeys may carry whips but not use them. That's a royal order—but Garter Stitch just didn't understand.

The accident occurred at a point on the course where there was a short cut to the filly's stable and it was believed she was attempting to jump the fence. It was one of the worst mishaps on a British race course in years and Garter Stitch probably was dead before a veterinary ran to where she lay and put a bullet through her head. At the time, the filly was moving up strongly and her supporters who had their usual bob or two on the King were "shouting her home."

It looks as if hockey will return as a major wartime sport this winter. It's already the talk of Canadian Army and Air Force camps. It became most popular in Scotland last winter and now the Hockey Association is making plans for plenty of games between English teams.

A certain amount of the sport has been played since war began but nothing like pre-war games when Canadian stars were a dime-a-dozen on British ice lanes.

A government order dealing with old rags strikes at sport. A section of the order forbids the use of new string for repairing garden fences and the order is stretched to apply also to repairing goal nets, cricket nets, tennis and badminton racquets.

Incidentally, all football clubs are being advised that footballs will last much longer if not fully inflated. Now the only fear is that some husky will put a boot through the less-inflated bladder.

Round and about: An England vs. Scotland soccer international will be played at Wembley Stadium Oct. 10 in aid of war charities....Of a total of 2,359 acres in the Newmarket area held by the Jockey Club for horse racing and training, 169 acres have been plowed up and put under arable cultivation.

Newsom Paying His Way, Blanks Reds 2-0

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

When Brooklyn Dodgers bought big Buck Newsom from Washington Senators last Monday for a price now understood to have been $25,000 plus a minor league pitcher, they said they would be satisfied if the veteran won three games for them in the stretch drive for the National League pennant.

On that basis Newsom's debut for the Dodgers yesterday at Cincinnati was worth $8,333.33 and, with his rare ability for a grand gesture, the veteran provided a performance to meet the value.

He shut out Cincinnati Reds 2-0 on four scattered hits, no two in an inning, and struck out eight men in an almost air-tight hurling duel, with Johnny Vander Meer, who himself fanned eight and allowed only four safeties before being removed for a pinchhitter in the last of the eighth inning.

The victory, closing Brooklyn's last western swing of the season, kept the Dodgers 4½ games ahead of St. Louis Cardinals, who crushed New York Giants 7-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Lefty Howard Pollet.

The young southpaw hadn't won a game since June 7, but he exerted his old spell over the Giants, whom he had beaten three times in the spring, and the only club he has beaten all years except Chicago Cubs.

The Cards made nine hits, five of them doubles in the box score, but three of them were flukes on the field, as the Giants sabotaged old Carl Hubbell.

Philadelphia's night game at Pittsburg was postponed.

Sox Swamp Tigers

In the American League the speeding Boston Red Sox gained half a game on the idle New York Yankees by smothering Detroit Tigers 2-0 on four-hit hurling by Bill Butland, who now has won six in a row. The Red Sockers were held to five blows, but made them good for one run in the third and another in the sixth for their fifth straight triumph and 23rd in 27 games.

Washington Senators turned the table on Chicago White Sox and swept a doubleheader 3-2 and 14-0, getting the stupendous sum of 20 hits off Thornton Lee and Bob Weiland in the second game while Rookie Rae Scarborough was checking Chicago on five. In the first encounter Sid Hudson pitched one hit ball for seven stanzas, but yielded three together for both White Sox runs in the eighth.

ed forces for 10 days of hard fighting.

The R.A.F., aided by the United States army air forces, kept these supply dumps under an almost continual hail of bombs.

Dispatches from the front last night told of no large-scale action by the opposing land forces, but British armored units harassed advanced Axis elements, giving the enemy no chance to get set for the punch he evidently is trying to deliver.

The main body of Lt.-Gen. B. L. Montgomery's 8th Army, meanwhile, remained poised, ready to hit back should Rommel make a mistake.

In Cairo the R.A.F. issued a statement declaring the Axis had lost 2,582 planes in combat over the desert since start of the war. Losses of the United Nations were 1,503 planes.

Thus far this year, the statement said, Axis losses total 1,417 planes and British losses 1,114.

The beef shortage loomed early this year and has been a source of concern to federal authorities ever since. Several attempts have been made to meet the problem, whish arises partly from the ceiling price and partly from a substantial export movement to the United States where cattle prices are higher.

The food corporation was formed last June and attempted to check the export movement by paying the equivalent of export prices for cattle diverted to the domestic market. Its powers have been considerably enlarged by the new government policy.

Urge Farmers Aid In Bush In Wintertime

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Elliott M. Little, director of National Selective Service, appealed yesterday to farmers to help in relieving an acute shortage of lumbermen during the agricultural off-season.

In a statement made in answer to reports that men in some sections were leaving logging and lumbering jobs for fear they would be "frozen" to their present jobs under new regulations, Mr. Little gave assurance there was no freezing of these workers.

"I want to make it clear that persons regularly employed in the woods are only required to give seven days' notice before leaving a job," he said. "So far as farmers are concerned, they are encouraged to take off-season employment in the bush as well as other places and should not get the notion that because they are not on the farms they will be frozen to jobs they now are in."

Anyone who was either working on a farm or was ordinarily engaged in farming—though off on some other job—last March 23, is considered a farmer and has certain rights under the new regulations, Mr. Little said. Such a person is only expected to remain on the farm during seasons when he is needed there — mainly during the sowing season and at harvest time. Otherwise he can take any job and retain his right to indefinite postponement of military service no matter where he is working.

"If he wants to take a job on another farm or go fishing, trapping, or hunting, he is at liberty to do so without permission, at any time that it doesn't interfere with his farm production. He can also work anywhere—anything from a munitions plant to a lumber mill—for a period up to thirty days without getting a permit.

Permit for the Asking.

"If however, a farmer finishes his harvest and has several months before having to visit his farm again for sowing, he may obtain a Selective Service Permit to go and work the winter in any occupation," Mr. Little said. "He can have that permit for the asking."

Reason for the apparent relaxation of the strict regulations covering farm workers, Mr. Little explained, is because the serious labor shortage makes it necessary to utilize farmers in other industries during periods when farm work is light. During those periods much labor would be wasted if men were compelled to stay on farms.

Large numbers of men are needed in the woods for cutting essential pulpwood and timber. More than 50,000 additional men are needed during September and the needs for woods operations will rise to 110,000 in December. The normal peacetime supply of labor for logging operations is farmers, fishermen and men from construction industry, during the slack season during the winter.

Mr. Little said it was hoped the farmers and fishermen and where possible, the construction workers off-season will continue to fill the labor needs during the off-season. Products of the forests are needed urgently not only for Canada's war effort, but also the needs of the United Nations.

A Labor Department spokesman said consideration is also being given to using Japanese in Ontario bush camps, but there appears little likelihood that any material relief for the labor shortage will be provided from this source.

Allies Swing

considered by expert observers as friendly to the Allied nations.

In this removal of fanatical, pro-Axis leaders from the Spanish government means nothing more than that the Spanish dictator, who won control of Spain with Nazi and Fascist help, has decided to steer a middle-of-the-road course and to maintain strict neutrality, it is still a great victory for the United Nations.

Prefers The British

For with a genuinely neutral Spain, the Axis cannot take complete control over the Mediterranean. To control the Mediterranean, the Axis must throw Britain out of Gibraltar. And apparently Franco has decided that he prefers to have the British there than to permit Hitler to bring his legions massed on the Pyrenees through Spain to storm Gibraltar.

That the Mediterranean is the keystone of Hitler's plan of world conquest is evident. Marshal Rommel is desperately, at great expense, attempting to drive through British forces defending Egypt and the Suez Canal.

German—and Italian—infiltration into Spain, judging from reports of recent travellers in Spain, has resulted in deep resentment among the Spanish people regardless of which side they were on during the civil war. And any move on Franco's part to curb Axis influence, it is believed, would have the support of the people, who are described generally as pro-ally.

If Hitler decides to force an issue with Franco, would not Franco, thinking of Spain's interests first, call upon Allies for help? He could offer modern air bases built—with German help—strategically throughout Spain. And from these bases Allied bombers could operate against the Nazis' flank. The British already have a bridgehead in Gibraltar.

The exhaustion of Napoleon's forces in Spain contributed to his downfall. History might well repeat.

attacks preceded by aerial and artillery bombardments, the government said. It reported Red Army men yielded a village before the invasion wedge after heavy fighting.

"In other sectors," the midnight communique announced, "all enemy attacks were beaten off with heavy losses for him. Eleven German tanks, nine guns and 25 trucks were destroyed and about one enemy infantry battalion was annihilated."

Russian troops who threaten the Axis flank within the Don Bend were reported to have beaten off several counter-attacks.

The Russians said violent fighting continued for river crossings in the Mozdok area of the central Caucasus, a gateway to Caucasian mountain passes to the south and the Grozny oil fields to the east.

Soviet fighter planes were declared to have shot 10 Messerschmitts from a formation of 12 in aerial combat.

Axis broadcasts recorded in London said the Russians were repeatedly attacking both German positions on the Leningrad front and Finnish lines across the Karelian isthmus northwest of Leningrad.

Pound City In Waves of 150

A Stalingrad dispatch said German planes, flying from various points of the compass, were attacking the city regularly in waves of 150 or more.

Reinforcements were declared to have given the German command a superiority of two or three to one over the Russians on some sectors.

(While the Soviet Information Bureau made no further mention of the Red Army offensive launched on the central front a month ago today, a German dispatch broadcast from Berlin claimed strong Nazi squadrons "continued their unceasing and effective attacks on Soviet troops and tank concentrations in the Rzhev area" on the upper Volga northwest of Moscow.

("Dive-bombers Thursday destroyed 25 Soviet tanks in this sector and silenced a large number of guns," the Berlin radio asserted. "German chasers shot down 18 Soviet airplanes.")

In the Central Caucasus the Germans were reported pressing a strong offensive for crossings in the Terek river basin both around Mozdok and at Prokhladnenski. Soviet observers expressed belief the defence divisions were outnumbered in men as well as in machines and planes.

The Nazi purpose is two-fold:

1. To seize the Grozny oil fields to the east;

2. To advance upon Ordzhonikidze, 50 miles southwest of Grozny, the terminus of a military highway leading over the mountains to Tiflis.

Robert Albright, of the Royal Canadian Air Force and six other crewmen were killed when the plane crashed while returning from a raid over Germany, according to a letter received by Mrs. J. Frank Albright from another son, Pte. Harry Albright, of the Canadian Forestry Corps in Scotland. The writer said he attended his brother's funeral.

Place Newsprint Under New Allocation Plan

OTTAWA, Sept. 4. — (CP) — Centralized authority conferred upon newsprint administrator R. L. Weldon of Montreal to allocate the newsprint shipments and production pointed the way to-day for significant changes in Canada's $400,000,000 papermaking industry.

Under the new allocation system announced yesterday by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the administrator may shut down or restrict operation of mills where the electric power or labor is needed and divert production to mills where labor and power are less vital to war industry.

So far there has been no official indication what mills may be restricted, although published reports have mentioned the Thorold, Ont., mill of the Ontario Paper Company Ltd., as a likely target for early action.

Special arrangements will be made to prevent undue dislocation under the new system.

"If it is necessary for any particular mill to be restricted in its operations below the level of demand for its product," the board's announcement said, "arrangements will be made to see that its customers' requirements are met by other mills."

Pooling Fund Setup.

"A special pooling fun is being created into which mills which operate above a basic level will make payments and out of which mills which are closed down or curtailed in their operations will receive payments in lieu of orders for newsprint. No Government funds will be provided. The arrangement calls for financial adjustments within the industry in much the same manner as under the United Kingdom concentration of industry schemes."

In explaining the necessity of the order, the board said demand for newsprint, particularly in the United States has already fallen off so that the industry in Canada is operating between 60 and 70 per cent of capacity. Needs of war industry for electric power required diversion of power from certain newsprint mills and in some areas pulpwood production had been restricted to release men and materials for lumber operations.

'TWAS ENGLISH BUILT.

'Moose' Fulton's Boys Home Trailing Glory

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 —(CP)— Five of "Moose" Fulton's boys came home to Canada early today with a trail of glory behind them and the memory of a great leader.

The bomber crew headed by Po. J. G. Higham which flew to Ottawa directly after a bombing raid on Saarbruecken lived in the tradition of Wing Cmdr. John (Moose) Fulton, D. F. C., A. F. C, who was reported missing six weeks ago after a last radio message saying his plane was damaged, and that wounded aboard and was being attacked by enemy fighters.

Ft. Lt. E. B. (Tim) Reid of Toronto, who accompanied the bomber crew from the United Kingdom said the five were veterans of the Moose squadron, named in honor of Fulton and counted one of the most effective squadrns in either the Royal Air Force or the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"Moose's boys" have been on every "big show" from the 1,000-plane raid on Cologne to other heavy attacks on Germany, said Reid.

Higham, an Assiniboia, Sask., boy, made his second trip as commander of a bomber on the raid when he guided his Wellington to Cologne and unloaded a cargo of bombs. The crew participated in five big raids in seven days.

Esprit de Corps Still Stands.

"Fulton's memory is an honored thing," said Reid. "He was popular and an inspired leader. He never asked his men to go anywhere he was not prepared to go himself. He built up a tremendous esprit de corps in his squadron and it lasts to this day."

The veteran of the bomber crew which returned last night was Sgt. Donald R. Morrison of Sherbrooke, Que., rear gunner who has made 36 operational flights and shot down one enemy craft.

Morrison was born in 1921, Higham in 1920, Sgt. A. Loach of Isfros, Sask., wireless operator-air gunner, in 1922, Sgt. S. S. Lee of Kildonan, Man., navigator in 1913 and Sgt. M G K. Svienson of Elfros, Sask., wireess operator-air gunner in 1918.

The men were intrigued by the thought that their families would be informed of their arrival in Canada by the newspapers. Their proposed flight had been kept secret and the news "broke" only when they had landed at the Ottawa field.

– still no clothing value to equal this

WE ARE often asked: "How do your wartime values compare with those of pre-war days?" It is our conscientious claim, based on 32 years' experience in the made-to-measure clothing business, that Tip Top values today are greater than ever before. We don't believe you can match Tip Top values dollar-for-dollar anywhere and we invite comparisons.

In making this statement, we are considering every factor which contributes to clothing values—quality of the woolens, the skilled craftsmanship which goes into the tailoring, the character of the styling and the intrinsic dollar value in today's moderate price.

From the first day of war, Tip Top Tailors swung into the production of vast numbers of military uniforms without dislocating the quality of its civilian clothes. The result is this: The men of our armed forces are being supplied with uniforms of high quality and the men on the home front are still able to buy thriftily fine tailored-to-measure clothes at a price they can afford to pay.

The Government, naturally, always has and will have first call on our facilities. It may be, therefore, that deliveries to our customers will not always be as prompt as formerly. You will realize that the demands of the war effort must come first and we suggest you allow a little more time for delivery.

May we suggest that you do not buy more clothes than are actually necessary. Buy what you need only when you need it. There is ample clothing for everyone's needs today.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

IN WAR PRODUCTION

War materials represent about 45 per cent. of the output of the Peterborough Canoe Company these days. The company's percentage has steadily increased.

ARRIVES SAFELY

Word has been received of the safe arrival in Britain of a well-known Peterborough athlete, Lieut. Harry G. Marsh, of football and basketball fame.

CHEMONG IS TOPS.

Fred King of Bridgenorth and Wilfred Pinn of Peterborough are both reported to have landed nice muskies at Chemong Lake during the week. On Thursday night Art Vance and Jesse Airries caught nine small-mouth black bass while fishing off the floating bridge.

THE LAST BIG INFLUX

District summer resorts expect the last big influx of visitors over the holiday week-end. Reports from Stoney Lake say that while many cottagers returned home during the past week, a large number of others are remaining until Labor Day. The opening of the Public schools on Tuesday will hasten the departure of many families.

HITTING IT RIGHT.

A party of Americans from Canton, Ohio, had great fishing luck last Wednesday at Lake Chemong. They are staying at McConkey's cottages, and the group includes Dr. Anderson, Dr. Greenwalt and his son Kenneth, and Mr Boston. Their catch included a 12-pound and an 8-pound muskie, a five-pound bass and two more over the three-pound mark.

FIRST ONE OVER.

William Sorrie, former member of the Peterborough Fire Department who joined the Canadian Firefighters for Great Britain last June, arrived in Britain this week according to a cable received by his wife and two young sons, Billie and Charlie, this morning. Sorrie holds the rank of Leading Fireman and is the first Peterborough fireman to arrive in Britain. He has been a member of the city fire department for five years, and his home address is 492 Aylmer Street.

EFFECTIVE WORK.

Artillery men throughout the district are keenly interested in the recent war report from Stalingrad which told of anti-aircraft gunners levelling their guns at advancing tanks and knocking out 17. These guns are rapid-fire and must have done terrific damage at point blank range.

KEEPING IT QUIET.

A shroud of secrecy surrounds the Conservative rally scheduled for this week-end at Port Hope. Apparently it is a gathering of the laymen of the party without any Conservative members, Senators, or party leaders. The sessions will be held at Trinity College School and it is unlikely that the press will be admitted to the deliberations.

BOYS DOING WELL.

A letter from Captain W. H. Ackhurst, second-in-command of the 119th Battery at Petawawa, and former O. C. of the 4th Battery to Col. Lawrie this week says the Peterborough boys in the battery are doing well and are quite happy. He mentions in particular Joe Bianco, Lloyd Grove, Archie Weir and Frank De Forge. Their only plea is for more letters from Peterborough.

WOULD BUY STRIP

J. A. Gibbs has asked the City Council to sell to him a strip on the west side of the road allowance from Olive avenue to Rink street. Olive avenue extends only half way through the block from Perry street to Rink, and Mr. Gibbs is planning to open up the north section of the street, making it wider than Olive avenue. The strip owned by the city is about ten feet wide. City Engineer Parsons was asked for a report on the proposal.

JOINS AIR FORCE.

Kenneth R. Elliott, 595 Chamberlain Street, employed as a fitter in the structural steel department of the C.G.E., has been accepted by the R.C.A.F. and reports for training September 12. Council Edict Dooms 12 Boathouses

The old boathouses on the west bank of the river above the C.P.R. bridge are indefinitely numbered if the first step by the Board of Works last night follows through to demolition.

"There's about a dozen of them," Mayor Hamilton said. They are on land owned by the city, for which a nominal rental of $1 a year is charged.

His Worship proposed, seconded by Alderman Cotton, that the owners of the boathouses be informed that their rent will not be renewed and that the property must be vacated. He said they were located between Dalhousie and Sherbrooke streets on the west bank. Objections reported to him were not detailed, but his mention of them sounded convincing.

"Either I hear those two songs or I get my dime back," he threatened as he shook the box. Out popped a quarter. Before he could pick up the quarter, out fell $1.05.

Fingerprint Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(CP).—Representative Sam Jobbs (Dem. Ind.) of the House of Representatives judiciary committee, said today he will urge speedy enactment of a mandatory fingerprint bill, as a civilian defence measure, as soon as Congress resumes regular sessions about the middle of this month. He said that country-wide fingerprinting would prove doubly valuable in war-time, particularly in the event of a bombing attack, for checking casualties.

Faithful Women Continue Aid For War Victims

Personality is a quality which can hardly be expressed in terms of language being something that is inherent in every one of us, and in such a wide field as that which covers the human race. It does, however in our modern idiom, refer to some quality for good, whether it be in leadership or deeds of good for mankind.

Ever since the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund began to operate there have been a number of faithful people who have expressed and continue to express their personal interest in the welfare of those who have suffered in so many ways, by contributing to this fund which seeks to lighten their burden by sending them financial help, which has already gone forward from this city and district to the sum of over £10,000.

Among this group who have demonstrated their personal interest are three women all of whom by coincidence are represented in this day's list of receipts for the fund.

When one considers that so far nineteen donations have been sent, it is quite easy to see that the lady who wishes to be known under the name of "In As Much" has been represented at least once in every donation that has gone forward, for her contribution of $10.00 today marks the twenty-third time that such an acknowledgment has been made.

Similarly the names of Mrs. William Shannon and "E.M.F." have also appeared a great many times, reflecting a keen interest and desire to do what they can to help the unfortunate ones in Britain, thus imparting some of their personality through this means to do some good and help others.

Within the next week the fund management hopes to have some lists which wholly concern personal donations to help the people of Britain in this manner, and would appreciate the support of all, whether it be small or large, for each individual has this opportunity, with the knowledge that all he gives will go over to England without any deductions for expenses, and represent in full the amount of his offering.

Once again there is the result of the efforts of public school children to report. This time the spotlight is focused on three boy, Ray Farley, Alphonse Levasseur, and Frank Farley, who live in the George and Perry Street area. These boys had a stand at the corner of George and Perry Streets and made the sum of $7.31 for the fund and on the part of Alphonse Levasseur follows an effort held in his back yard only a short while ago. There is an old expression "Boys will be boys," but here we find a group doing somewhich which is much to their credit, and something which should lead them to be better men.

At the Market.

This Saturday, there will be two efforts on behalf of the fund, where at the regular stall for the fund two Girl Guides through Mrs. R. Whalon, will act as sales clerks for the Fraserville Centre, where the donations will come from the farmers in that community of which Mrs. V. R. Sweeting has been the convener, and then two little girls, Marcelle Grady of 90 Park Street S. and Marie Heath of 276 Romaine Street are to have a stall all on their own, to take their share in what has been a wonderful effort by the children of the city on behalf of the fund during their holiday from school duties.

Dr. Grant also delivered a very appropriate address for the occasion and expressed his regret in the loss of Mrs. King from the parish. Many spiritual offerings and floral tokens gave evidence of the esteem enjoyed by deceased and her sorrowing husband among their acquaintances.

Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Grant conducting the services at the graveside.

Right At Home

MANKATO, Minn., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Mankato Free Press tells this on itself—a fire siren screamed and a Free Press reporter grabbed a telephone in the editorial offices on the second floor. "Where's the fire?" he asked the fire department. "On the second floor of the Free Press," replied the dispatcher. Only the reporter's feelings were damaged.

War 25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Transport Spill Smashes 7 Cases Of Pop

Nine tons of soft drinks received a shaking up and bottles enough to fill seven cases were broken when a big tractor and semi-trailor trancport went into a deep ditch near Bewdley on Highway 28 Thursday morning and turned over on its side.

The outfit, owned by Raiter's Transport, Waterloo and driven by Donald P. Mabie, Toronto, was bringing a load of soft drinks to O'Keefe's, Peterborough headquarters when the fifth wheel broke and driver was unable to negotiate a curve, just south of Bewdley. The transport rolled off the highway and plunged into a four-foot ditch, turning over.

No one was hurt and the damage was not extensive but the job of getting the big vehicle back on to the road took hours. The semi-trailer had to be unloaded before any progress could be made.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure investigated the accident.

Plan To Discuss Agreement On Wartime Houses

A request to the Ontario Municipal Board to postpone their hearing in Peterborough, announced for October 6, of the city's agreement with Wartime Housing Limited regarding services, taxes and other details of their investmen here, was embodied in a motion at last night's meeting of the finance committee of the council.

A draft agreement was received from Wartime Housing last January, and Alderman Gordon remarked that the company was not at fault if the city was not prepared to accept the October date.

Mayor Hamilton recalled that delay resulted from a letter from A. J. B. Gray, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, advising that all municipalities in which Wartime Housing was erecting temporary dwellings were going to "get together" and draw up a common agreement. However, nothing came of that idea, and gradually it was abandoned. The Department "washed its hands" of the housing terms, and in recent weeks municipalities have proceeded with individual agreements with the company.

The latest letter from Mr. Gray was on August 3 when he sent the information that the province was retiring from the field of agreement negotiations.

A resolution by Alderman Bradburn, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, instructed City Clerk Outram to explain to the Municipal Board the course of correspondence, and asking that the proposed hearing in Peterborough be postponed until the council dealt with the agreement.

Albert Coleman Hurt In Rear-end Crash

HAVELOCK, Sept. 4—(ENS). — Albert Coleman, Peterborough, met with an accident on Highway No. 7, about 2 miles west of Havelock, on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Coleman and his friend, J. Easterbrook, were on their way from North Bay to Kingston on a vacation on a motorcycle, when they crashed into the rear-end of a car, driven by Fred Simpson, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Coleman received a probable fractured nose, cuts and bruises, and was knocked unconscious. He was taken to Mrs. Cummings' hospital, Havelock. His friend received several minor scratches and a severe shaking up.

Constable Akins, Havelock, investigated.

Another Opportunity To Study Air Raid Precaution Work

The citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding territory are to have one more opportunity to take up Civilian Defence work and training, as it has been announced that another series of basic lectures will commence on Sunday, September 13 and Monday, September 14. The lectures on Sunday will be at 2.15 p.m. and the Monday lectures at 8.00 p.m. with all lectures being held at the Lyceum Hall. It has also been decided that the series will be condensed into four dates and those wishing to take up this work can attend on either Sundays or Mondays.

While a great number of citizens have enrolled for A.R.P. work and have taken training to fit themselves for this important task of aiding the community in the event of air raids, still the Civilian Defence Committee headed by His Worship Mayor James Hamilton points out that every person who is able should be trained for some form of this defence.

Considerable more equipment has been received locally and more is constantly arriving and early next month a blackout will be held in this area, and from then on they will be held fairly frequently. The report and control centres are being rapidly established, both the main and divisional points, so that everything will be in readiness in the event of trouble.

But rooms and equipment will not take the place of personnel and that is why that one more opportunity is being given the people of this area to AID IN THEIR OWN DEFENCE.

Form New Brances

New branches which are being organized are the Welfare branch under Miss Rachel Young, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society and the Fire Watchers Service under the Warden's Service. With the arrival of a large number of stirrup pumps the Fire Watchers can be trained quickly for this important task.

In addition some of the other branches can take on more personnel to bring them up to efficiency. The Fire Services which is one of the most important branches of A.R.P. work are very desirous of a large number of men between the ages of 30 and 50 who are fairly physically fit offering their services in the interests of the community. In the event of air raids in Peterborough, this is one of the branches that will be very badly needed, and your offer of assistance by enrolling as an auxiliary fireman will be one of your jobs in the war effort.

Trucks Needed

Then the transportation services is badly in need of the offer of light delivery trucks and passenger cars to aid in the event of emergencies, for the transportation work is to carry the various services to the points were they are needed and also to transport those rendered homeless to places where they can be given shelter and food.

Then the wardens' services with their expansion into fire watchers need more recruits both male and female. The work is light compared to most of the services and yet the wardens service is the eyes and ears of A.R.P. and without the warden's services, the other services would cease to function.

Then a few boys around the ages of 16 and over can be given work as messengers. The boys only take one special lecture and are not subject to take the basic training lectures.

So if the citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding community wish to do some work in this war and have not had the opportunity they can come to either one of the opening lectures on Sunday, September 13 or Monday, September 14 and sign an application. It will be very easy to scoff and feel that there is no necessity for all this, and there will never be air raids in Peterborough, but there have been a number of things happen so far in this war that we did not think was possible. It is not quite cricket to let some one else protect your home if air raids happen, because you did not feel it was necessary. All you have to offer is a little of your time and the lectures you receive and the training you take will be useful in civil life anyways. So come to the opening lecture and learn HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF.

Buy 47 Coats For ARP Police

Having each spent $50 on uniforms, the constabulary section of the A.R.P. requested the Council Thursday night to buy winter coats for them or make a substantial grant for that purpose.

On Alderman Gordon's motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton, the associated A.R.P. committee of the Council was authorized to spend up to $1,200 on coats for the forty-seven men of the police section of the civilian defense organization.

Each man receiving a coat will be required to sign an agreement that the garment remains the property of the city, and shall be returned to the City Council when they are no longer needed.

The organization of the Air Raid Precautions Corps in Peterborough has gradually, sometimes slowly, developed until today there are more than 1,500 men appointed for various emergency duties. They have taken courses in first aid, fire fighting, and so on, and the constabulary section was another outgrowth.

Members of the Council felt that since these forty-seven men were sufficiently interested to expend $50 of their own money on uniforms, and to give their time for training, they deserved some support from the community.

"And we needn't quibble about $100 if we find the $1,200 is not enough," Alderman Sands said.

The deputation from the A.R.P. constabulary were Clarence B. Neal, Andrew Dalton, Fred Marshall and Archie Menzies.

Healey Falls Flier Killed In Egypt

Fourth casualty of the war in the Campbellford district, Sgt. Pilot Arthur M. Rowe, 24-year-old member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, is officially reported Friday as killed in action over Egypt.

SGT. PILOT ARTHUR ROWE

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, of Healey Falls, and the parents received the sad news of his death on Friday morning. Sgt. Pilot Rowe was a Spitfire pilot, and after being stationed for a short time on the Gold Coast in Africa was transferred to Egypt.

He was a graduate of Campbellford High School and of the Peterborough Normal School, and enlisted with Air Force at Toronto on April 22, 1941. He received his wings at St. Hubert Training School, Montreal, last December, and arrived in England on the day after last Christmas.

One brother L.A.C. Russel Rowe is now in training with the R.C.A.F. in Canada.

Stoco Drowning Held Accidental

TWEED, Sept. 4—(ENS).—Tweed friends learned with regret of the accidental drowning of George D'Arcy Rayburn in Stoco Lake on Monday evening, August 31. His body was found by Dorland Houston, near the west branch bridge at seven o'clock. Coroner Dr. M. G. Dales was immediately called but pronounced life extinct. A consultation was held between Chief J. C. Hales, Dr. Dales and Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, when it was decided that no inquest would be held.

The late George D'Arcy Rayburn was born in Deseronto sixty-three years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rayburn. His early life was spent in that community and in Tweed, where he was at one time on the staff of the Ontario Bank. Later he went to Port Colborne, where he was employed by the Maple Leaf Milling Co., and at the time of his death was foreman of the plant. It is understood that the late Mr. Rayburn left Port Colborne late last week. He is survived by two sisters, Miss Ann M. Rayburn of Tweed and Mrs. Jane Marrin, Toronto, and one brother, Gordon, in the State of Maine.

The funeral was held from the Martin Funeral Home at Belleville on Wednesday, with Rev. W. J. Robinson, rector of St. James' Church, Tweed, conducting the funeral services. Interment was in St. James' Cemetery, Tweed. The bearers were Dr. W. A. Paul, F. C. Arber, Fred Mitchell, Ernest Cronkwright, George E. Clark, J. J. Luffman.

"That's Right"—You Sing It With A Bravura, But Coloratura Soprano Is Really Tops

If Emily Post does not frown on mannerisms she should. Did you ever hear that expression of affirmation "That's right"? You say it, darn you if you do, with a sort of rising inflection, a kind of blank sound, if there could be such a thing. Of course, all you have to do is simply say "Yes," but there is a bit of the stuffed shirt in all of us, except the individual reader of these lines, who wouldn't think of rendering that bit of sing-song "That's right." To get the best intonation you have to practice it, especially for telephone use. When some one pulls that phrase on you once the effect is not so bad. You can stand that much, but about the third or fourth time you feel like friend Bangs of the terrible temper, and you may want to snarl and ask the sap at the other end if she, or he, ever heard the word, that little three-letter word "Yes."

And while on that subject, here's another pet peeve. For instance, Charles Hurd of the New York Times in a Washington despatch this morning to a Toronto paper, referring to U.S. submarine attacks on Jap boats says: "The sinkings and other partially successful attacks, etc." Why use the word "partially" when what he precisely means is "partly," the "partly successful attack."

The word partial has a distinctly different meaning—see Webster—and the adverb likewise.

Mrs. Charles Hoard Is Hostess To W.M.S.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 4. —(ENS).—Twenty-seven ladies met at the home of Mrs. Charles Hoard on Wednesday afternoon for the regular combined meeting of the W.A. and W.M.S. The members were called to order by the W.A. president, Miss Mildred Heagle, and following the devotional period, in which Mrs. Frank Potts gave the scripture reading, a short business discussion was held. Mrs. John Rannie, president, presided when the W.M.S. took over and their contribution to the afternoon consisted mainly of a program which was as follows: Piano solo, Betty Johnston; reading, Mrs. Kenneth Parr; piano duet, Jean Rannie and Betty Johnston; reading, Mrs. John Thompson; piano solo, Elsie Rannie. Miss Heagle lead in prayer to bring the meeting to a close.

O.V.C. Member Cooperates With Police

Good work on the part of Corp. Harvey Sanderson of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Volunteer Constabulary resulted in the arrest yesterday of a man who has been wanted for several months by the provincial police for a series of break-ins and thefts in Smith, Ennismore and Burleigh townships.

Sanderson was driving through Bewdley yesterday when he noticed the wanted man in a store. The O.V.C. member notified Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure who was on duty at the scene of an accident and was ordered by the officer to bring the suspect to the spot. He did so and Elwood Carter, 25, of Smith township was placed under arrest by the provincial officer and brought into the police station by Corp. Sanderson.

This morning Carter pleaded guilty to six charges of breaking and entering by day and theft and a seventh charge of theft and at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., was remanded by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., until Thursday of next week for sentence.

Several Charges

Carter was charged with breaking and entering the home of Bert Trotter in Smith township on July 11 and committing theft and with five similar offences in connection with the dwelling - houses of Norman Preston, Charles McCall and Reg. McMullen in Smith township and Daniel J. Crough and Harold Millen, Ennismore and with stealing a pair of overalls and a shirt from the house of Mark Edwards, in Burleigh township.

The loot included several watches, cooking utensils, blankets, clothing and other articles and a considerable amount of it has been recovered. The thefts took place during the months of June and July and provincial police have been looking for Carter for some time.

After he had pleaded guilty to the charges this morning Carter objected to the remand for sentence.

"I'd like to get it over with today", he said, but Magistrate Langley informed him that there were several good reasons for remanding him.

"I do not propose to discuss them with you," he remarked.

Brazil Douses Signs

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 4. (AP).— For the first time in many years, lights on the famous statue of Christ the Redeemer, overlooking Rio De Janeiro, and other lights atop Sugar Loaf mountain, at the entrance to the harbor, are out. Authorities ordered them extinguished last night along with lights on top of high buildings, churches and hillside signs.

Checking On Germans

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 4.—(AP).—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents visited more than 70 homes in 40 New Jersey municipalities last night and made what E. E. Conroy, assistant F.B.I. director described as "numerous arrests" of enemy aliens. He salad all were Germans. Considerable wartime contraband also was seized.

Poll Tax Onus Is Placed On Employer

Single men, employed in local factories who are little annoyed at the fact that the city officials have instructed their employers to assist in collecting the poll tax, might just as well grin and bear it, or rather pay up at once.

Early in March notices were sent to all poll tax victims that the tax was due, but the majority just ignored the order. Now the heat is on, and City Tax Collector Stanley Couper has covered the city, like the proverbial blanket, missing not a single one of the taxable wage-earners.

A short time employees affected received a notice from their employers, indicating that they must pay the tax at once, or it would be deducted from their pay. This to many men seemed a high-handed bit of action, as it meant the company was appropriating for the city, part of the wages which the man had earned, and which he believed no person else had a right to, unless the courts so directed. It so happens, however, that the Statute Labor Act of 1927 not only gives the city the authority to collect the tax in this manner, but puts the onus for seeing that the tax is paid directly on the employer. In other words, if the employee does not pay the tax, the employer must do it, and collect from the employee.

The act states in part, "Where any such male inhabitant has been employed by the same person for not less than 30 days, such employer shall pay over to the collector on demand out of any wages due to such employee the amount of such tax, and such payment shall relieve the employer from any liability to the employee for the amount so paid."

All of which boils down to one meaty item, namely, pay your poll tax and pay it soon, or you will not only be in the bad graces of your employer, but you may pay court costs as well.

Sites Are Chosen For Summer Homes

A subdivision of thirty-one lots on the shore of Chemong Lake was submitted to the Board of Works last night by the owner, Charles Westlake of Smith township. Presumably these lots are intended for sale as summer cottage properties. They average from 50 to 60 feet frontage.

Another development planned by A. W. Archibald and Bruce Johnson along the river front easterly from the foot of Monaghan Road, at Crawford's Grove was also received by the Board. A statutory amendment of a few years ago requires approval of an urban municipality within a five mile range. It is understood that Mr. Westlake's property is within that distance from the city "as the crow flies."

13 Million Addicts

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 4. —(AP).—The opium suppression commission last night broadcast an official charge that 13,000,000 of 30,000,000 Chinese in Manchuria have become opium addicts as a result of the deliberate Japanese policy of poisoning the minds and bodies of inhabitants of occupied territories.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 5

WHILE THERE may be some thwarting, crystallized or postponing influence definitely to overcome by decisive action, direct attack and clever manoeuvring, there are signs of a most progressive and productive day, on which big business may forge to high levels of accomplishment and gratification. Large interests are involved and important personages and desired capital may be at hand.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should have the vision, foresight and clever grasp of stagnant and obstructed situations to wrest progress and outstanding success from difficulty and depression. High aims and major objectives should thrive under clever and shrewd tactics, with the help of those of financial ability.

A child born on this day should be excellently endowed with mentality, acute insight, sound and logical efforts to wrest important success and progress from obstructions. It should be popular and respected.

Agnes Neill of Peterborough Matron-In-Chief At Large Canadian Hospital

By ROSS MUNRO
(C. P. War Correspondent).

In a 1,200-bed Canadian general hospital, one of the largest in Britain, 85 Canadian nursing sisters tend the sick and wounded from a large section of the 1st Canadian Corps.

The whole hospital, with all surgical and medical equipment, has moved three times since going overseas more than a year ago and now the nurses and doctors have settled down in a pleasant country district near the troop camps.

The hospital is a group of neat one-storey brick buildings, which cost $1,250,000 to erect and equip. Trim lawns and gardens, cared for by the staff and convalescent patients, surround the buildings.

It is called one of the finest medical institutions in Britain and the work of its staff of nurses and medical officers compares favorably with that of the best hospitals in Canada.

No Grouches.

In bright, airy wards, the sisters care for their soldier-patients, whom they invariably call "our boys." They treat them with the patience and care they would give their own brothers. There's not a grouchy patient in a hundred.

The atmosphere isn't severe or formal. The sisters laugh and joke with their patients and share in the communal life of the wards where there are few secrets.

"Our nursing sisters have been marvellous," was the tribute paid by Brigadier R. M. Luton of Halifax, director of medical services for the overseas army. "They are doing a superb job and they've never complained even under the most trying circumstances. Their work has been of the highest order."

The sisters all have the rank of lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. Head of the nursing service overseas is Matron-in-Chief Agnes Neill of Peterborough, whose rank is equivalent to lieutenant-colonel.

In addition to hospitals, there are a number of casualty clearing stations which receive patients from field units, treat them there or pass them back to base hospitals. There are about ten nursing sisters at each C.C.S., some located in rambling old English mansions.

Out On Manoeuvres.

The C.C.S. nurses are the ones who probably would go to Europe first as a result of their work directly with the fighting units in the field. They have trained for rough going by moving with troops on manoeuvres and living out of mess tins and haversacks the way the soldiers themselves do.

Canadian sisters are said to be the best-dressed nurses in any army. Canadians over here think they're sensational in their dark blue suits and trim hats with R.C.A.M.C. badges.

The nurses' quarters at the hospitals are comfortable and they live as well as any officers overseas. One sisters' mess is in a former old folks' home and another in a building that used to be an insane asylum, but with feminine taste the nurses by refurnishing and redecorating have created a homelike atmosphere.

Only Few Leave.

Without exception, the sisters are keen about their work overseas. Only a comparatively small number have gone back to Canada or left the service. Some of the nurses have been here more than two years.

They are permitted to return home for any good reason, but few have applied. About fifteen sisters have been married overseas and have had to leave the services because regulations prevent nurses remaining in the army after marriage. There are rumors, though, that this rule may be lifted.

Morrissey-Garvey Vows Taken At Downeyville

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock St. Luke's Anglican Church, Downeyville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Imelda Garvey, daughter of Mrs. Garvey and the late Michael Garvey was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Morrissey, son of Mrs. Frank Morrissey and the late John Morrissey. The altar was beautifully decorated with red and pink gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Phonse Garvey, wore a dove white silk jersey with a finger-tip veil and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Miss Bernice Garvey was her sister's attendant, attired in pink silk jersey with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mr. Ray Morrissey, brother of the groom, was best man.

Rev. Father McFadden performed the ceremony and also said the nuptial mass. Mrs. Walter Herlihey, sister of the groom, presided at the organ and the choir of which the groom was a valued member sang during the mass. Mr. Clare Harrington was the soloist and at the signing of the register sang "Ave Maria."

After the ceremony a reception was held at "Ye Olde Cottage Tea Room" in Lindsay, where dinner was served to some 30 guests. The bride's mother's receiving in navy blue silk with matching accessories with a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a flowered jersey with navy hat and matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

After the ceremony Mr. Morrissey and his bride left on a trip to Northern Ontario and on their return will reside at Downeyville. Among the guests present were Mrs. Dennis Scully and Mr. Fergus Garvey of Toronto, the bride's grandfather, Mr. William O'Brien, who is 89 years old and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. David Morrissey, who is also 89 years old. Their many friends join in wishing the young couple many years of happy wedded life.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of pink chiffon and lace with a full skirt gathered to a long torso bodice. Her finger-tip veil of pink net hung from a halo head-dress and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and cornflowers. Mrs. Arthur Hewitt, as matron of honor, wore a gown of yellow net with flared skirt and fitted bodice and matching veil. Her flowers were pink roses. Mr. Arthur Hewitt was best man.

A wedding reception was held at the bride's home, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and gladioli. Her mother received wearing a blue crepe and sheer redingote and a corsage of red roses. Later Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on a trip to Ottawa, the bride travelling in a blue silk jersey dress and black accessories. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

The bride and groom received cables from the bride's brother, Sig. Harold Cain, overseas, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Adams, of Kirkland Lake, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. The groom's gift to the matron of honor was a gold cross and chain; to the best man, a signet ring.

St. Paul's Choir Honored At Corn Roast

The grounds surrounding the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Hurrell Dodds, Engleburn, were gay with lights and colored lanterns on Thursday evening on the occasion of the corn-roast held by the Men's Association of the congregation of St. Paul's Church. The affair was a gesture of appreciation to the church choir, for their excellent work throughout the year, and members of the choir were guests of honor.

The Salvation Army Boys' Band provided music for the corn-roast. At the edge of the garden, which slopes down to the river, a great bon-fire was built. The gentlemen attended to the cooking and serving of refreshments.

Red Shield Work Carried On During Summer

Mrs. Norman Buckley reports gratefully that the ladies who work so faithfully through the Red Shield for the comfort of servicemen and civilians in the war zones have not slackened their efforts during the summer. Although in the case of some groups, regular meetings have stopped, the members have continued ther sewing and knitting, at home or on holiday.

At the end of June, a large shipment was despatched to Red Shield Headquarters in Toronto. The shipment consisted of 257 knitted articles for service-men; 81 quilts, afghans, etc.; 370 articles of baby clothing 469 of children's clothing; 288 articles of adults' clothing and miscellaneous articles.

Last week another fine shipment, representing the summer's work, was sent off, containing as follows: 140 knitted articles for service men, 24 quilts and afghans, 94 articles of chilldren's and 495 of baby's clothing and 11 miscellaneous articles; thus making a splendid total of 764 articles.

In a recent issue of the "War-Cry" a sailor, rescued from a torpedoed vessel tells of his great distress at seeing great bales of goods marked Red Shield being lost in the sea. It is to be hoped that these things will spur the workers to greater efforts. Fortunately losses have been comparatively small.

Mrs. Col. Peacock of the Salvation Army is now appealing for ditty bags to be sent to the sailors this fall. Further details will be sent by mail to the various groups and if any group leader does not receive them she should telephone Mrs. Buckley at 8422.

Uncle Sam's Navy Womens' Division Dressers De Luxe

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(CP)—Join the United States Navy and be one of Uncle Sam's best dressed women by Mainbocher.

No such words have appeared on the recruiting posters for the WAVES but the psychological effect is the same. (To you Canadians, WAVES are "Women Appointed for Volunteer Emergency Service" or in other words the Women's Division of the United States Navy).

When the U.S. Navy girls step out in uniforms designed by one of the world's most exclusive and expensive couturiers, mere civilians are likely to look with sudden distaste on their mufti.

It all started one day when Mrs. James Forrestal, wife of the Under-Secretary of the Navy, dropped into the New York salon of her favorite dressmaker and said:

"Main, why don't you design a uniform for the women's Navy? After all, nothing is too good for our girls.

Selected by Admirals

The idea grew and soon the dynamic Mr. Bocher was knee deep in sketches, which were duly submitted to assorted groups of admirals, rear-admirals and lieutenant-commanders. The Navy like the classic simplicity of line for which Mainbocher long has been famous. They like also the idea of having the uniforms turned out by a master hand. They didn't want to be surpassed by those snappy WAAC's (U.S. Army Women's Division) and that's why Uncle Sam's sailor girls now can look the Duchess of Windsor in the eye and say: "I believe we have the same dressmaker."

Neatest trick of the season is the lapel design which is carried through all WAVES uniforms and coats; a rounded collar over peaked revers. The Navy says this design now is the propery of the U.S. government, but we'll bet you'll be seeing variations of the theme on some of the smarter civilian suits soon.

Timeless as the classic "gob" hat is the enlisted woman's hat of navy serge with stitched brim. The officer's hat, inspired by an American seaman's hat of the 18th century, has interchangeable white or navy tops, rolled stitched brim of navy serge.

Stockings and Such

The girls will select their own lingerie, the Navy announces with a sigh of relief, and they will wear beige stockings of a uniform shade.

"This is my first experience in designing a uniform," says Mainbocher, "but I have enjoyed it. It presented a nice problem in retaining the traditional dignity of the Navy, and yet creating something completely functional and right for the times. There also was the point of arriving at a design which would be becoming to all types of feminine figures.

Mainbocher donated his services to the Navy and his master patterns were turned over to manufacturer for mass production. Contrary to popular opinion he is not a Frenchman. He was born in Chicago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bocher, and was christened Main after his mother's maiden name, Lou Main. Later he adopted the practice of signing his name Mainbocher.

Women's Institute Is Urged To Aid War Effort

The monthly meeting of the Buckhorn Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. A. Smith.

In spite of the busy season, there was a good attendance, the president, Mrs. T. S. Wood, presiding.

The roll call was answered by each member donating a quilt block and a small article for the soldiers' ditty bags. It was decided to send two delegates to the Peterborough course on "Uses of Whole Wheat." Local leader, Mrs. Rollie Montgomery, and assistant local leader, Miss Irene Simpkins.

The business part of the meeting was dealt with and plans made for future work. It was decided to do without tea at the meetings for the duration of the war. Mrs. A. A. Smith, convener for war work, was in charge of an interesting program. Mrs. Howard Pearson read a letter from Lieut. Jack Hughes, of Peterborough, who is at present stationed at Ottawa. He told of his work with his men and the good spirit of co-operation which exists among the men and throughout the entire army.

Mrs. D. Montgomery told of various things to fill a ditty bag. These should be shipped by November to bring happiness to the boys at Christmas. Mrs. T. S. Wood gave a paper on "Women's Point of View." Women may think they are not doing much to help with the war effort, but they are helping by working in the home and in the fields. The story was told of a man who was off war work with steel splinters in his hands. He took care of the baby at home while the mother went out and did war work. Every true Canadian should help the war effort along till it hurts.

The collection for war work was taken, and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her helpers.

WOMEN AS WELL AS MEN REACH THE HAYWIRE AGE.

Best Cure for Husbands and Wives Then is a Vacation from Each Other.

We hear a lot about married men getting that tired feeling along toward middle age. Domesticity has gone sour on them for the time being. They are fed up with having to punch the home clock on the dot. Tired of listening to the baby's squalls and the older children's bickerings. Tired of looking at the same face across the breakfast table every morning, and eating the same uninspired meals.

It isn't that they have ceased to love their families, or that there is any other woman. It is just that they have sudden overpowering yearning for a breath of freedom and a little change.

Not so much is said about married women being subject to this same complaint. Wives and mothers are popularly believed to get a never-ending thrill out of cooking three meals a day, sterilizing the baby's bottle, getting the children off to school of a morning and listening to their husbands snore behind their papers of an evening.

But, in reality, when women get into their forties they are smitten with that tired feeling just as badly as are men. They, too, are aweary of the daily tread-mill and yearn for greener fields and pastures. They have come to the point that makes them feel they will scream if they hear another call for M-o-t-h-e-r, and marriage and all that goes with it is cinders, ashes and dust in their mouths.

Since practically every husband and wife who reach the age of indiscretion are as subject to this insidious malady as children are to mumps and measles and whooping cough, and since it slays the happiness of more families than any other one thing, it is curious that we do not recognize its danger.

It's a Dangerous Time.

For it is then that men go haywire and see their affinities in little blond gold-diggers young enough to be their daughters, and wives get peevish and fretful and hard to live with and let their figures and their housekeeping slump.

Now, since the fatalities caused by this tired feeling in both men and women are so great and so heartbreaking, it behooves their mates to beon the lookout for it, and when they suspect that their Johns and Marias are threatened with an attack to do something about it. For these are cases in which an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

So when a wife perceives that her husband is getting restless and bored and when he spanks the baby and kicks the cat and wants to know whether the butchers have quit carrying any other meat except mutton, and especially when he begins to diet to reduce his waistline and brings home bottles of hair tonic, she should be warned that it is time for her to get busy with home remedies.

What They Should Do.

These remedies are not, as women generally believe, deluging their husbands in buckets of tears and applying poultices of reproaches that take the skin off wherever they touch, and raising domesticity to the 'nth degree of unendurability. But on the contrary, they should urge Friend Husband to go on a fishing expedition, the longer the better, and should spare neither time nor money on clothes and beauty treatments, and make themselves as gay and charming and companionable as possible.

And when husbands see that their wives are getting that what-made-me-do-it look in their eyes, they should know that all that their wives need is change; to get away from them, from the house, from the children, from the daily grind to make the budget work; to eat something they didn't cook themselves; to have a new dress and breakfast in bed at a hotel.

A railroad ticket would save nine-tenths of the divorces, for the one remedy for the tired feeling that never fails to cure is the absent treatment.

Welding On Ships One Woman's Job Is Hard On Nails

By ROSMUND RUSSELL.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4—(CP) — Doris McEwan, 22 years of age, works in the shipyards here as a welder and her employers and co-workers regard her as an expert. She is perhaps the first woman in Canada to become a member of the Boilermakers' Union.

But to meet her off duty one would surmise she was a white-collar worker—possibly a stenographer or bank employee. A bit more than five feet tall, she is slender and weighs about 110 pounds. It is difficult to connect the fair-haired, quiet spoken young woman with the booted and helmeted figure standing on skids high up on a ship's hull applying the welder's torch.

"Since childhood I have been interested in machinery and construction work," she explained. "I used to stand for hours after school and watch men working in garages. It always fascinated me."

Doris was born and went to public school in Calgary, Alta. She worked for a time as presser in dry-cleaning shops in Calgary and Vancouver and then attended a welding school.

In a scrapbook recording progress of her unusual career, one entry mentions her first welding accomplishment—a firebox top for a milk producers' association. Another refers to representations she made to convince Mrs. Rex Eaton, former member of the Board of Industrial Relations, that the work she proposed to take up was fit for women.

"The men are all very good to me and pleasant to work with," she said. "We get along fine. The job calls for no heavy lifting or anything like that—merely lots of patience and good eyesight."

She cheerfully admits, however, that she finds it difficult to keep her nails attractive though she wears heavy gloves on the job. "They keep breaking off, but that's the least of my worries," she said.

For recreation Doris likes swimming, horse-back riding and bicycling and an occasional shopping spree.

Yank Bombers Arrival Spots War's 3rd Year

LONDON, Sept. 4—(CP)—Advent of United States army air forces in the European theatre was acclaimed by the R.A.F. today as one of the outstanding events of the third year of the war—a year which the army said had brought an Allied invasion of Europe within the range of practical possibility.

Three years ago today Britain and France declared war on Germany, two days after her invasion of Poland.

Commenting on American contributions to the air war, an Air Ministry statement summarizing developments of the last 12 months said:

"Appearance of these forerunners of the American air fleets of the fourth year of the war will perhaps be regarded by future historians as the most significant event of the period under review." The Air Ministry mentioned specifically precision-bombing attacks on Germany by Flying Fortresses and the work done by Bostons, Liberators and Catalinas with the Coastal command.

The latter was credited with sharing in the "notable achievement" of convoying "every one of the American soldiers who reached this island without loss."

The Ministry also said that Mustang fighters with the Army Co-operation Command had "performed admirably" during the Aug. 19 Canadian-led raid on Dieppe.

A hint of the growing striking power of the R.A.F. was given by the Air Ministry when it said that while the Bomber Command was capable of 1,000-plane raids on Germany "little more than 10 per cent. of our operational aircraft have been engaged in bombing Germany."

1,000 Nazis Downed.

During the year, the statement said, home-based British fighters have shot down "close to 1,000" German planes over Europe, while 200 Nazi raiders have been destroyed over Britain.

R.A.F. losses in the European theatre in the same period were put at 700 planes.

Authoritative sources said the Air Ministry's figures brought to 8,985 the number of Axis aircraft destroyed during the first three years of the war compared with 6,231 British planes lost.

An "anniversary" statement issued simultaneously by the British army said Britain has been able to concentrate in the United Kingdom a greater striking power than ever before—thus bringing operations on a continental scale within the range of possibility.

The statement said the year had been marked by "a steady transition from defensive to offensive preparations" for the forces based in Britain.

8 Tots On Liner Keep Senora Busy Over Tub

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. — Senor Margarita de Prieto Souza, who is small and dainty, said the hardest thing about bringing eight bouncing children around the world on an overcrowded exchange liner in wartime is getting them washed.

"I put them in the tub and threw water on them from the basin because the tub taps were disconnected," Senora Prieto said in her hotel suite, where she was getting her breath before continuing to Mexico City. "I no more than got the eighth one washed until it was time to sart again on the first, it seemed to me."

She was visiting in Shanghai when war was declared. She brought her own four lively little girls and four Chinese-Mexican orphans on the two-month trip to New York under an exchange agreement between the United Nations and the Axis powers. They made the trip from Shanghai to Lourenco Marques on the Italian liner Conte di Verde, and there joined passengers on the chartered Swedish liner Gripsholm.

"I do everything in sevens and one now," she added as she laid out seven frocks and one small boy's suit.

"I laundered eight of everything every day—but of course there was no ironing. We could bring so few things. Luggage was restricted, and you soon fill up bags when you pack in eights."

By night Senora Prieto said she just counted her little charges and put them to bed — being by that time almost too tired to know their names.

The smartly turned out Mexican senora, whose husband is in the oil business in Mexico City, said she took the four orphans under her wing "because I am a mother and I wanted them to make a safe journey to Mexico." She was not allowed to bring her children's governess, a Russian girl.

Fight Diversion

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—(CP).— Representatives from interested Ontario municipalities, meeting here yesterday, vigorously opposed the request of Chicago for permission to divert an additional 5,000 cubic feet of water from the Great Lakes, claiming it was for a power plant not sanitary purposes.

A resolution urging the Dominion government to record its disapproval of a bill which would authorize the diversion and to exert efforts to defeat the bill, was approved.

Saarbruecken To Ottawa In 22 Hours

The five members of the bomber crew, now in Canada who shared in the terrific bombing of the German city of Saarbrucken landed at the Rockliffe airdrome, Ottawa, grinning happily as if they had just been on a pleasure trip. But these youngsters had completed more than a score of operations over enemy territory, dropping thousands of bombs. They participated in the 1,000-bomber attack on Cologne and every important raid since. The plan to bring the bomber crew home to tell their story after a big raid, was contemplated as far back as mid-July. LEFT to RIGHT, ABOVE, are Flight-Sergeant "Siggy" Lee, Flight-Sergeant Karl Sveinson, Pilot Officer J. C. Higham, D.F.C., Sergeant Don Morrison and Sergeant Arch Loach.

Just 22 hours after they were bombing Saarbrucken, Germany, this Royal Canadian Air Force bomber crew landed in Ottawa. "It was flaming like a ruddy circus," was the report of one of the men on his last glimpse of the German city, nerve centre of Nazi industry. Immediately after the lads landed their Wellington bomber safely in Britain, they transferred to another aircraft for the transatlantic hop. This photograph of the five crew members was taken in Britain a few moments after they returned from their raid. LEFT to RIGHT, they are: Sergeant Don Morrison, Sherbrooke, Que., the rear gunner; Flight-Sergeant Karl Sveinson, Elfros, Sask., the wireless operator; Flight-Sergeant S. C. "Siggy" Lee, Minnedosa, Man., the navigator; Sergeant Arch Loach, Islington, the front gunner; and Pilot Officer J. B. Higham, D.F.C., of Assiniboia, Sask., the skipper.

Dad's Occupation Said Factor In Child's Size

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 — (CP). — His father's occupation has much to do with the size and weight of the Canadian child, Dominion Bureau of Statistics records showed yesterday.

A bureau publication detailing the findings from an examination of 78,000 Toronto school children in 1993 revealed that the children of owners and managers and professional workers are the tallest groups, while the children of unemployed and pensioned and retired classes are the shortest.

In the "under average height" group of children, the study revealed that 29.9 per cent of the male children of laborers were in this group, 19.8 per cent of the children of clerical workers, and 18.9 per cent of the children of commercial workers.

The study showed that in families on relief more than 33 per cent of the boys as below average height, against only 22 per cent of those not on relief.

In more prosperous districts of Toronto, the children are taller than in poorer areas. Only 12.2 per cent of the boys attending 10 schools in prosperous sections were under average height, compared with 31.3 per cent in schools located in poor areas. The differences in weight were not so marked.

The study cited the findings of other similar studies that on the average, "with heavy emphasis on the word 'average,'" the more intelligent student as measured by school progress and other tests was larger and more nearly perfect physically than his less brilliant fellow.

The Toronto survey showed that of boys one year older than the basic age of the grade in which they stood, 32 per cent were under average height. The laggards who were of more than average height totalled only 14.4 per cent.

The survey indicated that the birthplace of the parents was a factor in the height of the children. Of those with Canadian-born parents 22.7 per cent were below average height, and the children of English, Scottish, and Irish parents were 25.1, 23.9 and 25 per cent, respectively, under average height.

The United States-born, however, were slightly taller than Canadian-born children and the bureau said the distinction was probably related to a correspondingly higher economic condition. Inter-racial marriage has a tendency to increase the height of offspring.

The greatest differences were seen among European groups. Children of North European parents showed only 17 per cent in the lower group of heights, while those of Western and Southern Europe showed 33.9 per cent.

Children of British parents, generally, tended to be lighter than the average. Those of Eastern European parentage are taller than the average and also heavier for their height and age.

Expose Gets Two Officers Fired

MITCHELL FIELD, N.Y., Sept. 4 — (AP). — Colonel Dasche M. Reeves, commanding officer of the 1st Air Ground Support Command, has been relieved of his duties here, along with Major Lyn Farnol, Public Relations Officer for the same command, it was announced yesterday by Lieutenant-General Hugh Drum commander of the 1st Army.

The relief of the officers from their air force duties followed upon a press release in August purporting to expose ground markers laid out by saboteurs and allegedly discovered by fliers under Reeves' command. Farnol, former movie publicity agent released the story on August 10. The War Department issued a memorandum saying the story "may be untrue." General Drum investigated and issued a statement that "no hostile motive could be attached to any one of the incidents in question."

Westwood WMS Givings Advance

WESTWOOD, Sept. 4 —(ENS) — The September meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missonary Society was held on Wednesday afternoon in Wesley Hall. Mrs. J. Clysdale opened the meeting and conducted the business session. The roll call word, chosen for the October meeting was "Thanksgiving."

The half-yearly financial statement showed an increase of twelve dollars over last year's givings for the first six month. The annual autumn Thankoffering will be held at the regular morning service on September 20, when Mrs. Harris, Presbyterial President will be guest speaker.

Mrs. W. Morris, group leader, took the chair for an uplifting program. A reading from the "Upper Room" and a poem "Daylight and Darkness" were given by Mrs. G. Manley. Prayer wa soffered by Mrs. J. Clysdale. The concluding chapter of the Study Book, "The Tide Comes in" was presented by Mrs. Morris, Mrs. E. W. Sargent, Mrs. R. J. Douglas and Miss Jessie Davidson.

A preview of the 1942-43 Study Book "The Church in the City Streets" was given by Mrs. Clysdale.

At the close of the meeting the quarterly tea was served by the group in charge, and a pleasant social time enjoyed.

Goering Shakes Luftwaffe Up After Dieppe

LONDON, Sept. 4 —(CP) —Marshal Hermann Goering was reported last night to be shaking up the German Air Force on the Western front as an aftermath of the Allies' continued successful daylight fighter and bomber sweeps over Occupied France

The loss of only three planes in the raid by more than 200 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers over Saarbrucken Tuesday night was taken as another indication that the Luftwaffe in the West had been badly strained since the heavy fighting at Dieppe August 19.

Reports reaching Fighting French circles in London as well as news despatches from the Continent indicated that Allied control of the air over Dieppe and continuous fighter sweeps are causing Hitler the "gravest concern."

At the same time a Reuters News Agency special correspondent on the French frontier reported that stern measures had been taken inside Germany to suppress a rising tide of gossip concerning Dieppe. Hitler was reported to have ordered an intense propaganda campaign to turn the battle into a verbal "German victory" and to confuse the occupied countries and attempt to sow the seeds of distrust in Canada, whose soldiers led the Dieppe raid.

The Reuters story listed these factors as worrying the Nazi high command:

The ability of a Canadian-British landing force to approach Dieppe without interception and to remain for nine hours;

Poor co-ordination between the German army and the Air Force, resuting in a "terrific" loss of planes, and most important of all, the landing of tanks by the Allies.

A Fighting French source here said word had reached London that Goering is trying to find new fields for his bombers and fighters to operate from along the invasion coast. This was described as an apparent result of heavy damage caused by precision daylight bombing by American Fortresses on present airdromes.

It was reliably stated that the German Air Force was unable to offer serious challenge to the Allies over Dieppe until three hours after the raid started. Then the Germans called up all available reserves, including night fighters and obsolete planes, to try to break the Allied cover.

Goering now is reported to be changing commands of the Air Force in the West and bringing up more planes and reorganizing plane concentrations.

Birthday Greetings

Tribute is being paid throughout Canada to Lord Robert Cecil (Viscount Cecil of Chelwood), whose birthday is celebrated on September 14. He was born 78 years ago. Lord Cecil's father was Lord Salisbury, Conservative prime minister of Great Britain. From 1916 when Lord Cecil presented to his colleagues in the British Cabinet, a memorandum on "proposals for diminishing the occasion of future wars" until today, he has devoted himself to this cause. Programs are being arranged by the League of Nations society throughout Canada to mark the birthday.

Everything In NZ Now Rationed

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—(CP).—Miss Betty McFarlane of Arthur, Ont., back in Canada after more than a year in New Zealand, said in an interview that "it's wonderful to be back again where one can eat without restraint."

There is a great shortage of food, she said, and everything "without exception" is rationed. "I had one orange in more than three months and was lucky to get that," she said.

Autoists "down under" now use gas producers, employing charcoal burners in stoves on the back of their cars. "Driving is no fun, since it is necessary to get out every hour and stoke up again," she said.

Miss McFarlane, a graduate nurse, had been assistant to her uncle, Dr. Alexander Gillies, a New Zealand orthopedic surgeon.

Aussies Advised To Cut Use Of Goods, Third

SYDNEY, Sept. 4 — (CP). — Australian civilians must cut consumption of goods by at least one-third for "if we do not strip ourselves to save our country, the enemy will do it with ruthless efficiency and a maximum of misery," Prime Minister Curtin declared yesterday in a broadcast inaugurating the Commonwealth's "austerity campaign."

He said the initiative in the war "never was and isn't to-day" with the United Nations, and asked:

"Have you ever contemplated what Australia's position would be if the lease-lend lifeline to America were snapped?"

He called on the people to take this pledge:

"We will make this austerity campaign the most important days of the war, the greatest and most stirring days of the war. We shall make this our finest hour. We pledge ourselves individually to throw everything we have into a stupendous effort against the enemy. We shall cut from our lives every luxury, every relaxation, every temptation to slack. We shall make of our nation two complete fighting armies — the fighting forces, to smash their way back through New Guinea and Java, Malaya the Phillipines, and on to Japan, and the working forces, that will stand behind them and back them to the limit in mine factory and workshop. We who fight shall fight as Australians never fought before. We who work shall labor as men and women have never labored before in this campaign. We will forget the privileges, comfort and rest. Nothing shall block the way to the attainment of victory."

You'll never be satisfied with anything else once you see RINSO WHITENESS

PEGGY: Sis, I feel awful! Look how much whiter Kate's dress is compared to Bobby's blouse.

SIS: Why, Peg, don't feel badly! Just use Rinso! It gives the whitest wash. And with Rinso you don't have to scrub and boil either.

PEGGY: My, that must make clothes last lots longer.

SIS: It certainly does! Just look at this washable print dress I'm wearing. It was washed dozens of times in Rinso. See how bright and fresh it is!

PEGGY: Believe me, I'm going to get Rinso and use it this coming washday.

SIS: You'll be thrilled with Rinso's rich, lively suds. I suggest you get the GIANT package. It's even more economical.

Your Dreams Are Dramas About You

"Wolves" of the Subconscious

Deep slumber—but is it so peaceful? And that hint of a smile—a pleasant dream, perhaps?

The sleeper dreams of hiding something behind a screen. Harmless enough such a dream seems, but as is often the case with dreams, in it a "wolf of the subconscious" wears sheep's clothing.

These wolves of the subconscious are hates, fears, desires which the conscious mind doesn't realize. In sleep they express themselves in images, often pleasant ones. But how revealing those images are when interpreted!

The sleeper who is dreaming of a screen has recently broken with a friend who says she isn't loyal. She hides her true motive—hatred based on envy. How much happier she would be if she would recognize her secret feeling, banish it for worthier ones.

To understand your own dreams, learn to read images, symbols. Have you dreamed of falling? You fear a loss of security. To dream of climbing a ladder implies an overwhelming ambition. Books in a dream hint a yearning for culture.

Find the meanings of many other typical dreams in our 32-page booklet. A famous psychologist explains images, symbols, helps you to get clues to your hidden self.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "The Meaning of Dreams." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of the booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW WHAT YOU FAVOR

YOU WOULD never know, from the way some people bid, that they prefer major suits to minors for trumps. Their calling seems to indicate frequently that a certain major is risky for trumps even when it is perfectly safe and sound. A good little rule to remember, and to practice most of the time, is this: As soon as you are sure your side has eight cards of a particular major suit, don't take any chance of its getting into a minor, unless in most exceptional circumstances.

West	North / South	East
	♠ A 9 4 ♥ A 10 4 ♦ 4 ♣ K 10 7 6 4 3
♠ Q 10 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ A Q 8 4 3 ♣ Q 8 5	N / W E / S	♠ K J 7 6 5 3 2 ♥ J 8 ♦ J 9 6 2 ♣ None
	♠ 8 ♥ K 6 5 3 2 ♦ K 10 7 ♣ A J 9 2

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

	North	East	South	West
1.	1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
	3 ♣	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
	5 ♣
2.	1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♣	Pass

Did you ever see two more aggravative cases of players straining to get into a minor instead of a major? At Table 1, both partners offended. When South got his second chance to bid, after North's 3-Clubs, his best call would have been 3-Hearts, to show he had at least five and could stand three-card support. North could not interpret this as showing a weak hand, since South had made a free bid of 2-Hearts, higher ranking suit than clubs, over East's bid, and hence was prepared to stand a rebid of three from North.

After the 4-Clubs, North had a chance to save the day for the major by bidding 4 Hearts. South could not misunderstand this as showing four cards, as in that case he would have supported hearts as soon as he heard them instead of rebidding clubs.

At the second table, North made a very fine bid, in close quarters, when he called 3-Hearts, since a club rebid would have to be at the level of four. When South then bid 4-Clubs, it made North believe he had only four hearts and was warning North that, unless he also had four he had better go on with clubs. North properly took the message that way, so it was South's fault they did not play at hearts.

Nobody could very well fail to make 4-Hearts. If East ruffed a club lead, put West in with a diamond and ruffed a second club, South would surely finesse against the heart Q and discard his last loser or losers in diamonds on dummy's last two clubs. Making five clubs, however, was hard. One declarer did it by setting up hearts for spade discards, whereas one went down trying to ruff out two spades, when West overruffed.

Tomorrow's Problem

West	North / South	East
	♠ A Q 6 4 2 ♥ 10 4 ♦ 10 4 ♣ A K 5 4

	♠ None ♥ A K 7 6 ♦ 9 8 6 3 2 ♣ J 10 9 6

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Why should South prefer clubs to No Trumps on this hand, after North shows he has both five and four cards in two biddable suits?

WORN THIN BY STRAIN.

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 4—(CP) —Most missionaries and other repatriated persons from Japan, Korea and China who arrived aboard the diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm, Rev. Stanton Lautenschlager reported yesterday on his return from New York, looked "worn thin from the strain of war conditions or concentration camps."

"Only a few of the missionaries had been seriously ill or mistreated in occupied areas despite their worn-out appearance," Mr. Lautenschlager said.

Allies Sign New Reciprocal Aid Agreements

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — (AP) —The United States, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and fighting France concluded today a series of reciprocal aid agreements designed to clarify the principles of mutual assistance in their common struggle against the Axis.

Signed on the third anniversary of the British and French declarations of war against Germany, the agreements specify and make formal the principles and procedures covering aid to the armed forces of the United States by the other parties to the agreements on the same terms as those under which United States supplies lend-lease aid to them.

Such reciprocal aid aready has been furnished to the United States also by the other singatories without conclusion of formal agreements and, a State Department commentary says, "this and is rapidly increasing in importance as the intensity of the American war effort increases in the various theatres of operations."

The British, Australian and New Zealand agreements were concluded in Washington by exchanges of notes between State Secretary Cordell Hull; Viscount Halifax, British ambassador; Australian Minister Sir Owen Dixon and New Zealand's minister, Walter Nash. The agreement with Fighting France was concluded in London by Brig.-Gen. John E. Dahquist, acting military representative of the United States, and Maurice De Jean, representing the French National Committee headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

All of the agreements emphasize the general principle governing mutual aid is that the war production and war resources of each of the signatories should be used in ways most effectively utilizing the available materials, manpower, production facilities and shipping space.

Avoid Use of Money.

They further specify the elimination, as far as possible, of monetary transactions. That is, a maximum of the articles and services provided by each party to the other shall be in the form of reciprocal aid in services or materials, thus reducing to a minimum "the need of each for the currency of the other."

The agreements make formal the obligations of the other parties to furnish the armed forces of the United States with military equipment, munitions, military and naval stores, and other supplies, facilities and services whenever these can be most effectively obtained in their respective countries.

Thus Australia will be expected to supply meat and other foodstuffs to American troops in that country as reciprocal aid. On the other hand Britain might be better able to furnish certain types of tanks, guns and other equipment, leaving cargo space in ships from the United States free for the transportation of lend-lease food.

Aid furnished to the armed forces of the United States by fighting France is defined as such supplies, materials and services which "can mose effectively be produced in territory under the control of fighting France." Such territories include French Equatorial Africa and New Caledonia in the Pacific.

The agreements emphasize that while each of the signatories retains the right of final decision, in the light of its own circumstances," "decisions as to the most effective use of resources shall, so far as possible, be made in common, pursuant to common plans for winning the war."

Killed In Fall

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 4—(CP) —Elida Fields, 28, of Van Wagner's Beach, Ont, was killed early today when she fell from the third storey window of her brother's house here. She had come to spend the day with her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fields.

The girl's brother said Miss Fields had poor eyesight.

Dr. Isaac Crack will conduct the coroner's investigation.

Overseas Units Bow In Prayer

LONDON, Sept. 4 — (CP Cable)—National Day of Prayer was observed today by members of Canada's armed forces stationed in London.

Roman Catholic servicemen gathered in the Church of Our Lady of the Assumption and St. Gregors while Protestant services were held in bomb-damaged St. Martins-in-the-Fields on Trafalgar Square.

The service at St. Martin's, where an address was given by High Commissioner Vincent Massey, was conducted by Lt.-Col. W. T. R. Flemington, assistant principal chaplain, Canadian military headquarters. The bidding prayer was read by Capt. R. I. Agnew, Royal Canadian Navy, and the lessons by Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague, chief of Canadian military headquarters, and Air Vice-Marshal W. A. Curtis of Toronto.

Wing Cmdr. G. O. Lightbourn of Toronto, senior Protestant chaplain of the R.C.A.F. overseas, assisted in the service.

The High Commissioner warned in his address that "we cannot relax our labors when the war is won," and predicted that great new tasks in rebuilding will face Canadians.

"It will need deep resolution to ensure that the great forces generated by war are harnessed in due time to the work of peace," he said, "and it will be for us Canadians to live up to the widening responsibilities which the peacetime world will lay upon us. We shall need faith in ourselves."

The Catholic mass was said by Lt.-Col. M. C. O'Neill, senior Roman Catholic chaplain with the Canadian Army Overseas, with PO. J. P. McCarthy, D.F.C., Toronto, as acolyte. A short sermon was delivered by Wing Cmdr. W. V. McCarthy of Halifax, senior Catholic padre with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Working Wives To Pay As Single

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 — (CP) — A spokesman for the Finance Department said to-day that where a man and his wife are both working and are earning more than $660 yearly, the man is required to make out his income tax form as a married man. But his wife makes out her form as if she were single.

When Finance Minister Ilsley brought down his budget for the current year in June it was provided that a married man whose wife earned more than $660 yearly independently could not claim exemption for her.

In response to protests from a number of quarters, Mr. Ilsley announced in the House of Commons shortly before it adjourned on August 1 that this would be amended. The effect of the amendment is that a man whose wife is working and has an income of more than $660 can claim the same exemption as a married man whose wife has no independent income. But the wife who earns above that sum must pay on the basis of a single person.

The spokesman also said the new tax provisions were effective for the first pay period starting after August 31. Therefore, a pay period starting on that day would not figure in calculating income tax on the steeper rates imposed in the budget for the current year.

Chinese To Help If Japs Hits India

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 — (CP) — If the Japanese attack either Siberia or India, China will do her part because she has 5,000,000 soldiers under arms and 15,000,000 more in training, Dr. Lee Bing Shuey, representing the Chinese Minister to Canada, said at the first public meeting of the People's War Committee of Ottawa last night.

Dr. Lee said the Japanese have captured more square miles of territory in China than the Germans have in their drive in Europe and that the ratio of casualties has decreased from four Chinese to one Japanese at the beginning of the Sino-Japanese War to one Chinese to one Japanese.

The recapture of the air bases of Lihsui and Shuhsien by the Chinese instilled new fight into the Army, Dr. Lee said, as Tokyo was only 60 miles away from these bases, and therefore within bombing distance of the Chinese Air Force.

STALINGRAD STIFFENS HUN STRAINING RESERVES

MOSCOW, Sept. 5 (AP)—Red Army men lashing out from the battered defence arc before Stalingrad have stalled repeated attacks and broken into German positions northwest of the city, capturing prisoners and war supplies and leaving 270 enemy dead on the battlefield, the Russians said today.

The Russian lines stiffened after three successive days of withdrawals, and the newspaper Red Star said the enemy apparently was "assembling his last forces" in an effort to break through to the Volga.

Bloody fighting for a railway station southwest of the Volga River metropolis was reported in its second day. Frontal and enfilading fire cut into the huge tank and infantry formations hurled into that sector by German Field Marshal Fedor von Bock.

"The enemy attacks were repulsed," the midday communique said.

Checking of the German squeeze upon Stalingrad and an improvement of Red army positions on the Axis flank within the Don bend had been reported 12 hours earlier.

Russia's central front troops, resuming an offensive against the Rzhev-Vyazma salient west of Moscow, were reported to have captured a number of additional settlements.

"Red Army men of one unit," it was announced, "wiped out about 400 enemy officers and men."

Naval Base Holding.

Violent pressure in the western Caucasus forced the Russians back in one sector north of the Novorossisk naval station, but Red marines, land batteries and the guns of the Black Sea Fleet pounded the Germans and their Rumanian allies hard the midnight communique said.

"Six German tanks were destroyed, as well as 15 guns, while two battalions of infantry were annihilated," it was announced.

The Russians said the invaders had forced a river crossing in the Terek Basin near Mozdok and said "our troops were engaged in pressing the enemy back" in that theatre before the Caucasian Mountains and the Grozny oil fields.

Without details the communique said fighting persisted in the region of Rzhev, 130 miles north-west of Moscow.

"Our warships in the Baltic sank four enemy transports and two German torpedo boats with a displacement of 37,00 tons," the war bulletin reported.

Russian sources said also that eight Nazi planes were destroyed during a thrust against Leningrad on Friday and that survivors of the squadron fled.

Von Bock Paying.

German attacks were repulsed both northwest and southwest of Stalingrad yesterday and counter-attacks above the Volga river industrial centre cost Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock heavily, it was said.

The active defences of the south-western approaches against armored units and infantry was reported to have halted "further progress of the enemy in this sector."

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), Sept. 5—(AP).—Nazi military informants said today that the Russians are fighting to make Stalingrad a "Red Verdun" and the Volga city has been converted into a vast fortress which will not be easy to take.

Rap At Hungarian City 1,800-Mile Hop; 99th For Bremen

LONDON, Sept. 5 —(CP)—British and Russian airmen administered a punishing whipsaw assault upon Germany from west and east last night, a strong R.A.F. kindling big fires in Bremen and the Russians scattering bombs over eastern Germany and occupied Poland while unidentified Allied raiders made their first attack on Budapest. Two Canadian squadrons were in action.

The German war bulletin which reported the raids on eastern Germany did not name the cities attacked, but the BBC quoted Scandinavian dispatches from Berlin as saying that the targets included Vienna in Austria, Koenigsburg, a city of East Prussia; and Breslau, in German Silesia.

Berlin broadcast an official Hungarian announcement that Budapest and points in northern Hungary were hit by bombs dropped during a two-hour alarm by high-flying raiders. The Budapest announcement failed to give their nationality, but the Germans said they were Russian and substantiated this by saying they came from the northeast—the direction of Russia.

Eleven aircraft were reported missing from the raid on Bremen, a familiar bombing target on the Weser River 40 miles from the North Sea.

99th Blow at Bremen.

This was the 99th in a series of smashes against Bremen, of which the greatest was a 1,000-R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. bomber affair on June 28. Submarine shipways and railways are major targets in the area.

It was the fourth straight night of assaults against war industries and communications of Hitler's Reich.

British, Soviet or American bombers might have made the long flight against Budapest the capital of Axis-allied Hungary and a commercial and industrial centre of 1,500,000 population on the Middle Danube, but the Berlin radio said they struck from the northeast—the direction of Russia.

Conant Favors Seizing Speeders' Books

TORONTO, Sept. 5 — A provision enabling a magistrate to order the return of gasoline ration books to the Oil Controller in cases where persons are convicted of exceeding the forty-mile-an-hour speed limit would assist materially in enforcing the law, Attorney-General Conant said yesterday. He said that out of 107 law enforcement officers canvassed on the subject, 90 favored such action.

It is understood, however, that Ottawa frowns on the proposal. The Dominion Government holds the view, it is reported, that the courts can impose maximum penalties if they so desire, and that the taking up of gasoline ration books is too drastic.

"I am of the opinion that such a provision would be very helpful," said Mr. Conant. "The conservation of gasoline and rubber or patriotic considerations are, apparently, not sufficient to deter some people. The fact that over 2,000 persons have been convicted of exceeding the forty-mile-an-hour speed limit since May 1 is an indication of this. Nor are they deterred by the fines that are imposed. Most people, though, would be very much concerned with the loss of their fuel ration book. If left to the discretion of the court I am sure it would be reasonably and unjustly applied. Furthermore, there could be no real hardship, because if an injustice should arise the Oil Controller could soon rectify it by returning the ration book."

There was no comment forthcoming from Oil Controller George Cottrelle's office yesterday. Officials declined to express an opinion one way or the other. But it is understood from a reliable source that Mr. Cottrelle favors the proposal, but is unable to obtain Ottawa's approval.

Drastic F.D.R. Rule To Fix All U.S. Prices

Will Limit Wages; Use Jan. 1, 1941, Basis As Standard

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—A drastic presidential order limiting all wages, salaries and farm prices was in store for the United States today in an unprecedented move, government officials revealed, to thwart a threatened runaway rise in the cost of living.
